THE NINETEENTH CENTURY.

The Century ends! The Century begins! That is the cry in the high Courts of Time which matches the weaker cry in lesser courts, "The King is dead! Long live the King!" As in the latter, so in the former: There is no interregnum. Life touches life, and death can make not even an infinitesimal interval between. The sixtieth second of the sixtieth minute of the twenty-fourth hour of the thirty-first day of the twelfth month of the nineteen hundredth year was still in the nineteenth century. The first second of the first minute of the first hour of the first day of the first month of the nineteen hundred and first year is already in the twentieth century. The step is instantaneous from the completed to the promised, from the ended to the begun, from the known to the unknown. From before the latter we cannot raise the veil, save as thread by thread it is withdrawn by the too slow and yet too rapid hand of Time. Upon the former, as a finished and irrevocable whole, the contemplative eye may rest and the discriminating judgment dwell.

It is a common practice to compare day with preceding day and year with preceding year. Thus also, in reviewing former ages, we may compare century with century. Not so this latest cycle. One knows not whether the praise or the blame of laudator temporis acti will be incurred in declaring that no other century of recorded time is on the whole worthy to be compared with this, the only century which living men of to-day have ever known. It matters not. We shall commend ourselves to thoughtful judgment if we hold in ample confidence that the nineteenth century is to be compared, and not to its own disadvantage, not with any one but with all the other centuries united which have elapsed since the beginning of the Christian era. One century against eighteen, and in the last analysis of trial the one will not be found wanting.

In those tumultuous annals, in whose absence from the history books, according to the Sage of Chelsea, resides the happiness of peoples, but in whose presence chronicles possess much of their interest and their illumination, the century has not been lacking. It came into being with the Napoleonic wars, with Austerlitz and Jena, with Trafalgar and Waterloo. It saw our war with the Barbary States, and then our second war with Great Britain. There followed wars for independence in Central and South America and in Greece; wars of conquest in India, in Persia and in the Ottoman Empire; the conquest of Algeria, the Belgian revolution, the final crushing of Poland, the Carlist wars and our own numerous Indian wars, invasion of Afghanistan and aggressions upon China. Then came on in one tremendous cataclysm our Mexican war, the Sikh war, the Hungarian revolution, and a mad swirl of revolutionary and reactionary wars in almost every European land. These furies began to subside only to make room for the colossal Taiping rebellion, the Crimean War, the Sepoy Mutiny and the Italian War of Liberation, with lesser wars in China and Syria and Persia. Then, while the world was still ringing with echoes of Balaklava and Lucknow and Magenta and Marsala, our gigantic Civil War marked a new epoch, at once in war and in peace. For even so vast a spectacle, however, the world did not stand still. There were at the same time, and following closely after, wars in Mexico, in Italy, in Cochin China, in Schleswig-Holstein, and finally the six weeks war between Prussia and Austria, which introduced new war lords to the startled world. There was an interlude of petty wars in Asia and South America, and a revolution in Spain, and then came on the Franco-German war, with Metz, Sedan and the fall of Paris. Carlist war, Cuban war, Ashantee war, Atcheen war and war in the Balkans swiftly succeeded, the last named culminating in the great struggle betweeen Turkey and Russia. There followed the first Transvaal war, another Afghan war, the Zulu war, the war between Chili and Peru, the French conquest of Tunis, the Russian conquest of Turkestan, the revolt of Arabi in Egypt, the Mahdist revolt in the Soudan and the heroism and martyrdom of Gordon. These were succeeded by the French war in Tonquin, the British conquest of Burmah, the Servo-Bulgarian war, the French conquest of Siam, the revolution in Brazil, the great war between China and Japan, the Italian war in Abyssinia, and lesser conflicts in South Africa, the Philippines, Madagascar, Crete and Ashantee. Nor was the century to close in peace, for in its latest years came the Greco-Turkish war, the Cuban rebellion, our war with Spain, the war for the redemption of the Soudan, the second Transvaal war and the Boxer outbreak and the armed intervention of the Powers in China. These, with a score or more of minor wars make up a record of belligerency surpassed by that of few other centuries.

The political changes wrought during the nineteenth century surpass those of any other since the fall of Rome. When the century began Republicanism stood at bay in our thirteen States, constitutional monarchy was in a state of siege in Great Britain, and all the rest of the world, with fragmentary exceptions, was given up to absolutism. To-day practically all the Western Hemisphere—scarcely excepting Canada—is triumphantly republican, together with one of the chief Powers of Europe; and all the rest of Europe, save Turkey and Russia, is more constitutional and liberal than England was when the century began. Japan is a liberal, constitutional realm, and great free governments have been established in South Africa and in the islands of the sea. The United States has expanded, persistently, consistently and logically, under its constitutional provisions, from a chain of thirteen States on the eastward Appalachian slope to a continental domain of forty-five States, with outlying possessions in both hemispheres The Spanish provinces of Central and South America, passing through phases of dictatorship in Paraguay and empire in Brazil and Mexico, have become independent republics. A few wrangling provinces and an unknown wilderness have grown into the splendid Dominion of Canada. In Europe Poland has disappeared, Turkey has been reduced to a remnant, Russia has aggrandized herself, Belgium has been created, Italy has had a new birth, and that "Holy Roman Empire" which was neither holy nor Roman, nor yet an empire, has vanished to give place to the new German Empire. Greece has arisen in new life, and upon the wrecks of Turkdom the great kingdom of Rumania and the lesser realms of Servia and Bulgaria have been securely founded. Japan has been opened to the world and has taken place among the great civilized Powers. China is opening her doors to all the world. Indo-China has been seized by France and all of India by Great Britain. Practically the whole of the African continent has been partitioned among the Powers, and great civilized States are there being developed. Upon the islands of the sea the flags of Holland, Germany, Great Britain and the United States have been planted, and civilized States are growing there, led by the fine commonwealth of Australia. Bonapartism was succeeded by the Holy Alliance, which in turn was checked by the Monroe Doctrine. Revolution and reaction alternated in the mid-century, the former finally winning and leading, through many tribulations, to the ordered popular sovereignty which is to-day prevailing more and more in all truly enlightened lands.

The nineteenth century has seen no one feat of adventure quite equal in importance to the discovery of America. It has, however, seen more blank space on the world's map filled up than any other in all our annals. It has seen the American continents fully surveyed, the islands of the sea discovered and colonized, the recesses of Asia penetrated, the Dark Continent of Africa illuminated, the mystery of untold ages—the sources of the Nile—solved and discovered, the Northwest and Northeast passages explored, and the Arctic and Antarctic regions invaded to an extent that before would have been deemed impossible. Even the stellar realms have yielded to nineteenth century enterprise, revealing planets and stars almost innumerable which were unknown before.

If from adventure and exploration we turn to invention and engineering achievements, we see at a glance the pre-eminence of the nineteenth century over all others. The steam engine was known before, but the railroad, the steamship, the screw propeller and the vast bulk of useful applications of steam power are dated since 1801. Something was known of electricity in Franklin's time, but the telegraph, the telephone, the electric light, the electric motor, electric heating, the X rays, the use of electricity in medicine and surgery, and indeed practically all the useful applications of the mysterious force belong to the nineteenth century. Light had long been studied by men of science, but to the last hundred years were reserved the inventions of spectrum analysis, measurement of the velocity of light, photography, the kinetoscope and all the invaluable processes of photo-engraving and that inestimable boon the ophthalmoscope. Nothing has been known longer than air, but not until the closing years of the nineteenth century was that fluid liquefied and its constituent argon discovered. Since long before the time of Icarus men had dreamed of flying through the air, but the practical development of the balloon waited until within these hundred years.

The printing press dates away back to the fifteenth century. But the genius of the nineteenth has so transformed and glorified it as to make it wellnigh a new thing, while the adjuncts of stereotyping and the linotype have made the "art preservative of arts" seem more like magic than any of the dreams of Dr. Faustus. Gunpowder was in use centuries ago, and was used in firearms, but within a hundred years the invention of smokeless powder and other high explosives, the rifle, the breechloader, the revolver and the magazine and machine guns have surpassed the primitive matchlock further than it did the crossbow. Between the ships of Nelson and those of Drake the difference was only of degree, but the steel navies of the end of the nineteenth century mark a radical departure in kind. In the nineteenth century the oceans ceased to be barriers and were changed into highways, connecting instead of separating nations. Continents were spanned by railroads, isthmuses were cut by canals, mountain ranges were pierced with tunnels. When the century began men still depended upon flint and steel, candles, torches and some costly oils for light. These hundred years have witnessed the incoming of lucifer matches, kerosene oil, illuminating gas and the electric light. To these things we may add without exhausting the list of nineteenth century wonders the phonograph, the cotton gin, the power loom, the reaping machine, the sewing machine, the elevator, the electrotype, the lithograph, the bicycle, the automobile carriage and the whole manufactory system which has so revolutionized the industrial world. The great world's fairs are a product of the nineteenth century, and the discriminating observer will have witnessed that the vast bulk of the objects displayed in them have been characteristic fruits of the same period of time.

The science of chemistry was founded on its present basis in the eighteenth century, but in the nineteenth it has had nearly all its development, including analytical and synthetical chemistry and the chemical laws of definite proportions. In medicine and surgery the century's work has been so great as quite to overshadow all previous time. The advance in chemistry has wondrously amplified the materia medica and increased its effectiveness beyond all reckoning. The invention of anæsthetics has not only largely banished pain, but has made possible and easy innumerable surgical processes that were simply impossible without them. Antiseptic surgery has enormously decreased the mortality in hospitals, and the mention of this latter suggests another still greater triumph, of which indeed antisepsis was a mere outgrowth. This was the establishment of the germ theory of disease by the immortal Pasteur. From that sprang on the one hand a refutation of the old delusion of spontaneous generation, and on the other the whole beneficent science of bacteriology, with its departments of antisepsis, disinfection, filtration, quarantine, therapeutic and prophylactic inoculation, our knowledge of the leucocytes and their functions, and the auspicious promise, now hastening toward fulfilment, that one day all germ diseases—which comprise the worst scourges of the race—will be banished from the world.

A few other salient items from the record will serve as landmarks of scientific progress in the hundred years just behind us. The conservation of energy, the molecular theory of gases, the uses of dust, the theory of meteors, the glacial theory, the theory of evolution, the theory of cells and embryology—these are among the intellectual fruits of the nineteenth century.

The progress of the world in literature, art, music and the drama in the last hundred years is simply not to be measured. The century began with the opening of such an era of literary activity as the world had probably never seen before. With comparatively few exceptions the glories of European literature and practically all of American literature and art belong to the nineteenth century. A mere rollcall of names will amply indicate in this brief space the character of such achievements. Kant and Schiller, Klopstock and Alfieri, were just passing off the stage when the century began. Hegel was doing his best work, Scott was writing his poems with his romances still in future, Washington Irving and Abiel Holmes were laying the foundations of American literature, and "The Edinburgh Review" was beginning its career. The early part of the century saw the crowning labors of Haydn, Wieland, Delille, Koerner, Lagrange, Fichte and Count Rumford, and the best work of Byron and Niebuhr. Trumbull blazed the way in American art, Cuvier set the animal kingdom in array, Oersted founded practical electrical science, Saint Simon opened the way for Socialism, Shelley sang his immortal lyrics, Herschel explored the universe, and Canova produced his sculptured masterpieces. Richter, Laplace, Beethoven, Goethe, Bentham, Lafayette, Coleridge, Lamb, Schlegel, Davy, Lamarck —these are names that glorified the first quarter of the century. The reign of Queen Victoria is the longest in British history, yet before it began Dickens, who still seems to have been with us yesterday, published the first of his immortal works. Carlyle and Pushkin, Morse and Henry, Greenough and Powers, Southey, St. Hilaire, Sue, Thorwaldsen, Humboldt, Thackeray, Hood, Sydney Smith, Mendelssohn, Macaulay, Donizetti, Chateaubriand, Stephenson, Wordsworth, Balzac, Audubon, Cooper, Turner, Moore and Heine are other nineteenth century names, each one suggestive of works of worldwide renown. The roll continues with Musset, Hugo, Comte, Beranger, Hallam, Prescott, De Tocqueville, Humboldt, De Quincey, Schopenhauer, Darwin, Helmholtz, Grimm, Hawthorne, Landor, Faraday, Cousin, Rossini, Poe, Brougham, Meyerbeer, Chopin, Lamartine, Sainte-Beuve, Dumas, Auber, Grote, Bulwer, Mill, Manzoni, Livingstone, Agassiz, Guizot, Lyell, George Sand, Motley, Thiers, Leverrier, Bryant, Greeley, George Eliot, Littré, Draper, Longfellow, Emerson, Whittier, Lowell, Holmes, Trollope, Doré, Wagner, Marx, Tourgeneff, Charles Reade, Mignet, Liszt, Rubinstein, Beecher, Asa Gray, Matthew Arnold, Herbert Spencer, J. S. Mill, Huxley, Tyndall, Pasteur, Ericsson, Chevreul, Joule, Augier, Tennyson, Browning, Newman, Schliemann, Kinglake, Bancroft, Meissonier, Moltke, Lytton, Arago, Freeman, Whitman, Renan, Siemens, Taine, Jowett, Gounod, Parkman, Merivale, Layard, Froude, Rawlinson, Leighton, Hughes, Mrs. Stowe, Millais, William Morris, Ruskin, Brahms, Daudet, Max Muller and others of a glorious galaxy, departed or still with us. In this random list we have not mentioned statesmen, such as Hamilton, Jefferson, Webster, Clay, Calhoun, Lincoln, Pitt, Canning, Peel, Gladstone, Disraeli, Salisbury, Bismarck, Cavour and Deak, nor generals and admirals such as Bonaparte, Wellington, Nelson, Dundonald, Grant, Lee, Roberts, Decatur, Farragut, Dewey and their compeers. The great names of science we have also left largely unmentioned, to be suggested by the mention of the works that have been done.

The material changes of the world in a hundred years are great beyond appreciation. The increase in population of the globe may be partially estimated from the increase of the United States from less than 6,000,000 to more than 76,000,000; the United Kingdom from 16,000,000 to 39,000,000; and corresponding if not equal increases in other civilized lands. With such swelling of numbers, industrial potency, wealth and the general standard of life have likewise been enormously advanced. The arable and productive area of the earth has been increased, and its productivity, by means of improved methods of culture and varieties of grain and fruit, has shown a comparable gain. The great coal, iron, copper, gold, silver and diamond fields, with their almost inconceivable riches, are practically all things of nineteenth century development. That there has been any perceptible change in nature itself, in climate and the "precession of the equinoxes," may be disputed, but that man has in these hundred years made himself far more the master of his environment than ever before is beyond all question.

It would be grateful to review also the moral and spiritual advancement of the world. Slavery has been abolished, prison reform has been effected, education has made immeasurable strides, law and justice have been more surely established upon their thrones, religion has been more imbued with light and charity and love, and there has been on every hand such a forward moving toward a realization of the universal brotherhood of man as a dozen centuries before had scarcely dreamed of or hoped to see. The full story of all such progress must be reserved for ampler treatment than these constricted pages will permit. The largest encyclopædia would not be too large for it. In the present case the duty is rather to suggest the vastness of the theme than to enlarge upon its multitudinous intricacies and its all but limitless expanses. The pages which follow reflect the light of the whole past century in the brilliance of its closing year, and look with steadfast hope into the opening year of the opening century, marking the transition from era to era, and the sure progress of the world toward that day when "comes the nobler Eden back to man" and when "springs the crowning race of humankind."

ASTRONOMICAL CALCULATIONS.

ECLIPSES.

In the year 1901 there will be two eclipses of the sun, one of the moon and a Lunar Appulse, as follows:

I. A Lunar Appulse May 3. At this time the moon will pass within 51."9 of the earth's shadow, or only one-seventeenth of the apparent diameter of the moon; the moon passing south of the shadow. Inasmuch as the moon will pass through a section of the earth's penumbra a perceptible diminution in the moon's light will be noticed at European points where the time of nearest approach falls after sundown.

II. A total eclipse of the sun May 18, visible in the Philippine Islands, Southern Pacific and Indian oceans, Southern Asia and Africa, the line of totality passing through the islands of New-Guinea, Borneo and Sumatra.

III. A partial eclipse of the moon October 27, invisible in the United States, except in Alaska and Pacific possessions. Visible generally throughout the eastern portions of Europe in Asia and the Pacific Ocean; the end visible generally throughout Europe and Eastern Africa.

IV. An annular eclipse of the sun November 11, invisible in the United States, except in our Southern Pacific possessions; visible throughout most of Asia, Europe, Africa and Indian Ocean. The annular phase will be visible at Cairo, Ceylon and Manila.

SUPERIOR PLANETS EAST OR WEST OF THE SUN.

East.—Mars, after February 22; Jupiter, after June 30; Saturn, after July 5; Uranus, June 6 to December 4.

West.—Mars, until February 22; Jupiter, until June 30; Saturn, until July 5; Uranus, until June 6 and after December 4.

MORNING STARS (INFERIOR PLANETS).

Mercury, until January 21 and from March 7 to May 14, July 13 to August 27 and after November 4. Venus, until April 30.

EVENING STARS (INFERIOR PLANETS).

Mercury, from January 21 to March 7, May 14 to July 13, and August 27 to November 4. Venus, after April 30.

PLANETS BRIGHTEST OR BEST SEEN.

Mercury, February 14–18 and October 14–18, setting shortly after the sun; also November 18–22, rising shortly before the sun. Venus, not this year, but will be bright at close of year. Mars, February 22. Jupiter, June 30. Saturn, July 5. Uranus, June 6. Neptune, December 22.

The azimuths in the above table, applied properly to the magnetic bearing of Polaris at the time of its greatest elongation east or west, will give the true variation of the magnetic needle from a true north direction, and will be of great use to all surveyors and engineers. When the elongation is east the azimuth will be east and vice versa. At the present time the line of "No Variation" of the needle runs southeasterly from near Toledo, Ohio, to a point on the Atlantic Coast about fifty miles southwest of Cape Fear, N. C. East of that line the north end of the needle points west of a true north, and west of that line east of the true north. The country may therefore be divided into eastern and western magnetic regions. In the "Eastern Region" the bearing of Polaris at its western elongation, if eastward, added to the azimuth, gives the desired variation west; but if westward, the bearing taken from the azimuth gives the variation west. The bearing of Polaris at its eastern elongation will be eastward, and the azimuth subtracted therefrom gives the variation west. In the "Western Region" the bearing of Polaris at its eastern elongation, if westward, added to the azimuth, gives the variation east; but if eastward, the bearing taken from the azimuth gives the variation east. The bearing of Polaris at its western elongation will be westward, and diminished by the azimuth gives the variation east. The azimuths in the table, given for two-degree zones, are practically sufficient for all the United States except Alaska. For intermediate latitudes, and dates, the azimuths may be found by proportion sufficiently correct, or exactly by the formula log-sine azimuth equal log-sine Polar Distance of Polaris, minus log-cosine latitude. The surveyor or engineer is on the line of "No Variation" when the bearing of Polaris at greatest elongation is the same as the azimuth.

TIDE TABLES.

To find the time of high water for any place given in the table below, apply the correction opposite the place to the times of high water for its respective port given for every day on the twelve calendar pages of this Almanac. Add the correction to time of high water when it is plus, and subtract it when it is minus. Example: To find time of high water at Rockland, Me., on January 6, 1901:

Time of high water at Boston, January 6..... 0:08 p. m.
Correction for Rockland, Me. (see below).....—0:26

Time of high water at Rockland, Me., January 6..... 11:42 a. m.

OCCULTATION.

The brilliant star Spica (a Virginis), will be occulted by the moon December 6, reappearing from behind the moon at 2:52 A. M., Washington mean time, or at 3 A. M. Eastern Standard Time. The moon will pass between the star and earth (immersion) while yet they are below the horizon; the coming out (emersion) only being visible in the Eastern States.

JEWISH, PERSIAN AND GRECIAN ERAS.

The current year (A. D. 1901) is not only 6614 of the Julian period, but also 7409-7410 of the Byzantine era, the year 7410 beginning on September 1. It is also 5661-5662 of the Jewish era, the year 5662 beginning on September 14, or, more exactly, at midnight of September 13. According to Varro, this is the year 2654 since the foundation of Rome, and 2648 since the beginning of the era of Nabodnazzar, which has been assigned to Wednesday, February 26, of the year 3967 of the Julian period; corresponding, in the rotation of chronologists, to 747 B. C., or, according to the astronomers, to 746 B. C.; 2677 of the Olympiads, or the first year of the 670th Olympiad commencing July, 1901, if no fifth era at 775½ years before Christ, or near the beginning of July, 3938, of the Julian period: 2212 of the Grecian era, or the era of the Seleucidæ, which began near the vernal equinox of the year 312 B. C.; 1617 of the era of Diocletian; 2561 of the Japanese era, and 34 of the period entitled "Meiji." The year 1319 of the Mahometan era, or the era of the Hegira, begins April 20, 1901. January 1, 1901, is the 2,415,386th day since the commencement of the Julian period.

☉ Sun. ⊕ Earth. ☾ Moon. ☿ Mercury. ♀ Venus. ♂ Mars. ♃ Jupiter.
♄ Saturn. ♅ Uranus. ♆ Neptune. □ 90° apart. ☍ 180° apart. ☌ Conjunction.

THE OPPOSITION OF MARS.

Mars will be in opposition to the sun at about 1 a. m., February 22, 1901. At that time it will be situated in the constellation of Leo, near the star Regulus, and east of the handle of the Sickle. This occasion will not be very favorable for the study of the planet, its distance from the earth being practically the greatest possible at an opposition.

THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES.

PREAMBLE.

We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquillity, provide for the common defence, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

ARTICLE I.

Congress and Its Powers.

Section 1. All legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives.

Sec. 2. The House of Representatives shall be composed of members chosen every second year by the people of the several States, and the electors in each State shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the State Legislature. No person shall be a Representative who shall not have attained the age of twenty-five years, and been seven years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that State in which he shall be chosen. Representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several States which may be included within this Union according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole number of free persons, including those bound to service for a term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed, three-fifths of all other persons. The actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the Congress of the United States, and within every subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as they shall by law direct. The number of Representatives shall not exceed one for every thirty thousand, but each State shall have at least one Representative; and until such enumeration shall be made, the State of New-Hampshire shall be entitled to choose three, Massachusetts eight, Rhode Island and Providence Plantations one, Connecticut five, New-York six, New-Jersey four, Pennsylvania eight, Delaware one, Maryland six, Virginia ten, North Carolina five, South Carolina five and Georgia three. When vacancies happen in the representation from any State, the executive authority thereof shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies. The House of Representatives shall choose their Speaker and other officers, and shall have the sole power of impeachment.

Representatives, How Chosen.

Sec. 3. The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two Senators from each State, chosen by the Legislature thereof, for six years; and each Senator shall have one vote. Immediately after they shall be assembled in consequence of the first election, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three classes. The seats of the Senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year; of the second class, at the expiration of the fourth year, and of the third class, at the expiration of the sixth year, so that one-third may be chosen every second year; and if vacancies happen by resignation or otherwise during the recess of the Legislature of any State, the executive thereof may make temporary appointments until the next meeting of the Legislature, which shall then fill such vacancies. No person shall be a Senator who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that State for which he shall be chosen. The Vice-President of the United States shall be President of the Senate, but shall have no vote unless they be equally divided. The Senate shall choose their other officers, and also a President pro tempore in the absence of the Vice-President, or when he shall exercise the office of President of the United States. The Senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments. When sitting for that purpose, they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the President of the United States is tried, the Chief Justice shall preside; and no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present. Judgment in cases of impeachment shall not extend further than to removal from office and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust or profit under the United States; but the party convicted shall, nevertheless, be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment and punishment, according to law.

Senators, Choice, Organization, Impeachment Trials.

Sec. 4. The times, places and manner of holding elections for Senators and Representatives shall be prescribed in each State by the Legislature thereof; but the Congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of choosing Senators. The Congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meeting shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day.

Elections to Congress—Assemblings.

Sec. 5. Each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of its own members, and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner and under such penalties as each house may provide. Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member. Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, excepting such parts as may in their judgment require secrecy, and the yeas and nays of the members of either house on any question shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the journal. Neither house, during the session of Congress, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be sitting.

Compensations and Privileges.

Sec. 6. The Senators and Representatives shall receive a compensation for their services, to be ascertained by law, and paid out of the Treasury of the United States. They shall, in all cases except treason, felony and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate in either house they shall not be questioned in any other place. No Senator or Representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased during such time; and no person holding any office under the United States shall be a member of either house during his continuance in office.

Revenue Bills—Procedure—President's Action.

Sec. 7. All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the House of Representatives; but the Senate may propose or concur with amendments as on other bills. Every bill which shall have passed the House of Representatives and the Senate shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the President of the United States; if he approve he shall sign it, but if not he shall return it, with his objections, to that house in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and to proceed to reconsider it. If after such reconsideration two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of that house it shall become a law. But in all cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the prsons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the President within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless Congress by their adjournment prevents its return, in which case it shall not be a law. Every order, resolution or vote to which the concurrence of the Senate and House of Representatives may be necessary (except on a question of adjournment) shall be presented to the President of the United States; and before the same shall take effect shall be approved by him, or, being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the Senate and House of Representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill.

General Powers of Congress.

Sec. 8. The Congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises, to pay the debts and provide for the common defence and general welfare of the United States; but all duties, imposts and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States; to borrow money on the credit of the United States; to regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States and with the Indian tribes; to establish a uniform rule of naturalization, and uniform laws on the subject of bankruptcies throughout the United States; to coin money, regulate the value thereof, and of foreign coin, and fix the standard of weights and measures; to provide for the punishment of counterfeiting the securities and current coin of the United States; to establish postoffices and postroads; to promote the progress of science and useful arts, by securing for limited times to authors and inventors the exclusive right to their respective writings and discoveries; to constitute tribunals inferior to the Supreme Court; to define and punish piracies and felonies committed on the high seas, and offences against the laws of nations; to declare war, grant letters of marque and reprisal, and make rules concerning captures on land and water; to raise and support armies, but no appropriation of money to that use shall be for a longer term than two years; to provide and maintain a navy; to make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces; to provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections and expel invasions; to provide for organizing, arming and disciplining the militia, and for governing such part of them as may be employed in the service of the United States, reserving to the States respectively the appointment of the officers and the authority of training the militia according to the discipline prescribed by Congress; to exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever, over such district (not exceeding ten miles square) as may, by cession of particular States, and the acceptance of Congress, become the seat of government of the United States, and to exercise like authority over all places purchased by the consent of the Legislature of the State in which the same shall be, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dockyards, and other needful buildings; and to make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers, and all other powers vested by this Constitution in the Government of the United States, or in any department or officer thereof.

Sec. 9. The migration or importation of such persons as any of the States now existing shall think proper to admit shall not be prohibited by the Congress prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight, but a tax or duty may be imposed on such importation, not exceeding ten dollars for each person. The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless when in cases of rebellion or invasion the public safety may require it. No bill of attainder or ex post facto law shall be passed. No capitation or other direct tax shall be laid, unless in proportion to the census or enumeration hereinbefore directed to be taken. No tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any State. No preference shall be given by any regulation of commerce or revenue to the ports of one State over those of another; nor shall vessels bound to or from one State be obliged to enter, clear or pay duties in another. No money shall be drawn from the Treasury but in consequence of appropriations made by law; and a regular statement and account of the receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time. No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States; and no person holding an office of profit or trust under them shall, without the consent of the Congress, accept of any present, emolument, office or title of any kind whatever, from any king, prince or foreign State.

Limitations of Its Powers.

Sec. 10. No State shall enter into any treaty, alliance or confederation; grant letters of marque and reprisal; coin money; emit bills of credit; make anything but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts; pass any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts, or grant any title of nobility. No State shall, without the consent of the Congress, lay any imposts or duties on imports or exports, except what may be absolutely necessary for executing its inspection laws; and the net produce of all duties and imposts, laid by any State on imports or exports, shall be for the use of the Treasury of the United States; and all such laws shall be subject to the revision and control of the Congress. No State shall, without the consent of Congress, lay any duty of tonnage, keep troops or ships of war in time of peace, enter into any agreement or compact with another State, or with a foreign power, or engage in war, unless actually invaded, or in such imminent danger as will not admit of delay.

Limitations of State Powers.

ARTICLE II.

The President and His Powers.

Section 1. The executive power shall be vested in a President of the United States of America. He shall hold his office during the term of four years, and, together with the Vice-President, chosen for the same term, be elected as follows: Each State shall appoint, in such manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors, equal to the whole number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in the Congress; but no Senator or Representative or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States shall be appointed an elector. The electors shall meet in their respective States, and vote by ballot for two persons, of whom one at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same State with themselves. And they shall make a list of all the persons voted for, and of the number of votes for each; which list they shall sign and certify, and transmit, sealed, to the seat of Government of the United States, directed to the President of the Senate. The President of the Senate shall, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representativs, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be the President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if there be more than one who have such a majority, and have an equal number of votes, then the House of Representatives shall immediately choose by ballot one of them President; and if no person have a majority, then from the five highest on the list the said House shall in like manner choose the President. But in choosing the President, the votes shall be taken by States, the representation from each State having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the States, and a majority of all the States shall be necessary to a choice. In every case, after the choice of the President, the person having the greatest number of votes of the electors shall be the Vice-President. But if there should remain two or more who have equal votes, the Senate shall choose from them by ballot the Vice-President. The Congress may determine the time of choosing the electors, and the day on which they shall give their votes; which day shall be the same throughout the United States. No person except a natural born citizen or a citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of this Constitution shall be eligible to the office of President; neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained to the age of thirty-five years, and been fourteen years a resident within the United States. In case of the removal of the President from office, or of his death, resignation or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the Vice-President, and the Congress may by law provide for the case of removal, death, resignation or inability both of the President and Vice-President, declaring what officer shall then act as President, and such officer shall act accordingly until the disability be removed or a President shall be elected. The President shall, at stated times, receive for his services a compensation which shall be neither increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected, and he shall not receive within that period any other emolument from the United States, or any of them. Before he enters on the execution of his office, he shall take the following oath or affirmation: "I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

Electoral College—Eligibility, Succession, Compensation.

Sec. 2. The President shall be Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy of the United States, and of the militia of the several States, when called into the actual service of the United States; he may require the opinion, in writing, of the principal officer in each of the executive departments, upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices, and he shall have power to grant reprieves and pardons for offences against the United States, except in cases of impeachment. He shall have power, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the Senators present concur; and he shall nominate, and by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, shall appoint ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, judges of the Supreme Court, and all other officers of the United States, whose appointments are not herein otherwise provided for, and which shall be established by law; but the Congress may by law vest the appointment of such inferior officers as they think proper, in the President alone, in the courts of law or in the heads of departments. The President shall have power to fill up all vacancies that may happen during the recess of the Senate, by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of their next session.

Military, Civil and Treaty-making Powers.

Sec. 3. He shall from time to time give to the Congress information of the state of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient; he may on extraordinary occasions convene both houses, or either of them, and in case of disagreement between them, with respect to the time of adjournment, he may adjourn them to such time as he shall think proper; he shall receive ambassadors and other public ministers; he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and shall commission all of the officers of the United States.

Messages and Extra Sessions.

Sec. 4. The President, Vice-President and all civil officers of the United States shall be removed from office on impeachment for and conviction of treason, bribery or other high crimes and misdemeanors.

Removal by Impeachment.

ARTICLE III.

Supreme Courts and Judicial Powers.

Section 1. The judicial power of the United States shall be vested in one Supreme Court, and in such inferior courts as the Congress may from time to time ordain and establish. The judges, both of the supreme and inferior courts, shall hold their offices during good behavior, and shall at stated times receive for their services a compensation which shall not be diminished during their continuance in office.

Sec. 2. The judicial power shall extend to all cases, in law and equity, arising under this Constitution, the laws of the United States, and treaties made or which shall be made, under their authority; to all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls; to all cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction; to controversies to which the United States shall be a party; to controversies between two or more States; between a State and citizens of another State; between citizens of different States; between citizens of the same State claiming lands under grants of different States, and between a State, or the citizens thereof, and foreign States, citizens or subjects. In all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, and those in which a State shall be a party, the Supreme Court shall have original jurisdiction. In all the other cases before mentioned the Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction, both as to law and fact, with such exceptions and under such regulations as the Congress shall make. The trial of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury; and such trial shall be held in the State where the said crime shall have been committed; but when not committed within any State, the trial shall be at such place or places as the Congress may by law have directed.

Limits of Judicial Power.

Sec. 3. Treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court. The Congress shall have power to declare the punishment of treason, but no attainder of treason shall work corruption of blood or forfeiture except during the life of the person attainted.

Treason and Its Punishment.

ARTICLE IV.

Rights of States and Citizens.

Section 1. Full faith and credit shall be given in each State to the public acts, records, and judicial proceedings of every other State. And the Congress may by general laws prescribe the manner in which such acts, records and proceedings shall be proved, and the effect thereof.

Sec. 2. The citizens of each State shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several States. A person charged in any State with treason, felony, or other crime, who shall flee from justice, and be found in another State, shall, on demand of the executive authority of the State from which he fled, be delivered up, to be removed to the State having jurisdiction of the crime. No person held to service or labor in one State, under the laws thereof, escaping into another, shall, in consequence of any law or regulation therein, be discharged from such service or labor, but shall be delivered up on claim of the party to whom such service or labor may be due.

Creation of New States.

Sec. 3. New States may be admitted by the Congress into this Union; but no new State shall be formed or erected within the jurisdiction of any other State; nor any State be formed by the junction of two or more States, or part of States, without the consent of the Legislature of the States concerned as well as of the Congress. The Congress shall have power to dispose of and make all needful rules and regulations respecting the territory or other property belonging to the United States; and nothing in this Constitution shall be so construed as to prejudice any claims of the United States, or of any particular State.

Guaranty of Republican Government.

Sec. 4. The United States shall guarantee to every State in this Union a republican form of government, and shall protect each of them against invasion, and on application of the Legislature, or of the executive (when the Legislature cannot be convened), against domestic violence.

ARTICLE V.

Amendments to Constitution.

Action by Congress—Ratification.

The Congress, whenever two-thirds of both houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this Constitution, or, on the application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the several States, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which in either case shall be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of this Constitution, when ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several States, or by conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the Congress; provided that no amendment which may be made prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight shall in any manner affect the first and fourth clauses in the ninth section of the first article; and that no State, without its consent, shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the Senate.

ARTICLE VI.

Supreme Authority of Constitution.

Debts and Treaties—Official Oaths—No Religious Test.

All debts contracted and engagements entered into before the adoption of this Constitution shall be as valid against the United States under this Constitution as under the confederation. This Constitution, and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof, and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land; and the judges in every State shall be bound thereby, anything in the Constitution or laws of any State to the contrary notwithstanding. The Senators and Representatives before mentioned, and the members of the several State legislatures, and all executive and judicial officers, both of the United States and of the several States, shall be bound by oath or affirmation to support this Constitution; but no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States.

ARTICLE VII.

Ratification of Constitution.

Nine States Sufficient to Establish.

The ratification of the convention of nine States shall be sufficient for the establishment of this Constitution between the States so ratifying the same.

Done in convention by the unanimous consent of the States present, the seventeenth day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty-seven, and of the independence of the United States of America the twelfth. In witness whereof we have hereunto subscribed our names.

AMENDMENTS.

(The first ten amendments were proposed at the first session of the Ist Congress of the United States, which was begun and held at the city of New-York on March 4, 1789, and were adopted by the requisite number of States.—1 vol. Laws of U. S., p. 72. They together constitute a Bill of Rights.) The following is the preamble and resolution: Congress of the United States begun and held at the city of New-York, on Wednesday, the 4th of March, 1789.

Amendments Speedily Following Adoption of Constitution.

The conventions of a number of the States having at the time of their adopting the Constitution expressed a desire, in order to prevent misconstruction or abuse of its powers, that further declaratory and restrictive clauses should be added; and as extending the ground of public confidence in the Government will best insure the beneficent ends of its institution—

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, two-thirds of both houses concurring, That the following articles be proposed to the Legislatures of the several States as amendments to the Constitution of the United States, all or any of which articles, when ratified by three-fourths of said Legislatures, to be valid to all intents and purposes as part of said Constitution, namely:

ARTICLE I.—Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

ARTICLE II.—A well regulated militia, being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed.

ARTICLE III.—No soldier shall in time of peace be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner, nor in time of war, but in a manner to be prescribed by law.

ARTICLE IV.—The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures shall not be violated, and no warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched and the persons or things to be seized.

ARTICLE V.—No person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a grand jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces or in the militia when in actual service in time of war or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offence to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself nor be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation.

ARTICLE VI.—In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury of the State and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of counsel for his defence.

ARTICLE VII.—In suits at common law, where the value in controversy shall exceed $20, the right of trial by jury shall be preserved, and no fact tried by a jury shall be otherwise re-examined in any court of the United States, than according to the rules of the common law.

ARTICLE VIII.—Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted.

ARTICLE IX.—The enumeration in the Constitution of certain rights shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people.

ARTICLE X.—The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people.

ARTICLE XI.—(Proposed by Congress held at Philadelphia, December 2, 1793; ratification declared by President, January 8, 1798.) The judicial power of the United States shall not be construed to extend to any suit in law or equity, commenced or prosecuted against one of the United States by citizens of another State, or by citizens or subjects of any foreign State.

ARTICLE XII.—(Proposed at first session of VIIIth Congress, in Washington, October 17, 1803; ratification announced by Secretary of State, September 25, 1804.)

Election of President and Vice-President.

The electors shall meet in their respective States and vote by ballot for President and Vice-President, one of whom at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same State with themselves; they shall name in their ballots the persons voted for as President, and in distinct ballots the persons voted for as Vice-President, and they shall make distinct lists of all persons voted for as President, and of all persons voted for as Vice-President, and of the number of votes for each; which list they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed to the seat of government of the United States, directed to the President of the Senate. The President of the Senate shall, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted; the person having the greatest number of votes for President shall be the President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if no person have such majority, then from the persons having the highest numbers, not exceeding three on the list of those voted for as President, the House of Representatives shall choose immediately, by ballot, the President. But in choosing the President, the vote shall be taken by States, the representation from each State having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the States, and a majority of all the States shall be necessary to a choice. And if the House of Representatives shall not choose a President whenever the right of choice shall devolve upon them, before the fourth day of March next following, then the Vice-President shall act as President, as in the case of the death or other constitutional disability of the President. The person having the greatest number of votes as Vice-President shall be the Vice-President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed, and if no person have a majority, then from the two highest numbers on the list, the Senate shall choose the Vice-President; a quorum for the purpose shall consist of two-thirds of the whole number of Senators, and a majority of the whole number shall be necessary to a choice. But no person constitutionally ineligible to the office of President shall be eligible to that of Vice-President of the United States.

Amendments Following Civil War.

ARTICLE XIII.—(Proposed by Congress February 1, 1865; ratification announced by Secretary of State, December 18, 1865.) Section 1. Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction.

ARTICLE XIV.—(Proposed by Congress June 16, 1866; ratification announced by Secretary of State, July 25, 1868.) Section 1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States, and of the State wherein they reside. No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States, nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

Sec. 2. Representatives shall be apportioned among the several States according to their respective numbers, counting the whole number of persons in each State, excluding Indians not taxed. But when the right to vote at any election for the choice of electors for President and Vice-President of the United States, Representatives in Congress, the executive and judicial officers of a State, or the members of the Legislature thereof, is denied to any of the male inhabitants of such State, being twenty-one years of age, and citizens of the United States, or in any way abridged, except for participation in rebellion or other crime, the basis of representation therein shall be reduced in the proportion which the number of male citizens shall bear to the whole number of male citizens twenty-one years of age in such State.

Sec. 3. No person shall be a Senator or Representative in Congress, or elector of President or Vice-President, or hold any office, civil or military, under the United States, or under any State, who, having previously taken an oath as member of Congress, or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any State Legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any State, to support the Constitution of the United States, shall have engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the same, or given aid or comfort to the enemies thereof; but Congress may, by a vote of two-thirds of each house, remove such disability.

(Note.—On June 7, 1898, President McKinley approved of an act of Congress which declared that "the disabilities imposed by Section 3, XIVth Amendment of the Constitution, heretofore incurred, are hereby removed.")

Sec. 4. The validity of the public debt of the United States, authorized by law, including debts incurred for payment of pensions and bounties for services in suppressing the insurrection or rebellion, shall not be questioned. But neither the United States nor any State shall assume or pay any debt or obligation incurred in aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or any claim for the loss or emancipation of any slave; but all such debts, obligations and claims shall be held illegal and void.

Sec. 5. The Congress shall have power to enforce, by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this article.

ARTICLE XV.—(Proposed by Congress February 27, 1869; ratification announced by Secretary of State, March 30, 1870.) Section 1. The right of the citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude.

Sec. 2. The Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

LAW AS TO PRESIDENTIAL SUCCESSION.

The Presidential succession is fixed by chapter 4 of the acts of the XLIXth Congress, first session. In case of the removal, death, resignation or inability of both the President and Vice-President, then the Secretary of State shall act as President until the disability of the President or Vice-President is removed or a President is elected. If there be no Secretary of State, then the Secretary of the Treasury will act; and the remainder of the order of succession is as follows: The Secretary of War, Attorney-General, Postmaster-General, Secretary of the Navy, Secretary of the Interior and Secretary of Agriculture. The acting President must, upon taking office, convene Congress, if not at the time in session, in extraordinary session, giving twenty days' notice. This act applies only to such Cabinet officers as shall have been appointed by the advice and consent of the Senate, and are eligible under the Constitution to the Presidency.

THE NEW-YORK CITY CHARTER.

The present charter of the city of New-York became a law on May 4, 1897. The following are some of its principal provisions:

Chapter one relates to the boundaries, boroughs, powers, rights and obligations of the city of New-York. It provides that the new consolidation comprehends "all the municipal and public corporations and parts of municipal and public corporations, including cities, villages, towns and school districts, but not including counties, within the following territory: The county of Kings, the county of Richmond, the city of Long Island City, the towns of Flushing, Newtown and Jamaica, and that part of the town of Hempstead, lying west and south of the east and north boundaries of the former village of Far Rockaway, and west of a straight line drawn from the northwest corner of said village due north to the south line of the former town of Jamaica." (As amended by Legislature of 1899.)

Departments, Salaries, Etc.

The corporate name is the "City of New-York," and it is divided into five boroughs, namely: Manhattan, The Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond, as follows:

MANHATTAN—Manhattan Island, Nuttin or Governor's Island, Bedlow's Island; Bucking or Ellis Island, the Oyster Islands, Blackwell's Island, Randall's Island and Ward's Island.

BRONX—That portion of the city of New-York lying northerly or easterly of the Borough of Manhattan between the Hudson River and the East River or Long Island Sound, including the several islands.

BROOKLYN—The city of Brooklyn.

QUEENS—That portion of Queens County as stated in the first paragraph of the principal provisions of the charter.

RICHMOND—Richmond County or Staten Island.

The legislative power of the city is vested in two houses to be known respectively as the Council and Board of Aldermen, together styled "The Municipal Assembly of the City of New-York." The Council consists of twenty-nine members, including the president, elected on a general ticket at the same time and for the same term as the Mayor. The salary of the president is $5,000 a year, and for other members $1,500 a year. The city is divided into ten Council districts, and each of the first eight (included in Manhattan, The Bronx and Brooklyn) is entitled to three members; that part of Queens known as Long Island City and Newtown, one member; that part of Queens known as Jamaica, Flushing and Hempstead, one member, and two members are allowed to the Borough of Richmond. The term of office of each member is four years. Every ex-Mayor of the city is, so long as he remains a resident of the city, entitled to a seat in the Council and to participate in its discussions, but not to a vote. The Municipal Assembly must have at least one stated meeting a month, except, in the discretion of the Assembly, in August and September.

Municipal Assembly.

ALDERMEN—The Board consists of one member from each of the Assembly districts within the city; Queens County is entitled to the same number of representatives as in the Council, and those parts of the 1st and IId Assembly districts of Westchester County included in The Bronx are entitled to one member. The term of office is two years, and the salary $1,000 a year. The President of the Board is elected from the members. Each head of an administrative department is entitled to a seat in the Board, with the right to participate in its discussions, but not the right to vote. Ordinances or resolutions require a majority vote of all members elected to each house to pass; if involving the expenditure of money or creation of debts, a three-fourths vote of all elected members is required. The Mayor has the veto power, but ordinances may be passed over his veto by a two-thirds vote, or by a five-sixths vote in a case where debt or expenditure is involved.

CITY CLERK—The Council, at its first meeting, must appoint a clerk, who is also the City Clerk; the term is six years, and the salary $7,000 a year. In addition to keeping the records, preparing summaries of resolutions, ordinances, etc., for publication in "The City Record," he is also to grant licenses to auctioneers.

MAYOR—The term of office is fixed at four years; annual salary, $15,000, and the incumbent is ineligible for re-election. The Mayor may, within six months after the commencement of his term of office, remove from office any appointed official, except members of the Boards of Education and School Boards, and except also judicial officers, for whose removal other provision is made by the Constitution. After the expiration of six months, appointed officers may be removed by the Mayor for cause, upon charges preferred and after opportunity to be heard, subject, however, to the approval of the Governor.

Executive and Other Departments.

FINANCE DEPARTMENT—The head of the Department is the Controller; his term of office is four years, and the annual salary is $10,000. He may be removed from office by the Governor in the same manner as sheriffs. The Department has control of the fiscal concerns of the corporation; it inspects the accounts of other city departments, prescribes the forms of keeping and rendering of city accounts, disburses public funds on vouchers by means of warrants on the Chamberlain and settles or adjusts all claims in favor of or against the corporation. There are also five bureaus in this Department: Bureau for the collection of city revenue and market rents; bureau for the collection of taxes; bureau of assessments and arrears; auditing bureau; bureau of City Chamberlain. It is provided that when bonds are issued they shall be in register form, in denominations of $10 or any multiple thereof, and that preference shall be given to applicants for the smallest amounts and smallest denominations.

CHAMBERLAIN—Appointed by the Mayor for four years; annual salary, $12,000. He is required to give a bond in the sum of $300,000. He is charged with the duties of receiving, preserving, depositing and paying out public funds on the warrant of the Controller, when countersigned by the Mayor.

COMMISSIONERS OF SINKING FUND—These are the Mayor, Controller, Chamberlain, President of the Council and chairman of the Finance Committee of the Board of Aldermen. Their duties include the administering of the several existing sinking funds as independent trusts. They may sell or lease certain city property for the benefit of the Sinking Fund. They also provide funds for the payment of interest charges on the city debt, its refunding as "consolidated stock" and its gradual redemption.

BOARD OF ESTIMATE AND APPORTIONMENT—Composed of the Mayor, Controller, Corporation Counsel and the President of the Department of Taxes and Assessments. Their special duty is the preparation of the annual budget of the amounts estimated to be required to pay the expenses of conducting the public business of the city. Departments, bureaus, commissions, etc., are required to furnish estimates in detail to the Board of their requirements, and the final budget must contain these items. Before final approval and passage by the Board, opportunity must be given to taxpayers for hearings. The budget when fixed by the Board goes to the Municipal Assembly for action.

LAW DEPARTMENT—The head is the Corporation Counsel, appointed by the Mayor for four years; annual salary, $15,000. He has charge and conduct of all the law business of the corporation and its departments and boards, and of all law business in which the city is interested. He conducts condemnation proceedings in altering streets, is legal adviser of the Mayor, the Municipal Assembly and of all departments, boards, etc.; and all officers are prohibited from employing attorneys except as assigned by the Corporation Counsel.

POLICE DEPARTMENT—The Board is composed of four members, appointed by the Mayor for four years, no more than two of whom shall belong to the same political party, or be of the same political opinion on State and National politics. The salary of each is $5,000 a year. They have control of the government, administration, disposition and discipline of the Police Department (including the police force) and of the Bureau of Elections. The Department consists of a Chief of Police, five deputy chiefs, ten inspectors, captains not exceeding one to each fifty patrolmen (except in the rural portion of the city); sergeants not exceeding four to each fifty patrolmen; detective-sergeants; doormen not exceeding two to each fifty patrolmen; forty surgeons and 6,382 patrolmen. This number may be increased by action of the Municipal Assembly, upon the recommendation of the Police Board. It is also provided that the police of Brooklyn, Long Island City and Richmond County shall be transferred to the general police force. The force is classified as follows: First grade, five years' service and upward; second grade, four and a half to five years' service; third grade, four years to four and a half years' service; fourth grade, three to four years' service; fifth grade, two to three years' service; sixth grade, one to two years' service; seventh grade, less than one year's service. The salary schedule is: Chief of Police, $6,000; deputies, $5,000; inspectors, $3,500; captains, $2,700; surgeons, $3,000; sergeants, $2,000; roundsmen, $1,500; doormen, $1,000; first grade patrolmen, $1,400; second grade, $1,350; third grade, $1,250; fourth grade, $1,150; fifth grade, $1,000; sixth grade, $900; seventh grade, $800.

BUREAU OF ELECTIONS—Under the control and supervision of the Police Department. Branches of the bureau are to be established in each of the boroughs. The head of the bureau is known as the Superintendent of Elections, and is appointed for five years, with a salary of $6,000.

BOROUGH OFFICERS—In each borough there is to be a president and a local board, who are to be elected for a term of four years. The presidents of Manhattan, The Bronx and Brooklyn, respectively, receive $5,000 a year, and the presidents of Queens and Richmond, respectively, $3,000 a year. There are also twenty-two districts of local improvements, each with a board to decide upon matters which may not be inconsistent with the powers of the Municipal Assembly, and to aid such assembly and departments in the discharge of the duties respecting the district governments.

BOARD OF PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS—Composed of the Mayor, Corporation Counsel, Controller, Commissioner of Water Supply, Commissioner of Highways, Commissioner of Street Cleaning, Commissioner of Sewers, Commissioner of Public Buildings, Lighting and Supplies, Commissioner of Bridges, the presidents of the several boroughs, and the president of the Board. The latter is appointed by the Mayor at a salary of $8,000.

COMMISSIONER OF WATER SUPPLY—Appointed by Mayor, with salary $7,500.

COMMISSIONER OF HIGHWAYS—Appointed by Mayor, with salary of $7,500.

COMMISSIONER OF STREET CLEANING—Appointed by the Mayor for six years; salary, $7,500.

COMMISSIONER OF SEWERS—Appointed by the Mayor; salary, $7,500; term, six years.

COMMISSIONER OF PUBLIC BUILDINGS, LIGHTING AND SUPPLIES—Appointed by the Mayor for six years; salary, $7,500. He has cognizance and control of the construction, repairs, cleaning and maintenance of public buildings; of the contracts for street lighting by electricity or gas; the inspection and testing of gas and electricity for lighting, heating and power purposes; of the public baths; of the purchase of fuel, stationery, etc.

COMMISSIONER OF BRIDGES—Appointed by the Mayor for six years; salary, $7,500. He has cognizance and control of the management and maintenance of the New-York and Brooklyn Bridge, its railroads and collection of tolls and fares; the construction, repair, maintenance and management of all other bridges that may be constructed, in whole or in part, at the expense of the city of New-York, and of the construction, repair and maintenance of all other bridges that are or may be in whole or in part a public charge, not included in public parks, except the East River Bridge.

PARK DEPARTMENT—Three commissioners—one for Manhattan and Richmond, one for The Bronx, and the other for Brooklyn and Queens—salary of each, $5,000.

ART COMMISSION—Composed of the Mayor, the presidents of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, Public Library, and the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, one painter, one sculptor, one architect, and three other residents of the city, none of whom shall be a painter, sculptor or architect or member of any other profession in the fine arts. No work of art shall become the property of the city either by gift or purchase, or be erected in any public place, without the approval of the Art Commission.

COMMISSIONERS OF BUILDINGS—Appointed by the Mayor from candidates who have had at least ten years' experience as architects or builders. Salary of the commissioner for Manhattan and The Bronx, and for Brooklyn, $7,000 a year, and for Queens and Richmond, $3,500.

COMMISSIONERS OF PUBLIC CHARITIES—Salary for the commissioner for Manhattan and The Bronx and of one for Brookiyn and Queens is fixed at $7,500, and for the one for Richmond, $2,500. They administer the public charities of the city and regulate payments to private institutions, subject to the rules and regulations of the State Board of Charities.

COMMISSIONER OF CORRECTION—Appointed by the Mayor; salary, $7,500. He has charge of the administration of all institutions for the detention of criminals and misdemeanants of the city.

FIRE COMMISSIONER—Appointed by the Mayor; term, six years; salary, $7,500. He appoints a deputy commissioner for Brookiyn, one fire marshal for Manhattan, The Bronx and Richmond, and one for Brooklyn and Queens, at a salary of $3,000 each.

COMMISSIONERS OF DOCKS—Three appointed by the Mayor; terms, six years; salary, $5,000 each, with the exception of the president, elected from their number, to receive $6,000.

COMMISSIONERS OF TAXES AND ASSESSMENTS—Five, appointed by the Mayor; the president of the board, so designated in the appointment, to be for six years, and the others for four years. Salary of the president, $8,000; other members, $6,000.

BOARD OF ASSESSORS—The Mayor is authorized to appoint five persons, each with a salary of $3,000 a year.

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION—The charter provides for the following school boards: For Manhattan and The Bronx, twenty-one members; Brooklyn, forty-five members; Queens and Richmond, each to be of nine members. The term of all members of school boards is three years. A Board of Education for the entire city is provided, to consist of nineteen members, as follows: Of the chairman of each of the four school boards, ten elected by the Board of Manhattan and The Bronx, and five elected by the Board of the Borough of Brooklyn, all from the membership of said boards, respectively. Members of the Board of Education and of the several school boards serve without pay.

BOARD OF HEALTH—President of the Police Board, Health Officer of the Port and three Commissioners of Health, appointed by the Mayor for six years. The annual salaries are: President, $7,500; commissioners, other than the president, $6,000; sanitary superintendent, $6,000; secretary, $5,000; assistant sanitary superintendents, $3,500; register of records, $4,000; assistant registers of records, $3,000; chief clerk, $3,000.

COURTS—The City Court of the old city of New-York is continued under its former name. The Justices' Courts and the office of the justices of the peace of Brooklyn and Long Island City and the district ccurts of the old city of New-York are abolished and consolidated under the name of the Municipal Court of the City of New-York. For this court the Mayor is authorized to appoint seven additional justices. The boroughs are divided into districts, in each of which sessions of the Municipal Court are to be held. Manhattan has eleven districts; The Bronx, two districts; Brooklyn, five districts; Queens, two, and Richmond, three. The office of Police Justice of Manhattan and The Bronx and the Court of Special Sessions of Brooklyn are abolished. For the purposes of the administration of criminal justice, the new city is divided into two divisions. The first division embraces Manhattan and The Bronx, and the second dvision embraces Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond.

CORONERS—Four in Manhattan, and two each in The Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond.

COUNTIES AND OFFICIALS—The wards of Manhattan, The Bronx and Brooklyn are continued the same as before the consolidation. The five towns and all the incorporated villages within Richmond County are abolished, and the territory included within the towns of Castleton, Middletown, Northfield, Southfield and Westfield are to be known as Wards 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5, respectively, of Richmond. The towns and villages in that part of Queens County included within the city of New-York are abolished and are designated as follows: Long Island City, Ward 1 of Queens; Newtown, Ward 2; Flushing, Ward 3; Jamaica, Ward 4; Hempstead, Ward 5. The Mayor is to appoint the Corporation Counsel and all the administrative and executive officers of the city except the Controller. In addition to those heretofore enumerated, the Mayor appoints two Commissioners of Accounts, three Civil Service Commissioners and a Chief of the Bureau of Municipal Statistics. It is provided that all veterans, either of the Army or Navy or the Volunteer Fire Department who may be in the service of either the municipal or public corporation, shall be retained in the service.

The area of Greater New-York embraces 306 square miles, and contains (as estimated) nearly 3,500,000 people. In 1893, the year preceding the passage of the act by the Legislature to submit the question of consolidation to the arbitrament of the electors, the assessed valuation of real estate and of personal propery in the several counties now embraced in the municipality was as follows:

County.	Real estate.	Personal.
New-York	$1,562,582,393	$370,936,136
Kings	518,501,441	19,704,929
Queens	50,672,499	2,377,860
Richmond	19,750,376	162,950
Westchester	82,802,083	2,277,956

On January 1, 1898, it had 1,093 church edifices, two great universities and ninety-three other educational institutions, sixty-three libraries, thirty art galleries, fifty-four theatres, eighty-one clubs, 112 hotels and 218 banks. Its parks have an area of 73,336 acres; its cemeteries have a "silent population" of 4,000,000.

Early in 1898 the Health Board made an estimate of the population of New-York City, with this result:

Borough of Manhattan	1,911,755
Borough of Brooklyn	1,197,100
Borough of The Bronx	137,075
Borough of Queens	128,042
Borough of Richmond	64,927

MAYORS OF THE CITY OF NEW-YORK.

The following table gives a list of the Mayors of New-York since 1665, when Thomas Willett was appointed by the Governor of the Province. The office was filled by the same appointing power until 1784, when for six years the power was vested in the Appointing Board of the State of New-York. From 1820 to 1830, when the charter was amended, the Common Council was the appointing power. The last named Mayor, Robert A. Van Wyck, was the first elected under the Greater New-York charter:

WAR REVENUE LAW.

The act of Congress of June 13, 1898, known as the "War Revenue Law," consists of fifty-one sections, all of which, excepting Sections 31, 32, 33, 34, 50 and 51, relate to internal revenue, as follows:

Section 1.—Tax on fermented liquors.
Section 2.—Special taxes.
Section 3.—Tax on tobacco, cigars, cigarettes and snuff.
Section 4.—Special taxes on tobacco dealers and manufacturers.
Section 5.—On the method of furnishing stamps.
Sections 6 to 26 (inclusive).—Adhesive stamps, Schedules A and B.
Section 27.—Tax on gross receipts of certain refineries, etc.
Section 28.—Tax on seats in palace or parlor cars and on berths in sleeping cars.
Sections 29 and 30.—Tax on legacies and distributive shares of personal property.
Sections 35 to 49 (inclusive).—Tax on mixed flour.

The sections noted above as relating to other matters than taxes, etc., are in full as follows:

Section 31 is administrative and reads: "That all administrative, special or stamp provisions of the law, including the laws in relation to the assessment of taxes, not heretofore specifically repealed, are hereby made applicable to this act."

Sections 32 and 33 relate to loans, and read: (32) "That the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to borrow from time to time, at a rate of interest not exceeding 3 per centum per annum, such sum or sums as in his judgment may be necessary to meet public expenditures, and to issue therefor certificates of indebtedness in such form as he may prescribe and in denominations of $50 or some multiple of that sum; and each certificate so issued shall be payable, with the interest accrued thereon, at such time, not exceeding one year from the date of its issue, as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe: Provided, That the amount of such certificates outstanding shall at no time exceed $100,000,000; and the provisions of existing law respecting counterfeiting and other fraudulent practices are hereby extended to the bonds and certificates of indebtedness authorized by this act." (33) "That the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized to borrow on the credit of the United States from time to time as the proceeds may be required to defray expenditures authorized on account of the existing war (such proceeds when so received to be used only for the purpose of meeting such war expenditures) the sum of $400,000,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, and to prepare and issue therefor coupon or registered bonds of the United States in such form as he may prescribe, and in denominations of $20 or some multiple of that sum, redeemable in coin at the pleasure of the United States after ten years from the date of their issue, and payable twenty years from such date, and bearing interest payable quarterly in coin at the rate of 3 per centum per annum; and the bonds herein authorized shall be exempt from all taxes or duties of the United States, as well as from taxation in any form by or under State, municipal or local authority: Provided, That the bonds authorized by this section shall be first offered at par as a popular loan under such regulations, prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, as will give opportunity to the citizens of the United States to participate in the subscriptions to such loan, and in allotting said bonds the several subscriptions of individuals shall be first accepted, and the subscriptions for the lowest amounts shall be first allotted: Provided, further, That any portion of any issue of said bonds not subscribed for as above provided may be disposed of by the Secretary of the Treasury at not less than par, under such regulations as he may prescribe, but no commissions shall be allowed or paid thereon; and a sum not exceeding one-tenth of 1 per centum of the amount of the bonds and certificates herein authorized is hereby appropriated out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, to pay the expense of preparing, advertising and issuing the same."

Section 34, which relates to the coinage of silver bullion, reads: "That the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized and directed to coin into standard silver dollars as rapidly as the public interests may require, to an amount, however, of not less than $1,500,000 in each month, all of the silver bullion now in the Treasury purchased in accordance with the provision of the act approved July 14, 1890, entitled 'An act directing the purchase of silver bullion and the issue of Treasury notes thereon, and for other purposes,' and said dollars, when so coined, shall be used and applied in the manner and for the purposes named in said act."

Section 50 reads: "That there shall be levied, collected and paid upon tea, when imported from foreign countries, a duty of 10 cents per pound."

Section 51 reads: "That this act shall take effect on the day next succeeding the date of the passage, except as otherwise specially provided for." The act provided that sections 2, 4, 6 and 28, and Schedules A and B should not take effect until July 1, 1898, and that the sections relating to "mixed flour" should not take effect until sixty days from and after the date of passage of the act.

Section 5 provided that "until appropriate stamps are prepared and furnished the stamps heretofore used to denote the payment of the internal revenue tax on fermented liquors, tobacco, snuff, cigars and cigarettes may be stamped or imprinted with a suitable device to denote the new rate of tax, and shall be affixed to all packages containing such articles on which the tax imposed by this act is paid. And any person having possession of unaffixed stamps heretofore issued for the payment of the tax upon fermented liquors, tobacco, snuff, cigars or cigarettes shall present the same to the collector of the district, who shall receive them at the price paid for such stamps by the purchasers, and issue in lieu thereof new or imprinted stamps at the rate provided by this act."

Section 25, also relating to stamps authorized to be used, reads: "That the Commissioner of Internal Revenue shall cause to be prepared for the payment of the taxes prescribed in this act suitable stamps denoting the tax on the document, article or thing to which the same may be affixed, and he is authorized to prescribe such method for the cancellation of said stamps, as substitute for or in addition to the method provided in this act, as he may deem expedient. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, is authorized to procure any of the stamps provided for in this act by contract whenever such stamps cannot be speedily prepared by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing; but this authority shall expire on July 1, 1899. That the adhesive stamps used in the payment of the tax levied in Schedules A and B of this act shall be furnished for sale by the several collectors of internal revenue, who shall sell and deliver them at their face value to all persons applying for the same, except officers or employes of the internal revenue service: Provided, That such collectors may sell and deliver such stamps in quantities of not less than $100 of face value, with a discount of 1 per cent, except as otherwise provided by this act. And he may, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, make all needful rules and regulations for the proper enforcement of this act."

Constructions of various provisions of the law have been published from time to time in "Treasury Decisions." The title of the act, of which the following is an abstract, and which includes the rate of tax, pecuniary penalties, interest and discount expressed in figures, is "An act to provide ways and means to meet war expenditures and for other purposes."

SECTION 7.

Maximum penalty for failure to stamp documents, etc., required to be stamped, is.....$100 00

Such documents, etc., are not competent evidence in any court when not stamped. (See also Section 14.)

PENALTIES.

SECTION 8.—For counterfeiting, etc., any stamp, die, plate, or other instrument, or any part thereof, or in any way knowingly or wilfully aiding, abetting, or assisting in committing such offences, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000. Or by imprisonment and confinement at hard labor not exceeding five years, or both, at the discretion of the Court. These penalties also imposed for injuring or removing impressions of stamp, plate, etc., and for removing cancelling marks, for reusing such stamps, and for having in possession restored stamps, etc.

SECTION 9.—CANCELLATION OF STAMPS.—Write or stamp thereon the initials of name and date of use. Penalty for failure to so cancel stamp subjects the user to a fine of not less than $50, nor more than $500; or to imprisonment of not more than six months, or both, at the discretion of the Court. Provided that proprietors of articles liable to stamp duty under Schedule B shall have the privilege of furnishing, without expense to the United States, their own dies or designs for stamps to be used thereon, to be approved by and retained in the possession of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, which shall not be duplicated to any other person. A proprietor furnishing such dies or designs must purchase stamps printed therefrom in quantities, at face value, at any one time of not less than $2,000. Penalties as to private die stamps: For fraudulently obtaining or using said stamps or designs, for forging, counterfeiting, or causing or procuring the forging or counterfeiting, any representation, likeness, similitude, or colorable imitation of said last mentioned stamp, a fine of not more than $500, or imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both. Any engraver or printer who sells or gives away said stamps, or a merchant, broker, pedler, or person dealing in similar goods, etc., having knowingly or fraudulently in (his or) their possession such forged, counterfeited likeness, similitude, or colorable imitation of said stamps, are liable to said penalties.

SECTION 10.—Penalty for not stamping any bill of exchange, draft, or order, or promissory note, liable to any of the taxes imposed by this act, not exceeding (at the discretion of the Court) $200.

SECTION 11.—Foreign bills of exchange payable in the United States must be stamped by acceptors same as inland bills of exchange or promissory notes. Penalty for not stamping not over (in the discretion of the Court) $100.

SECTION 12.—Sales of stamps by persons other than collectors. (See also Section 25.)

SECTION 13.—Penalty for not stamping documents not exceeding $50, or imprisonment not over six months, or both, in the discretion of the Court; and such documents, etc., not being stamped according to law, shall be deemed invalid and of no effect. First proviso: For subsequently affixing stamps upon payment of penalty of $10 and interest where the whole tax exceeds $50, at the rate of 6 per cent. Second proviso: If omission to stamp was without design to defraud United States, within twelve months collector may remit fine and paper may be recorded on payment of fee legally charged therefor. Third proviso: If stamp is not affixed where no collection district is established, the paper may be stamped. But rights acquired in good faith not invalidated.

SECTION 14.—Unstamped instrument, paper or document required by law to be stamped, cannot be used in any court as evidence until legal stamp is affixed. Provided, foreign bonds, etc., unstamped, may be used, if stamped in the United States.

SECTION 15.—Record or registry of unstamped paper, etc., cannot be used in evidence.

SECTION 16.—Kind of stamp not material, if it is a legal documentary stamp, representing the proper amount of tax.

SECTION 17.—Bonds, debentures, or certificates of indebtedness of the United States, or officers of any State, county, town, municipal corporation, or other corporation exercising the taxing power, are exempt from stamp taxes under this act, but only in exercise of functions strictly belonging to them in their governmental, taxing or municipal capacity. Provided further, that stock and bonds of co-operative building and loan associations whose capital stock is not over $10,000, and building and loan associations or companies loaning only to their shareholders, are exempt.

SECTION 18.—No telegraph company shall transmit unstamped telegram or message. In default thereof a penalty is incurred of $10. Provided, that only one stamp is required on each message, whether sent through one or more companies. Provided, that message of telegraph or telephone companies, and of railroad companies, over their own wires on business pertaining to their companies are exempt. Provided further, that messages of officers and employes of the United States on official business are exempt.

SECTION 19.—All provisions of this act relating to dies, stamps, adhesive stamps, and stamp taxes are extended to and include all articles in Schedule B (except where manifestly inapplicable).

SECTION 20.—Penalty for selling articles in Schedule B without stamp is not more than $500, or imprisonment not more than six months, or both, at the discretion of the Court. Provided, no stamp due on uncompounded drugs, on special prescriptions of physicians, or pharmacists selling at retail only. All other medicinal articles are taxable as provided in Schedule B.

SECTION 21.—Penalty for evading stamp taxes in Schedule B, for every such article, is not more than $500, or imprisonment not more than six months, or both, at the discretion of the Court, and every such article shall also be forfeited.

SECTION 22.—Penalty for removing articles taxed in Schedule B without stamp, fine of not more than $500, or imprisonment not more than six months, or both, at the discretion of the Court, together with the forfeiture of any such article or commodity. Provided, that articles mentioned in Schedule B may be exported in bond free of tax. (See also Regulations. Series 7, No. 24.)

SECTION 23.—Manufacturers of any articles in Schedule B must make monthly returns, and file with the collector for the district in which he resides a declaration that no such article has been removed, etc., since his last return, without the use of the proper stamp, on pain of forfeiting for every refusal or neglect to make such declaration $100, and in case of making false or untrue declaration, shall be fined not more than $500, or be imprisoned not more than six months, or both, at the discretion of the Court.

SECTION 24.—Tax on articles in Schedule B shall attach to all articles and things sold or removed for sale on and after July 1, 1898. Every person, except as otherwise provided in this act, who offers or exposes for sale any article or thing provided for in Schedule B, whether of foreign or domestic manufacture, shall be deemed the manufacturer thereof, and be subject to all the taxes, liabilities and penalties imposed by law for sale of such articles without the use of the proper stamps, and all such articles of foreign manufacture shall, in addition to import duty thereon, be subject to the stamp tax prescribed in this act. Proviso: Secretary of the Treasury is to make regulations as to imported articles in Schedule B liable to tax.

SECTION 25.—Commissioners of Internal Revenue to provide stamps prescribed by this act; also for cancellation, and may, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, get stamps elsewhere than at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing until July 1, 1899. These stamps are to be sold by collectors at face value. Provided, that collectors may sell in quantities of not less than $100 face value, with a discount of 1 per cent, except as otherwise provided in this act. And collectors, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, may make all needful rules and regulations to enforce this act.

SECTION 26.—Drawback shall be allowed upon articles taxed in Schedule B, exported on and after July 1, 1898, equal to the amount of the stamp tax paid, and no more; to be paid by the warrant of the Secretary of the Treasury on the Treasurer of the United States upon regulations prescribed and promulgated in a separate pamphlet (Series 7, No. 24) by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury.

SECTION 27.—Parties who refine petroleum, or sugar, or who own or control any pipe line for transporting oil or other products, whose gross annual receipts exceed $250,000, shall pay annually a special excise tax equal to one-fourth of 1 per cent on gross amount of all receipts in excess of $250,000. And monthly returns of amount of gross receipts must be made to the collector of the district in which place of business is located. Parties making false or fraudulent returns, or failing or refusing to make returns, are liable to a penalty of not less than $1,000 and not exceeding $10,000 for each failure or refusal to make return and for each and every false or fraudulent return.

SECTION 28.—On and after July 1, 1898, a stamp tax shall be levied and collected on every seat in a palace car or parlor car and on every berth sold in a sleeping car, the stamp to be affixed to the ticket and paid by the company issuing the same..... .01

SECTION 29.—LEGACIES AND DISTRIBUTIVE SHARES OF PERSONAL PROPERTY.—Where the whole amount of such personal property exceeds $10,000 in actual value, passing from any person dying on or after June 13, 1898, taxes accrue and should be paid before distribution to the legatees, as follows: Personal property value over $10,000 and not over $25,000, the tax shall be:

1. Legatees of lineal issue on lineal ancestor, brother or sister to the person who died, for each and every $100 clear value..... .75
2. Legatee the descendant of a brother or sister of the person who died, for each and every $100 clear value.....$1 50
3. Where legatee is the brother or sister of the father or mother, or a descendant of a brother or sister of the father or mother of the person who died, for each and every $100 clear value..... 3 00
4. Where legatee is the brother or sister of the grandfather or grandmother, or a descendant of the brother or sister of the said grandparents of the person who died, for each and every $100 clear value..... 4 00
5. Where legatee shall be in any other degree of collateral consanguinity than is hereinbefore stated, or a stranger in blood to the person who died, or shall be a body politic or corporate, for each and every $100 clear value..... 5 00

Provided, that all legacies, etc., passing to husband or wife of the person who died shall be exempt from tax or duty. Where values of legacy or property exceed $25,000, the rate hereinbefore given should be multiplied as follows: Over $25,000 and not over $100,000, by 1½. Over $100,000 and not over $500,000, by 2. Over $500,000 and not over $1,000,000, by 2½. Over $1,000,000, by 3.

SECTION 30.—The tax imposed in Section 29 shall be a lien upon the property at issue for twenty years. Executor, administrator or trustee must pay the tax to the collector of the district within which deceased person resided, and must make return to said collector in duplicate. Failure or refusal to pay or render returns necessitates the collector to make lists and valuation and apply through proper court for actual or constructive possession of the personal estate, to be sold on decree of such court for the benefit of the tax or duty, together with all costs and expenses to be allowed by the court. Every person shall exhibit all evidence in his possession concerning such personal estate at the request of the collector, and upon refusal or neglect so to do shall forfeit and pay $500. Provided that in all legal controversies where such deed shall be the subject of judicial investigation, the recital of the deed shall be prima facie evidence of its truth and that the requirements of the law had been complied with by the officers of the Government. (For Sections 31, 32, 33 and 34 see beginning of this chapter.)

SECTION 35.—"Mixed flour" shall be understood to mean the food product made from wheat, mixed or blended in whole or in part with any other grain or other material, or the manufactured product of any other grain or other material than wheat.

SECTION 36.—Special tax before engaging in the business of making, packing or repacking mixed flour, at the rate of $12 per annum, subject to the fines and penalties imposed by Sections 3,239 and 3,242, U. S. Revised Statutes, for any violation thereof.

SECTION 37.—Provides for the making, packing or repacking mixed flour, and for the marking or branding of each package thereof. Failure to comply with the provisions of this section subjects party to a fine of not less than $250 and not more than $500, or to be imprisoned not less than sixty days nor more than one year.

SECTION 38.—All sales and consignments of mixed flour shall be in packages not before used. Persons knowingly selling or offering for sale in other than marked and branded packages; falsely marking or branding, or unlawfully removing such marks or brands, for each offence to be fined not less than $250 nor more than $500, and imprisonment not less than thirty days nor more than one year.

SECTION 39.—Requires a certain label to be affixed to each package. Failure to affix or removal thereafter imposes a fine for each label of not less than $50.

SECTION 40.—Barrel or package not to exceed 196 pounds in weight, stamp taxes are as follows: Per barrel of 196 pounds or more than 98 pounds, 4 cents; half barrel of 98 pounds or more than 49 pounds, 2 cents; quarter barrel of 49 pounds or more than 24½ pounds, 1 cent; eighth barrel of 24½ pounds or less, ½ cent. Penalty for violation: Fine of not less than $250 and not more than $500, or imprisonment not to exceed one year.

SECTION 41.—Authorizes the Commissioner of Internal Revenue to assess when removed for consumption or sale without the use of the proper stamps.

SECTION 42.—Mixed flour imported from foreign countries, in addition to import duties, must pay internal revenue tax imposed by Section 40 of this act, and to be stamped, branded, etc., as in case of flour mixed in the United States. Fine for violation not less than $50 nor more than $500.

SECTION 43.—Persons knowingly receiving for sale or for repacking and resale mixed flour from any person who has not paid the tax thereon to be fined not less than $50, and to forfeit to the United States said articles.

SECTION 44.—Mixed flour may be exported in bond free of tax under certain regulations.

SECTION 45.—Stamps on packages when emptied must be cancelled or destroyed by the person having possession at that time. Failure to do so subjects person to fine not over $25.

SECTION 46.—Fines, penalties and forfeitures imposed by Sections 36 to 45, both inclusive, may be recovered in court.

SECTION 47.—Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, to make regulations governing manufacture and sale of mixed flour.

SECTION 48.—A person found guilty of a second or any subsequent violations of Sections 36 to 45, inclusive, in addition to penalties herein imposed, shall be imprisoned not less than thirty days nor more than ninety days.

SECTION 49.—Provisions of this act relating to mixed flour to take effect and be in force sixty days after its passage. Stock on hand not tax paid when law goes into effect shall be deemed to be taxable under Sections 36 to 45, and shall be tax paid under regulations prescribed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. (For text of Sections 50 and 51 see at the beginning of this chapter.)

COPYRIGHT IN THE UNITED STATES.

Under the International Copyright act (approved March 3, 1891; took effect July 1, 1891) any United States citizen, or citizen or subject of foreign nations granting copyright to United States citizens on substantially the same basis with their own citizens, or which become parties to an international agreement for reciprocity in copyright, may secure for twenty-eight years the sole liberty of printing, reprinting, publishing, completing, copying, executing. finishing and vending his work; and, in case of a dramatic composition, of publicly performing or representing it, or causing it to be performed or represented by others. This term of security is renewable for fourteen years more. The right of citizens or subjects of a foreign nation to copyright in the United States, on January 1, 1896, had been extended by Presidential proclamations to Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Spain, Portugal, Belgium, Denmark and Switzerland. On February 27, 1896, copyright benefits were extended to citizens of Mexico by proclamation of the President; on May 25, 1896, to citizens of Chili; on October 19, 1899, to those of Costa Rica, and on November 20, 1899, to those of the Netherlands (Holland) and possessions. A bill of Congress, signed by the President January 6, 1897, makes an injunction against the unlawful production of a play obtained in a United States District Court operative in all districts, instead of only in the one in which it is granted, as formerly. It also makes the unlawful production of a play punishable by imprisonment, under certain conditions. To aid in having the law strictly complied with, so that no question can arise as to the validity of the entry recorded, and that the application shall be in such a form that the Copyright Office can, upon its receipt, promptly make the entries desired, and thus avoid delay through the necessity for correspondence, an application form has been prepared, which can be obtained by addressing "Register of Copyrights, Library of Congress, Washington, D. C." By application to the same office a pamphlet giving directions for securing copyrights, etc., may be obtained. The law imposes a penalty of $100 upon any person who shall insert the notice of copyright, or words of the same purport, upon any book or other article which has not been copyrighted, whether such article be subject to copyright or otherwise; or who shall knowingly issue or sell any article bearing a notice of United States copyright which has not been copyrighted in the United States; or who shall import any book, photograph, chromo or lithograph, or other article bearing such notice of copyright or words of the same purport, which is not copyrighted in this country. The president of the American Copyright League is Edmund Clarence Stedman, and the secretary is R. U. Johnson, No. 33 East 17th-st., New-York City, N. Y.

THE FIFTY-SIXTH CONGRESS.

The Army.

Section 2 of the Military Academy Appropriation act, approved June 6, 1900, provided that the senior major-general of the line commanding the Army shall have the rank, pay and allowances of a lieutenant-general, and that his personal staff shall have the rank, pay and allowances authorized for the staff of a lieutenant-general. Section 3 of the same act provides that the Adjutant-General of the Army shall have the rank, pay and allowances of a major-general and on his retirement shall receive the retired pay of that rank. But whenever the present Adjutant-General shall vacate the office the Adjutant-General shall have the rank, pay and allowances of brigadier-general. Section 4 increases the number of military cadets to be appointed at large by the President to thirty.

The Gold Standard Act.

Section 1 of the act approved March 14, 1900, makes the dollar consisting of twenty-five and eight-tenths grains of gold nine-tenths fine the standard unit of value, and requires the Secretary of the Treasury to maintain at a parity of value with this standard all forms of money issued or coined by the United States. Section 2 provides that United States notes, and Treasury notes issued under the act of July 14, 1890, when presented at the Treasury for redemption, shall be redeemed in gold coin, to insure which redemption the Secretary of the Treasury shall set apart a reserve fund of $150,000,000 in gold coin and bullion, to be used for such purposes only, and as fast as said notes shall be redeemed the Secretary shall use them to restore and maintain such reserve fund in the manner following: First, by exchanging them for any gold coin in the general fund of the Treasury; second, by accepting deposits of gold coin in exchange for them; third, by purchasing gold coin with them. If all these methods fail it shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Treasury to restore the reserve fund to the maximum of $150,000,000 by the sale of 3 per cent gold bonds payable at the pleasure of the United States after one year from the date of their issue; and the gold coin received from the sale of such bonds shall first be covered into the general fund of the Treasury and then exchanged, as hereinbefore provided, for an equal amount of the notes redeemed and held for exchange, which notes may then be used in exchange for gold or to purchase or redeem bonds of the United States or for any other lawful purpose except to meet deficiencies in the current revenues. United States notes when redeemed shall be reissued, but shall be held in the reserve fund until exchanged for gold. Section 3 provides that nothing contained in the act shall affect the legal tender quality of any money coined or issued by the United States. Section 4 establishes in the Treasury Department as a part of the office of the Treasurer of the United States divisions to be known as the Division of Issue and the Division of Redemption, to which shall be assigned respectively all accounts and records relating to the issue and redemption of United States notes, gold certificates, silver certificates and currency certificates. Section 5 provides that as fast as standard silver dollars are coined from bullion purchased under the act of July 14, 1890, Treasury notes of 1890 shall be retired and cancelled and an equal amount of silver certificates issued against the standard dollars so coined. Section 6 authorizes the issue of gold certificates for deposits of gold coin in sums of $20 or more, such deposits to be retained for redemption of said certificates and not used for any other purpose. The certificates shall be receivable for all public dues, and when so received may be reissued, and when held by any National banking association may be counted as a part of its lawful reserve. But whenever and so long as the gold coin held for the redemption of United States notes and Treasury notes shall fall and remain below $100,000,000 the authority to issue gold certificates shall be suspended; and whenever and so long as the aggregate amount of United States notes and silver certificates in the general fund of the Treasury shall exceed $60,000,000 the Secretary of Treasury, in his discretion, may suspend the issue of gold certificates. At least one-fourth of the certificates must be in denominations of $50 each, and in his discretion the Secretary of the Treasury may issue certificates payable to order, in denominations of $10,000. This section also repeals Section 5,193 of the Revised Statutes, which authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to receive deposits of United States notes from National banking associations in sums of not less than $10,000 and issue certificates therefor. Section 7 provides that United States notes of less denomination than $10 and silver certificates of higher denomination than $10 shall be gradually retired, notes of higher denomination being substituted for the former and notes of lower denomination for the latter. Section 8 authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to use any silver bullion purchased under the act of July 14, 1890, for coinage into subsidiary silver coins, provided, that the aggregate amount of subsidiary silver coins outstanding at any one time shall not exceed $100,000,000, and provided also that when any silver bullion purchased under the act of July 14, 1890, shall be used for subsidiary coins an amount of Treasury notes of 1890 equal to the cost of such bullion shall be cancelled and not reissued. Section 9 provides for the recoinage of all worn and uncurrent subsidiary silver coin. Section 10 amends Section 5,138 of the Revised Statutes so as to allow National banking associations with a capital of not less than $50,000 each to be organized in places whose population does not exceed 6,000 each, and associations with a capital of not less than $25,000 each in places whose population does not exceed 3,000 each. The section also provides that no association shall be organized in a city the population of which exceeds 50,000, with a capital of less than $200,000. Section 11 authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to receive any of the outstanding 5 per cent and 3 per cent bonds of the United States, and also any of the 4 per cents payable July 1, 1907, and to issue in exchange therefor 2 per cent gold bonds at not less than par, payable at the pleasure of the United States thirty years after date. The section also fixes the rate of exchange and provides that the premiums paid shall be held to be payments on account of the sinking fund created by law. Section 12 provides that National banking associations shall hereafter be entitled to receive circulating notes equal to the par value of the bonds deposited by them to secure such circulation; that not more than one-third of the circulating notes of any bank shall be of the denomination of $5; that the total amount of notes issued to any banking association shall not exceed the amount of its capital stock actually paid in; that any association may substitute the 2 per cent bonds authorized by this act for any other bonds deposited by it to secure its circulating notes or deposits of public money, and repeals the provision of the act of July 12, 1882, which prohibits any National bank which makes any deposit of lawful money in order to reduce its circulation from receiving any increase of its circulation for the period of six months after such deposit. Section 13 provides that the tax on all National bank circulation secured by deposits of 2 per cent bonds issued under this act shall be one-fourth of one per centum each half year upon the average amount of its notes in circulation. Section 14 provides: "That the provisions of this act are not intended to preclude the accomplishment of international bimetallism whenever conditions shall make it expedient and practicable to secure the same by concurrent action of the leading commercial nations of the world and at a ratio which shall insure permanence of relative value between gold and silver."

The Alaskan Act.

"An act making further provision for a civil government for Alaska, and for other purposes," was approved June 6, 1900. It comprises thirty-one chapters and four hundred and one sections. Section 1 constitutes Alaska a civil and judicial district. Section 2 provides for the appointment of a Governor of the district, who shall be charged with the interests of the United States within the district; shall have authority to see that the laws enacted by Congress therefor are enforced, and to require of officials the faithful performance of their duties, and shall perform generally such duties and exercise such authority as pertains to the Governor of a Territory. Section 3 provides that the Surveyor-General shall be ex officio secretary of the district. Section 4 establishes a district court of general jurisdiction, civil, criminal, equitable and admiralty causes. This court is to be divided into three divisions, each presided over by a district judge. Three marshals and three district attorneys are to be appointed. The Surveyor-General, the district judges and the marshals and district attorneys are to be appointed by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. The first thirty-three sections are devoted to the provisions for civil government and administration, and the remainder to the civil code for the district, a criminal code therefor having been provided by the LVth Congress. An act approved June 6, 1900, extended over the District of Alaska so much of the public land laws of the United States as relate to coal lands.

The Hawaiian Act.

The act to provide a government for the Territory of Hawaii was approved April 30, 1900. It established a territorial government over what was known at the date of the passage of the joint resolution of annexation by Congress as the Republic of Hawaii. By Section 4 all persons who were citizens of the republic were declared citizens of the United States and of the Territory. All citizens of the United States resident in Hawaii who were resident there on or since August 12, 1898, and all citizens of the United States who shall hereafter reside there one year shall be citizens of the Territory of Hawaii. The Constitution, and except as herein otherwise provided, all the laws of the United States not locally inapplicable shall be in force in the new Territory: "Provided, that Sections 1,850 and 1,890 of the Revised Statutes shall not apply to the Territory of Hawaii." Section 1,850 is one which provides that laws enacted by the Governor and Legislature of a Territory shall be submitted to Congress and if disapproved shall be null and of no effect. Section 1,890 is one which provides that no corporation or association for religious or charitable purposes shall acquire or hold real estate in any Territory during the existence of the territorial government in excess of the value of $50,000. Section 6 provides that the laws of Hawaii not inconsistent with the Constitution or laws of the United States or the provisions of this act shall continue in force subject to repeal by the Territorial Legislature or by Congress. The legislative power of the Territory is vested in a Senate and a House of Representatives, the former to consist of fifteen members and the latter of thirty members. A Senator must be a male citizen of the United States; have attained the age of thirty years, and have resided in Hawaii not less than three years and be qualified to vote for Senators in the district in which he resides. A Representative must have attained the age of twenty-five years; must be a male citizen of the United States; must have resided in Hawaii not less than three years, and be qualified to vote for Representatives in the district in which he is elected. All legislative proceedings shall be in the English language. Forms of legislative procedure are prescribed similar to those observed in other territorial Legislatures of the United States, and legislative powers are defined. In order to be qualified to vote a person must be a male citizen of the United States; must have resided in the Territory not less than one year and in the legislative district not less than three months immediately preceding the time he offers to register; must have attained the age of twenty-one years; must have caused his name to be entered on the voters' registration list within the time prescribed by law, and must be able to speak, read and write the English or Hawaiian language. The Governor shall be appointed by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. He shall be not less than thirty-five years of age; shall be a citizen of the Territory; shall be commander-in-chief of the militia, and shall perform such duties and exercise such authority as do the Governors of other Territories of the United States. The other executive officers provided are a Secretary (who shall act as Governor in case of the death, removal, resignation, disability or absence from the Territory of the Governor), an Attorney-General, a Treasurer, a Commissioner of Public Lands, a Commissioner of Agriculture and Forestry, a Superintendent of Public Works, a Superintendent of Public Instruction, an Auditor and Deputy Auditor, a Surveyor and a High Sheriff. Besides the Governor the officers to be appointed by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, are the Secretary of the Territory, the Chief Justice and Justices of the Supreme Court and the Judges of the Circuit courts. All the other executive officers are to be appointed by the Governor by and with the advice and consent of the Senate of Hawaii. A Delegate to the United States House of Representatives shall be elected who shall possess the qualifications required of a Senator of Hawaii. A United States District Court for Hawaii is created, to consist of one Judge. The Territory of Hawaii shall constitute an Internal Revenue District of the United States and also a Customs District, with ports of entry at Honolulu, Hilo, Mahukona and Kahului. The salaries of the Governor ($5,000), the Secretary ($3,000), the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court ($5,500), the Associate Justices of the Supreme Court ($5,000 each), and the Circuit Court Judges ($3,000 each) shall be paid by the United States. The salary of the United States District Judge shall be $5,000; that of the United States Marshal $2,500, and that of the United States District Attorney $3,000. By Section 93 the customs laws of the United States are extended over Hawaii. The United States Commissioner of Labor is required to investigate and report to Congress on industrial and labor conditions in the Territory. The United States Commisisoner of Fish and Fisheries is authorized and required to examine into the subject of fisheries and the laws relating to fishing rights in Hawaii and report to the President, and all laws of the Republic of Hawaii which confer exclusive fishing rights upon any person or persons are repealed and the fisheries are made free to all citizens of the United States, subject, however, to vested rights. The Supervising Surgeon-General of the Marine Hospital Service shall establish quarantine stations at such places as may be required in the Territory. All vessels carrying Hawaiian registers on August 12, 1898, and which were owned by bona fide citizens of the United States or the citizens of Hawaii shall be entitled to be registered as American vessels, and also to all the privileges of vessels engaged in the coastwise commerce of the United States. The crown lands are declared to be the property of the Hawaiian government free and clear from any trust and from any claim whatever, and subject to alienation and other uses as may be provided by law. For the purposes of naturalization under the laws of the United States "residence in the Hawaiian Islands prior to the taking effect of this act shall be deemed equivalent to residence in the United States and in the Territory of Hawaii, and the requirement of a previous declaration of intention to become a citizen of the United States and to renounce former allegiance shall not apply to persons who have resided in said islands at least five years prior to the taking effect of this act; but all other provisions of the laws of the United States relating to naturalization shall, so far as applicable, apply to persons in the said islands." Section 101 provides that Chinese in the Hawaiian Islands when the act took effect (June 14) may within one year thereafter obtain certificates of residence as required by the act of May 5, 1892, as amended by an act approved November 3, 1893, and until the expiration of said year shall not be deemed to be unlawfully in the United States if found therein without such certificates. But no Chinese laborer, whether he hold such certificate or not, shall be allowed to enter any other part of the United States from the Hawaiian Islands. Section 102 repeals the laws of Hawaii relating to the postal savings bank and provides for the winding up of its affairs in the manner prescribed in the joint resolution of annexation, which required the payments of depositors to be made out of the Treasury of the United States.

The Porto Rican Act.

"An act temporarily to provide revenues and a civil government for Porto Rico" was approved April 12, 1900. The first section defines Porto Rico geographically and the next four relate to raising revenue for the support of the new government. Section 2 provides that the same duties shall be imposed on articles imported into Porto Rico, with a few exceptions, from countries other than the United States, as are imposed on like articles imported from those countries into the United States. The exceptions are: Coffee, on which a duty of 5 cents a pound is levied; Spanish scientific, literary and artistic objects, which are to be admitted free of duty for ten years from April 11, 1899. This section also admits free of duty books and pamphlets from the United States. By Section 3 duties amounting to 15 per cent of the rates of duty under the United States tariff are imposed on articles coming into the United States from Porto Rico or into Porto Rico from the United States. Articles subject to internal taxation are to pay the same in addition to the customs duties. In addition to the articles on the free list of the United States tariff all articles which were admitted into Porto Rico free of duty by Executive order are to be hereafter so admitted when brought from the United States. The section also provides that the foregoing provisions shall cease to be in force as between the United States and Porto Rico on March 1, 1902, and sooner if the Porto Rican Legislature shall have enacted and put into operation an adequate system of local taxation. Section 4 provides that all the revenues collected under the foregoing provisions, whether in the United States or in Porto Rico, shall be used and applied for the benefit of the latter. Section 5 provides that the foregoing provisions shall apply on the day after the act goes into effect. The remaining thirty-six sections of the act relate to the civil government, the first eleven of them being general provisions. All the inhabitants residing in the island who were Spanish subjects on April 11, 1899, and their children born subsequent thereto, shall be deemed and held to be citizens of Porto Rico and as such entitled to the protection of the United States, except such as shall have elected before April 11, 1900, to remain subjects of Spain. The laws and ordinances of Porto Rico now in force shall so continue, except as otherwise provided in Section 8. All vessels owned by Porto Ricans shall be nationalized and shall be admitted to all the rights and privileges of vessels of the United States under the navigation laws. Quarantine stations shall be established and maintained under the Superintendent of the Marine Hospital Service, and the quarantine laws and regulations shall be enforced. Section 11 provides for the retirement of the Porto Rican coins and the substitution therefor of coins of the United States. Section 12 provides that all expenses of the government of Porto Rico, except for public defences, barracks, harbors, lighthouses, buoys and other works undertaken by the United States, shall be paid out of the revenues of the island. Section 13 provides that all public property and rights in Porto Rico ceded by Spain to the United States, not including harbor areas or navigable waters, shall be placed under the insular government and administered by it for the benefit of Porto Rico. Section 14 provides that the statutory laws of the United States not locally inapplicable except as hereinbefore and hereinafter otherwise provided, and also except the internal revenue laws, shall have the same force and effect in Porto Rico as in the United States. Section 15 provides that the Legislative Assembly may amend, alter or repeal any law or ordinance continued in force by the act. Section 16 provides that all judicial process shall run in the name of "United States of America, ss.: the President of the United States," that all criminal prosecutions in the local courts shall be in the name of "The People of Porto Rico," and that all officials authorized by the act shall take an oath to support the Constitution of the United States and the laws of Porto Rico. The Governor shall be appointed by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, and his term of office, duties and powers shall be the same as those of the Governors of Territories of the United States. The Executive Council shall be appointed by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. It shall consist of eleven members, at least five of whom must be native inhabitants of Porto Rico. Of the eleven one shall be the Secretary of Porto Rico, one the Attorney-General, one the Treasurer, one the Auditor, one the Commissioner of the Interior ,and one the Commissioner of Education, the duties of each being indicated by the title of his office. The Secretary shall act as Governor in case of the death, removal, resignation, disability or temporary absence of the incumbent of that office. All local legislative powers are vested in a Legislative Assembly consisting of two branches, one the Executive Council and the other a House of Delegates to consist of thirty-five members elected biennially. All citizens of Porto Rico shall be allowed to vote who have been bona fide residents for one year and who possess the other required qualifications. The system of legislative procedure is to be similar to that of Congress. All laws must be reported to Congress, which reserves the power and authority, if deemed advisable, to annul the same. The legislative authority shall extend to all legislative matters, including power to create, consolidate and reorganize the municipalities; to provide and repeal laws and ordinances therefor, and also the power to alter, amend, modify and repeal any and all laws and ordinances in force in Porto Rico, or any municipality or district thereof not inconsistent with the provisions of this act. But "all grants of franchises, rights and privileges or concessions of a public or quasi-public nature shall be made by the Executive Council, with the approval of the Governor, and all franchises granted in Porto Rico shall be reported to Congress, which hereby reserves the power to annul or modify the same." Section 33 provides that the judicial power shall be continued in the courts already established, except in the case of the Provisional Court established by military orders, the successor of which is the United States District Court for Porto Rico provided for by Section 34 of the act. The Chief Justice, Associate Justices and Marshal of the Supreme Court of Porto Rico shall be appointed by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, and the judges of the district courts shall be appointed by the Governor by and with the consent of the Executive Council. The United States District Court shall have, in addition to the ordinary jurisdiction of district courts of the United States, "jurisdiction of all cases cognizant in the Circuit Courts of the United States, and shall proceed therein in the same manner as a Circuit Court. The laws of the United States relating to appeals, writs of error and certiorari, removal of causes, and other matters and proceedings as between the courts of the United States and the courts of the several States shall govern in such matters and proceedings as between the District Court of the United States and the courts of Porto Rico." Section 35 provides that writs of error and appeals from the final decisions of the Supreme Court of Porto Rico and the District Court of the United States shall be allowed and may be taken to the Supreme Court of the United States in the same manner as from the Supreme Courts of the Territories of the United States, and shall be allowed in all cases where the Constitution of the United States, a treaty or an act of Congress is brought in question. The Supreme and District courts may grant writs of habeas corpus in all cases in which the same are grantable by the District and Circuit courts of the United States. Section 38 provides that no export duties shall be levied or collected on exports from Porto Rico, but taxes and assessments on property and license fees for franchises, privileges and concessions may be imposed; and where necessary to anticipate revenues and taxes, bonds and other obligations may be issued to meet expenditures authorized by law, to protect the public credit and to reimburse the United States for money expended out of the emergency fund of the War Department for the relief of the industrial conditions produced by the hurricane of August 8, 1899. But no public indebtedness of Porto Rico or of any municipality thereof shall be authorized or allowed in excess of 7 per centum of the aggregate tax valuation of its property. Section 39 provides for the election, biennially, of a Resident Commissioner to the United States. No person shall be eligible who is not a bona fide citizen of Porto Rico, who is not thirty years of age and who does not read and write the English language. Section 40 provides for a commisison to consist of three members, one of whom shall be a native citizen of Porto Rico, to be appointed by the President, to compile and revise the laws of Porto Rico and report a plan for a permanent form of civil government. Section 41 provides that the act shall take effect and be in force on and after May 1, 1900.

Porto Rican Franchises.

By a joint resolution approved May 1, 1900, the act of April 12, to provide a government for Porto Rico, was amended. Provision was made for the administration of civil affairs pending the appointment and qualification of the civil officers. Section 2 of the joint resolution provided that no railroad, street railway, telegraph or telephone franchise, privilege or concession granted in accordance with the act of April 12 should become operative until after its approval by the President. Section 3 limited the powers and functions of corporations organized or to be organized under said act, and also made the amendment apply, as far as practicable, to corporations not organized in Porto Rico, but doing business therein.

Porto Rican Revenues.

An act approved March 24, 1900, provided: "That the sum of $2,605,455 88, being the amount of customs revenue received on importations by the United States from Porto Rico since the evacuation of Porto Rico by the Spanish forces on October 18, 1898, to January 1, 1900, together with any further customs revenue collected on importations from Porto Rico since January 1, 1900, or that shall hereafter be collected under existing law, shall be placed at the disposal of the President, to be used for the government now existing and which may hereafter be established in Porto Rico, and for the aid and relief of the people thereof, and for public education, public works, and other governmental and public purposes therein until otherwise provided by law."

Cuban Vessels.

An act approved February 10, 1900, provided that vessels owned by citizens of Cuba should thereafter be entitled in ports of the United States to the rights and privileges of vessels of the most favored nation. The act also provided for the refund of any excess of tonnage taxes and light dues that had been exacted from such vessels entering the ports of the United States since April 11, 1899.

Public Moneys in the Islands.

An act approved June 6, 1900, authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to designate one or more banks or bankers in the Philippine Islands and in the islands of Cuba and Porto Rico in which public moneys may be deposited, said depositories to give satisfactory security by depositing in the United States Treasury to an amount not less than the aggregate sum at any time deposited with them.

Amendment of Extradition Laws.

An act approved June 6, 1900, amends Section 5,270 of the Revised Statutes of the United States by adding thereto a proviso that whenever any foreign country or territory, or any part thereof, is occupied by or under the control of the United States, any person who shall violate or has violated the criminal laws in force therein . . . "and who shall depart or flee, or who has departed or fled, from justice therein to the United States, any Territory thereof or to the District of Columbia, shall, when found therein, be liable to arrest and detention by the authorities of the United States, and on the written request or requisition of the military governor or other chief executive officer in control of such foreign country or territory shall be returned and surrendered as hereinafter provided to such authorities for trial under the laws in force in the place where such offence was committed. All the provisions of Sections 5270 to 5277 of this title, so far as applicable, shall govern proceedings authorized by this proviso: Provided further, That such proceedings shall be had before a judge of the courts of the United States only, who shall hold such person on evidence establishing probable cause that he is guilty of the offence charged: And provided further, That no return or surrender shall be made of any person charged with the commission of any offence of a political nature. If so held such person shall be returned and surrendered to the authorities in control of such foreign country or territory on the order of the Secretary of State of the United States, and such authorities shall secure to such a person a fair and impartial trial."

Appeals.

By an act approved June 6, 1900, Section 7 of the act of March 3, 1891, "to establish Circuit Courts of Appeals and to define and regulate in certain cases the jurisdiction of the courts of the United States" so as to provide that where, upon a hearing in equity in a District or Circuit Court, or by a judge thereof in vacation, an injunction shall be granted or continued, or a receiver appointed, by an interlocutory order or decree, in a cause in which an appeal from a final decree may be taken to the Circuit Court of Appeals, an appeal may be taken from such interlocutory order or decree to the Circuit Court of Appeals. The appeal must be taken within thirty days, and it shall take precedence in the Appellate Court; and the proceedings in other respects in the court below shall not be stayed, unless otherwise ordered by that court, or by the Appellate Court or a judge thereof, during the pendency of such appeal. The court below may, in its discretion, require an additional bond as a condition of the appeal.

New-York Judicial Districts.

An act approved May 12, 1900, divides the State of New-York into four judicial districts, which shall be called the Western, Northern, Eastern and Southern Districts. The Western District includes the counties of Allegany, Cattaraugus, Chautauqua, Chemung, Erie, Genesee, Livingston, Monroe, Niagara, Ontario, Orleans, Schuyler, Seneca, Steuben, Wayne, Wyoming and Yates, with the waters thereof. The Northern District includes the counties of Albany, Broome, Cayuga, Chenango, Clinton, Cortland, Delaware, Essex, Franklin, Fulton, Hamilton, Herkimer, Jefferson, Lewis, Madison, Montgomery, Oneida, Onondaga, Oswego, Otsego, Rensselaer, St. Lawrence, Saratoga, Schenectady, Schoharie, Tioga, Tompkins, Warren and Washington, with the waters thereof. The Eastern District includes the counties of Richmond, Kings, Queens, Nassau and Suffolk, with the waters thereof. The Southern District includes the residue of said State, with the waters thereof.

Amended Pension Law.

An act to amend Sections 2 and 3 of the act of June 27, 1890, known as the "Dependent Pension Act," was approved May 9, 1900. The important amendment to Section 2 provides that in rating the pension "each and every infirmity" of the pensioner shall be duly considered, and that the aggregate of the disabilities shown shall determine the amount of the pension within the limits prescribed by law. Section 3, as amended, provides that a soldier's widow shall be entitled to a pension unless she has a yearly net income in excess of $250 in addition to the proceeds of her daily labor.

Free Homestead Law.

An act approved May 17, 1900, provides that settlers under the homestead laws upon agricultural lands acquired from various Indian tribes, who have resided or shall hereafter reside upon the tracts entered, for the period required by existing law, shall be entitled to patents for the same upon payment of the usual and customary land office fees. The right to commute any such entry shall remain in full force and effect. The Government is to indemnify the Indian tribes; and if the proceeds of the annual sales of public lands shall not be sufficient to meet the payments provided by law for the support of agricultural colleges and experiment stations such deficiency shall be paid by the United States.

Twelfth Census.

By an act approved February 1, 1900, to amend an act relating to the Twelfth and subsequent censuses, the Director of the Census is directed "to collect statistics relating to all of the deaf, dumb and blind," and also "information concerning the number and kinds of live stock not on farms."

Game and Other Wild Birds.

Section 1 of an act approved May 25, 1900, enlarges the duties and powers of the Department of Agriculture so as to include "the preservation, distribution, introduction and restoration of game birds and other wild birds. Section 2 prohibits the importation of any foreign wild animal or bird except under special permit, except natural history specimens and cage birds, such as domesticated cage birds. The importation of mongoose, fruit bats ("flying foxes"), English sparrow and starling is absolutely prohibited. Section 3 prohibits interstate commerce in any animals or birds killed in violation of the law of the place where killed. Section 4 is a penal section. Section 5 provides that dead foreign animals or birds transported to or remaining in any State or Territory shall be subject to the laws enacted in the exercise of its police powers.

California Big Trees.

A joint resolution approved March 8, 1900, authorized and directed the Secretary of the Interior, at the earliest practicable date, to open negotiations for, and if possible procure, a bond upon the lands in Calaveras and Tuolumne counties, California, occupied by what are known as the "Mammoth Tree Grove and South Park Grove of Big Trees," with sufficient adjacent lands for their preservation, management and control and submit the same to Congress for action.

SOME SPECIAL APPROPRIATIONS.

The Urgent Deficiency Appropriation act approved February 9, 1900, contained these special provisions:

Observation of total eclipse of sun, May 28, 1900, $9,000.

Paris Exposition—For six additional commissioners, $18,000; for buildings, special exhibits and contingencies, $169,500.

The Agricultural Appropriation act approved May 25, 1900, contained these special provisions: To investigate adulterations of foods, drugs and liquors and stop delivery to consignees of imported articles found to be dangerous to health. To investigate the character of the chemical and physical tests applied to American food products in foreign countries. To continue irrigation investigations, for which purpose the sum of $50,000 is provided.

TRADE-MARK LAWS.

The following classes may obtain registration: (a) Any person, firm or corporation domiciled in the United States or located in any foreign country which, by treaty, convention or law, affords similar privileges to citizens of the United States, and who is entitled to the exclusive use of any trade-mark and uses the same in commerce with foreign nations or with Indian tribes. (b) Any citizen or resident of this country wishing the protection of his trade-mark in any foreign country the laws of which require registration in the United States as a condition precedent. An application for the registration of a trade-mark will consist of a statement or specification, a declaration or oath, and drawing, which must follow rules laid down. These should be preceded by a brief letter of advice requesting registration and signed by the applicant. The statement should announce the full name, citizenship, domicile, residence, and place of business of the applicant (or, if the applicant be a corporation, under the laws of what State or nation incorporated), with a full and clear specification of the trade-mark, particularly discriminating between its essential and non-essential features. It should also state from what time the trade-mark has been used by the applicant, the class of merchandise, and the particular goods comprised in such class to which the trade-mark is appropriated, and the manner in which the trade-mark has been applied to the goods. The declaration should be in the form of an oath by the person, or by a member of the firm, or by an officer of the corporation, making the application, to the effect that the party has at the time of filing his application a right to the use of the trade-mark described in the statement; that no other person, firm, or corporation has a right to such use, either in the identical form or in such near resemblance thereto as might be calculated to deceive; that such trade-mark is used in lawful commerce with foreign nations or Indian tribes, one or more of which should be particularly named; and that it is truly represented in the fac-simile presented for registry. The oath may be taken within the United States before a notary public, justice of the peace, or the judge or clerk of any court of record. In any foreign country it may be taken before the secretary of a legation or consular officer of the United States, or before any person duly qualified by the laws of the country to administer oaths, whose official character shall be certified by a representative of the United States having an official seal. A fee of $25 is required on filing application, except in cases named in the following: Owners of trade-marks for which protection has been sought by registering them in the Patent Office under the act of July 8, 1870 (declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States), may register the same for the same goods, without fee, on compliance with the foregoing requirements. With each application of this character a specific reference to the date and number of the former certificate is required. Applicants whose cases were filed under the act of 1870, either prior to or since the decision of the Supreme Court declaring it unconstitutional, which are now pending before the office, are advised to prepare applications in conformity with the law and foregoing rules. On the receipt of such an application, referring to the date of the one formerly filed, all fees thereon will be duly applied. Those who have paid only $10 as a first fee are advised that the law does not provide for a division of the legal fee of $25, and that the remainder of the entire fee is required before the application can be entertained.

LEGISLATURE OF NEW-YORK.

The following is a summary of the most important laws enacted by the New-York Legislature in 1900:

The rapid increase in the deleterious use of "preservatives" in milk induced the Legislature to amend the Agricultural law by making it a misdemeanor to sell such chemicals. The law as amended now reads: "No person shall sell, offer or expose for sale any butter or other dairy products containing a preservative, but this shall not be construed to prohibit the use of salt in butter or cheese, or spirituous liquors in club or other fancy cheese or sugar in condensed milk. No person or persons, firm, association or corporation shall induce or attempt to induce any person or persons to violate any of the provisions of the Agricultural law. Any person, firm, association or corporation selling, offering or advertising for sale any substance, preparation or matter for use in violation of the provisions of the Agricultural law shall be guilty of a violation of this act."

Preservatives in Milk.

Section 23 of Chapter 338 of the Laws of 1893 had the following paragraph added to it: "Whenever manufacturers of butter or cheese purchase milk upon the basis of the amount of fat contained therein and use for ascertaining the amount of such fat what is known as the Babcock test, the bottles used in such test shall before use be examined by the director of the Geneva Experimental Station. If such bottles are found to be properly constructed and graded so as to accurately show the amount of fat contained in milk, each of them shall be legibly and indelibly marked 'S. B.' No bottle shall be so marked except as herein provided nor shall be used in any such test by such manufacturers, unless so examined and marked. The acid used in making such test by such manufacturers shall be examined from time to time by competent chemists employed by the Commissioner of Agriculture and if found not to be of sufficient strength the use of such acid shall be prohibited. The Commissioner of Agriculture or persons employed by him for that purpose may at any time assist in mailing tests of milk received at a butter or cheese factory for the purpose of determining the efficiency of tests usually made at such factory. All persons using other than standard bottles or acid which is not of the required strength to accurately determine the amount of fats in milk shall be subject to the penalties prescribed by section 37 of this article, and shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

Tests for Ascertaining the Amount of Fats in Milk.

Section 37 of Chapter 338 of the Laws of 1893 was amended to read: "A person who brings or causes to be brought to a butter or cheese factory owned or operated by a co-operative association milk diluted with water or any unclean, impure, unhealthy, adulterated or unwholesome milk, or milk from which any of the cream has been taken, except pure skim milk to skim cheese factories, shall forfeit to the people of the State for the first offence the sum of $50 and for each subsequent offence the sum of $150; upon recovery of the penalty so prescribed, one-half thereof shall be paid into the State Treasury, one-fourth shall be paid into the county treasury, and the remaining one-fourth shall be paid to the treasurer of the co-operative association owning or operating such butter or cheese factory, to be divided among the members thereof in the same manner as the other receipts of such association."

Penalties for Diluting Milk.

Chapter 344 of the Laws of 1900 appropriates $50,000 to promote sugar beet culture.

By Chapter 346 of the Laws of 1900 a State Fair Commission of eleven members was created, to consist of the Lieutenant-Governor and Commissioner of Agriculture ex officio, a member of the New-York State Grange, a member of the New-York State Association of County Agricultural Societies, one a member of the Union Association of Agricultural Societies, and the others to be selected at will by the Governor. It is made the duty of the State Fair Commission to hold a State Fair and authority is given it to make, alter, suspend or repeal needed rules relating to such fair, including the times and duration thereof, the terms and conditions of entries and admissions, exhibits, sale of privileges, and payment of premiums. At the close of each fair the Commission is to pay to the State Treasurer any balance remaining in its hands received in connection with the State Fair.

State Fair Commission.

Chapter 737 of the Laws of 1900 amends Section 57 of the Laws of 1899 so that the Attorney-General, independently of the Governor, can assign counsel to prosecute crimes against the elective franchise in New-York City. The section as amended reads as follows: "The Attorney-General shall assign one or more of his deputies to act as counsel for the State Superintendent of Elections and to take charge of prosecutions arising in any county included within the metropolitan elections district as described in Chapter 676 of the Laws of 1898 under said chapter and Title 5 of the Penal Code. Such deputy shall represent the people of this State in all such prosecutions before all magistrates and in all courts and before any Grand Jury having cognizance thereof; and shall act as special counsel and adviser to said State Superintendent of Elections in the performance of his duties. The deputies so assigned shall be appointed pursuant to Section 51 of this act. They may be specially appointed thereunder for the purpose of such assignment and for the performance of the duties herein described."

Chapter 739 of the Laws of 1900 amends Section 68 of Chapter 565 of the Laws of 1890 so that it reads: "All steam railroads hereafter constructed across the tracks of any other railroad and any street surface railroad hereafter constructed across a steam railroad shall be above, below, or at grade of such existing railroad as the Board of Railroad Commissioners shall determine, and such Board shall in such determination fix the proportion of expense of such crossing to be paid by each railroad."

Railroad Grade Crossings.

Under Chapter 517 of the Laws of 1900 Section 65 of Chapter 565 of the Laws of 1890 has the following paragraph added to it in relation to railway grade crossings: "No claim for damages to property on account of the change or abolishment of any crossing under the provisions of this act shall be allowed unless notice of such claim is filed with the Board of Railroad Commisioners within six months after completion of the work necessary for such change or abolishment."

Claims for Grade Crossing Damages.

Section 6 of the General Corporation Law is amended by Chapter 704 of the Laws of 1900 so as to read: "No certificate of incorporation of a proposed corporation having the same name as an existing domestic corporation, or a name so nearly resembling it as to be calculated to deceive, shall be filed or recorded in any office for the purpose of effecting its incorporation. A corporation formed by the reincorporation, reorganization or consolidation of other corporations or upon the sale of the property or franchises of a corporation, may have the same name as the corporation or one of the corporations to whose franchises it has succeeded. No corporation shall be hereafter organized under the laws of this State with the word trust, bank, banking, insurance, assurance, indemnity, guarantee, guaranty, savings, investment, loan or benefit as part of its name, except a corporation formed under the banking law or the insurance law."

Corporate Names.

Section 32 of the General Corporation law is amended so as to have included in it the following paragraph, under Chapter 177 of the Laws of 1900: "If all the stock of a corporation other than a corporation formed under or subject to the banking law, or an insurance corporation, or a turnpike, plank road or bridge corporation shall be lawfully owned by another stock corporation entitled by law to take a surrender and merger thereof, the corporate existence of such corporation whose stock is so owned may be extended at any time for the term of the corporate existence of the possessor corporation, by filing in the office or offices in which the original certificate or certificates of incorporation of the first mentioned corporation were filed a certificate of such extension executed by its president and secretary and by such corporation owning all the shares of its capital stock."

Extension of Corporate Existence.

Chapter 80 of the Laws of 1900 amends the Liquor Tax law of 1896, making the following provision: "No corporation or association incorporated or organized under the laws of another State or country; provided, however, that if such corporation or association be acting as a common carrier or be operating dining, buffet, parlor or sleeping cars in this State, it may be granted a liquor tax certificate under subdivision 4 of Section 11 of this act."

Liquor Licenses for Railway Companies.

Chapter 498 of the Laws of 1900 appropriates $2,400 to extend the Bertillon method for the identification of criminals by authorizing the Superintendent of Prisons "to file, index and classify Bertillon descriptive cards received from other sources."

The Legislature of 1900 repealed a section of the Penal Code which virtually permitted prize fighting in the State. An amendment was made to Section 458 of the Penal Code by Chapter 270 of the Laws of 1900, so that it will read: "Prize fighting and sparring exhibitions, aiding therein, et cetera. A person who, within this State, engages in, instigates, aids, encourages or does any act to further a contention, or fight, without weapons, between two or more persons, or a fight commonly called a ring or prize fight, either within or without the State, or who engages in a public or private sparring exhibition, with or without gloves, within the State, at which an admission fee is charged or received, either directly or indirectly, or who sends or publishes a challenge or acceptance of a challenge for such a contention, exhibition or fight, or carries or delivers such a challenge or acceptance, or trains or assists any person in training or preparing for such a contention, exhibition or fight, is guilty of a misdemeanor."

Horton Sparring Act Repealed.

Chapter 588 of the Laws of 1900 amends Section 642 of the Penal Code, to punish especially those persons who make public the papers, for instance, found on the body of one who has committed suicide. The section, as amended, reads as follows: "Section 642 of the Penal Code, as amended by Chapter 287 of the Laws of 1895, is hereby amended to read as follows: Section 642. A person who, willfully, and without authority, either 1. Opens or reads, or causes to be opened or read, a sealed letter, telegram, or private paper; or, 2. Publishes the whole or any portion of such a letter, or telegram, or private paper, knowing it to have been opened or read without authority; or, 3. Takes a letter, telegram or private paper, belonging to another, or a copy thereof, and publishes the whole or any portion thereof; or, 4. Publishes the whole or any portion of such letter, telegram or private paper, knowing it to have been taken or copied without authority; or, 5. Publishes or causes to be published, or connives at the publication of any letter, telegram, or private paper or of any portion of any letter, telegram, or private paper found on, or among the effects of, any person who has been dangerously wounded, or who has committed suicide, or who has died suddenly, or who has been found dead, unless such letter, telegram, or private paper shall have been produced pursuant to law before a coroner at an inquest and the publication of such letter, telegram, or private paper, or of such portion of such letter, telegram, or private paper shall have been declared by that coroner in writing to be necessary to aid in the discovery of a crime, or of the identity of the wounded or deceased person, is guilty of a misdemeanor."

Chapter 658 of the Laws of 1900 authorizes the State Controller to appoint five persons in the county of New-York, two persons in Kings County and one person in Erie County to appraise inheritance taxes.

Town Meetings on General Election Day.

Chapter 381, Laws of 1900, harmonizes the general ballot act with the town meeting act, by providing that the ballots of the town meetings may be deposited at the polls on the general Election Day. It says: "In towns in which town meetings are held on election day, additional ballot boxes shall be provided, one to be marked 'box for town ballots,' in which shall be deposited ballots cast for candidates for town offices, and one to be marked 'box for town propositions,' in which shall be deposited ballots cast on town propositions and questions. Ballots for the submission of town propositions and questions to be submitted at town meetings held on election day shall be printed in the manner provided by this section, but shall be indorsed 'town proposition submitted.' The number of official ballots of each kind to be provided for each polling place for a town meeting, held at any time or a village or city election held at a different time from a general election, shall be one and one-half times as near as may be the number of persons who will be entitled to vote thereat, as nearly as can be estimated by the officer charged with the duty of providing such ballots. If the town meeting is held on general election day ballots and sample ballots for town officers and propositions shall be provided by the town clerk in like manner and in the same form as at a town meeting held at any other time and such town clerk shall also furnish inspectors' and ballot clerks' return sheets for making returns of the election of town officers and on town propositions or questions."

Increase Pay for Election Officers.

Under Chapter 711 of the Laws of 1900 each inspector of election in the cities of New-York and Buffalo is to receive $7 50 a day, instead of $5, on registration days and election day; and $5 a day for the count and return of votes. The poll clerks have their salaries increased to the same compensation as that of the inspectors. The ballot clerks have their compensation increased from $5 to $6 a day.

Division of Election Districts.

Chapter 648, Laws of 1900, amends Section 8 of Chapter 379 of the Laws of 1897 so that it reads: "A town or a ward of a city containing less than four hundred electors may, at least thirty days before the election or appointment of inspectors of election of such town or ward, be divided into election districts by the board or other body charged with such duty when, in the judgment of such board or body, the convenience of the electors shall be promoted thereby."

Primary Election Law.

Chapter 202 of the Laws of 1900 amends the Primary Reform act by declaring: "In case nominations for city or ward offices are made in primary election districts under a rule adopted as prescribed in this section, certificates showing the result of the votes for the several candidates for nomination in the several districts shall be made by the boards of inspectors thereof and filed in the office of the custodian of primary records who shall determine from such certificates the persons nominated for such offices."

Seats for Women in Restaurants.

Chapter 533 of the Laws of 1900 provides that the employers of waitresses in a hotel or restaurant "shall provide and maintain suitable seats for the use of such female employes, and permit the use thereof by such employes to such an extent as may be reasonable for the preservation of their health."

Civil Service Commissioners.

Chapter 675 of the Laws of 1900 provides that "whenever a municipal Civil Service Commissioner has been removed by the unanimous vote of the three State Commissioners, with the written approval of the Governor, or whenever any municipal Commissioner shall resign or be removed by the Mayor pending an investigation by the State Commission of the administration of the civil service of the city in which such person is a municipal commissioner, or whenever any municipal commissioner shall resign or be removed by the Mayor pending a hearing by the State Commission of charges preferred against such municipal commissioner, the State Commission and not the Mayor of such city shall have power to appoint persons to fill such vacancies, and such persons so appointed by the State Commission shall hold office as municipal Civil Service Commissioners of such city until the expiration of the term of the Mayor then in office and until their successors are appointed and qualify."

Soliciting Money from a Candidate for Office.

Chapter 70 of the Laws of 1900 says: "Any person who solicits from a candidate for an elective office money or other property as a consideration for a newspaper or other publication supporting any candidate for an elective office, is guilty of a misdemeanor."

Chapter 416 of the Laws of 1900 establishes a State hospital in the Adirondacks for the treatment of incipient pulmonary tuberculosis.

Chapter 406 of the Laws of 1900 appropriates $250,000 to continue the purchases of land in the Adirondack and Catskill regions for the purpose of a park.

Chapter 391 of the Laws of 1900 appropriated $14,000 to purchase twenty-five acres of land at the foot of Lake George marking the site of the battle of Lake George.

Improvements of the State's Canals.

Chapter 411 of the Laws of 1900 appropriates $200,000 for the use of the State Engineer in the work of ascertaining the cost of improving the canals of the State by enlarging them in various respects. The law says: "The surveys, plans and estimates for the construction and improvement of the Erie Canal shall be for such dimensions as will give the said canal sufficient size to carry and lock through boats 150 feet in length, 25 feet in width and of 10 feet draught, with a cargo capacity of approximately one thousand tons each. The prism of the Erie Canal shall have a depth of not less than twelve feet of water throughout and a bottom width of not less than seventy-five feet with such side slopes or vertical walls of masonry or rock as may be necessary to give a cross sectional area of the canal prism of at least 1,125 square feet, except in the vicinity of locks, aqueducts, like structures and through cities where modifications are deemed advisable and necessary. There shall be a depth of not less than eleven feet of water in the locks and over all structures. The locks shall be not less than 310 feet long in the clear, and 28 feet wide, with 11 feet depth of water on sills, with a capacity to pass at one lockage two boats of the dimensions provided in this section, and all the improved locks shall be provided with machinery necessary for drawing boats in and out of such locks expeditiously. Wherever pneumatic locks or other modern mechanical lifts shall be substituted for the system heretofore in use, the new system of lifts approved and adopted shall be selected or designated by the State Engineer and Surveyor with the approval of the Canal Board."

Palisades Interstate Park.

Chapter 170 of the Laws of 1900 authorized the Governor to appoint a Board of Commissioners of the Palisade Interstate Park. The law says: "The Board of Commissioners shall have power to and shall, as soon as may be after its organization, proceed to select and locate such lands lying between the top of the steep edge of the Palisades and the exterior of the bulkhead line established by law upon the Hudson River, together with such separate parcels of unimproved lands lying on the front of the top of the Palisades from the New-Jersey State line on the south to Piermont Creek, near Piermont, in Rockland County, on the north, as may in their opinion be proper and necessary to be reserved for the purpose of establishing a State park and thereby preserving the scenic beauty of the Palisades."

Tenement House Commission.

Chapter 279 of the Laws of 1900 authorized Governor Roosevelt to appoint a commission "to make a careful examination into the tenement houses in cities of the first class; their condition as to the construction, healthfulness, safety, rentals and the effect of tenement house life on the health, education, savings and morals of those who live in tenement houses, and all other phases of the so-called tenement house question in these cities that can affect the public welfare."

Hours of Drug Clerks.

Chapter 453 of the Laws of 1900 says that in the city of New-York "no pharmacist or drug clerk employed in any pharmacy or drug store shall be required or permitted to work more than seventy hours per week. Nothing in this section shall prohibit the working six hours overtime during any week, for the purpose of making a shorter succeeding week, provided, however, that the aggregate number of hours in any such two weeks shall not exceed 136 hours. The working hours per day shall be consecutive, allowing one hour for each meal. The hours shall be so arranged that an employe shall be entitled to and shall receive at least one full day off in two consecutive weeks. No proprietor of any drug store shall require or permit any clerk to sleep in any room or apartment in or connected with such store which does not comply with the sanitary regulations of the local Board of Health."

Lists of City Officials.

Chapter 615 of the Laws of 1900 says that in the city of New-York "there shall be published in 'The City Record' within the month of January and within the month of July in each year a list of all the officials and employes employed in any of the departments, bureaus or offices of the city government, and of the counties therein contained, who have been or have become such officials or employes during the preceding six months. Said lists shall contain the name, residence by street numbers, nature of position or service, date of entrance into the service or employment, date of cessation of such service or employment, if such has occurred during said period, salary or wages, and a distinct statement of the increase or decrease thereof during said period of each of said officials or employes."

Water Supply of New-York City.

Chapter 283 of the Laws of 1900 amends the charter of New-York so as to declare that "it shall not be lawful for the Commissioner of Water Supply to enter into any contract whatever with any person or corporation engaged in the business of supplying or selling water for public or private use and consumption, unless, preliminary to the execution of the contract, the assent of the Board of Public Improvements and the approval of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment together with the separate written consent and approval of both the Mayor and the Controller of the city of New-York of the proposed contract in all its details, shall be given by resolution to the execution of such contract as submitted, and it shall not be lawful for the said city of New-York or for any department thereof to make any contract touching or relating to the public water supply, and especially the increase thereof, with any person or corporation whatsoever, save in accordance with the provisions and requirements of this act, which said provisions and requirements are hereby declared to establish the exclusive rule for the making of such contracts. All proceedings relating to the making or approval of any such contract may be reviewed by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in the first or second department, on the application of any resident taxpayer."

Charter Revision Commission.

Chapter 465 of the Laws of 1900 authorized Governor Roosevelt to "appoint a commission of fifteen persons to examine into the local government of the city of New-York and the counties contained therein, and the effect and working of the charter of Greater New-York and the various acts amendatory thereof, and the several acts relating thereto, and to suggest such legislation as it may deem advisable relating thereto."

School Appropriations Law.

Chapter 751 amends the charter of New-York City so as to provide ample funds for the support of the city's schools. It says that "the Board of Estimate and Apportionment shall appropriate for the general school fund for the year 1901 and annually for each year thereafter, an amount equivalent to not less than 4 mills on every dollar of assessed valuation of the real and personal estate in the city of New-York liable to taxation, inclusive of so much of the State school moneys apportioned by the Superintendent of Public Instruction for the payment of teachers' wages as is actually paid into the said general school fund."

Schools for Colored Children.

Chapter 492 repeals "Section 28, Article 11, Title 15 of Chapter 556 of the Laws of 1894, which reads as follows: 'The school authorities of any city or incorporated village the schools of which are or shall be organized under Title 8 of this act, or under special act, may, when they shall deem it expedient, establish a separate school or separate schools for instruction of children and youth of African descent, resident therein, and over five and under twenty-one years of age; and such school or schools shall be supported in the same manner and to the same extent as the school or schools supported therein for white children, and they shall be subject to the same rules and regulations, and be furnished facilities for instruction equal to those furnished to the white schools therein."

Stony Point Preservation.

Chapter 408 of the Laws of 1900 appropriates $3,500 for the use of the Society for the Preservation of Scenic and Historic Places and Objects "to lay out, improve, manage and maintain the land and premises known as the Stony Point Peninsula."

The Franchise Tax Act.

Chapter 254 of the Laws of 1900 amends Sections 42 and 45 of the Tax act so that hereafter they will read as follows: "Section 42. Assessment of special franchises.—The State Board of Tax Commissioners shall annually fix and determine the valuation of each special franchise subject to assessment in each city, town, or tax district. After the time fixed for hearing complaints the Tax Commissioners shall finally determine the valuation of the special franchises, and shall file with the clerk of the city or town in which said special franchise is assessed a written statement duly certified by the secretary of the Board of the valuation of each special franchise assessed therein as finally fixed and determined by said Board; such statement of valuation shall be filed with the town clerk of the respective towns within thirty days next preceding the first day of July in each year, and with the clerks of cities of the State within thirty days before the date set opposite the name of each city in the following schedule. In the city of New-York such statement shall be filed with the Department of Taxes and Assessments.

"Each city or town clerk shall, within five days after the receipt by him of the statement of assessment of a special franchise by the State Board, deliver a copy of such statement certified by him to the assessors or other officers charged with the duty of making local assessments in each tax district in said city or town and to the assessors of villages and commissioners of highways within their respective towns and villages. The valuations of every special franchise as so fixed by the State Board shall be entered by the assessors or other officers in the proper column of the assessment roll before the final revision and certification of such roll by them, and become part thereof with the same force and effect as if such assessment had been originally made by such assessor or other officer. If a special franchise assessed in a town is wholly within a village, the valuation fixed by the State Board for the town shall also be the valuation for the village. If a part only of such special franchise is in a village, or is in a village situated in more than one tax district, it shall be the duty of the village assessors to ascertain and determine what portion of the valuation of such franchise, as the same has been fixed by the State Board, shall be placed upon the tax roll for village purposes. The valuation apportioned to the town shall be the assessed valuation for highway purposes, and in case part of such special franchise shall be assessed in a village and part thereof in a town outside a village, the commissioners of highways of the town and village shall meet on the third Tuesday in August in each year and apportion the valuation of such special franchises between such town outside the village and such village for highway purposes. In case of disagreement between them the decision of the supervisor of the town shall be final. The town assessors shall make an apportionment among school districts at the time and in the manner required by Section 39 of this chapter. The valuation so fixed by the State Board shall be the assessed valuation on which all taxes based on such special franchises in the city, town or village for State, municipal, school or highway purposes shall be levied during the next ensuing year. It shall not be necessary for the State Board of Tax Commissioners to give notice to any person, copartnership, association or corporation of the valuation of a special franchise located in any village for village purposes except in a case where such valuation is required to be made for such village purposes by the State Board of Tax Commissioners. The assessors or other taxing officer, or other local officer in any city, town or village, or any State or county officer, shall on demand furnish to the State Board of Tax Commissioners any information required by such Board for the purpose of determining the value of a special franchise.

"Section 45. Certiorari to review assessment.—An assessment of a special franchise by the State Board of Tax Commissioners may be reviewed in the manner prescribed by Article 11 of this chapter, and that article applies so far as practicable to such an assessment, in the same manner and with the same force and effect as if the assessment had been made by local assessors; a petition for a writ of certiorari to review the assessment must be presented within fifteen days after the completion and filing of the assessment roll, and the first posting or publication of the notice thereof as required by law. Such writ must run to and be answered by said State Board of Tax Commissioners and no writ of certiorari to renew any assessment of a special franchise shall run to any other board or officer unless otherwise directed by the court or judge granting the writ. An adjudication made in the proceeding instituted by such writ of certiorari shall be binding upon the local assessors and any ministerial officer who performs any duty in the collection of said assessment in the same manner as though said local assessors or officers had been parties to the proceeding. The State Board of Tax Commissioners on filing with the city, town or village clerk a statement of the valuation of a special franchise, shall give to the person, copartnership, association or corporation affected written notice that such statement has been filed, and such notice may be served on a copartnership, association or corporation by mailing a copy thereof to it at its principal office or place of business, and on a person either personally or by mailing it to him at his place of business or last known place of residence."

REPUBLICAN.

The Republican National Convention began its sessions at Philadelphia, Penn., on June 19. The ante-convention interest centred in the choice of a Vice-Presidential candidate, the renomination of President McKinley for the first place on the ticket being universally conceded. The Western States, aided by Senator Platt, of New-York, who controlled the delegation from his State, were practically a unit in favoring Governor Theodore Roosevelt of New-York for the second place. The latter was anxious to avoid the nomination, preferring to run for another term as Governor of New-York, and on the afternoon of June 19, the day before the Convention, he issued a statement earnestly requesting that some one else be nominated for Vice-President. Senator Mark Hanna, of Ohio, chairman of the National Committee, and Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts, aided Governor Roosevelt in trying to stave off his nomination. Other Vice-Presidential possibilities were John D. Long, Secretary of the Navy; Congressman Dolliver, of Iowa; Lieutenant-Governor Timothy L. Woodruff of New-York and Cornelius N. Bliss, of the same State. The Convention met on June 19 for a short session, which was devoted entirely to preliminary and routine work. Senator Wolcott, of Colorado, the temporary chairman, made a speech. After the Convention's adjournment for the day the New-York delegation indorsed Woodruff for Vice-President. The second day's session—June 20—was devoted principally to the speech of Senator Lodge, the permanent chairman, and the adoption of the platform. Vice-Presidential sentiment had crystallized in favor of Roosevelt, Senator Hanna had faced about and declared for him, and his nomination seemed assured. The Convention completed its work on June 21 by unanimously nominating McKinley and Roosevelt for President and Vice-President respectively. The most striking feature of the Convention from start to finish was the harmony prevalent. McKinley received every vote in the Convention, 926; Roosevelt every vote but his own. The Convention adjourned sine die on June 21.

The Platform.

The platform, which was adopted on June 20, was as follows:

Party Achievements.

The Republicans of the United States, through their chosen representatives, met in National Convention, looking back upon an unsurpassed record of achievement and looking forward into a great field of duty and opportunity, and appealing to the judgment of their countrymen, make these declarations: The expectation in which the American people, turning from the Democratic party, intrusted power four years ago to a Republican Chief Magistrate and a Republican Congress has been met and satisfied. When the people then assembled at the polls, after a term of Democratic legislation and administration, business was dead, industry paralyzed and the National credit disastrously impaired. The country's capital was hidden away, and its labor distressed and unemployed. The Democrats had no other plan with which to improve the ruinous conditions which they had themselves produced than to coin silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. The Republican party, denouncing this plan as sure to produce conditions even worse than those from which relief was sought, promised to restore prosperity by means of two legislative measures—a protective tariff and a law making gold the standard of value. The people by great majorities issued to the Republican party a commission to enact these laws. This commission has been executed, and the Republican promise is redeemed. Prosperity more general and more abundant than we have ever known has followed these enactments. There is no longer controversy as to the value of any Government obligation. Every American dollar is a gold dollar, or its assured equivalent, and American credit stands higher than that of any nation. Capital is fully employed and labor everywhere is profitably occupied. No single fact can more strikingly tell the story of what Republican government means to the country than this—that while during the whole period of one hundred and seven years, from 1790 to 1897, there was an excess of exports over imports of only $383,028,497, there has been in the short three years of the present Republican Administration an excess of exports over imports in the enormous sum of $1,483,537,094. And while the American people, sustained by this Republican legislation, have been achieving these splendid triumphs in their business and commerce, they have conducted, and in victory concluded, a war for liberty and human rights. No thought of National aggrandizement tarnished the high purpose with which American standards were unfurled. It was a war unsought and patiently resisted, but when it came the American Government was ready. Its fleets were cleared for action. Its armies were in the field, and the quick and signal triumph of its forces on land and sea bore equal tribute to the courage of American soldiers and sailors and to the skill and foresight of Republican statesmanship. To ten millions of the human race there was given "a new birth of freedom," and to the American people a new and noble responsibility.

The Administration Indorsed.

We indorse the Administration of William McKinley. Its acts have been established in wisdom and in patriotism, and at home and abroad it has distinctly elevated and extended the influence of the American Nation. Walking untried paths and facing unforeseen responsibilities, President McKinley has been in every situation the true American patriot and the upright statesman, clear in vision, strong in judgment, firm in action, always inspiring and deserving the confidence of his countrymen. In asking the American people to indorse this Republican record and to renew their commission to the Republican party, we remind them of the fact that the menace to their prosperity has always resided in Democratic principles, and no less in the general incapacity of the Democratic party to conduct public affairs. The prime essential of business prosperity is public confidence in the good sense of the Government and in its ability to deal intelligently with each new problem of administration and legislation. That confidence the Democratic party has never earned. It is hopelessly inadequate, and the country's prosperity when Democratic success at the polls is announced halts and ceases in mere anticipation of Democratic blunders and failures.

Gold Standard Upheld.

We renew our allegiance to the principle of the gold standard, and declare our confidence in the wisdom of the legislation of the LVIth Congress, by which the parity of all our money and the stability of our currency upon a gold basis have been secured. We recognize that interest rates are a potent factor in production and business activity, and for the purpose of further equalizing and of further lowering the rates of interest we favor such monetary legislation as will enable the varying needs of the season and of all sections to be promptly met, in order that trade may be evenly sustained, labor steadily employed and commerce enlarged. The volume of money in circulation was never so great per capita as it is to-day. We declare our steadfast opposition to the free and unlimited coinage of silver. No measure to that end could be considered which was without the support of the leading commercial countries of the world. However firmly Republican legislation may seem to have secured the country against the peril of base and discredited currency, the election of a Democratic President could not fail to impair the country's credit and to bring once more into question the intention of the American people to maintain upon the gold standard the parity of their money circulation. The Democratic party must be convinced that the American people will never tolerate the Chicago platform.

Trade Conspiracies Condemned.

We recognize the necessity and propriety of the honest co-operation of capital to meet new business conditions, and especially to extend our rapidly increasing foreign trade, but we condemn all conspiracies and combinations intended to restrict business, to create monopolies, to limit production or to control prices, and favor such legislation as will effectively restrain and prevent all such abuses, protect and promote competition and secure the rights of producers, laborers and all who are engaged in industry and commerce.

Protection.

We renew our faith in the policy of protection to American labor. In that policy our industries have been established, diversified and maintained. By protecting the home market competition has been stimulated and production cheapened. Opportunity for the inventive genius of our people has been secured and wages in every department of labor maintained at high rates, higher now than ever before, and always distinguishing our working people in their better conditions of life from those of any competing country. Enjoying the blessings of the American common school, secure in the right of self-government and protected in the occupancy of their own markets, their constantly increasing knowledge and skill have enabled them finally to enter the markets of the world.

Reciprocity.

We favor the associated policy of reciprocity so directed as to open our markets on favorable terms for what we do not ourselves produce, in return for free foreign markets.

Immigration.

In the further interest of American workmen we favor a more effective restriction of the immigration of cheap labor from foreign lands, the extension of opportunities of education for working children, the raising of the age limit for child labor, the protection of free labor as against contract convict labor, and an effective system of labor insurance.

Shipping.

Our present dependence upon foreign shipping for nine-tenths of our foreign carrying is a great loss to the industry of this country. It is also a serious danger to our trade, for its sudden withdrawal in the event of European war would seriously cripple our expanding foreign commerce. The National defence and naval efficiency of this country, moreover, supply a compelling reason for legislation which will enable us to recover our former place among the trade carrying fleets of the world.

Pensions.

The Nation owes a debt of profound gratitude to the soldiers and sailors who have fought its battles, and it is the Government's duty to provide for the survivors and for the widows and orphans of those who have fallen in the country's wars. The pension laws, founded in this just sentiment, should be liberal, and should be liberally administered, and preference should be given wherever practicable with respect to employment in the public service to soldiers and sailors and to their widows and orphans.

Civil Service.

We commend the policy of the Republican party in maintaining the efficiency of the Civil Service. The Administration has acted wisely in its effort to secure for public service in Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippine Islands only those whose fitness has been determined by training and experience. We believe that employment in the public service in these territories should be confined as far as practicable to their inhabitants.

Fifteenth Amendment.

It was the plain purpose of the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution to prevent discrimination on account of race or color in regulating the elective franchise. Devices of State governments, whether by statutory or constitutional enactment, to avoid the purpose of this amendment are revolutionary and should be condemned.

Public Works.

Public movements looking to a permanent improvement of the roads and highways of the country meet with our cordial approval, and we recommend this subject to the earnest consideration of the people and of the Legislatures of the several States. We favor the extension of the rural free delivery service wherever its extension may be justified. In further pursuance of the constant policy of the Republican party to provide free homes on the public domain, we recommend adequate National legislation to reclaim the arid lands of the United States, reserving control of the distribution of water for irrigation to the respective States and Territories.

We favor home rule for and the early admission to Statehood of the Territories of New-Mexico, Arizona and Oklahoma.

War Taxes.

The Dingley act, amended to provide sufficient revenue for the conduct of the war, has so well performed its work that it has been possible to reduce the war debt in the sum of $40,000,000. So ample are the Government's revenues and so great is the public confidence in the integrity of its obligations that its newly funded 2 per cent bonds sell at a premium. The country is now justified in expecting, and it will be the policy of the Republican party to bring about, a reduction of the war taxes.

Isthmian Canal.

We favor the construction, ownership, control and protection of an isthmian canal by the Government of the United States. New markets are necessary for the increasing surplus of our farm products. Every effort should be made to open and obtain new markets, especially in the Orient, and the Administration is warmly to be commended for its successful effort to commit all trading and colonizing nations to the policy of the open door in China. In the interest of our expanding commerce we recommend that Congress create a department of commerce and industries in the charge of a secretary with a seat in the Cabinet.

Consuls.

The United States consular system should be reorganized under the supervision of this new department, upon such a basis of appointment and tenure as will render it still more serviceable to the Nation's increasing trade. The American Government must protect the person and property of every citizen wherever they are wrongfully violated or placed in peril.

Women in War.

We congratulate the women of America upon their splendid record of public service in the volunteer aid association, and as nurses in camp and hospital during the recent campaigns of our armies in the Eastern and Western Indies, and we appreciate their faithful co-operation in all works of education and industry.

Foreign Affairs.

President McKinley has conducted the foreign affairs of the United States with distinguished credit to the American people. In releasing us from the vexatious conditions of a European alliance for the government of Samoa his course is especially to be commended. By securing to our undivided control the most important island of the Samoan group and the best harbor in the Southern Pacific, every American interest has been safeguarded. We approve the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands to the United States. We commend the part taken by our Government in the Peace Conference at The Hague. We assert our steadfast adherence to the policy announced in the Monroe Doctrine. The provisions of The Hague Convention were wisely regarded when President McKinley tendered his friendly offices in the interest of peace between Great Britain and the South African republics. While the American Government must continue the policy prescribed by Washington, affirmed by every succeeding President and imposed upon us by The Hague Treaty, of non-intervention in European controversies, the American people earnestly hope that a way may soon be found, honorable alike to both contending parties, to terminate the strife between them. In accepting by the Treaty of Paris the just responsibility of our victories in the Spanish war the President and the Senate won the undoubted approval of the American people. No other course was possible than to destroy Spain's sovereignty throughout the West Indies and in the Philippine Islands. That course created our responsibility before the world, and with the unorganized population whom our intervention had freed from Spain, to provide for the maintenance of law and order, and for the establishment of good government and for the performance of international obligations. Our authority could not be less than our responsibility, and wherever sovereign rights were extended it became the high duty of the Government to maintain its authority, to put down armed insurrection and to confer the blessings of liberty and civilization upon all the rescued peoples. The largest measure of self-government consistent with their welfare and our duties shall be secured to them by law. To Cuba independence and self-government were assured in the same voice by which war was declared, and to the letter this pledge will be performed. The Republican party upon its history, and upon this declaration of its principles and policies, confidently invokes the considerate and approving judgment of the American people.

SILVER REPUBLICAN.

At a convention held in Kansas City July 4 to 6 the Republicans who bolted the gold standard and favored the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1 nominated William J. Bryan for President. There was a strong desire on the part of the convention to nominate Charles A. Towne, of Minnesota, for Vice-President, but after a stormy argument, and a determined effort on the part of the cooler minority to prevent hasty action, Mr. Towne himself personally pleaded against his own nomination. The convention finally left the nomination to the National Committee of the Silver Republican party, which met and nominated Mr. Stevenson. The platform adopted follows:

We, the Silver Republican party, in National Convention assembled, declare these as our principles, and invite the co-operation of all who agree therewith: We recognize that the principles set forth in the Declaration of American Independence are fundamental and everlastingly true in their application to governments among men. We believe the patriotic words of Washington's farewell address to be the words of soberness and wisdom, inspired by the spirit of right and truth. We treasure the words of Jefferson as priceless gems of American statesmanship. We hold in sacred remembrance the patriotism of Lincoln, who was the great interpreter of American history and the apostle of human rights and of industrial freedom, and we declare, as was declared by the convention that nominated the great Emancipator, that the maintenance of the principles promulgated in the Declaration of Independence and embodied in the Federal Constitution, "that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness; that to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed," is essential to the preservation of our republican institutions. We declare our adherence to the principles of bimetallism as the right basis of a monetary system under our National Constitution, a principle that found place repeatedly in Republican platforms from the demonetization of silver in 1873 to the St. Louis Republican Convention of 1896. Since that Convention a Republican Congress and a Republican President, at the dictation of the trusts and money power, have passed and approved a currency bill which in itself is a repudiation of the doctrine of bimetallism advocated theretofore by the President and every great leader of his party. This currency law destroys the full money power of the silver dollar, provides for the payment of all Government obligations and the redemption of all forms of paper money in gold alone, retires the time-honored and patriotic greenback, constituting one-sixth of the money in circulation, and surrenders to banking corporations the sovereign function of issuing all paper money, thus enabling these corporations to control the prices of labor and property, and increasing the power of the banks to create panics and bring disaster upon business enterprises. The provision of this currency law making the bonded debt of the Nation payable in gold alone changes the contract between the Government and the bondholders to the advantage of the latter, and is in direct opposition to the declaration of the Matthews resolution passed by Congress in 1878, for which resolution the present Republican President, then a member of Congress, voted, as did also all leading Republicans, both in the House and Senate. We demand the repeal of this currency law, and declare that we shall not cease our efforts until there has been established in its place a monetary system based upon the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold into money at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1, by the independent action of the United States, under which system all money shall be issued by the Government, and all money coined and issued shall be a full legal tender in payment of all debts, public and private, without exception. We approve a graduated tax upon incomes; and if necessary to accomplish this, we favor an amendment to the Constitution. We believe that United States Senators should be elected by direct vote of the people, and we favor such amendment of the Constitution and such legislation as may be necessary to that end. We favor the maintenance and the extension wherever practicable of the merit system in public service, appointments to be made according to fitness, competitively ascertained, and public servants to be retained in office only so long as shall be compatible with the efficiency of the service.

Combinations, trusts and monopolies, contrived and created for the purpose of controlling the prices and quantity of articles supplied to the public, are unjust, oppressive and unlawful. Not only do these unlawful conspiracies fix the prices of commodities, but they invade every branch of State and National government with their polluting influences, and control the actions of their employes and dependents, politically, until such control imperils society and the liberty of the citizen. We demand the most stringent laws for their suppression and the most severe punishment of their promoters and maintainers and the energetic enforcement of such laws by the courts. We believe the Monroe Doctrine to be sound in principle and a wise National policy, and we demand a firm adherence thereto. We condemn those acts of the Administration inconsistent with it, and which have tended to make us parties to the interests, and to involve us in the controversies of European nations, and especially the recognition by pending treaty of the right of England to be considered in the construction of an interoceanic canal. We are in favor of the speedy construction of the Nicaragua Canal, to be built, owned and defended by the Government of the United States. We observe with anxiety, and regard with disapproval, the increasing ownership of American lands by aliens; and their growing control over our internal transportation, natural resources and public utilities. We demand legislation to protect our public domain, our natural resources, our franchises and our internal commerce; and to keep them free from, and to maintain their independence of, all foreign monopolies, institutions and influences; and we declare our opposition to the leasing of the public lands of the United States, whereby corporations and syndicates shall be able to secure control thereof, and thus monopolize the public domain, the heritage of the people. We approve of the principle of direct legislation, and favor the application of the same to nominations. In view of their great sacrifices made, and patriotic services rendered, we are in favor of liberal pensions to deserving soldiers and sailors, their widows, orphans and other dependents. We believe that enlistment and service should be accepted as conclusive proof that the soldier was free from disease and disability at the time of his enlistment. We condemn the present administration of the pension laws. We tender to the patriotic people of the South African republics our sympathy, and express our admiration for them in their heroic struggle to preserve their political freedom and maintain their national existence. We declare the destruction of these republics and the subjugation of their people to be a crime against civilization. We believe this sympathy should have been voiced by the American Congress, as was done in the case of the French, Greeks, Hungarians, Poles, Armenians and the Cubans, and as the traditions of this country would have dictated. We declare the Porto Rican tariff law to be not only a serious but a dangerous departure from the principles of our form of government. We believe in the republican form of government; and we are opposed to monarchy, and to the whole theory of imperialistic control. We believe in self-government, a government by the consent of the governed; and are unalterably opposed to a government based upon force. It is incontrovertible that the inhabitants of the Philippine archipelago cannot be made citizens of the United States without endangering our civilization. We are therefore in favor of applying to the Philippines the principle we are solemnly and publicly pledged to observe in the case of Cuba. We demand that our Nation's promise to Cuba shall be fulfilled in every particular. There being no longer any necessity for collecting war taxes, we demand relief from the taxes levied to carry on the war with Spain. We favor the immediate admission into the Union of States of the Territories of Arizona, New-Mexico and Oklahoma. We believe the National Government should lend encouragement and assistance toward the reclamation of the arid lands of the United States; and to that end, we are in favor of a comprehensive survey thereof, and an immediate ascertainment of the water supply available for such reclamation, and we believe it to be the duty of the general Government to provide for the construction of storage reservoirs and irrigation works so that the water supply of the arid region may be utilized to the greatest possible extent in the interest of the people, while preserving all rights of the States. Transportation is a public necessity, and the means and methods of it are matters of public concern. Transportation companies exercise an unwarranted power over industries, business and commerce, and should be made to serve the public interests without making unreasonable charges or unjust discriminations. We observe with satisfaction the growing sentiment among the people in favor of the public ownership and operation of public utilities. We are in favor of expanding our commerce in the interest of American labor and for the benefit of all our people by every honest and peaceful means. We are opposed to the importation of Asiatic laborers in competition with American labor; and favor a more rigid enforcement of the laws relating thereto. Our creed and our history justify the nations of the earth in expecting that, wherever the American flag is unfurled in authority, there human liberty and political freedom shall be found. We protest against the adoption of any policy that will change, in the thought of the world, the meaning of our flag. We insist that it shall never float over any ship or wave at the head of any column directed against the political independence of any people of any race or in any clime. The Silver Republican party of the United States, in the foregoing principles, seeks to perpetuate the spirit, and to adhere to the teachings of Abraham Lincoln.

NATIONAL LEAGUE OF REPUBLICAN CLUBS.

In St. Paul, Minn., on July 18, the twelfth National convention of the National League of Republican Clubs was held. The Committee on Credentials reported delegations present from Arkansas, California, Colorado, Illinois, Indian Territory, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, New-Jersey, New-York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota, Texas, Vermont, Washington, Wisconsin, West Virginia and the College League, with 1,440 votes. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Isaac Miller Hamilton, Illinois; vice-president-at-large, Luther Mott, Oswego, N. Y.; secretary, D. H. Stine, Kentucky; treasurer, J. B. Wiggins, Pennsylvania. The Committee on Resolutions presented the following report, which was unanimously adopted: Upon the happy and prosperous condition of the entire country the league congratulates the people of the United States. Allegiance is pledged anew to the principles of the Republican party, which, ably and bravely carried into execution by the National Administration, have made these conditions possible. Every action of President McKinley is approved, the Philadelphia platform is indorsed, and it is declared that the Republican party stands to-day, as ever, for positive policies, for a protective tariff, for sound money, for the control and regulation of combinations of capital that have a legitimate purpose and the destruction of those that have an illegitimate purpose; for the retention of every inch of territory that comes to us by honorable treaty and international law, for the development of the marvellous commercial possibilities of the Orient, for the restoration of our merchant marine, and, finally, it stands for the progress of the United States and the uplifting of mankind throughout the world. As representatives of the younger element of the Republican party we have a peculiar pride in the nomination for the Vice-Presidency of Theodore Roosevelt, whom we regard as a lofty and inspiring type of the American statesman and soldier. The incapacity of the Democratic party brought poverty to the door of labor, distrust to the hope of capital and despair to the homes of the poor. Its activity is a threat to the material prosperity of the country, and its triumph will be an individual and public disaster. To prevent this we invoke sobriety of judgment and vigor of action in the coming campaign. The Republican party has ever been a builder. Its every platform has rung with the spirit of progress and hope. Democracy has ever been a destroyer. Its every platform has groaned with the spirit of pessimism and opposition. The American people will never believe that the builder has become the destroyer and the destroyer the builder. We deplore the conditions now existing in China, and we assure the American people that a Republican Administration will protect all our interests, demanding full indemnity for the past and security for the future. As firmly as we believe in America and her institutions we believe the party that will guide and maintain us in the great future is the party of Abraham Lincoln, supported by Ulysses S. Grant and exalted by William McKinley.

DEMOCRATIC.

The Democratic National Convention met at Kansas City, Mo., on July 4. The chief incident previous to the meeting of the Convention was the exclusion of ex-Senator David B. Hill, of New-York, from the Resolutions Committee. Through the efforts of Richard Croker the New-York delegation on July 3 chose Augustus Van Wyck, of Brooklyn, as their representative on the Resolutions Committee by a vote of 36 to 28 for Hill, eight members of the delegation not voting. The first day of the Convention—July 4—was devoted to routine and preliminary work. Governor Thomas of Colorado, the temporary chairman, and James D. Richardson, the permanent chairman, made speeches. On July 5 William J. Bryan was unanimously nominated for President, W. D. Oldham, of Nebraska, making the chief nominating speech. On this day the platform, containing a specific declaration for the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, but proclaiming "imperialism" as "the paramount issue," was adopted. The choice for Vice-President seemed to lie between Charles A. Towne and Adlai E. Stevenson. On July 6—the third day's session of the Convention—Adlai E. Stevenson was nominated for Vice-President on the first ballot. Towne, and Hill against his own protest made from the platform, received votes for the nomination, but Stevenson won it with many votes to spare. The nominations for both President and Vice-President were practically unanimous, there being no contest to speak of on the floor of the Convention. The Convention adjourned sine die on July 6, after nominating Stevenson.

The Platform.

On July 5 the Convention adopted the following platform:

Declaration of Principles.

We, the representatives of the Democratic party of the United States, assembled in National Convention on the anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence, do reaffirm our faith in that immortal proclamation of the inalienable rights of man, and our allegiance to the Constitution framed in harmony therewith by the fathers of the Republic. We hold with the United States Supreme Court that the Declaration of Independence is the spirit of our Government, of which the Constitution is the form and letter. We declare again that all governments instituted among men derive their just powers from the consent of the governed; that any government not based upon the consent of the governed is a tyranny; and that to impose upon any people a government of force is to substitute the methods of imperialism for those of a republic. We hold that the Constitution follows the flag and denounce the doctrine that an Executive or Congress, deriving their existence and their powers from the Constitution, can exercise lawful authority beyond it, or in violation of it. We assert that no nation can long endure half republic and half empire, and we warn the American people that imperialism abroad will lead quickly and inevitably to despotism at home.

Believing in these fundamental principles, we denounce the Porto Rican law, enacted by a Republican Congress against the protest and opposition of the Democratic minority, as a bold and open violation of the Nation's organic law and a flagrant breach of National good faith. It imposes upon the people of Porto Rico a government without their consent, and taxation without representation. It dishonors the American people by repudiating a solemn pledge made in their behalf by the commanding general of our Army, which the Porto Ricans welcomed to a peaceful and unresisted occupation of their land. It dooms to poverty and distress a people whose helplessness appeals with peculiar force to our justice and magnanimity. In this, the first act of its imperialistic programme, the Republican party seeks to commit the United States to a colonial policy inconsistent with republican institutions and condemned by the Supreme Court in numerous decisions.

Porto Rican Law Denounced.

We demand the prompt and honest fulfilment of our pledge to the Cuban people and the world, that the United States has no disposition nor intention to exercise sovereignty, jurisdiction, or control over the island of Cuba, except for its pacification. The war ended nearly two years ago, profound peace reigns over all the island, and still the Administration keeps the government of the island from its people, while Republican carpetbag officials plunder its revenues and exploit the colonial theory to the disgrace of the American people.

Pledge to the Cubans.

We condemn and denounce the Philippine policy of the present Administration. It has embroiled the Republic in an unnecessary war, sacrificed the lives of many of its noblest sons, and placed the United States, previously known and applauded throughout the world as the champion of freedom, in the false and un-American position of crushing with military force the efforts of our former allies to achieve liberty and self-government. The Filipinos cannot be citizens without endangering our civilization; they cannot be subjects without imperilling our form of government; and as we are not willing to surrender our civilization, or to convert the Republic into an empire, we favor an immediate declaration of the Nation's purpose to give to the Filipinos, first, a stable form of government; second, independence; and third, protection from outside interference such as has been given for nearly a century to the republics of Central and South America. The greedy commercialism which dictated the Philippine policy of the Republican Administration attempts to justify it with the plea that it will pay, but even this sordid and unworthy plea fails when brought to the test of facts. The war of "criminal aggression" against the Filipinos, entailing an annual expense of many millions, has already cost more than any possible profit that could accrue from the entire Philippine trade for years to come. Furthermore, when trade is extended at the expense of liberty the price is always too high.

The Philippine Question.

We are not opposed to territorial expansion, when it takes in desirable territory which can be erected into States in the Union, and whose people are willing and fit to become American citizens. We favor trade expansion by every peaceful and legitimate means. But we are unalterably opposed to the seizing or purchasing of distant islands to be governed outside the Constitution and whose people can never become citizens. We are in favor of extending the Republic's influence among the nations, but believe that influence should be extended not by force and violence, but through the persuasive power of a high and honorable example.

Territorial Expansion.

The importance of other questions now pending before the American people is in nowise diminished and the Democratic party takes no backward step from its position on them; but the burning issue of imperialism, growing out of the Spanish war, involving the very existence of the Republic and the destruction of our free institutions, we regard as the paramount issue of the campaign.

The Paramount Issue.

The declaration of the Republican platform adopted at the Philadelphia Convention, held in June, 1900, that the Republican party "steadfastly adheres to the policy announced in the Monroe Doctrine," is manifestly insincere and deceptive. This profession is contradicted by the avowed policy of that party, in opposition to the spirit of the Monroe Doctrine, to acquire and hold sovereignty over large areas of territory and large numbers of people in the Eastern Hemisphere. We insist on the strict maintenance of the Monroe Doctrine in all its integrity, both in letter and in spirit, as necessary to prevent the extension of European authority on these continents and as essential to our supremacy in American affairs. At the same time we declare that no American people shall ever be held by force in unwilling subjection to European authority.

The Monroe Doctrine.

We oppose militarism. It means conquest abroad and intimidation and oppression at home. It means the strong arm which has ever been fatal to free institutions. It is what millions of our citizens have fled from in Europe. It will impose upon our peace loving people a large standing army, an unnecessary burden of taxation, and would be a constant menace to their liberties. A small standing army and a well disciplined State militia are amply sufficient in time of peace. This Republic has no place for a vast military establishment, a sure forerunner of compulsory military service and conscription. When the Nation is in danger the volunteer soldier is his country's best defender. The National Guard of the United States should ever be cherished in the patriotic hearts of a free people. Such organizations are ever an element of strength and safety. For the first time in our history and coeval with the Philippine conquest has there been a wholesale departure from our time honored and approved system of volunteer organization. We denounce it as un-American, undemocratic and unrepublican and as a subversion of the ancient and fixed principles of a free people.

Trusts and Monopolies.

Private monopolies are indefensible and intolerable. They destroy competition, control the price of raw material and of the finished product, thus robbing both producer and consumer. They lessen the employment of labor and arbitrarily fix the terms and conditions thereof; and deprive individual energy and small capital of their opportunity for betterment. They are the most efficient means yet devised for appropriating the fruits of industry to the benefit of the few at the expense of the many, and, unless their insatiate greed is checked, all wealth will be aggregated in a few hands and the Republic destroyed. The dishonest paltering with the trust evil by the Republican party in its State and National platforms is conclusive proof of the truth of the charge that trusts are the legitimate product of Republican policies, that they are fostered by Republican laws, and that they are protected by the Republican Administration in return for campaign subscriptions and political support. We pledge the Democratic party to an unceasing warfare in Nation, State and city against private monopoly in every form. Existing laws against trusts must be enforced and more stringent ones must be enacted providing for publicity as to the affairs of corporations engaged in interstate commerce and requiring all corporations to show, before doing business outside of the State of their origin, that they have no water in their stock, and that they have not attempted and are not attempting to monopolize any branch of business or the production of any articles of merchandise; and the whole constitutional power of Congress over interstate commerce, the mails and all modes of interstate communication shall be exercised by the enactment of comprehensive laws upon the subject of trusts. Tariff laws should be amended by putting the products of trusts upon the free list, to prevent monopoly under the plea of protection The failure of the present Republican Administration, with an absolute control over all the branches of the National Government, to enact any legislation designed to prevent or even curtail the absorbing power of trusts and illegal combinations, or to enforce the anti-trust laws already on the statute books, proves the insincerity of the high sounding phrases of the Republican platform. Corporations should be protected in all their rights and their legitimate interests should be respected, but any attempt by corporations to interfere with the public affairs of the people or to control the sovereignty which creates them should be forbidden under such penalties as will make such attempts impossible. We condemn the Dingley tariff law as a trust breeding measure skilfully devised to give to the few favors which they do not deserve, and to place upon the many burdens which they should not bear. We favor such an enlargement of the scope of the Interstate Commerce law as will enable the Commission to protect individuals and communities from discrimination and the public from unjust and unfair transportation rates.

American Financial System.

We reaffirm and indorse the principles of the National Democratic platform adopted at Chicago in 1896 and we reiterate the demand of that platform for an American financial system made by the American people for themselves, which shall restore and maintain a bimetallic price level, and as part of such system the immediate restoration of the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1, without waiting for the aid or consent of any other nation.

Currency Law Denounced.

We denounce the currency bill enacted at the last session of Congress as a step forward in the Republican policy which aims to discredit the sovereign right of the National Government to issue all money, whether coin or paper, and to bestow upon National banks the power to issue and control the volume of paper money for their own benefit. A permanent National bank currency, secured by Government bonds, must have a permanent debt to rest upon, and, if the bank currency is to increase with population and business, the debt must also increase. The Republican currency scheme is, therefore, a scheme for fastening upon the taxpayers a perpetual and growing debt for the benefit of the banks. We are opposed to this private corporation paper circulated as money, but without legal tender qualities, and demand the retirement of National bank notes as fast as Government paper or silver certificates can be substituted for them. We favor an amendment to the Federal Constitution providing for the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people, and we favor direct legislation wherever practicable. We are opposed to government by injunction; we denounce the blacklist, and favor arbitration as a means of settling disputes between corporations and their employes.

Department of Labor.

In the interest of American labor and the upbuilding of the workingman as the cornerstone of the prosperity of our country, we recommend that Congress create a Department of Labor, in charge of a Secretary, with a seat in the Cabinet, believing that the elevation of the American laborer will bring with it increased production and increased prosperity to our country at home and to our commerce abroad. We are proud of the courage and fidelity of the American soldiers and sailors in all our wars; we favor liberal pensions to them and their dependents; and we reiterate the position taken in the Chicago platform in 1896, that the fact of enlistment and service shall be deemed conclusive evidence against disease and disability before enlistment.

We favor the immediate construction, ownership and control of the Nicaraguan Canal by the United States, and we denounce the insincerity of the plank in the Republican National platform for an Isthmian canal, in the face of the failure of the Republican majority to pass the bill pending in Congres. We condemn the Hay-Pauncefote treaty as a surrender of American rights and interests, not to be tolerated by the American people. We denounce the failure of the Republican party to carry out its pledges to grant statehood to the Territories of Arizona, New-Mexico and Oklahoma, and we promise the people of those Territories immediate statehood, and home rule during their condition as Territories; and we favor home rule and a territorial form of government for Alaska and Porto Rico. We favor an intelligent system of improving the arid lands of the West, storing the waters for the purposes of irrigation, and the holding of such lands for actual settlers. We favor the continuance and strict enforcement of the Chinese Exclusion law and its application to the same classes of all Asiatic races.

Nicaraguan Canal.

Jefferson said: "Peace, commerce and honest friendship with all nations, entangling alliances with none." We approve this wholesome doctrine and earnestly protest against the Republican departure which has involved us in so-called world politics, including the diplomacy of Europe and the intrigue and land grabbing in Asia, and we especially condemn the ill concealed Republican alliance with England, which must mean discrimination against other friendly nations, and which has already stifled the Nation's voice while liberty is being strangled in Africa.

Alliance with England.

Believing in the principles of self-government and rejecting, as did our forefathers, the claims of monarchy, we view with indignation the purpose of England to overwhelm with force the South African Republics. Speaking, as we believe, for the entire American Nation, except its Republican officeholders, and for all free men everywhere, we extend our sympathy to the heroic burghers in their unequal struggle to maintain their liberty and independence.

South African Republics.

We denounce the lavish appropriations of recent Republican Congresses, which have kept taxes high and which threaten the perpetuation of the oppressive war levies. We oppose the accumulation of a surplus to be squandered in such barefaced frauds upon the taxpayers as the Shipping Subsidy bill, which, under the false pretence of fostering American shipbuilding, would put unearned millions into the pockets of favorite contributors to the Republican campaign fund. We favor the reduction and speedy repeal of the war taxes, and a return to the time honored Democratic policy of strict economy in governmental expenditures.

Republican Appropriations.

Believing that our most cherished institutions are in great peril, that the very existence of our constitutional Republic is at stake, and that the decision now to be rendered will determine whether or not our children are to enjoy those blessed privileges of free government which have made the United States great, prosperous and honored, we earnestly ask for the foregoing declaration of principles the hearty support of the liberty loving American people, regardless of previous party affiliations.

Appeal to the People.

SOCIAL DEMOCRATS.

The present Social Democratic party is the result of the amalgamation of the original Social Democratic party, founded on June 13, 1898, at Chicago, Ill., and the Socialist Labor Party, formed some years ago in New-York City. This amalgamation was brought about by the Socialist Labor party, in convention at Rochester, N. Y., in January, 1900, appointing a committee to meet with the convention of the Social Democratic party at Indianapolis, Ind., in March, 1900. This convention appointed a committee, and the two committees met in New-York City on March 25, and submitted to the referendum of both parties a plan of union, which was adopted July 10, and a Provisional Executive Committee chosen. At Chicago, on September 29, the nomination of Eugene V. Debs, of Illinois, for the Presidency, and Job Harriman, of California, for the Vice-Presidency, was ratified. The following platform was adopted:

Platform.

September 29.—The Social Democratic party of the United States, in convention assembled, reaffirms its allegiance to the revolutionary principles of International Socialism and declares the supreme political issue in America to-day to be the contest between the working class and the capitalist class for the possession of the powers of government. The party affirms its steadfast purpose to use those powers, once achieved, to destroy wage slavery, abolish the institution of private property in the means of production, and establish the co-operative Commonwealth. In the United States, as in all other civilized countries, the natural order of economic development has separated society into two antagonistic classes—the capitalists, a comparatively small class, the possessors of all the modern means of production and distribution (land, mines, machinery and means of transportation and communication), and the large and ever increasing class of wage workers, possessing no means of production. This economic supremacy has secured to the dominant class the full control of the government, the pulpit, the schools, and the public press; it has thus made the capitalist class the arbiter of the fate of the workers, whom it is reducing to a condition of dependence, economically exploited and oppressed, intellectually and physically crippled and degraded, and their political equality rendered a bitter mockery. The contest between these two classes grows ever sharper. Hand in hand with the growth of monopolies goes the annihilation of small industries and of the middle class depending upon them; ever larger grows the multitude of destitute wage workers and of the unemployed, and ever fiercer the struggle between the class of the exploiter and the exploited, the capitalists and the wage workers. The evil effects of capitalist production are intensified by the recurring industrial crises which render the existence of the greater part of the population still more precarious and uncertain. These facts amply prove that the modern means of production have outgrown the existing social order based on production for profit. Human energy and natural resources are wasted for individual gain. Ignorance is fostered that wage slavery may be perpetuated. Science and invention are perverted to the exploitation of men, women, and children. The lives and liberties of the working class are recklessly sacrificed for profit. Wars are fomented between nations; indiscriminate slaughter is encouraged; the destruction of whole races is sanctioned, in order that the capitalist class may extend its commercial dominion abroad and enhance its supremacy at home. The introduction of a new and higher order of society is the historic mission of the working class. All other classes, despite their apparent or actual conflicts, are interested in upholding the system of private ownership in the means of production. The Democratic, Republican, and all other parties which do not stand for the complete overthrow of the capitalist system of production are alike the tools of the capitalist class. Their policies are injurious to the interest of the working class, which can be served only by the abolition of the profit system. The workers can most effectively act as a class in their struggle against the collective power of the capitallst class only by constituting themselves into a political party, distinct and opposed to all parties formed by the propertied classes. We, therefore, call upon the wage workers of the United States, without distinction of color, race, sex, or creed, and upon all citizens in sympathy with the historic mission of the working class, to organize under the banner of the Social Democratic party, as a party truly representing the interests of the toiling masses and uncompromisingly waging war upon the exploiting class, until the system of wage slavery shall be abolished and the co-operative Commonwealth shall be set up. Pending the accomplishment of this our ultimate purpose, we pledge every effort of the Social Democratic party for the immediate improvement of the condition of labor and for the securing of its progressive demands. As steps in that direction, we make the following demands: First—Revision of our Federal Constitution, in order to remove the obstacles to complete control of government by the people, irrespective of sex. Second—The public ownership of all industries controlled by monopolies, trusts and combines. Third—The public ownership of all railroads, telegraphs and telephones; all means of transportation; all waterworks, gas and electric plants, and other public utilities. Fourth—The public ownership of all gold, silver, copper, lead, iron, coal and other mines, and all oil and gas wells. Fifth—The reduction of the hours of labor in proportion to the increasing facilities of production. Sixth—The inauguration of a system of public works and improvements for the employment of the unemployed, the public credit to be utilized for that purpose. Seventh—Useful inventions to be free, the inventors to be remunerated by the public. Eighth—Labor legislation to be National, instead of local, and international when possible. Ninth—National insurance of working people against accidents, lack of employment, and want in old age. Tenth—Equal civil and political rights for men and women, and the abolition of all laws discriminating against women. Eleventh—The adoption of the initiative and referendum, proportional representation, and the right of recall of representatives by the voters. Twelfth—Abolition of war and the introduction of international arbitration.

POPULIST (Middle of the Road).

At Cincinnati, Ohio, on May 10, the Middle of the Road Populists nominated Wharton Barker for President and Ignatius Donnelly for Vice-President, and adopted a platform in substance as follows: (1) We demand the initiative and referendum and the imperative mandate or such changes of existing fundamental and statute law as will enable the people in their sovereign capacity to propose and compel the enactment of such laws as they desire; to reject such as they deem injurious to their interests, and to recall unfaithful public servants. (2) We demand the public ownership and operation of those means of communication, transportation and production which the people may elect, such as railroads, telegraph and telephone lines, coal mines, etc. (3) The land, including all natural sources of wealth, is a heritage of the people, and should not be monopolized for speculative purposes, and alien ownership of land should be prohibited. All land now held by railroads and other corporations in excess of their actual needs and all lands now owned by aliens should be reclaimed by the Government and held for actual settlers only. (4) A scientific and absolute paper money, based upon the entire wealth and population of the Nation, not redeemable in any specific commodity, but made a full legal tender for all debts and receivable for all taxes and public dues and issued by the Government only without the intervention of banks and in sufficient quantity to meet the demands of commerce, is the best currency that can be devised; but until such a financial system is secured, which we shall press for adoption, we favor the free and unlimited coinage of both silver and gold at the legal ratio of 16 to 1. (5) We demand the levy and collection of a graduated tax on incomes and inheritances, and a constitutional amendment to secure the same, if necessary. (6) We demand the election of President, Vice-President, Federal Judges and United States Senators by direct vote of the people. (7) We are opposed to trusts, and declare the contention between the old parties on the monopoly question is a sham battle, and that no solution of this mighty problem is possible without the adoption of the principles of public ownership of public utilities.

PEOPLE'S PARTY (Fusion).

The Fusion wing of the People's party met at Sioux Falls, S. D., on May 10, and nominated William J. Bryan and Charles A. Towne (of Minnesota) for President and Vice-President, respectively. In the platform the resolutions on imperialism and militarism deplored the conduct of the Administration in the Spanish-American War and denounced its conduct in connection with the Philippines. With reference to Porto Rico it was set forth that the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution and the American flag are one and inseparable. It was also declared that the Island of Porto Rico is a part of the territory of the United States, made so by our promises and the consent of the Porto Ricans themselves. There was a strong resolution of sympathy for the Boers, a declaration against the monopolizing of public land for speculative purposes, a demand for a return to the original homestead policy, a declaration for the placing of all goods controlled by the trusts upon the free tariff list, a condemnation for the Governor of Idaho and the Federal Government in connection with the Cœur d'Alene troubles, and the usual demand for the initiative and referendum. Trusts were denounced, and the Populistic method for the control of public utilities, such as the railroads and the telegraphic systems, and of the issuance of money, was recommended as the proper remedy to cope with the trust evil. The gold standard act of the present Congress was denounced in strong terms, and it was asserted that, "while barring out the money of the Constitution, this law opens the printing mints of the Treasury to the free coinage of paper money to enrich the few and impoverish the many." The party was pledged anew "never to cease agitation until the financial conspiracy is blotted from the statute books, the Lincoln greenback restored and the bonds all paid and all corporation money forever retired." The system of issuing injunctions in cases of dispute between employers and employes was under certain circumstances denounced as an evil. The election of President, Vice-President and United States Senators by direct vote of the people was urged, as also were Government ownership of railroads and telegraph lines, home rule in the Territories, the employment of idle labor on public works in time of depression, the payment of just pensions to disabled soldiers and the establishment of postal savings banks.

On August 8 Mr. Towne withdrew, and on August 28 the National Executive Committee named Adlai E. Stevenson in his place.

PROHIBITION.

The Prohibition party held its National Convention at Chicago on June 27 and 28, and nominated John G. Woolley, of Chicago, for President, over Dr. S. C. Swallow, of Harrisburg, Penn.

Henry B. Metcalf, of Rhode Island, was nominated for Vice-President, and the Convention adopted a platform denouncing the liquor traffic, insisting on straightout prohibition as a National issue and attacking the Administration on the canteen question.

The Platform.

Among other things the platform said:

We propose as a first step in the financial problems of the Nation to save more than a billion of dollars every year, now annually expended to support the liquor traffic and to demoralize our people. When that is accomplished, conditions will have so improved that with a clearer atmosphere the country can address itself to the questions as to the kind and quantity of currency needed.

We reaffirm as true indisputably the declaration of William Windom when Secretary of the Treasury in the Cabinet of President Arthur, that "Considered socially, financially, politically or morally, the licensed liquor traffic is or ought to be the overwhelming issue in American politics," and that "the destruction of this iniquity stands next on the calendar of the world's progress." We hold that the existence of our party presents this issue squarely to the American people, and lays upon them the responsibility of choice between liquor parties, dominated by distillers and brewers, with their policy of saloon perpetuation, breeding waste, wickedness, woe, pauperism, taxation, corruption and crime, and our one party of patriotic and moral principle, with a policy which defends it from domination by corrupt bosses and which insures it forever against the blighting control of saloon politics. We face with sorrow, shame and fear the awful fact that this liquor traffic has a grip on our government, municipal, State and National, through the revenue system and saloon sovereignty, which no other party dares to dispute; a grip which dominates the party now in power, from caucus to Congress, from policeman to President, from the rum-shop to the White House; a grip which compels the Chief Executive to consent that law shall be nullified in behalf of the brewer, that the canteen shall curse our Army and spread intemperance across the seas, and that our flag shall wave as the symbol of partnership at home and abroad between this Government and the men who defy and defile it for their unholy gain.

The Issue Presented.

We charge upon President McKinley, who was elected to his high office by appeals to Christian sentiment and patriotism almost unprecedented and by a combination of moral influences never before seen in this country, that, by his conspicuous example as a winedrinker at public banquets and as a wine serving host in the White House, he has done more to encourage the liquor business, to demoralize the temperance habits of young men, and to bring Christian practices and requirements into disrepute, than any other President this Republic has ever had.

The President Arraigned.

We further charge upon President McKinley responsibility for the Army canteen, with all its dire brood of disease, immorality, sin and death, in this country, in Cuba, in Porto Rico and the Philippines; and we insist that by his attitude concerning the canteen, and his apparent contempt for the vast number of petitions and petitioners protesting against it, he has outraged and insulted the moral sentiment of this country in such a manner and to such a degree as calls for its righteous uprising and his indignant and effective rebuke. We challenge denial of the fact that our Chief Executive, as commander in chief of the military forces of the United States, at any time prior to or since March 2, 1899, could have closed every Army saloon, called a canteen, by executive order, as President Hayes in effect did before him, and should have closed them, for the same reason that actuated President Hayes; we assert that the act of Congress passed March 2, 1899, forbidding the sale of liquor, "in any post exchange or canteen," by any "officer or private soldier" or by "any other person on any premises used for military purposes in the United States," was and is as explicit an act of prohibition as the English language can frame; we declare our solemn belief that the Attorney-General of the United States in his interpretation of that law, and the Secretary of War in his acceptance of that interpretation and his refusal to enforce the law, were and are guilty of treasonable nullification thereof, and that President McKinley, through his assent to and indorsement of such interpretation and refusal on the part of officials appointed by and responsible to him, shares responsibility in their guilt; and we record our conviction that a new and serious peril confronts our country, in the fact that its President, at the behest of the beer power, dare and does abrogate a law of Congress, through subordinates removable at will by him and whose acts become his, and thus virtually confesses that laws are to be administered or to be nullified in the interest of a law defying business, by an Administration under mortgage to such business for support.

Foreign Liquor Policy Condemned.

We deplore the fact that an Administration of this Republic claiming the right and power to carry our flag across seas, and to conquer and annex new territory, should admit its lack of power to prohibit the American saloon on subjugated soil, or should openly confess itself subject to liquor sovereignty under that flag. We are humiliated, exasperated and grieved by the evidence painfully abundant that this Administration's policy of expansion is bearing so rapidly its first fruits of drunkenness, insanity and crime under the hothouse sun of the tropics; and when the president of the first Philippine Commission says "It was unfortunate that we introduced and established the saloon there, to corrupt the natives and to exhibit the vices of our race," we charge the inhumanity and un-Christianity of this act upon the Administration of William McKinley and upon the party which elected and would perpetuate the same. We declare that the only policy which the Government of the United States can of right uphold as to the liquor traffic, under the National Constitution, upon any territory under the military or civil control of that Government, is the policy of prohibition; that "to establish justice, insure domestic tranquillity, provide for the common defence, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity," as the Constitution provides, the liquor traffic must neither be sanctioned nor tolerated, and that the revenue policy which makes our Government a partner with distillers and brewers and barkeepers is a disgrace to our civilization, an outrage upon humanity and a crime against God. We condemn the present Administration at Washington because it has repealed the prohibitory laws in Alaska, and has given over the partly civilized tribes there to be the prey of the American grog shop; and because it has entered upon a license policy in our new possessions by incorporating the same in the recent act of Congress in the code of laws for the government of the Hawaiian Islands. We call general attention to the fearful fact that exportation of liquors from the United States to the Philippine Islands increased in value from $337 in 1898 to $467,198 in the first ten months of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1900; and that while our exportation of liquors to Cuba never reached $30,000 a year previous to American occupation of that island, our exports of such liquors to Cuba during the fiscal year of 1899 reached the sum of $629,855.

Call to Moral and Christian Citizenship.

One great religious body (the Baptist) having truly declared of the liquor traffic "that it has no defensible right to exist, that it can never be reformed, and that it stands condemned by its unrighteous fruits as a thing un-Christian, un-American, and perilous utterly to every interest in life;" another great religious body (the Methodist) having as truly asserted and reiterated that "no political party has a right to expect, nor should it receive, the votes of Christian men so long as it stands committed to the license system, or refuses to put itself on record in an attitude of open hostility to the saloon;" other great religious bodies having made similar deliverances, in language plain and unequivocal, as to the liquor traffic and the duty of Christian citizenship in opposition thereto; and the fact being plain and undeniable that the Democratic party stands for license, the saloon and the canteen, while the Republican party, in policy and administration, stands for the canteen, the saloon and the revenue therefrom, we declare ourselves justified in expecting that Christian voters everywhere shall cease their complicity with the liquor curse by refusing to uphold a liquor party, and shall unite themselves with the only party which upholds the prohibition policy, and which for nearly thirty years has been the faithful defender of the Church, the State, the home and the school, against the saloon, its expanders and perpetuators, their actual and persistent foes. We declare that there are but two real parties to-day, concerning the liquor traffic—perpetuationists and Prohibitionists; and that patriotism, Christianity, and every interest of genuine and of pure democracy, besides the loyal demands of our common humanity, require the speedy union, in one solid phalanx at the ballot box, of all who oppose the liquor traffic's perpetuation, and who covet endurance for this Republic.

SOCIALIST LABOR.

The National Convention met in New-York City on June 2 and nominated Joseph F. Malloney, of Massachusetts, for President, and Valentine Remmel, of Pennsylvania, for Vice-President on June 6.

The Platform.

It readopted the declaration of principles of 1896, as follows:

June 2.—The Socialist Labor party of the United States, in convention assembled, reasserts the inalienable right of all men to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. With the founders of the American Republic we hold that the purpose of government is to secure every citizen in the enjoyment of this right; but in the light of our social conditions we hold, furthermore, that no such right can be exercised under a system of economic inequality, essentially destructive of life, of liberty and of happiness. With the founders of this Republic we hold that the true theory of politics is that the machinery of government must be owned and controlled by the whole people; but in the light of our industrial development we hold, furthermore, that the true theory of economics is that the machinery of production must likewise belong to the people in common. To the obvious fact that our despotic system of economics is the direct opposite of our democratic system of politics can plainly be traced the existence of a privileged class, the corruption of government by that class, the alienation of public property, public franchises and public functions to that class, and the abject dependence of the mightiest of nations upon that class. Again, through the perversion of democracy to the ends of plutocracy, labor is robbed of the wealth which it alone produces, is denied the means of self-employment, and, by compulsory idleness in wage slavery, is even deprived of the necessaries of life. Human power and natural forces are thus wasted, that the plutocracy may rule. Ignorance and misery, with all their concomitant evils, are perpetuated, that the people may be kept in bondage. Science and invention are diverted from their humane purpose to the enslavement of women and children. Against such a system the Socialist Labor party once more enters its protest. Once more it reiterates its fundamental declaration that private property in the natural sources of production and in the instruments of labor is the obvious cause of all economic servitude and political dependence. The time is fast coming when, in the natural course of social evolution, this system, through the destructive action of its failures and crises on the one hand, and the constructive tendencies of its trusts and other capitalistic combinations on the other hand, shall have worked out its own downfall. We therefore call upon the wage workers of the United States, and upon all other honest citizens, to organize under the banner of the Socialist Labor party into a class-conscious body, aware of its rights and determined to conquer them by taking possession of the public powers; so that, held together by an indomitable spirit of solidarity under the most trying conditions of the present class struggle, we may put a summary end to that barbarous struggle by the abolition of classes, the restoration of the land and of all the means of production, transportation and distribution to the people as a collective body, and the substitution of the co-operative Commonwealth for the present state of planless production, industrial war and social disorder; a Commonwealth in which every worker shall have the free exercise and full benefit of his faculties, multiplied by all the modern factors of civilization.

AMERICAN LEAGUE OF ANTI-IMPERIALISTS.

The Liberty Congress of the American League of Anti-Imperialists met at Indianapolis, Ind., on August 16, and after vigorous opposition by members of the National or "Third Ticket" Convention, who were also admitted as delegates to the Anti-Imperialist Congress, indorsed the candidacy of William J. Bryan for President. The platform and resolutions were adopted by a viva voce vote, and the exact vote will probably never be known. The platform, as adopted, was as follows:

A Great National Crisis.

This Liberty Congress of Anti-Imperialists recognizes a great National crisis, which menaces the Republic, upon whose future depends in such large measure the hope of freedom throughout the world. For the first time in our country's history the President has undertaken to subjugate a foreign people and to rule them by despotic power. He has thrown the protection of the flag over slavery and polygamy in the Sulu Islands. He has abrogated to himself the power to impose upon the inhabitants of the Philippines government without their consent and taxation without representation. He is waging war upon them for asserting the very principles for the maintenance of which our forefathers pledged their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor. He claims for himself and Congress authority to govern the territories of the United States without constitutional restraint. We believe in the Declaration of Independence. Its truths, not less self-evident to-day than when first announced by our fathers, are of universal application and cannot be abandoned while government by the people endures. We believe in the Constitution of the United States. It gives the President and Congress certain limited powers and secures to every man within the jurisdiction of our Government certain essential rights. We deny that either the President or Congress can govern any person anywhere outside the Constitution.

We are absolutely opposed to the policy of President McKinley, which proposes to govern millions of men without their consent, which in Porto Rico establishes taxation without representation, and government by the arbitrary will of a legislature unfettered by constitutional restraint, and in the Philippines prosecutes a war of conquest and demands unconditional surrender from a people who are of right free and independent. The struggle of men for freedom has ever been a struggle for constitutional liberty. There is no liberty if the citizen has no right which the Legislature may not invade, if he may be taxed by the Legislature in which he is not represented, or if he is not protected by fundamental law against the arbitrary action of executive power. The policy of the President offers the inhabitants of Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines no hope of independence, no prospect of American citizenship, no constitutional protection, no representation in the Congress which taxes them. This is the government of men by arbitrary power without their consent. This is imperialism. There is no room under the free flag of America for subjects. The President and Congress, who derive all their powers from the Constitution, can govern no man without regard to its limitations.

Against Policy of Administration.

We believe the greatest safeguard of liberty is a free press, and we demand that the censorship in the Philippines, which keeps from the American people the knowledge of what is done in their name, be abolished. We are entitled to know the truth, and we insist that the powers which the President holds in trust for us shall be not used to suppress it.

Censorship Condemned.

Because we thus believe, we oppose the re-election of Mr. McKinley. The supreme purpose of the people in this momentous campaign should be to stamp with their final disapproval his attempt to grasp imperial power. A self-governing people can have no more imperative duty than to drive from public life a Chief Magistrate who, whether in weakness or of wicked purpose, has used his temporary authority to subvert the character of their government and to destroy their National ideals.

What the People Should Do.

We, therefore, in the belief that it is essential at this crisis for the American people again to declare their faith in the universal application of the Declaration of Independence and to reassert their will that their servants shall not have or exercise any powers whatever other than those conferred by the Constitution, earnestly make the following recommendations to our countrymen: First, that, without regard to their views on minor questions of domestic policy, they withhold their votes from Mr. McKinley, in order to stamp with their disapproval what he has done. Second, that they vote for those candidates for Congress in their respective districts who will oppose the policy of imperialism. Third, while we welcome any other method of opposing the re-election of Mr. McKinley, we advise direct support of Mr. Bryan as the most effective means of crushing imperialism. We are convinced of Mr. Bryan's sincerity and of his earnest purpose to secure to the Filipinos their independence. His position and the declarations contained in the platform of his party on the vital issue of the campaign meet our unqualified approval. We recommend that the Executive committees of the American Anti-Imperialist League and its allied leagues continue and extend their organizations, preserving the independence of the movement; and that they take the most active part possible in the pending political campaign.

Recommendations Urged.

Until now the policy which has turned the Filipinos from warm friends to bitter enemies, which has slaughtered thousands of them and laid waste their country, has been the policy of the President After the next election it becomes the policy of every man who votes to re-elect him and who thus becomes with him responsible for every drop of blood thereafter shed. The congress adopted the resolutions as reported by the committee by a viva voce vote. Less than a score of delegates voted against them.

Responsibility for Slaughter.

The following resolution, proposed by W. S. Holden, of Chicago, was added to the platform as reported: Resolved, That in declaring that the principles of the Declaration of Independence apply to all men, this Congress means to include the negro race in America as well as the Filipinos. We deprecate all efforts, whether in the South or in the North, to deprive the negro of his rights as a citizen under the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States.

Rights of the Negro.

NATIONAL FARMERS' ALLIANCE AND INDUSTRIAL UNION.

The fourth annual session of the Supreme Council of the Farmers' Alliance and Industrial Union was held in Washington, D. C., on February 6, 7 and 8, 1900, and pledged its support to the candidates chosen by the Democratic party for President and Vice-President, on the following platform: Whereas, The Declaration of Independence, as a basis of a republican form of government that might be progressive and perpetual, "That all men are created equal, that they are endowed with certain inalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, that to secure these rights governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed,"

We hold, therefore, that to restore and preserve these rights under a republican form of government, private monopolies of public necessities for speculative purposes, whether of the means of production, distribution or exchange, should be prohibited, and whenever such public necessity or utility becomes a monopoly in private hands, the people of the municipality, State or Union, as the case may be, shall appropriate the same by right of eminent domain, paying a just value therefor, and operate them for and in the interest of the whole people.

Public Ownership.

We demand a National currency, safe, sound and flexible; issued by the general Government only, a full legal tender for all debts and receivable for all dues, and an equitable and efficient means of distribution of this currency, directly to the people, at the minimum of expense and without the intervention of banking corporations and in sufficient volume to transact the business of the country on a cash basis: (a) We demand the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at the legal ratio of 16 to 1. (b) We demand a graduated income tax. (c) That our National legislation shall be so framed in the future as not to build up one industry at the expense of another. (d) We believe that the money of the country should be kept as much as possible in the hands of the people, and hence we demand that all National and State revenues shall be limited to the necessary expenses of the Government economically and honestly administered. (e) We demand that postal savings banks be established by the Government for the safe deposit of the savings of the people, and to facilitate exchange. (f) We are unalterably opposed to the issue by the United States of interest bearing bonds, and demand the payment of all coin obligations of the United States, as provided by existing laws, in either gold or silver coin, at the option of the Government and not at the option of the creditor.

Finance.

(a) The Government shall purchase or construct and operate a sufficient mileage of railroads to effectually control all rates of transportation on a just and equitable basis. (b) The telegraph and telephone, like the postoffice system, being a necessity for the transmission of intelligence, should be owned and operated by the Government in the interest of the people.

Transportation.

We demand that no land shall be held by corporations for speculative purposes or by railroads in excess of their needs as carriers, and all lands now owned by aliens should be reclaimed by the Government and held for actual settlers only.

Land Ownership.

We demand the election of United States Senators by a direct vote of the people; that each State shall be divided into two districts of nearly equal voting population, and that a Senator from each shall be elected by the people of the district.

Election of United States Senators.

Relying upon the good common sense of the American people, and believing that a majority of them, when uninfluenced by party prejudice, will vote right on all questions submitted to them on their merits; and further to effectually annihilate the pernicious lobby in legislation, we demand direct legislation by means of the initiative referendum. We demand free mail delivery in the rural districts. We demand that the inhabitants of all the territory coming to the United States as a result of the war with Spain be as speedily as possible permitted to organize a free government of their own, based upon the consent of the governed.

Direct Legislation.

THIRD PARTY.

About one hundred volunteer delegates from several States met in Carnegie Hall, New-York City, September 5, and nominated Senator Donelson Caffery, of Louisiana, for President, and Archibald Murray Howe, of Cambridge, Mass., for Vice-President. The Committee on Platform, composed of Professor Francis P. Nash, of Hobart College; Louis D. Lacroix, of Oxford, N. C.; Professor Edward G. Bourne, of Yale; W. F. Lloyd, of this city, and Edward Waldo Emerson, of Concord, Mass., a son of Ralph Waldo Emerson, presented the following platform, which was adopted:

We, citizens of the United States of America, assembled for the purpose of defending the wise and conservative principles which underly our Government, thus declare our aims and purposes: We find our country threatened with alternative perils. On the one hand is a public opinion misled by organized forces of commercialism that have perverted a war intended by the people to be a war of humanity into a war of conquest. On the other is a public opinion swayed by demagogic appeals to factional and class passions, the most fatal of diseases to a republic. We believe that either of these influences, if unchecked, would ultimately compass the downfall of our country, but we also believe that neither represents the sober conviction of our countrymen. Convinced that the extension of the jurisdiction of the United States for the purpose of holding foreign people as colonial dependents is an innovation dangerous to our liberties and repugnant to the principles upon which our Government is founded, we pledge our earnest efforts through all constitutional means, first, to procure the renunciation of all imperial or colonial pretensions with regard to foreign countries claimed to have been acquired through or in consequence of military or naval operations of the last two years. Second, we further pledge our efforts to secure a single gold standard and a sound banking system. Third, to secure a public service based on merit only. Fourth, to secure the abolition of all corrupting special privileges, whether under the guise of subsidies, bounties, undeserved pensions or trust breeding tariffs.

Senator Caffery and Mr. Howe withdrew September 21, and on September 26 it was decided to nominate single electors-at-large wherever practicable. This was done in some States for the benefit of voters who objected to the Republican or Democratic platforms. At the New-York conference the name "National Party" was approved, but the name "Third Party" was admitted to be that most familiar to the general public.

UNION REFORM.

Early in January the National Committee of the Union Reform party, which favors direct legislation, appointed a Canvassing Board, which sent out ballots to members of the party for votes for candidates for President and Vice-President. The balloting continued through February and March. In April the Canvassing Board announced that Seth H. Ellis, of Ohio, and Samuel T. Nicholson, of Pennsylvania, had been nominated for President and Vice-President respectively on the platform adopted by the Union Reform party at Cincinnati on March 1, 1899, and reaffirmed by the Ohio State Convention August 22, 1899, as follows: Direct legislation under the system known as the initiative and referendum. Under the "initiative" the people can compel the submission to themselves of any desired law, when, if it receives a majority of the votes cast, it is thereby enacted. Under the "referendum" the people can compel the submission to themselves of any law which has been adopted by any legislative body, when, if such law fails to receive a majority of the votes cast, it will be thereby rejected. The convention adopted an appeal in part as follows: We accept the strong and unanswerable arguments of our friends. We see no need or benefit from party except a party to secure direct legislation. We have attached ourselves to the Union Reform party for direct legislation only. This party, organized by progressive and active men from this and other States at a time when dominant parties had legislated to make the initiation of reform movements impossible, acted whilst we were awaiting an opportune hour. We ask our honest, home-loving fellow citizens to organize in their respective precincts, and to honestly and fairly extend their organization to county and district, and to assist in controlling and extending the party and movement until the desired object is attained. The majority is with us in this desire for direct government, and with this sole purpose they must act at last. The logic of events, the tyranny of the "bosses" and the necessities of the hour assure us. Friends, this securing of a rightful voice is the affair of the individual, of each and every one. Government direct by the people will not come as a voluntary concession from the holders of political power. These controllers of parties will not permit of referendum of acts and expenditures; they will not give to the people initiatory and mandatory rights, because to do so would be to destroy their own useless but lucrative occupations. These party "bosses" who monopolize political opportunity are the allies and supporters of all monopolies. We all believe that conditions can be made better or worse by legislation. The corporations know this and act accordingly. Truly they contribute to the election of candidates, but their great contributions are direct to the machine.

UNITED CHRISTIAN.

At a convention held at Rock Island, Ill., May 1 and 2, the United Christian party, devoted to the spread of moral and religious ideas in Government, placed in nomination the Rev. S. C. Swallow, of Pennsylvania, for President, and John G. Woolley, of Illinois, for Vice-President. These candidates withdrew, and Jonah F. R. Leonard, of Iowa, and David H. Martin, of Pennsylvania, were nominated in their stead on a platform which declared: We believe the time to have arrived when the eternal principles of justice, mercy and love as exemplified in the life and teachings of Jesus Christ should be embodied in the Constitution of our Nation and applied in concrete form to every function of our Government. We deprecate certain immoral laws which have grown out of the failure of our Nation to recognize these principles, notably such as require the desecration of the Christian Sabbath, authorize unscriptural marriage and divorce, license the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage, and permit the sale of cigarettes or tobacco in any form to minors. As an expression of consent or allegiance on the part of the governed, in harmony with the above statements, we declare for the adoption and use of the system of direct legislation known as the "initiative and referendum," together with "proportionate representation" and the "imperative mandate." We hold that all men and women are created free and with equal rights, and declare for the establishment of such political, industrial and social conditions as shall guarantee to every person civic equality, the full fruits of his or her honest toil, and opportunity for the righteous enjoyment of the same; and we especially condemn mob violence and outrages against any individual or class of individuals in our country. We declare against war and for the arbitration of all National and international disputes. We hold that the legalized liquor traffic is the crowning infamy of civilization, and we declare for the immediate abolition of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage. We are gratified to note the widespread agitation of the cigarette question, and declare ourselves in favor of the enactment of laws prohibiting the sale of cigarettes or tobacco in any form to minors. We declare for the daily reading of the Bible in the public schools and institutions of learning under control of the State. We declare for the Government ownership of public utilities. We declare for the election of the President and Vice-President and United States Senators by the direct vote of the people. We declare for such amendment of the United States Constitution as shall be necessary to give the principles herein set forth an undeniable legal basis in the fundamental law of our land. We invite into the United Christian party every honest man and woman who believes in Christ and His golden rule and standard of righteousness.

POLITICAL STATE PLATFORMS.

ALABAMA.

Republican. April 19.—The National Administration was approved, and a resolution of confidence in the management by William Vaughan of the affairs of the Republican State Executive Committee was adopted. The question of the selection of a State ticket was left to the next State Executive Committee.

Democratic. April 26.—The platform advocates commercial expansion and the extension of trade by freeing it from all burdens. The construction of the Nicaragua Canal is urged and Senator Morgan's position on that question indorsed. The treatment of the Porto Rican situation by Congress is denounced. Trade competition is declared as necessary and combines and trusts are scored. The platform demands the supervision and curbing of combines, and designates as the chief of these the protective tariff of the Republican party. W. J. Bryan is indorsed and his renomination demanded. The reaffirmation of the Chicago platform is demanded and public education is promised the people of Alabama. A resolution was passed by the convention recommending a constitutional convention.

Populist. May 30.—The dispensary system of handling the liquor traffic was declared an improvement over the license system, the proposed constitutional convention was declared inimical to the interests of the people, the administration of Governor Johnston was commended, and it was declared inexpedient to nominate a State ticket, although county tickets, especially for candidates for the Legislature, were urged.

ALASKA (District).

Republican. May 15.—The convention passed a resolution condemning Governor Brady, as follows: "Be it resolved by the Republicans of the District of Alaska, in convention assembled, that the further continuance in office of John G. Brady as Governor of Alaska is inimical to the interests of Alaska and contrary to the wishes of the Republican party, and that a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the President of the United States." The convention indorsed President McKinley's Administration: demanded that the territorial form of government be extended to Alaska; declared for the removal of the capital from Sitka to Juneau; asked the Government that a direct cable from Alaska to Puget Sound be laid, and demanded that lighthouses be erected in Alaskan waters forthwith.

ARIZONA.

Democratic. June 8.—The Territorial convention expressed satisfaction with Democratic principles, instructed its delegates to vote for Bryan, and adopted a money plank as follows: We favor the immediate restoration of the free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1, as such coinage existed prior to 1873, without waiting for the aid or the consent of any other silver nation. We are opposed to the retirement of the greenbacks, and demand that the Secretary of the Treasury, instead of issuing interest bearing bonds for the purchase of gold, shall recognize silver as the money of redemption, and exercise the right to redeem greenbacks, Treasury bonds and all other coin obligations in silver where silver is more convenient.

ARKANSAS.

Republican. March 21.—The platform indorsed the Administration, favored expansion, the protection of labor, Government construction and ownership of the Nicaragua Canal, and extension of the merchant marine, and declared opposition to trusts and laws designed to cheate honest voters and enable a corrupt minority to govern.

July 7.—The nominees and platform of the Philadelphia Convention were indorsed and the National policy commended. On State matters the platform said: We favor railroads, the prolific mother of all forms of State development; manufactories, the greatest source of wealth to a State, the improvement of highways, the encouragement of capital to invest in our zinc and other mines; a high degree of efficiency for our public school system, and such generous maintenance of the University of Arkansas as shall place it on a plane with the best institutions in the land. We demand that the courts alone shall punish crime. We oppose convict labor when brought into competition with the labor of honest freemen in such a manner as to lessen the demand for such labor or so as to curtail its reward. The constitution of the State should be so amended as to permit, under safe restrictions, cities and incorporated towns to borrow money for the exclusive purpose of improving streets, securing sewers, water, light and such like necessities. We favor the determination of all questions that may arise between employers and employes by a system of impartial arbitration to be provided by law and to be compulsory. We recommend that the State ticket shall consist solely of the nominee for Governor.

June 27.—The platform reaffirms the Chicago declaration of 1896, favors strict observance of the Monroe Doctrine, declares for Government construction and ownership of the Nicaraguan Canal, denounces trusts, condemns the Democratic. "death dealing policy of the Republican Administration in the Philippines," insists upon giving freedom to Cuba and demands the same rights for the Philippines and National legislation against trusts.

CALIFORNIA.

May 15.—The Republican party of the State of California, by its representatives, pledges itself anew to those principles of domestic and foreign policy which, under a wise administration of public affairs, have brought us prosperity
Republican. at home and honor abroad. We declare our continued adherence to the policy by which the Republican party has proved itself, in fact as in theory, the firend of labor, and under which our manufactures not only control the home market, but are taking first rank in foreign markets throughout the world. We are in favor of the construction of the Nicaragua Canal under Government control and ownership. We fully appreciate the menace to this country and especially to the Pacific Coast from the continually increasing influx of Asiatic labor and we call upon Congress by appropriate legislation to protect us from this impending danger. We heartily commend the patriotism and valor of our soldiers and sailors who have upheld the honor of our flag and country and emulated the glorious example of the men who preserved the integrity of the Union and won the lasting love and admiration of a grateful people. We heartily indorse the administration of President McKinley, as exemplifying the highest type of statesmanship, and justifying in every particular the confidence reposed in him by the American people. We declare ourselves in favor of the continuance of the policy of the present Administration as essential to the public welfare, and commend our President as meriting a renomination and triumphant re-election, and hereby instruct our delegates to the National Convention to give him their hearty support. We indorse the fearless and economical administration of State affairs by Governor Henry T. Gage, and express our approval of the faithful manner in which he has discharged the duties of his trust.

September 6.—The Philadelphia platform was indorsed, loyal support was pledged to McKinley and Roosevelt, Governor Gage's ccurse was commended, and the Nicaragua Canal project favored. Other planks were: We favor the conservation of all available waters for the reclamation and irrigation of arid lands, and liberal appropriations by Congress for that purpose, supplemented by the co-operation of the States directly interested. Such policy to be initiated by the collaboration of the Federal and State governments in a thorough investigation of our water supply and the best methods of utilizing the same. We indorse the action that has been taken to secure as a permanent possession for the whole people the great forests situated in our mountain ranges, and earnestly recommend that our Senators and Representatives in Congress support by their votes and influence the establishment of National reservations, in order that these forests may be saved from destruction and our water supply preserved. We favor such legislation as will prevent the acquisition of lands chiefly valuable for petroleum, asphaltum and other minerals under the guise of lien land and forest reserve exchange selections, and we request our Senators and Representatives in Congress to use all honorable means to prevent fraud in that way and secure such legislation as will protect the miners of the State from oppression and blackmail. We demand the prevention of the importation of cheap alien labor, the continuance and re-enactment of the present Chinese exclusion laws and appropriate legislation prohibiting the immigration of Japanese and other contract laborers. We favor the adoption of the proposed constitutional amendment providing for the regulation of primary elections and the enactment of such laws as will make it effective and insure fair primaries. We favor appropriate legislation for the permanent improvement of our roads and highways. We fully recognize the importance of the great work that the State University is doing toward the intellectual and industrial development of the State. We recognize also that the demands upon it in both these directions have so outgrown its income as to seriously threaten its usefulness. We therefore pledge our party to an increase of the revenues of the State University through the coming Legislature sufficient to maintain its efficiency. We congratulate our State and its people upon the semi-centennial of its admission to the Union, and rejoice that the policy of our Government is making California the gateway and centre of Oriental trade, developing our resources, creating a market for our products and portending for our State a future still more glorious than its golden past.

September 29.—The National ticket and platform were indorsed, and on State matters the platform favored legislation providing for the preservation within National or State parks of the redwood forests, and the revival of hydraulic Democratic. mining wherever it can be permitted without injury to other interests. The building of impounding works on the Yuba and other rivers was approved, and the adoption of a broad National policy for the construction of storage reservoirs for the free use of the people was urged. A constitutional amendment abolishing the poll tax was favored, and the election of railroad commissioners and members of the State Board of Equalization by vote of the people was demanded. Other planks were: The growing commerce of our State requires the early completion of the sea wall and Belt Line Railroad on the harbor front of San Francisco and the abolition of all State tolls and a material reduction of all other port charges. We denounce the action of the present Republican National Administration in refusing a right of way to the State for the construction of the Tioga road through the Yosemite National Park. We favor appropriate legislation for the permanent improvement of our roads and highways. We favor reforms in the law relating to the settlement of estates of decedents to lessen the expense of administration thereof.

COLORADO.

May 10.—Resolutions were adopted which unqualifiedly indorse President McKinley and his Administration, which is credited with bringing prosperity. They commend the policy pursued in the Philippines and Porto Rico, and express the hope that President McKinley will be unanimously renominated. They declare opposition to trusts, while inviting capital to the State. The resolutions also say: "We commend in terms of unqualified praise the attitude of our junior Senator, Edward O. Wolcott, upon all questions affecting the commercial, industrial and financial welfare of our country. Our confidence in him has never been betrayed, and we uphold and sustain him in his every official act." No further mention was made of the financial question.

Republican.

September 18.—The Republican party of Colorado, in convention assembled, renews its allegiance to the National organization, indorses the foreign and domestic policies of our President, William McKinley, and asserts that in point of wisdom, foresight and patriotic devotion to the interests of the people his Administration is unsurpassed in the annals of American history. His splendid official career has inspired confidence at home and admiration abroad. As a man he is the peer of any American, either past or present. His policy in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines has been able, just, patriotic and humane. He has accomplished more in China by diplomacy than all other nations combined. His record should command the respect and support of all true patriots. The platform then accepts the Democratic issue of imperialism as the basis of the contest, praises Theodore Roosevelt, and continues: The Republican party has been the constant and ever faithful friend of the home builder and settler in the West. It believes in free homes for free men. It was the father of the beneficent homestead law and secured its enactment against the bitter opposition of the Democratic party in Congress. Republican legislation gave land to the landless and homes to the homeless, and that party will continue to be the steadfast champion and defender of the home builder and the pioneer. We favor only such changes in existing land laws as have for their object the advancement of the welfare and prosperity of the settler. We are unalterably opposed to any legislation that would deprive the farmer or small holder of stock from the unrestricted use of the public domain of the United States, and to all legislation heretofore introduced having that in view. We are heartily in favor of National legislation which will aid in the construction of irrigation canals and reservoirs wherever needed in Colorado. We believe that the perpetuity of American institutions and the future destiny of our country rest largely on the shoulders of our laboring classes; consequently we believe in surrounding the home of the laboring man with every protection known to the law of the land. We believe that every pledge made by a political party, whether in convention or by individual candidate, should be religiously kept, and if the Republican party of Colorado is vested with the authority of government in this State we pledge the party, and also each and every candidate nominated by the party, to the enacting of legislation to carry into effect the following provisions: First, the submission to the people of a constitutional amendment providing for an efficient eight hour law. Second, the complete separation of the government of all cities of the State from any direction or control of the Governor or other State official, and particularly that the city of Denver shall be immediately granted home rule, and that all of its officers and boards shall be elected by the people of that city. Third, the taxation of franchises granted by municipal or other public legislative bodies upon the same basis as provided by law for the taxation of all other kinds of property. Fourth, the complete revision of the revenue laws of the State so that there shall be a single assessing power, and so that all classes of property shall be justly and equably assessed, and so as not to permit of any discrimination in the valuation upon any particular kind of property. Fifth, the revision of the revenue laws of the State so that ample funds at all times shall be provided for the maintenance at the highest possible standard of efficiency of each and all of the State institutions of Colorado. Sixth, the adoption of the merit system in the selection of public employes within this State wherever practicable. Seventh, the construction of good roads and highways and liberal assistance of both State and county for their maintenance. Eighth, the immediate repeal of the present prize fight law. Ninth, the retrenchment in the number and salaries of public officials and the abolition of unnecessary positions. Tenth, that school lands shall not be leased in large tracts to corporations regardless of the rights of settlers or the future welfare of the school fund; that the timber standing on the public school lands of the State shall not be sold without adequate consideration or wantonly wasted, as has been done during the last two years. The platform closes with hearty commendation of the work of Senator Edward O. Wolcott.

September 12.—Democrats, Silver Republicans and Populists united on a platform declaring opposition to the policy of the Administration, for free silver, and against imperialism, trusts, and a big standing Army, and favoring the election of Bryan as a reform candidate.

Democratic.

CONNECTICUT.

May 9.—The platform indorses the Administration of President McKinley, sustains the gold standard, says the grave crisis of war has been passed without mistake or dishonor, and believes that protection, liberty and the blessings of civilization will accrue to the people of Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines under Republican. the wise guidance of the Republican party. It believes the abandonment of the Philippines to internal anarchy or to any other cowardly suggestion and weak policy of the Democratic party would entail untold suffering upon their people and bring worldwide dishonor, if not disaster, on the United States. It says the people ought to hold managers of so-called trusts to strict accountability for exceptional privileges granted them by charter, believes in creating and maintaining the best Navy in the world, and in the encouragement of the merchant marine.

September 5.—The Republicans of Connecticut, in convention assembled, hereby declare their unaltered confidence in President William McKinley and in his wise and patriotic administration of the affairs of the Nation, and indorse the Republican candidates for President and Vice-President as wise and able statesmen and brave soldiers, deserving of the support of all voters, and in their declarations of principles set forth in the Republican platform adopted by the Republican National Convention. We reiterate our belief in and adherence to the principle of the gold standard as enunciated in the National Republican platform, and declare that the wise and patriotic men of the United States who voted to establish the stability of our currency upon a gold basis deserve the gratitude of the people. We favor the continuance of a just and reasonable tariff law for the protection of American industries. We approve all that has been done and is being done to establish the rightful sovereign authority of the United States in and over its recently acquired territory, and believe that under the protecting arm of the Government these new possessions will increase in prosperity and wealth and their inhabitants develop into an educated and enlightened people, fit in due time to bear such burdens and responsibilities of government as the law making power of the Nation may find it expedient to intrust to their charge. We declare that trusts which have for their purpose the increasing of the cost of the necessaries of life or the decreasing of the wages of labor are contrary to the spirit of our institutions, and that the same should be restrained by appropriate legislation. We recognize the services of our soldiers and sailors in the Civil War, and the war with Spain, and wherever they may now be upholding the honor of the flag, protecting our citizens, and establishing the supremacy of the Government, and pledge to them the recognition and reward due to the saviors of our country and the defenders of our flag. We indorse the careful, prudent and economical administration of the affairs of the State of Connecticut by its present able and judicious Republican State officials. We commend to the electors of the State of Connecticut the nominee of this convention for Governor of this State, and his associates upon the State ticket, and the Presidential electors, and declare that they are entitled to the support, confidence and suffrage of every citizen of the State, irrespective of party.

September 22.—After dealing with National questions in the usual way the platform condemns the method of electing State officers by a majority vote in the following terms: We condemn the present system of representation in the Democratic. General Assembly, which, together with the method of electing State officers by a majority vote, not by a plurality vote of the electors, is the source of the strength of an arrogant political machine and an intolerant lobby, and serves to bring the fair name of our State into disrepute. Experience has demonstrated that these evils cannot be cured by constitutional amendments, and we favor as the only feasible methods of reform all steps looking to a constitutional convention.

DELAWARE.

March 21.—The course of the Administration was sustained, and thanks were extended to both soldiers and sailors for gallant services. Partisan legislation intended to defeat the will of the people was condemned, and monopolies

Republican (REGULAR). and trade were treated as follows: We denounce and condemn all combinations or monopolies which stifle fair competition and unjustly increase prices to the consumer. We strongly favor all measures looking toward the enlargement of our foreign markets and the enactment of such legislation by Congress as will restore our merchant marine, so that our imports and exports may be transported in American built, American owned and American manned vessels.

August 21.—The principal planks adopted were: The recently amended constitutions of the Democratic States of Mississippi, Louisiana, South Carolina and North Carolina deny the electoral franchise to illiterate black, but not to illiterate white citizens. We denounce this as a crime against free government and contrary to the spirit, if not the letter of the Constitution of the United States. We favor all just and honorable measures looking to the adjustment of existing differences among Republicans of Delaware, and in earnest of this we recommend that the nominations of the convention be not confined to those who have not been heretofore acting with us.

April 3.—The general course of the Administration was approved, and special planks in the platform declared: That our coasts should be strongly and efficiently defended with the best munitions, weapons, defences and men attain-

Republican (UNION). able for the protection of our people and their property. We also favor a strong and efficient Navy, which is the strongest, best and most effective safeguard from the effect of any foreign force. That all combinations or trusts so-called, whose operation, management and control increase the cost of any article or commodity to the consumer are a menace to the safety of the country and should be so regulated and controlled by proper and adequate legislation; that the Interstate Commerce law ought to be rigidly and impartially enforced, so that the shipper of goods over a shorter haul should not be discriminated against in favor of a shipper of goods over a longer haul.

August 6.—Special planks declared that the Union Republicans favor a just and economical government in the State of Delaware and pledge the people, if intrusted with power, a correction of the gross abuses in the administration of State and county offices, the making of all elective State and county officers salaried, the maintenance of the present incorporation act of the State, a thorough investigation of the present condition of State and county finances, careful inquiry into the various sources of revenue, the discovery of other legitimate and equitable methods of increasing the income of the State without adding any additional burden to the people, and the establishment of a Bureau of Immigration for the purpose of securing an increase in the population, a reduction of the general tax rate and a greater value therefore to real estate, especially in the lower part of the Commonwealth.

Democratic.

June 19.—The convention adopted planks mainly in opposition to the Republican policy, declaring that the growth of trusts was a menace to the people, that imperialism and militarism were opposed to the National welfare, and calling for the nomination of William Jennings Bryan for President.

September 11.—We, the Democrats in Delaware, in State Convention assembled, ratify and indorse the declaration of principles promulgated by the National Democracy in the Kansas City Convention, and pledge ourselves, with united and vigorous support, to the candidates there nominated for President and Vice-President of the United States. We recall with gratification the good government enjoyed by the people of Delaware during the many years in which our State affairs have been managed by Democratic officials, and we point to the four years of clean and honorable administration under Governor Tunnell, now drawing to a close, as indisputable evidence that the Democratic party in this State is entitled to the continued confidence and support of our citizens. Deprived of our equal constitutional representation in the Senate of the United States, we congratulate our people that our State interests have been carefully conserved by our sole representative in the highest legislative body in the world, and cordially commend Senator Kenney for his active and successful attention to our National interests. We favor a new system for the registration of voters, and believe that in the place of biennial registration the registration should be permanent in character, so that a voter once registered may be continued on the list of qualified voters without again appearing before the registrar, unless he moves to a new voting precinct. The list of registered voters should be revised every two years by the addition of names of new voters and the striking off of those who have died, removed or become disqualified. In this connection we favor the abolition of the registration fee of $1, which has proved an unsatisfactory and unnecessary tax. Other clauses favor the reduction of taxes on mercantile and manufacturing licenses, proper auditing of accounts in each county, abolishment of the fee system of payment for officials, and systematic improvement of the roads, and the platform continues: We pledge the Democratic representatives of Delaware in the Congress of the United States to earnest and continued efforts for the further improvement of the harbor of Wilmington, the improvement of our other navigable waters and the completion of the inland waterway connecting the Delaware Bay with Southern waters. We promise to the people of Delaware, under Democratic supremacy, a continuance of the honest and economical government which they have heretofore enjoyed, and we call the attention of all good citizens of the State, irrespective of party, to the impossibility of maintaining such a government or of discussing or deciding ordinary questions of government should our State fall into the unscrupulous hands of the Union Republican party.

Prohibition.

May 9.—The important planks of the platform adopted were: We believe that the attitude of President McKinley in regard to the Army canteen deserves the condemnation of all friends of truth and righteousness and should be rebuked at the ballot box by all lovers of law and order. We deplore the extension of the liquor traffic in our new territories and believe that this Christian nation ought to prohibit in our new territory that business which is the sum of all iniquity, mother of all abomination. We denounce the narrow partisanship, the open bribery, the brazen self-seeking, the unblushing debauchery and corruption that have disgraced the politics of this State in recent years, and we call on all citizens who are opposed to these methods to unite with us to correct the present evils and secure good government for all, believing that this is an opportune time to cut loose from and sever all ties with the old parties.

FLORIDA.

Democratic.

June 20.—The platform adopted has for its main features the indorsement of William J. Bryan for President, the denunciation of trusts, demand for the repeal of all war taxes, 16 to 1 ratio of coinage, governmental control of corporations, especially of railroads, direct vote for United States Senators, a graduated income tax and reduction of the tariff to a revenue basis.

GEORGIA.

Democratic.

June 14.—Ballot reform, honest elections, United States control of the Nicaragua Canal, expansion of trade with foreign countries and the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people were favored by the convention, and trusts, protection, imperialism, a large standing army and the Porto Rican policy of the Government were condemned. Special State planks included the following: We favor an amendment to the Constitution of Georgia limiting the power of the General Assembly to levy and assess taxes, for any purpose whatsoever, exceeding a specified percentum, except for the purpose of suppressing insurrection, repelling invasion and defending the State in time of war. We demand that the 10 per cent tax on State bank issues be repealed, so as to permit a system of local State banks, under such restrictions and by the deposit of such securities as will absolutely protect persons dealing with them.

Populist.

June 14.—The platform called for an amendment to the State Constitution providing for the initiative, referendum and imperative mandate, a free ballot and a fair count, and the public ownership of all public utilities. The fee system, and the acceptance of passes by public officials were condemned. The convict labor law was treated as follows: We emphatically condemn the convict law passed by the Legislature of 1897 as being the enactment of a system more iniquitous than the old lease act. We believe that the State herself should keep possession of her prisoners and should employ them upon the public roads and not allow them to be brought in competition with free labor, and that reformatories be established for juvenile criminals.

Republican.

The Republican voters of Georgia held no convention in 1900.

HAWAII (Territory).

Republican.

September 24.—The convention adopted a platform indorsing President McKinley's Administration and containing many planks dealing with measures of interest to the Territory of Hawaii. Chief among them are declarations in favor of the speedy construction of the Nicaragua Canal and the Pacific cable, and pledges of efforts to secure harbor improvements and good public buildings for the islands.

Democratic.

September 24.—Opposition to the Government of the United States, denunciation of annexation, Hawaii for Hawaiians, and planks referring to local improvements were the principal features of the platform adopted by the Democratic convention.

IDAHO.

Republican.

July 18.—The Republican party of Idaho renews its allegiance to the principles of Republicanism, and declares its unqualified approval of the National platform adopted at Philadelphia, its adherence to the principles represented by the official acts of the Administration of William McKinley, and pledges itself to the support of the same. We are in favor of amending the Constitution of the United States so as to give Congress the power more fully to regulate and suppress trusts, and we denounce the action of the Democratic party in the present Congress, who, by their votes, defeated the proposition to submit such an amendment to the people of the United States for their ratification. We condemn the policy of the present State administration whereby it has sought to deprive a large number of honest settlers in the northern part of the State of their lands taken up under the Homestead laws of the United States; and which has further resulted in losing to the State thousands of acres of valuable timber lands. We condemn the policy of the present State administration in converting the boards of control of the various State institutions into partisan political machines; and the Republican party pledges itself to place these institutions in the hands of those who will conduct them solely for the public good and not in the interest of any political organization. We remember with feelings of gratitude and pride the gallant patriotic services rendered to our country by the brave volunteer soldiers from Idaho, and glory in their deeds of valor and faithfulness to the call of duty. We pledge them the loyal support of the Republican party in recognition of their services.

Silver Republican.

July 21.—The Silver Republicans of Idaho indorse and adopt the National platform promulgated at Kansas City, July 12, 1900, as our declaration of principles. We declare our adherence to the principle of bimetallism and the use of both gold and silver as the basic money upon which the business of our country should be conducted, and favor the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1 regardless of the action of any other nation on earth. We denounce the gold standard law as a measure enacted in the interest of the trusts and the money power and a detriment to the good of the common people. We favor a graduated tax upon incomes as one of the best and most just methods of raising public revenue, and if necessary to secure this a constitutional amendment, and the election of United States Senators by a direct vote of the people and until our present system of electing Senators is changed we favor their nomination in State convention. Combinations, trusts and monopolies formed for the purpose of controlling prices are unjust, oppressive and extort from the masses excessive profits without adequate returns, and we favor such legislation as will effectually restrain and suppress them. We favor a National irrigation law that will enable the farmers and settlers to reclaim the arid lands of the West and make them productive. We favor the reservation of the public lands for the benefit of the homesteader; oppose the creation of extensive forest reserves, embracing within their borders the best timber lands of the State, as unjust and calculated to retard the development of its resources and the settlement of the country. We demand the rescinding of the orders issued by the Cleveland and McKinley administrations for the creation of these reserves, believing that such lands should be restored to the public domain for settlement and development. We are opposed to the United States leasing public lands of the West whereby the large syndicates will be enabled to secure control of the public domain to the detriment of the small stockmen, the farmer and the homesteader.

Democratic. June 6.—The chief plank in the platform was an indorsement of William J. Bryan for President. The resolutions adopted also favored fusion of all reform elements.

People's. July 21.—We reaffirm our allegiance to the principles of the People's party and heartily indorse the platform adopted by our National Convention at Sioux Falls. We congratulate the settlers on our Indian lands on the passage of the Free Homes bill. Within the borders of our State are millions of acres of arid lands and we are in favor of National appropriations to aid in the establishment of a system of reservoirs and canals to irrigate and reclaim said lands. We are in favor of that principle of government known as "Initiative and Referendum" and urge the passage of such laws as will enable the people of this State to pass upon all legislative measures. We demand the immediate discontinuance of martial law in Shoshone County, under which the pernicious system of permits to seek employment has been inaugurated and we demand the abolition of said system. We further demand that all civil and political rights guaranteed by the Constitution and the laws be immediately restored to all citizens of our beloved State.

Fusion. July 17.—The State conventions of the Democratic, Silver Republican and Populist parties effected a fusion, declared for Bryan, free silver, legislative control of trusts, and against the foreign, domestic and financial policy of the Administration.

ILLINOIS.

Republican. May 9.—The platform after reaffirming the principles of the platform adopted by the Republican National Convention of 1896 and calling attention to the prosperous condition of the country "under the wise, businesslike and patriotic Administration of President McKinley," proceeds: We congratulate the people of the country on the enactment into law of the Currency bill, which provides the gold standard as the monetary unit of value. Financial discussions no longer disturb the business conditions of our people, and all business transactions have been placed on a basis that insures protection to capital and encouragement to the employment of labor. . . . Cuba has been made free from Spanish misrule and a stable government established there. Porto Rico and the Philippine Islands have become the possessions of the United States as the inevitable and unavoidable results of that war. We fully indorse the action of Congress and the President in the administration of the affairs in these islands and all legislation respecting the same, and we pledge our allegiance to the Nation's policy relating to them as formulated and carried out by the present Administration. In indorsing and approving the policy and course of the Administration and the legislation of Congress thus far relating to our new possessions we express our confidence in the ability of a Republican Administration to deal with the complicated and important questions involved in any legislation for those islands which may arise hereafter. We favor such legislation as will destroy all unlawful combinations of capital formed for the purpose of limiting production or increasing the price of manufactured products. All aggregations of capital formed for this purpose are detrimental to the best interests of trade and hostile to the laboring people. The administration of Governor Tanner was indorsed, and also the public services of United States Senator Cullom. The platform concluded with a strong indorsement of President McKinley.

Democratic. June 27.—The platform indorses the National platform of 1896 "in whole and in all its parts." It denounces the National Administration as "the weakest in the history of the Nation," and especially condemns the "cowering attitude of the President and his advisers in refusing consolation and sympathy to the heroic Boers in their struggle for independence"; invokes public condemnation of "an administrative policy which denies to Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippine Islands the principle of home rule and self-government and seeks the subjugation of a free and enlightened people for the glory of an imperial policy revolting to our traditions and a defiance to the principles of our Federal Constitution." The new currency law is declared to be the foundation for a "money trust which will have power to control the prices of all property and to stimulate or strangle business." Sympathy is expressed for the Boers, while imperialism is denounced as "necesarily leading to militarism and as wholly foreign to our system of government." Alliances with European nations are "regarded with apprehension." "Trusts and monopolies, formed for the purpose of arbitrarily controlling products and prices in the interest solely of combined capital, if allowed to go on," the resolutions declare, "can result only in industrial serfdom for the mass of the people." Protective tariff and "railway discrimination" are declared to be blamable for existing trusts, and stringent legislation is demanded for their restriction. The immediate building of an American interoceanic canal is favored, the Monroe Doctrine is reaffirmed, postal savings banks are favored, as are also public ownership of public utilities and the election of United States Senators by direct vote. The general principle of the initiative and referendum is favored. "Unqualified admiration" is expressed for William J. Bryan, who is declared to have been robbed of office in 1896. The Illinois delegation to Kansas City is instructed to vote as a unit for Bryan. The resolutions were unanimously adopted.

INDIANA.

Republican.

April 25.—The platform emphatically indorsed the wise and patriotic Administration of President McKinley. The attitude of the Administration was approved on all points, especially coinage, the open door in China, the administration of insular affairs and the conduct of the Spanish war. The planks relating to insular affairs are as follows: The conflict with Spain was begun and carried on from humane and disinterested motives. The possession of the islands which came to our hands as a result of that war was a consequence of it not foreseen, but which could not be avoided with honor and safety. We cannot escape the responsibility resting upon us. Our first duty is to establish the authority of the United States against armed resistance, then to replace military by civil administration. We pledge the largest possible freedom of control in their affairs, as their ability for self-government shall be developed, and to use all proper means to advance their civilization and enlightenment. We unhesitatingly indorse and approve the policy and course of the Administration and the legislation by Congress in respect to our newly acquired possessions, and express full confidence in the wisdom, integrity and ability of the Administration, supported by a Republican Congress, to deal wisely and justly with the questions concerning the same as they may arise. Following is the text of the financial plank: We congratulate the American people in that the Republican party has kept its beneficent pledge for the maintenance of the gold standard and the parity of all our forms of money by comprehensive, courageous legislation. The Republican party has always stood and now stands for money laws that benefit all people alike, without preference of one over another, the borrower as well as the lender, and such as equalize and lower the rates of interest throughout the country. And to this end we favor legislation authorizing elasticity in our bank currency for the benefit of our producers, the laborers, the farmer and the manufacturer, and for the general commerce of our people, under the guidance and control of the Secretary of the Treasury. Indiana's Senators and Representatives were commended for their labors; the memories of Vice-President Garret A. Hobart, Major-General Henry W. Lawton and Colonel Richard W. Thompson were eulogized. Additional anti-trust legislation was favored, both State and Federal, and a plea was made for "just and liberal pensions to all deserving soldiers and sailors." The early construction of the Nicaragua Canal under the direction and exclusive control of the United States Government was recommended, and the enactment and enforcement of laws restricting and preventing the importation of such undesirable foreign population as is prejudicial to free American labor was favored.

Democratic.

June 6.—After instructing its delegates to the National Convention for Bryan and indorsing the principles of the Chicago platform of 1896, the platform condemns the policy of President McKinley's Administration, and on State affairs says: We call attention to the reform legislation which the Democratic party has given the people of this State, the school book law, the tax laws, the Australian ballot, the fee and salary reform, and the many statutes for the protection of labor. The Republican party is now hypocritically claiming credit for the reduction of our State debt, made possible by the Democratic tax law, the enactment of which it opposed. It has mutilated the Australian ballot and repealed the statute making the bribery of voters a penal offence. In four years of absolute control of State affairs it has failed to pass any effectual legislation against monopolies or trusts, but has uniformly defeated all effort to enact anti-trust laws. We pledge ourselves to an economical administration of State affairs, the non-partisan management of the State institutions, the continuation of the reform work begun by the Democratic party and the enactment and enforcement of State legislation against trusts.

Populist (MIDDLE OF THE ROAD).

February 22.—After declaring in favor of Government ownership of all lines of transportation, telegraphs and telephones, and municipal ownership of streetcar lines, light and water plants, the resolutions said: We view with alarm the enormous increase in the assessed value of property for the purpose of taxation in Indiana, and we demand a more rigid economy in the management of State, county and municipal affairs. We favor a State law requiring the letting of all legal advertisements to the lowest bidder. We are opposed to the sale of intoxicating liquors to be used as a beverage. We favor the election of the county superintendent by the vote of the people.

Prohibition.

May 1.—The platform declared that abolition of the liquor traffic could only be accomplished through a political party. The platform denounced the annulment of the anti-canteen law by the President and members of his Cabinet as being unjustifiable in law and revolutionary and unpatriotic in principle, and charged President McKinley with moral cowardice in refusing to exercise his authority as Commander-in-Chief of the Army to abolish the sale of liquor in the Army canteen, and to prohibit its importation into our newly acquired territory.

IOWA.

Republican.

May 10.—The platform adopted says, in part: In the light of to-day it is apparent that the attempt to debase the currency as a remedy for the hard times then prevailing was a monstrous blunder, which, if successful, would have involved the country in lasting humiliation and shame and proved disastrous to its industrial interests. We insist that no issue can be paramount to the maintenance of the public credit and the stability of the money for which all labor and products are sold. So long as a political party stands committed to the overthrow of the existing monetary system we call upon all conservative men to act with us in keeping that party from power. We favor the extension of self-government to all the people that have lately come under the protection of this country as rapidly as they demonstrate their capacity to exercise it; we hold our authority over them to be a solemn trust to be exercised with an eye single to their instruction, development and prosperity. We favor legislation that will effectually protect the public from the evils of combinations in restraint of trade. For measures to properl· restrict the power of aggregated capital, to protect the individual rights of all men and preserve freedom of competition and of opportunity we rely upon the Republican party, trusting to that wise and safe statesmanship which in emergencies of the last four years has been so satisfactorily tested.

Democratic.

August 1.—The platform, which was unanimously adopted, indorsed the National and State administrations, deplored the death of Senator Gear as a loss to the State and Nation, and concluded: In the remote East, among a strange and alien people, in scenes of terror and of peril, Edwin H. Conger, a citizen of Iowa, is now representing not only the honor of his country, but the dignity and manhood of the American people. His friends and neighbors, of whatever faith, earnestly pray for the safety and immediate succor of him and of his family, and that the day may come speedily when, in his own home, he may receive the assurances of their constant sympathy and their ever increasing interest and regard.

May 3.—The platform reaffirmed unqualified allegiance to the Chicago platform, called for the nomination of Bryan, opposed the gold standard and the retirement of greenbacks to be displaced by banknotes. Sympathy for the Boers was expressed, the policy of the Administration in Porto Rico, Cuba and the Philippines was denounced as a stain upon American honor, and imperialism and militarism were vigorously attacked.

Populist. (MIDDLE OF THE ROAD).

August 16.—The platform indorsed the action of the Kansas City Convention, and contained the following special planks: As a phase of the trust question, bearing disastrously on manufacturing interests in Iowa and other agricultural States we point to the fact that the combination of the manufacturing trusts and the railway trust have resulted in closing many such factories. Many plants in Iowa now stand idle because they have either been driven out of business by unfair competition or have been absorbed by the trusts and closed down. We demand the enactment and enforcement of stringent laws, both State and National, to control all trusts; we deprecate the growing power and influence of railways in State politics and the subserviency of the Executive Council, the Railroad Commission and even the Governor himself to railway dictation. We demand that railway rates and taxation as well as legislation affecting railways shall be shaped and fixed for the benefit of the whole people without improper interference from the special interests involved. We condemn the subterfuge of the mulct and pharmacy act by which the Republican party has returned the saloon to Iowa while still maintaining the farce of prohibition. The Democratic party believes in majority rule, it favors the honest and open policy of local control with stringent regulations. We condemn the Republican party for passing the anti-fusion law, and constantly changing other election laws with the view to confuse the voter and defeat the will of the electorate. We earnestly urge all citizens who love liberty and oppose the imperialistic policy of the Republican party to rally to the support of our standard bearers in this Presidential campaign.

August 1.—The platform indorsed the Omaha and Cincinnati declarations; indorsed Barker and Donnelly; denounced the Republican party for "cruel capitalism" and the Democratic party as the "servile imitator of the Republicans in all the villanous legislation of the last thirty years"; declared imperialism "is a sham battle between the two old parties to obscure real issues"; denounced restrictions upon the ballot in various Southern States. and especially the Goebel Election law in Kentucky, and declared for the initiative and referendum.

August 28.—The convention indorsed the candidacy of Wharton Barker and Ignatius Donnelly for President and Vice-President respectively, and decided to put a State ticket into the field.

People's. (FUSION).

April 17.—The platform denounced the course of the Administration in regard to the Philippines, Porto Rico and Cuba, declared against imperialism, declared against the currency bill, slavery and polygamy in the Sulu Islands, and demanded more rigid legislation regarding trusts.

United Christian.

July 4.—The platform declared: That we as a party favor whatever tends to make men and women virtuous, intelligent and happy. We demand the abolition of the liquor traffic in State and Nation. We favor the control of our monetary systems as provided by the Constitution of the United States. We demand direct legislation by the people as the true standard of right governed only by the golden rule. We demand the extension of the elective franchise to all American citizens regardless of sex. We declare for the election of the President and Vice-President and United States Senators by the direct vote of the people. We favor Government ownership and control of public utilities and the correction of all evils existing under the present systems.

KANSAS.

Republican.

May 16.—Commendation of the course of the Administration was followed by a demand for the enforcement of the Anti-Trust act of 1890, and the railroad question was treated as follows: The Republican party pledges itself to the work of securing to the people such legislation, founded in common justice and business sense, as will provide adequate protection against the greed of the corporations without crippling them with unjust exactions. We favor the re-establishment of the Board of Railroad Commissioners with such additional powers as shall render their work effective, and with power to fix and enforce just rates, and recommend the election of this Board by the people. We favor a law which will enable railroad men who are necessarily engaged in running their trains upon Election Day to cast their votes. The operation of trains often makes it impossible under our present voting system for conductors and members of train crews to cast their votes, and their inability to find time from their work to go to the polls thus deprives several thousand people of the State, each year, of the right of suffrage. We pledge ourselves to some measure which will make it possible for these men to enjoy suffrage without embarrassment to their work.

Democratic.

July 24.—After declaring that the Kansas City platform was regarded as a second Declaration of Independence, the State platform advocated the continuance of the Sanitary Board for the protection of the cattle industry, demanded relief from oppression by trusts, with special reference to the Standard Oil Company, and on railroad affairs demanded the abolition of the pass system and the practice of using double headers, or two engines to one train of twice the ordinary size, and said: There should be created by law a public tribunal clothed with all power necessary for the complete and efficient regulation and control of the railways of the State in their relations to the public and to their agents, servants and employes and to all persons whomsoever, and in all of their conduct and actions in the operation of their roads, and in the prosecution of their business in all things and at all times.

Prohibition.

June 20.—The platform declared: 1. That the liquor traffic is the greatest of all evils, and we demand the total prohibition of the manufacture, sale, importation and exportation of alcoholic liquors as a beverage. 2. We affirm our loyalty to the National Prohibition party and its principles as the only party that stands committed to the overthrow of the liquor traffic in State and Nation. 3. The right of citizens of the United States to vote should not be denied on account of sex.

Populist.

July 25.—After demanding the election of United States Senators by direct vote, a change in the administration of the Pension Bureau, establishment of the initiative and referendum, the platform says: We demand the withdrawal of all special privileges now granted by law to corporations or individuals, and the application of the principle of government ownership as a remedy for monopolies of every kind. Believing the public work ought to be done by the people in their own interest, we favor the municipal ownership and operation of plants for the supply of water, light, heat and power, and also of all streetcar lines and telephone systems. An amendment to the State banking laws was called for, which will provide for taxing the banks to create a fund, to be under the control of the State Bank Commissioner, and to be used to reimburse depositors in banks which become insolvent.

KENTUCKY.

Republican.

July 17.—The platform, after calling attention to the special election for Governor, continues: We declare that the only tolerable government is self-government. We declare that in this State all men must be free and equal and that the will of the people must be the supreme law of the State. We demand for each child a free school, but we deny that education or accumulated property alone confer the right of suffrage. The first duty of Kentucky citizenship is to repeal the Goebel election law, which is the source and continuing strength of the wrongs done in this State. A vote of confidence next November in men who are all usurpers of office and who have for a year past been acting together to thwart the declared will of the people will be accepted as a vote of confidence in the election law that is a blot on our statute book. The Goebel law must be abolished or republican institutions must be surrendered. The convention invites all friends of civil liberty and social order to unite with the Republicans in Kentucky in securing the repeal of the Goebel election law and the preservation of the liberties of the people.

Democratic.

July 19.—After indorsing the action of the Kansas City Convention and recommending amendment of the 1898 election law, the platform continues: We present the people of Kentucky the picture of an army of intimidation, unlawfully quartered in the public buildings of the State; a State Senator, while in the discharge of his duty to the State, stricken down by an assassin's bullet, fired from ambush, from the executive building, then occupied by his political adversary, who hoped to profit by his death; that adversary arming, filling and surrounding the building with armed men instructed to defy the civil authorities and prevent search for the assassin; the same political adversary and Republican pretender by force dissolving the Legislature in violation of the Constitution; attempting by military power to force the Legislature to meet in a veritable slaughter pen for the Democratic members; driving its members through the streets of Frankfort at the point of the bayonet; forcibly preventing the Legislature from meeting in its lawful and proper place; keeping armed, riotous and disorderly men under the very window of the room where lay dying the assassin's victim; driving the Court of Appeals from the Capitol; by military force defying the writ of habeas corpus; aiding with the soldiery and spurious pardons those lawfully accused of capital crimes to flee from justice; the same Republican pretender fleeing from the State after indictment and remaining a fugitive from justice, protected by an open violation of the Constitution of the United States, after having declared to the people of the State: "I am a citizen of this State, amenable to its laws. I am not a criminal, neither shall I ever be a fugitive from justice. Whenever indicted I shall appear for trial." And we confidently declare our belief that a majority of people in Kentucky favor the preservation of law and order; of both civil and personal liberty, and the maintenance of the constitutional rights of the people—Democratic doctrine which is the hope and inspiration of every true Democrat. We declare to the world that the mob and the assassin shall not be the arbiter of the rights of the citizens of Kentucky, nor shall the penalty of an appeal to the law and the regular constituted authorities be left at the hands of the assassin. Law and order must and shall prevail in Kentucky.

People's (FUSION).

August 1.—Both the great parties are denounced, and the Goebel law was attended to as follows: We point especially to the present condition in Kentucky, where through a vicious and unjust election law made by the Democratic party, and upheld by that party to-day, one-fifth of the voters of the State were disfranchised, the certificate of a Democratic Election Commission, based upon the returns of election officers selected by the Democratic party in every precinct, and showing a plurality for the Republican nominees, being ignored and the State officered by men defeated at the polls. We condemn this Goebel election law as imperialism of the most dangerous character, and denounce the professions of the Democratic party as insincere as long as it is responsible for this blighting imperialism, disfranchising American citizens and depriving them of their constitutional privileges. We declare that this unjust and iniquitous election law should be repealed, and in its stead enacted a law giving all parties fair and just representation at the polls and on the returning boards, through representatives selected by the authorities of the several parties, and so constructed as to make impossible partisan advantage through the manipulation and operation of the laws of the commonwealth.

Populist (MIDDLE OF THE ROAD).

August 1.—The National platfom was approved, and on the franchise and elections the planks adopted were: We declare our unalterable opposition to any effort to limit the franchise, holding that the Constitution guarantees to every citizen the right to vote and have that vote counted as cast, regardless of wealth, education, color or previous condition of servitude. We declare that the issue of fair elections and that of direct legislation are one and inseparable; that direct legislation through the initiative and referendum is the only possible guarantee that corrupt politicians will not continue their assaults upon popular government.

Prohibition.

After the usual planks relative to the liquor traffic, the platform says: We favor such an amendment to the present Constitution of Kentucky and wise revision of the election laws of Kentucky that every citizen, without regard to sex, color, or previous condition of servitude, who can read or write the Declaration of Independence of the United States, shall, on attaining the age of twenty-one years, be allowed an unrestricted ballot, and such ballot shall be turned in as cast. We demand that laws be passed and rigidly enforced excluding from entrance to the United States those who cannot read or write, or who are criminals, paupers or dangerously diseased.

LOUISIANA.

Republican.

March 5.—The convention reaffirmed the principles declared by the National party at the St. Louis Convention, and sustained the policy of the Administration in its policy regarding the results of the Spanish war. The platform continues: For the National defence, for the re-enforcement of the Navy, for the enlargement of our foreign markets, for the employment of American workmen in the mines, forests, farms, mills, factories and shipyards, we demand the immediate enactment of legislation similar to that favorably reported to each branch of the Fifty-fifth Congress at its last session, so that the American built, American owned and American manned ships may regain the carrying of our foreign commerce. We view with alarm and amazement the growing tendency of the Southern Democracy to eliminate from the electorate by unjust constitutional enactments a large, industrious, loyal and conservative class of our fellow citizens. The Republican party knows no distinction among the suffragans of this country on account of race, color or previous condition. We therefore condemn the action of the Democratic party of Louisiana for creating in the organic law of the State a privileged class of voters, and denounce such a provision as un-American and un-Republican, and ask the patriotic people of the United States to join with us in testing the constitutionality of the law, and to destroy, if possible, its baneful influence upon the growth and progress of the age.

Republican (LILY WHITE).

April 30.—The resolutions declared the State election of April 17 to be one of the most fraudulent ever held in the State. Specific resolutions were: Resolved, That we approve and indorse the Administration of President McKinley, and pledge our delegation to support him for renomination as the Republican candidate for President at the November election. Resolved, That a majority of the voters of the State of Louisiana are Republicans. Our agriculture, commerce, shipping, railroads, steamboats, manufacturing and labor interests are all dependent for prosperity on the policies of the Republican party; that with a fair registration, an honest election and an honest effort the electoral vote of Louisiana can be counted on for the Republican party, and we here and now consecrate ourselves to organize for a grand and determined effort to see that our votes are cast and counted at the next election for the candidates of our choice. Resolved, That the union of the Howell and Herwig factions was induced by the desire that there should be but one regular Republican organization in this State. The Howell committee contested with the Herwig committee for three years, and finally yielded to a union with it, only because it was the recognized organ of the party of this State.

Colored Republicans.

April 30.—The most important action of the convention was the organization of a State Committee with P. F. Herwig as chairman, and the Executive Committee was authorized to place Presidential Electors in the field. No platform was adopted.

Democratic.

December 20, 1899.—After declaring allegiance to the Chicago platform of 1896 the platform said: We denounce the monopolistic combinations known as trusts, and demand that the Legislature and Congress do pass such laws within the competency of each as shall regulate, restrain and suppress them. We impress upon our Representatives and Senators in Congress the paramount importance of judicious Federal aid to the levee system of the Mississippi River; to the jettying and deepening of Southwest Pass; to the improvement of the great waterways of the West and South, and to the prompt building of a ship canal connecting the Atlantic and Pacific oceans—all works of National importance, in which Louisiana is so deeply interested.

MAINE.

Republican.

June 27.—The convention indorsed the nominations and platform of the Philadelphia Convention, and the platform adopted by the Lewiston convention of April 19. On State affairs readjustment of the system of State taxation, free popular education, and the creation of the office of State Auditor were favored, and good roads were called for in the following plank: Good roads enhance the value of property and are potent factors in the development of every community. We favor such action by the State as will bring to the knowledge of local officials the most successful methods of maintaining the roads committed to their care, and promote effective legislation to that end.

Democratic.

July 11.—We indorse the principles laid down in the platform, adopted by the Democratic National Convention held at Kansas City, July 4, and pledge our unqualified support to Bryan and Stevenson, candidates for the office of President and Vice-President. The Democratic party is, as it always has been, the friend of labor, and we deplore the conditions which have grown up under Republican rule whereby honest toil is deprived of its just share of the wealth which it produces; and we pledge ourselves to use all honorable means to restore it to the high and dignified position to which by nature it is entitled, and toward the accomplishment of this object we favor the enactment of a fifty-eight hour law. Economy in government is the watchword of the Democratic party; therefore, in the interests of the people and for economy we oppose the creation of the proposed new office of State Auditor, for the purpose of examination of accounts, a duty now encumbered upon the Governor's Council, the State being already overburdened with officeholders." Other planks favored the abolition of the fee system in all forms of criminal procedure, revision of the system of taxation, election of Railroad Commissioners by the people, and the resubmission of the prohibitory law. High license and local option were favored for cities and towns of more than 3,000 inhabitants, and pending resubmission an impartial enforcement of the present prohibition law was demanded.

MARYLAND.

Republican.

May 9.—After indorsing the Administration's course in foreign and domestic affairs, the convention adopted planks as follows: Combinations of capital having as their object or effect the control of the production of commodities, their markets and prices, are injurious to the best interests of the people. We favor such additional legislation, State and National, as shall establish the complete legal control over all trusts and monopolies, with full power to dissolve the same and inflict punishment on all who thus seek for personal gain to destroy honest competition and prevent the widest possible employment to labor. In this connection we deplore the failure of our last Legislature to make any attempt to correct the evils growing out of these combinations. We concur with the press of the entire State and public opinion in condemning the partisan, scandalous and corporation ridden Legislature of Maryland which recently adjourned. We remind the people of Maryland that the old Democratic machine is once more in full control of our State. We contrast the present State government and the last Legislature with the wise reforms and beneficent laws of two Republican Legislatures, and the clean and satisfactory administration of Governor Lloyd Lowndes and his Republican associates.

Democratic.

June 5.—After declining to instruct delegates to the Kansas City Convention, but declaring in favor of William J. Bryan, the convention denounced the policy and actions of the National Administration, and adopted the following plank dealing with State affairs: Congratulating ourselves upon the return of the Democracy to power in Maryland, we heartily acknowledge the thoroughness and fidelity with which Governor John Walter Smith, in his brief administration, has carried out his pledges to the people and demonstrated his worthiness of popular confidence and support. And reviewing the work of the Legislature of 1900, we are gratified to be able to declare that in uprightness and intelligence, and in a conscientious desire to legislate wisely and well, it deserves, and will receive, the approval of the people.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Republican.

April 26.—The resolutions reaffirmed "unwavering adherence" to the National platform of 1896, of which every position "has been adhered to, every pledge has been kept." It congratulated the country "upon the rejection of free silver coinage and the indorsement of the gold standard," and said: We believe that monetary laws should consider the interests of the borrower as well as the lender, should tend to equalize the rates of interest in all parts of the country, at all seasons of the year, to the farmer, the manufacturer and the exporter, and should make it possible for our people to obtain and extend credit on terms as favorable and at rates as low as their foreign competitors. The Republican party, therefore, pledges itself to support such amendments to the banking laws as will provide a flexible and sufficient medium of exchange, to the end that capital may obtain fair returns, that American commerce may be enlarged, and that labor may be assured of steady employment and of the largest possible share in the fruits of our expanding trade. Concerning the trusts, the platform said: The very prosperity of recent years has had a tendency to encourage combinations of capital for industrial and commercial purposes so great and unprecedented as to require the serious and careful consideration of the people of the Nation. In so far as such combinations are for lawful purposes, they may not be restrained. But whenever they tend to impair the equal rights and privileges of all citizens by restraint of trade, by oppression of weaker competitors, or by enhancing the cost of the necessities of life, they become unlawful and must be sternly dealt with. Such combinations are the inevitable results of the sharp competition which relentlessly enforces reductions of cost, and are frequently an incident of prosperity, but the evils which arise from them are not to be cured by a return to adversity through the success of the Democratic party. Such a remedy would be worse than the disease. Whenever they become destructive of the rights of citizens they should be suppressed by adequate statutes enacted by the Legislatures of the States, or by Congress, if the resulting evils are beyond the power and jurisdiction of the States. If they create business disorder and commercial panic by the practice of concealment and secrecy, they should be made to stand forth in the light of publicity, and if by the power of their combined capital they are enabled to obtain disproportionate advantages they should be taxed according to the value of the franchises they enjoy. The true solution of these economic problems is the prerogative of no party, but is rather the common duty of all the citizens. The Republican party, however, stands, and has always stood, for the protection of the rights of the citizen not only from foreign, but from domestic, interference, and may be trusted to deal with these combinations in such a way as to insure the fullest liberty of private enterprise without working the destruction of the prosperity of the Nation. By the Treaty of Paris a number of islands formerly held by Spain have come under the dominion of the United States, and by the terms of the treaty the duty of providing for their government and of determining the civil rights and political status of the inhabitants has devolved upon the Congress of the United States. No greater trust than the uplifting and educating of these defenceless people has been imposed upon the United States. The Republican party believes it to be the high and solemn duty of the Nation to accept and execute this trust, with all the responsibilities it involves, by retaining the islands and by providing for their adequate government upon the principles of liberty and humanity. In view of the problems presented by these acquisitions we renew our belief in the wisdom of the system of legislation formulated by the Republican party to increase and guard the efficiency of the Civil Service; and we believe that the thorough enforcement and extension of the existing Civil Service laws will aid the Government in the creditable discharge of these new and wide responsibilities. We believe that proper defence of the Nation's rights in our new insular possessions, the better protection of their inhabitants and the interests of an expanding commerce imperatively demand the construction of an Isthmian canal and the laying of a Pacific cable. At the same time Congress should offer by appropriate legislation such reasonable protection and encouragement to American shipping as shall revive, build up and strengthen our merchant marine, to the end that this Nation shall reap the full share of the advantages and profits of the carrying trade of the world, to which it is entitled by its position, importance and wealth. The platform also expressed "hearty and unqualified indorsement of the Administration of President McKinley," and closed as follows: Massachusetts is proud of the record of her representative in the counsels of the Administration. She has many times given proof of her confidence in him. No trust, however important, has been imposed upon him which has not been discharged with honor. By his brilliant and successful administration of the affairs of the Navy he has won the gratitude and esteem of the Nation. While Massachusetts has never undertaken to pledge or bind her delegates, we doubt not they will give voice to the unanimous sentiment of her people in asking the Convention to honor both the Commonwealth and the Nation by associating with President McKinley upon the National ticket the name of John D. Long.

October 4, 1900.—The platform after commending the administrations of President McKinley and Governor Crane said: "We congratulate the country on the vast expansion of its export trade during the last four years, and we favor suitable measures for the encouragement of our merchant marine, to the end that American products may be carried in American ships. The American Nation is rightfully in possession of the Philippines, and charged before the world with the maintenance of law and order therein. The Republican party insists that this responsibility shall not be evaded, that the sovereignty of the United States in those islands shall not be surrendered at the call of the rifle, but that the honor of the Nation and the interests of humanity require that it be maintained so long as necessary for the protection of their inhabitants against anarchy within or oppression from without, having always in view that enjoyment by them of the highest measure of self-government which their capacity warrants. We favor such further legislation, National and State, as the interests of the public may require for the prevention of the evils arising from the formation of those combinations, whether called by the name of trusts or otherwise, which 'tend to destroy competition, control the price of material and of the finished product, and which deprive individual energy and small capital of their opportunity for betterment.' We are opposed to the granting of any special privileges to such combinations by any branch of the Government, whether in Nation, State or municipality, as has been done under Democratic rule in the city of New-York. We direct attention to the fact that while the power of Congress to deal with this subject is limited, the only effective National legislation against such trusts or combinations was enacted by a Republican Congress, signed by a Republican President, and has been successfully invoked by a Republican Administration in several instances for the dissolution of combinations organized to control transportation charges and in restraint of trade. We further direct attention to the fact that the laws of Massachusetts, enacted by Republican legislators, require such publicity in the management of corporations, and impose such penalties for the capitalization of fictitious values, as to afford the best protection to the public against such combinations. The result of this campaign must be the maintenance or the overthrow of the prosperity now enjoyed by the American people. This prosperity is in large measure due to the enactment, in accordance with the pledges of the Republican party, of tariff legislation for the protection of American industries, and of currency legislation establishing the gold standard. The election of men upon a platform such as that adopted by the Democratic party at Kansas City, which pledges them to reverse both of these policies, would of itself produce lack of confidence. Capital would withhold itself from new enterprise and withdraw from that in which it is already embarked. Labor would be deprived of employment. Stagnation in business would follow, and general distress to the people. The present prosperity will be continued by the election of candidates pledged to the maintenance of those policies under which it has been attended. Wisdom urges and patriotism demands the election of William McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt."

Democratic.

May 16.—The platform adopted was in the usual form, and there was no kick from the cotton manufacturing districts against the plank on "imperialism," although a number of the delegates favor holding the Philippines. The platform also contained strong expressions of sympathy for the Boers and condemnation of "England's cruel crime."

October 2.—The resolutions indorsed the Kansas City platform, and declared against conquest, colonization and forcible government. The law enacted by the Republican Congress for the government of Porto Rico was denounced to be a gross outrage upon the liberties of the people of that island, a scheme of despotic rule, devised for the plunder and oppression of the people, rather than for its just government. The platform continues: We maintain that the people of Porto Rico are entitled to all the rights of American citizenship guaranteed by the Constitution to all other sections of our common country, and should not be subjected to the wrong of taxation without representation, against which our fathers revolted. To Cuba we owe a free constitution, framed by free men and submitted to the people of Cuba for their approval free from interference or influence by the United States. To the Philippines we owe a speedy restoration of their independence, our assistance in establishing a stable government and our protection of the new nation against the invasions of foreign Powers. We protest against the slaughter of those who dare to appear in arms for the defence of their freedom, and against the policy which makes servile submission the price of peace. The patriotism of the Boers was commended, alliance with any foreign nation condemned, and the rejection of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty called for. The planks relative to labor are as follows: We condemn the system of servitude which binds the worker to the workshop by forcing him to buy the necessaries of life from the company stores, by paying him his wages only at unreasonably long intervals and by forcing him to pay extravagant prices for material used in his regular vocation. Such acts of injustice, committed by the operating companies, have but lately driven thousands of men out of employment in the Pennsylvania mines and obliged the public to pay enhanced prices for their fuel. We call attention to the fact that practically all the legislation in the interests of labor enacted in Massachusetts in the last twenty years has been introduced by Democrats and placed on the statute books by the unanimous vote of the Democrats aided by a majority of the Republicans. The extravagance of the Republican State government is condemned and a substantial reduction of fares and freights on railroads within the State is demanded. The platform approves "an income tax in State and Nation" and invites the support of the people "to our tried, devoted and unrivalled candidates, Bryan and Stevenson."

MICHIGAN.

Republican.

July 28.—After approving the work of the Philadelphia Convention and the general policy of the Administration, the platform touched on special matters as follows: We favor the prompt repeal of all special railroad charters granting to any railroad in the State special privileges. We believe that all the railroads of the State should do business under the same general laws. We condemn the corruption of State officials that has brought shame and disgrace to the State, and we demand the vigorous prosecution and punishment of all who are guilty. We favor the extension of rural free delivery service wherever its extension may be justified. In further pursuance of the constant policy of the Republican party to provide free homes on the public domain, we recommend adequate National legislation to reclaim the arid lands of the United States, reserving control of the distribution of water for irrigation to the respective States and Territories. We favor home rule for and the early admission to Statehood of the Territories of New-Mexico, Arizona and Oklahoma.

Democratic.

July 25.—After pledging support to the Kansas City ticket and platform, the resolutions adopted call for lower taxes as one of the issues of the State campaign, and deal with the labor question as follows: We sympathize with the settlers of the upper peninsula in their prolonged struggle with the Michigan Land and Iron Company, Limited, that corporate grabber of public lands, and insist that the issues involved between them shall be speedily presented to and decided by the courts, the proper tribunals for dealing with questions of fraud, without interference from the officials of the Governmental Land Office. To the end that the hazards incident to a miners' life may be decreased, and the mining industry having reached such a stage of development, and the use of labor saving machinery having so vastly increased the value of labor in the mines, we therefore insist that a law should be enacted prohibiting mining corporations in this State from working their employes more than eight hours a day underground. The Democratic party has always favored legislation affording reasonable compensation to workingmen in the discharge of their duties. We therefore pledge ourselves, if intrusted with power in this State, to enact a law making corporation employers of labor liable to their employes in cases of injuries caused by the neglect of their co-employes.

MINNESOTA.

Republican.

May 18.—We, the Republicans of the State of Minnesota in convention assembled, affirm and renew our allegiance to the Republican party and its principles. We indorse the administration of President William McKinley and the Republican party, and congratulate the country on the revival of industrial and commercial prosperity brought about as a direct result of the application of Republican principles and policies of government during the present administration. The Republican party is proud of the fact that it has written the gold standard into the law of the land, and that its sound financial policy has contributed largely to the greatest prosperity the American people have ever known, and has raised the credit of the American Government to the highest point ever attained by any nation. The Republican party recognizes that legitimate business, fairly capitalized and honestly managed, has built up our industries at home, given the largest employment to labor and highest wages, and enabled us successfully to compete with foreign countries in the markets of the world. But the Republican party now, as always, is unalterably opposed to all trusts and combinations having for their purpose the stifling of competition and arbitrarily controlling productions or fixing prices. Among other remedies we favor legislation providing for the utmost publicity as to the internal affairs of this class of corporations, and we favor an amendment to the Constitution of the United States granting full power to Congress to protect the people against the evils threatened. We hereby declare our implicit confidence in President William McKinley and the Republican party to meet and solve the questions now before the country growing out of our war with Spain, to the entire satisfaction of the American people, and with justice and humanity to the people of the islands that came under our control because of that war. We declare for liberal legislation for the National defence, for the building of our Navy, for the enlargement of our foreign markets, for the employment of the American workmen in our mines, forests, farms, mills, factories and shipyards. Other planks expressed appreciation of the services of the Minnesota delegation in Congress and favored the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people.

June 20.—The convention approved the action of the Philadelphia Convention, called for liberal administration of the pension laws, sustained the gold standard, favored the amendment to the Federal Constitution proposed by the Republicans in Congress, granting to both State and Congress the power to define, regulate, control and prohibit monopolies, combinations or trusts in the form of corporations or otherwise, and condemned the obstructive policy of the Democratic party, which, for the time being, defeated the submission of such amendment, and continued: We favor the speedy passage of the legislation now pending in Congress intended to prevent the sale of oleomargarine for that which it is not, and thereby protect the honest producer and innocent consumer of dairy products from the frauds now being practised upon both; and we therefore earnestly request our Senators and Representatives in Congress to aid by their work and votes in securing the passage of such legislation. The Republican party stands for the principle of fair and equal taxation, and insists that every business, whether owned by corporations or individuals, should bear its just share of the public burden. We heartily approve of the legislation enacted by the last Republican Legislature, known as the "Somerville Law," imposing a tax upon all foreign corporations doing business within this State. We commend the gross earnings system of taxation as to railroads. We believe that system to be attended with less friction and expense and to have produced better financial results than the method of direct taxation which pevails in some adjacent States. We are in favor of continuing the maintenance of this system in this State, and we insist that the rate of taxation under the gross earnings system shall be maintained at such figures as will make the tax annually collected on railroad property equal and uniform, with the taxes imposed upon other property throughout the State.

Fusion.

September 6.—The Democrats and Populists fused on a platform declaring for bimetallism, with gold and silver at 16 to 1, the repeal of the war tax, establishment of postal savings banks, the election of United States Senators by popular vote, the early granting of freedom to Cuba, and declaring against trusts, militarism and imperialism.

MISSISSIPPI.

Democratic.

August 23.—The convention adopted the following declaration of principles: We heartily and earnestly indorse and reaffirm the declaration of principles promulgated by the party in convention assembled at Chicago in 1896, and recognize in the Hon. William J. Bryan, of Nebraska, the ablest exponent of these principles, the statesman and patriot, the great tribune of the people. We enter our solemn protest against the encroachment upon governmental affairs by aggregated capital in the form of trusts and combines as being inimical to the best interests of the masses of the people and the cause of free and untrammelled government; and express ourselves as unalterably determined to aid by all possible and proper means in the control or destruction, if necessary, of these enemies of good government. Reviewing the past Democratic history of Mississippi we indorse with pride the administration of her public affairs, and especially we would express our unconditional approval of the clean administration of our present Governor and affirm our unshaken faith in the Democratic principles he has so worthily illustrated in his public life. We express our confidence in the virtue and unimpeachable integrity of the people in the selection of all public servants, and to that end indorse the system of primary elections under proper restrictions for all Democratic nominations, that every man may have a voice in the government under which he lives.

No other State political conventions were held in Mississippi in 1900, the business of the parties being managed by the several executive committees, and no platforms were promulgated.

MISSOURI.

Republican.

May 16.—The Republicans of Missouri in convention assembled call attention, with pride, to the fact that the policies presented by the Republican party in its platform of 1896 have been fully vindicated and its promises all redeemed. We rejoice that we are citizens of a great and powerful Nation, whose achievements in peace and glorious victories in war are without a parallel. We indorse the progressive Administration of William McKinley for the blessings it has bestowed upon the American people in establishing the highest prosperity the country has ever known. We insist that no issue can be paramount to the maintenance of the public credit and the stability of the money for which all labor and products are sold. So long as a political party stands committed to the overthrow of the existing monetary system we call on all conservative men to act with us in keeping that party from power. We congratulate the American people in that the Republican party has kept its beneficent pledge for the maintenance of the gold standard, the standard of the commercial world, and the parity of all our forms of money, without contradiction, by comprehensive, courageous legislation. We favor the extension of self-government to all the people that have lately come under the protection of this country as rapidly as they demonstrate their ability to exercise it. We hold our authority over them to be a solemn trust to be exercised with an eye single to their instruction, development and prosperity. We are unalterably opposed to all trusts and combinations in restraint of trade or having for their purpose in the remotest degree stifling of competition; and we demand such legislation, both National and State, as will effectively protect the public from these evils. And if such legislation cannot be had under present constitutional powers, we demand such amendments to the Constitution of the United States as will suppress such combinations. We favor the immediate enactment of such legislation by Congress as shall make the seas give evidence that American built, American owned and American named ships are carrying our foreign commerce. We condemn the twelve Democratic Congressmen from Missouri who failed to support the bill providing for the building of the Nicaragua Canal. And we heartily indorse the course of our Republican members in supporting said measure, whereby great foreign trade opportunities will be opened to the agricultural classes of the Mississippi Valley. We denounce the Democrats for their failure to enact timely and effective laws for the regulation of building and loan associations, that would have saved the loss of millions of savings invested by the people in such companies; we deplore the legislation which inflicts on our citizens frequent and costly changes in school text books, and we favor such laws as will give to the school children a proper series of text books at the lowest price. We favor such legislation as will give us good public roads, and demand the repeal of the makeshift laws enacted by the last Democratic Legislature. We recognize the fact that the valor and patriotism of the veterans of the war of 1861 and 1865 made it possible for our Nation to achieve its grand victories during the Spanish war, and that they are entitled to and we insist that they be given liberal treatment by our National Administration.

Democratic.

June 6.—The convention reaffirmed allegiance to the time honored principles of the Democratic party as formulated by Jefferson, Jackson and others, declared in favor of equal rights to all, local self-government and strict construction of the Constitution. Tariff for revenue only, reduction of war taxes, removal of tariff on trust manufactured goods, expansion of trade relations, autonomy for Cuba, control of the Nicaragua Canal, and free coinage of silver at 16 to 1, were all favored. Anti-trust laws were promised, the administration of Governor Stephens was commended, taxation of franchises was demanded, and full and hearty support to William J. Bryan was pledged.

MONTANA.

Republican.

September 6.—After expressing hearty approval of the platform and nominees of the Philadelphia Convention, declaring for an eight hour workday, inviting investment of capital in the State and declaring that injurious combinations should be forbidden, the platform deals with the Clark case as follows: We regard with indignation and shame the odium that was cast upon our State by the corrupt methods that were employed in the election of a Democratic candidate for the Senate of the United States and express our unqualified condemnation of the Republican members of the Sixth Legislative Assembly who cast their votes for William A. Clark. We condemn all bribery, and pledge the Republican party to pursue those who practise it with our laws and our courts.

Democratic.

June 20.—The Daly wing of the Democratic party adopted a platform denouncing "the action of W. A. Clark in corrupting the late Legislature, in assailing the integrity of the Supreme Court, and in attempting to debauch the people of the entire Commonwealth as the colossal crime of the century."

June 21.—The Clark wing passed resolutions strongly condemning the Daly people and denouncing the resignation of Democratic State officers and Congressmen.

September 19.—The convention adopted a platform which indorsed the Kansas City platform and candidates, specifically demanding the free coinage of silver. They also indorsed the services of Senator William A. Clark as a member of the Senate, and demand his re-election by the Legislature to meet next January.

NEBRASKA.

Republican.

May 3.—We point with pride to the remodelling of our tariff laws, which has increased our revenues and not impeded trade; which has opened the doors of mills and factories to the millions of American skilled mechanics, and is returning to them the higher wages that are the just recompense for their toil. We indorse the legislation that has strengthened our financial system and firmly established the gold standard, and made the American dollars so safe and secure that they are kept busy chasing one another around the endless circle of business, too good to go into hiding and too patriotic to steal abroad. In answer to the cry for the free and unlimited coinage of silver and the claim that there is not enough gold as a basis upon which to do the business of the country, the United States Treasury puts in evidence the $120,000,000 in gold that has come to it within a year and the $413,000,000 in gold now held within its vaults and the unexampled prosperity and measureless and limitless and countless financial transactions thus sustained without seeming effort. We denounce the attempt now desperately being made to array labor and capital in hostile camps. The Republican party now, as always, opposes trusts and combinations having for their purpose the stifling of competition and arbitrarily controlling productions or fixing prices; but we also recognize that legitimate business, fairly capitalized and honestly managed, has built up our industries at home, given the largest employment to labor at the highest wages and enabled us to successfully compete with foreign countries in the markets of the world.

Democratic.

March 19.—The Chicago platform of 1896 was indorsed, and the resolutions declared against the policy of the Administration in foreign affairs, a large standing Army, imperialism and the Porto Rican tariff. The election of United States Senators by popular vote was demanded, as were an income tax, free coinage of silver at 16 to 1, and Government construction and ownership of a Nicaraguan Canal. Regarding combinations of capital, the resolutions said: We favor a State constitution which will prohibit the organization of a monopoly within the State, and also prevent a monopoly organized elsewhere from doing business within the State; but we further believe that Congress should supplement the efforts of the State by legislation which will require every corporation before engaging in interstate commerce to show that it has no water in its stock, and that it has neither attempted in the past, nor is attempting, to monopolize any branch of business or the production of any article of merchandise. Regarding greenbacks the platform said: Instead of the system favored by the Republican party under which National banks are to be permitted to issue and control the volume of paper money for their own profit, we reiterate our demand for that financial system which recognizes the Government's sovereign right to issue all money, whether coin or paper, and we demand the retention of the greenbacks as they now exist and the retirement of National bank notes as fast as greenbacks can be substituted for them.

NEVADA.

Republican.

September 29.—Indorsement of the foreign and domestic policy of the Administration and earnest support of the nominees of the Philadelphia Convention were the opening planks in the platform. Trusts were condemned, and the Democratic overthrow of the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution denounced. On State matters the platform said: We believe that with an economic system for the storage and the distribution of unappropriated water the productive capacity of Nevada can be enormously increased, and so believing we pledge our nominee for Congress, in the event of his election, to co-operate with the Congressmen from the arid States in seeking to obtain a liberal allowance in the general appropriation bill for the storage and distribution of water under the supervision and control of the States and Territories affected. We favor the lawful use of silver as a money in all manners compatible with the best interests of our Government, and we hereby pledge our nominee for Congress, in the event of his election, to exercise his best endeavors to secure the greatest possible use of silver beneficial to the mining States of this Union, without endangering the financial safety of our country. We reject the proposed amendment to the Constitution of Nevada authorizing a lottery as being an attempt to disgrace our State in the sight of the enlightened world. We regard the act upon our statute books legalizing prize fighting as a stigma upon the fair name of our State. We condemn the repeal of the "Purity of Elections" laws and demand the passage of an act reasonably limiting the expenditure of candidates and prohibiting corrupt practices during political campaigns and at the polls. We declare ourselves in favor of an eight hour workday on all public works, where the State, county or municipality pays for the labor, and in all mines, smelters, mills and all other institutions for the reduction or refining of ores or metals, and we pledge our nominees for the Legislature to work for a law embodying that principle. We condemn the present State administration for its profligacy in creating useless offices with which to reward its supporters.

Democratic.

September 6.—The convention indorsed the nominations and platform adopted at Kansas City, declared opposition to trusts and condemned the action of the Administration with reference to Porto Rico, the Philippines and the Alaska mining districts. Sympathy for the Boers was expressed, and Senator William M. Stewart was condemned for his defection from the silver cause. Railroad meddling with State affairs was objected to, a State constitutional convention demanded, lotteries and prizefighting condemned, and State regulation of the hours of labor favored. On other subjects the platform said: We hold that the silver question is still one of the important issues of this campaign, and that it will never be permanently settled until our mints are opened to the free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, regardless of the consent of other nations. We congratulate the supporters of Bryan and Stevenson in Nevada, that they are not subjected to the humiliating necessity of abrogating or modifying any plank in their National platform for the accommodation of their Congressional nominee. We believe that water storage for arid lands should be recognized by the general Government as a part of its internal improvement system, and that liberal appropriations should be made for that purpose, and we call attention to the specific declaration in this behalf in our National platform, favoring an intelligent system of improving the arid lands of the West, storing the waters for the purposes of irrigation, and the holding of such lands for actual settlers.

Silver Party.

September 6.—The principal planks of the platform were similar to those adopted by the Democratic convention, and the parties fused on a State ticket. Planks of special interest were: In line with our opposition to any control of public utilities by private citizens or combinations of capital, we here declare our emphatic dissent from any proposal to lease the public domain, recognizing in such a step the danger that would inevitably accrue to the honest struggler of limited means. We favor a workday of eight hours on all public works in which the State, county or municipality is the employer. We favor the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people for the reason that such a method of election would return power to the hands where it properly belongs. We submit that with a proper valuation placed upon the property of the State the tax roll should show a valuation of $100,000,000 worth of property, that a true assessment, properly adjusted nearer to the equal value of property would reduce the average county taxes to perhaps $1 on the hundred, with the State's proportion at about 25 cents on the hundred; and we therefore recommend to all Silver party county conventions that they pledge their nominees to the Legislature to support such measures as will bring about a reform in this direction. Resolutions were added that the resolution condemnatory of Francis G. Newlands be stricken and expunged from the records of the State Central Committee of the Silver party, and that he was entitled to the commendation of the convention for his foresight two years ago, and for his action in opposing the re-election of William M. Stewart because of the latter's treason to the Silver organization in the campaign of 1898, and that the action of the State Central Committee deposing W. E. Sharon from the chairmanship of the State Central Committee be rescinded and expunged from the record.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE.

Republican.

April 24.—In this convention, which marks the beginning of the Presidential campaign of the year 1900, we, the Republicans of New-Hampshire, congratulate the people upon the honest fulfilment of the pledges made in the Republican National platform adopted at St. Louis in 1896, and acknowledge the wise statesmanship of our President, William McKinley, under whose guidance the promises have been performed. As Chief Executive he has met and wisely solved graver National problems than have fallen to the lot of any predecessor, save Washington and Lincoln. We indorse that legislation of the present Congress which has established beyond a doubt the currency of the United States upon a gold standard of value, which insures all payments in honest dollars and answers the commercial demands of our own people and of foreign nations with which we deal. We rejoice in the passage of the Dingley act, and in the greatly increased prosperity of the people which has followed. We glory in the triumphs of the Spanish war, both those on land and these on sea. We are proud of the splendid records of our naval and military heroes. We heartily support the Administration in the annexation of Hawaii and in the acquisition of Porto Rico, Guam and the Philippines. The insurrection in the Philippines was a rebellion against the lawful authority of the United States, and we assert the duty of the President to subdue it. We condemn any encouragement given by American citizens to those bearing arms against our country. We intrust the future government of our new possessions to Congress and the President, believing that they may lawfully control and govern them as they deem best, and feeling assured that they will give the islands every measure of local self-government for which they may show themselves fitted. We commend and approve the patriotic impulses of our President, his loyalty to right, his high purpose, his diplomacy, his great achievements for his country and humanity, and urge his renomination at the coming National Convention.

September 11.—The platform adopted approves of the Republican National Convention, congratulates the country that the Republican party has established by legislation the gold standard, and on the wonderful prosperity during the Administration of President McKinley. Continuing, the resolutions said: The military force now engaged in preserving order and subduing rebellion in the Philippines, and the American soldiers and sailors who are fighting to protect the lives of American citizens in China, must be vigorously and loyally sustained. The absurd cries of "militarism" and "imperialism" must not be permitted to check the progress of our Government; and the military arm must be active so long as there shall be rebels in Luzon and outrages committed upon American citizens in China. The platform commends the administration of Governor Rollins and heartily approves legislation tending to increase business at mountain, country and seashore resorts. It promises a liberal policy in the appropriation of money for public improvement. Good roads, forestry supervision and judicious fish and game laws are advocated. The "old home" idea, inaugurated and advocated by Governor Rollins, is indorsed and liberal appropriations for benevolent and educational purposes are favored. The platform approves all proper efforts to advance the cause of temperance in the home and community.

Democratic.

May 2.—The convention indorsed the Chicago platform of 1896 and declared unwavering fidelity and adherence to it. Other planks were: We denounce the Republican party for its abandonment of bimetallism, its enactment of a gold standard law at the command of the mongy kings, and its absolute surrender to the National banks of the control of the currency. We denounce the Republican party for inflicting upon the Nation under false pretences a policy of colonial conquest, with its attendant evils of imperialism and militarism, at a sacrifice of the basic principles of the Declaration of Independence and in defiance of the Federal Constitution. We believe in free trade and every other constitutional guarantee for Porto Rico, and independence for Cuba and the Philippine Islands as soon as they are capable of self-government. We denounce the Administration for fastening upon the American Republic the guilt of "criminal aggression" in the Philippines and neglect of "plain duty" to Porto Rico by depriving her citizens of the right of self-government, by erecting a customs tariff between that island and the States, in utter disregard of distinct pledges solemnly given and of their constitutional rights. We denounce the Republican party for fostering and protecting the criminal trusts, which, dominating the whole field of American industry, are forcing untold millions of tribute from the laboring masses to swell the coffers of plutocracy. We condemn the alliance with Great Britain and imitation of her course of colonial subjugation, which prevent the expression by the Administration at Washington of the deep sympathy of the American people with the South African republics and all other nations struggling for their independence. We favor the adoption of a constitutional amendment providing for the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people.

August 1.—The Kansas City platform was indorsed in convention, and the platform continued: We recognize the solemn and tremendous fact that in the campaign now opened the paramount and overshadowing issues are those of the Republic against the Empire, of the man against the dollar; and we declare our unwavering loyalty and devotion to the Republican Democracy established by the fathers as against the imperial plutocracy set up by Mark Hanna and his coadjutors, and illustrated in the Administration of William McKinley, who, however honest in his personal convictions of "plain duty," is too weak and subservient to live up to them for a moment against the dictation of his masters. Our appeal in this campaign is to the reason, the judgment, the conscience and the patriotism of the people—not to their fear, servility, cupidity or avarice. We recognize the value and influence of a fearless and uncorrupted press in the prosecution of the campaign along these lines. and we bespeak for such newspapers in our midst as have bravely and consistently championed the Democratic cause in all emergencies the earnest, practical support of the party, now and always. We heartily indorse the action of the Kansas City Convention and the ticket named. We protest against the cession of an inch of American territory to any foreign Power, and we demand the protection of American citizens and property in all American territory.

NEW-JERSEY.

Republican.

September 6.—The Republican party of New-Jersey, in convention assembled, indorses the platform of the National Republican party for 1900, and appeals confidently to the voters of the State. Every Republican platform promise of four years ago has been fulfilled, while every Democratic prediction has been discredited. The promise of prosperity, as a result of the re-enactment of protective tariff legislation and the maintenance of the gold standard, has found fulfilment in a condition of industrial and commercial prosperity never before equalled. The aggregate losses through business failures have fallen off two-thirds. Manufactories have everywhere resumed work with more than wonted activity. Our exports of manufactures have increased with marvellous rapidity. Savings banks deposits have been swelled to the highest mark ever known. The business man has been given profitable return for his investments, the farmer a better market for his products, and the wage earner larger opportunity for employment, with increasing wages, while the public revenues have been abundantly sufficient for the expenses of the government. The continuance of a stable currency has disproved every prediction made by the advocates of free silver four years ago. The per capita circulation of money has been largely increased under the gold standard, and money is obtainable at a rate of interest lower than ever before. By the valor of our soldiers and sailors, in the brief but decisive war with Spain, and by the admirable tact and wisdom of the Administration of President McKinley in the novel and unprecedented conditions confronting us as the result of that war, our country has been raised to a most dignified and commanding position among the nations of the earth, and wherever our flag is seen it is respected and honored as the emblem of the great American Republic. Although confronted with the gravest emergencies that have arisen since the Civil War, the Administration of President McKinley has assumed every responsibility and discharged every duty in a way that has won the approval of patriotic citizens of all parties. In every locality where American authority has been established it will be sustained by the Republican party against the assaults of rebels in arms. We believe it is the duty of the President of the United States to use all the forces at his command to suppress insurrection wherever the authority of the Government is opposed; and we deprecate and denounce the conduct of recreant Americans who, by abuse of the right of free speech, give aid and encouragement to insurrection and rebellion among peoples owing allegiance to our flag. Other clauses commend the course of the Republican party for its course in relation to foreign affairs and advise those charged with the administration of our laws, to do their utmost to protect the masses of the people from the tendencies toward monopoly on the one hand and communism on the other. The platform commends the Republican administration of the affairs of the State of New-Jersey, welcomes to affiliation with the Republican party those Democrats who realize that their party has abandoned its principles of the past, and accepted in place thereof the wild and baleful theories of populistic and communistic visionaries; declares it to be the duty of the Republican party to vindicate the rights of the colored men; indorses the course of the State's Senators and Representatives in Congress, notes with pride the growing influence of New-Jersey in the councils of the Nation, and pledges earnest support to McKinley and Roosevelt.

Democratic.

September 12.—The representatives of the Democratic party of New-Jersey in convention assembled do hereby indorse the declaration of party principles adopted at Kansas City as the embodiment of our party faith. We reaffirm our devotion to the immortal truths proclaimed in the Declaration of Independence. This great document was not written for a day but for all time. We charge the Republican party with having done more to destroy its influence in the world than has been done in a century by the combined monarchies of Europe. We have seen the war waged by our whole people in the holy cause of human freedom to liberate Cuba from bondage converted into a war of dominion and conquest. The benevolent assimilation of the President has become criminal aggression. Policies of State at variance with our whole history are now openly proclaimed. We can no longer with the same effect raise our voice for liberty abroad because of our folly in the Philippines. Oppressive revenue taxes imposed for the redemption of Cuba cheerfully borne by our people are now permanently engrafted upon our system of taxation. We are obliged to expend annually because of our imperialism the extraordinary sum of $300,000,000 in excess of our usual expenditure. We demand that the Nation proclaim its purpose to establish a stable government at Manila, and at the earliest moment to declare that when such government is worthy of recognition that that independence should be granted the Filipinos which they heroically won from Spain. We are opposed to monopolies everywhere, and we especially oppose them in the great industrial trades. We denounce the Republican party that has been for years in control of legislation, both State and National, for its failure to check the dangerous growth of these unlawful combinations. These gigantic associations of capital have been fostered by Republican legislation and the progress of labor and of individual enterprise has been checked. The Government has thus become an engine for the acquisition of private wealth. The flag itself, the most sacred symbol of our National honor, has become a commercial asset. In turn the trusts contribute vast sums for campaign purposes, for legislative protection, and have become so extortionate that they look even to the Presidency itself for protection. We are unalterably opposed to a syndicated Presidency. We declare for a strict enforcement of all existing laws and the enactment of more stringent legislation to control their activity. We declare for a rigid inspection of their books by competent public officers and the removal of customs duties from their products when it is found necessary for the protection of lawful competition. If necessary we favor the revocation of their charters for gross infractions of the law. New-Jersey should not be permitted to be the home of corporations that are both dangerous and corrupt. We declare that the pledges made by this Government to Cuba should be faithfully kept. The honor of the Nation requires it. We deplore the great public scandal arising out of our administration of that island, and we charge the Republican party with the whole responsibility thereof. We approve the enlargement of our Navy, and we favor liberal expenditures to maintain its high efficiency. Other clauses favor the construction of the Nicaraugan Canal and its control and defence by the United States, express sympathy for the Boers, favor the creation of a Department of Labor by Congress, arbitration for the settlement of all disputes of labor and the election of United States Senators directly by the people. Sympathy to the people of Texas in the great calamity that has fallen upon that State is expressed, and the platform continues: In State affairs we declare in favor of equal taxation, home rule, honest State and municipal government, the abolition of useless and expensive State commissions, the reduction of the large present expenses of the State government to the economical standard maintained for years under Democratic rule, the reduction of official salaries, the abolishment of the fee system and the placing of all officials on a salary basis, the enactment of laws in the interest of organized labor and for the protection of the wage workers of the State, the repeal of all laws that abridge the right of juries to fix the amount of damages in cases where the death of a person is caused by wrongful act and the release of the administration of State affairs from the control of corporations and their restoration to the authority of the people. We demand that the tax laws of this State be amended to provide for the equal taxation of all property, real and personal, not used for religious, charitable or educational purposes. We condemn the present State administration for its subserviency to the corporations of the State as evidenced by the fact that in matters of legislation and executive appointments the dictation of the corporations is supreme, while the public sentiment and public welfare are met with veiled promises and illusory hopes. We hold that the system of taxing corporations in this State is not only unequal, as among taxpayers, but unfair as to the recipients of the tax. Such has resulted in impoverished municipalities, burdened by larger bonded debts, and an enriched State Treasury, which is made the occasion of great extravagance in State expenditures. The only remedy for this destructive evil is in a system of actual equal taxation within the contemplation of the constitutional mandate and compel all property of whatever form to be taxed at an equal proportion for the municipal and State burdens. We condemn the general course of Republican legislation in this State whereby all private and public interests are held subservient to the corporations and whereby all laws and appropriations are made at the demand and instance of the lobby. We call for a retrenchment of the present extravagant and unnecessary expenditures in State business and demand a more judicious economy. The platform closes by calling for a law which will remedy certain alleged judicial abuses, demanding that railroads shall bear the expense of grade changes in their tracks, and promises loyal support to Bryan and Stevenson.

NEW-MEXICO.

Republican.

March 17.—The resolutions adopted by the Territorial convention warmly indorsed the National Administration and that of Governor Otero. They also favored the gold standard, expansion, the bill introduced by Senator Depew to promote the mining interests of the country, and the Territorial Judiciary.

Democratic.

October 5.—The convention affirmed allegiance to the Kansas City platform and candidates, condemned the course of the Administration on domestic and foreign matters, and on local questions said: We condemn the Land Commission of the Territory for its selection and sale of large and valuable tracts of timber land at inadequate prices to favored speculators and corporations and call upon the Secretary of the Interior to exercise close scrutiny of these transactions. We condemn the McKinley Administration for the appointment of an incompetent Governor for New-Mexico, whose disregard for the law and vicious partisanship has brought disgrace upon the good name of our Territory. We favor the passage of a Fellow Servant act by the Legislature of New-Mexico, making railroad companies and other corporations and individuals liable for the death or injury of any of their employes while in the discharge of their duties, when caused by the negligence or fault of said companies, corporations or individuals, or any of their employes, without the negligence or default of the employes so killed or injured. We demand the repeal of the present inadequate road law and the substitution thereof of a satisfactory measure for the construction and supervision of the public highways.

NEW-YORK.

Republican.

September 4.—The Republicans of New-York, assembled by their representatives in State Convention, declare the following facts and principles upon which they appeal to the voters to support the Republican National ticket and the candidates of this Convention at the approaching general election. The continued prosperity of the country and of the individual citizen is the "paramount" issue before the people. Why vote for a change which, tested by experience, is bound to be for the worst? The country was never so prosperous as it has been since the inauguration of William McKinley, capital was never so actively occupied, the volume of money in circulation was never so great, labor never so fully employed, wages never so high, prices never so generally good. There was a period of great prosperity between 1889 and 1893, when the Republicans were in control. But the voters listened to Democratic plaints and promises and the election of 1892 installed a Democratic President and a Democratic Congress. The policies then put into execution, and from which resulted such universal distress, are not abandoned by the party that learns nothing and forgets nothing. On the contrary, just as such policies were maintained in 1896, in the face of the havoc they have caused, so now they are insisted upon in spite of present prosperity. The Chicago platform is still the Democratic programme. It was no argument at Kansas City for the abandonment of the Democratic policy of free trade that, under the Dingley act, our foreign commerce for the year 1900 exceeds that of any preceding year in the great sum of $317,729,250, and for the first time in our history exceeds $2,000,000,000; that in this year our exports have been more widely distributed than ever before, and that the balance of trade in favor of this country since the Dingley bill went into operation amounts to nearly $1,700,000,000. It was not accepted as a sufficient argument for the abandonment of 16 to 1 that no single Democratic prediction as to the effect of the gold standard law has been justified; that prices instead of declining have improved; that the volume of money in circulation instead of contracting has greatly expanded, and that the farmer and mechanic instead of receiving a smaller proportion of the benefits of their labor receive a greater. These facts were without influence on the platform makers at Kansas City. But, conscious of the weakness of relying on the theories that have been exploded and of ignoring facts that are self-evident, the Democrats are undertaking to push into conspicuous position before the people an issue which they describe and stigmatize by the word "imperialism." In this course they are characteristically dishonest; first, because there is no sentiment in the United States that deserves to be called "imperialism," and, second, because the Democrats do not come with clean hands into a discussion of popular sovereignty and the "consent of the governed." Neither in the Philippines nor elsewhere will the cause of human liberty look for its champion to a party whose only hope of obtaining power lies in the suppression of human rights, and in an organized conspiracy to nullify the guarantees with which the Constitution endeavors to surround the citizen. From thousands of polling places in this election, in which the Democratic party is so much concerned about the "consent of the governed," the negro citizen will be excluded by laws so contrived as to keep out the negro Republican while admitting the white Democrat, though both present themselves with similar qualifications except as to color. The party which will not allow the Constitution to follow the flag through the Carolinas, through Mississippi and Texas has no occasion to distress itself about the Constitution's journey four thousand miles across the ocean. There is no middle course between responsibility for the government of the Philippines and abandoning them to be seized by some other power. The Democratic plan of conferring sovereign rights upon the Filipinos and at the same time establishing a protectorate over them is impracticable. It is responsibility without authority. The reasons which have enabled the United States, though with constant difficulty, to exercise influence for the protection of Central American countries against European aggression cannot be made to apply to an Asiatic country. As a matter of duty, because we are responsible; of right, because our title is perfect, and of interest, because they are valuable to our commerce and necessary to our just influence in the East, we are bound to regulate and provide for the government of the Philippines, and the policy of the Republican party concedes to the native inhabitants of the islands every measure of self-government consistent with the maintenance of American sovereignty. The situation in China, where it is evident that our interests require that the integrity of the Empire should be maintained, completely justifies the course of the Administration with regard to the Philippines and supplies a new reason for their retention. We indorse the Administration of President McKinley and urge his reelection as the sure pledge of four more years of development and prosperity at home and of honorable influence and renown abroad. We congratulate the people upon the nomination for Vice-President of Governor Roosevelt, whose high place in the admiration and confidence of his countrymen, achieved by long public service and especially by his valor and success on the field of battle, has been distinctly advanced by his splendid record as the Governor of New-York. The Republican party has been in control of the State for the last seven years. During that time the State has increased greatly in population, thereby causing a relative annual increase in expenditure for many public purposes. This is illustrated in the increased appropriations for the common schools, which in ten years have grown from $4,000,000 to $5,000,000. Within the period of Republican control, moreover, the State has assumed the expense of caring for the indigent and insane. That item of expense seven years ago, when the maintenance of charitable institutions was principally a charge upon the counties, amounted, as against the State, to only about $2,500,000. The great reforms inaugurated by State control, which have done so much for the improvement of the condition of the helpless and unfortunate, compelled an expenditure in 1899 of nearly $9,000,000. Notwithstanding these great and increasing burdens, Republican legislation and administration have brought about a gradual lowering of the tax rate until this year it has reached the amazingly low point of one and ninety-six hundredths mills on the dollar of the equalized valuation of real and personal property. This great lowering of the tax rate is due not only to the new Republican laws, placing their just portion of the public burdens upon special interests which have heretofore escaped taxation, but also to careful economies enforced by Republican Legislatures and to the better and more complete execution by Republican administrative officers of laws enacted by Republican Legislatures prior to the present period of complete Republican control, creating special and indirect taxation. These laws were not properly enforced by Democratic State officers. The law taxing corporations, for instance, was enacted in 1880 by a Legislature Republican in both branches, but during the seven years of Democratic administration, from 1887 to 1893, the total sum collected under these laws was only $8,915,-040 13, an annual average of $1,273,584 30. During the seven years of Republican administration, from 1894 to 1900, inclusive, the great total of $14,957,563 45 has been collected under these laws, an annual average of $2,136,794 78. The number of corporations reached by the Democratic State officers for the collection of these taxes is 6,122. These laws have been changed since 1893 only in the direction of moderation, and yet so much better is Republican administration that the annual sum collected by Republican State officers is nearly twice as great as that collected under Democratic government. The law taxing estates commonly known as the "transfer tax" was also a Republican measure. It was enacted in 1885 by a Senate and Assembly both Republican. Under it $25,000,000 has been collected for State purposes since its enactment, but the difference between Republican and Democratic administration is shown by the fact that the sum collected during the seven years of Democratic governmnt amounted to but little more than $9,000,000, as against nearly $16,000,000 collected by Republican State officers during the last seven years. The Raines Liquor Tax law is also a Republican measure. It has been in operation since and including the year 1896. The Democrats have opposed it in every Democratic State platform since its enactment, and have threatened its repeal. This law has brought into the town, city, and State treasuries of New-York during the five years of its operation the great sum of $60,788,856. One-third of this sum, $20,262,952, has been applied to State purposes, while the balance of $40,525,904 has by so much reduced local taxation on real and personal property. The amount collected for State purposes in 1900 will exceed $4,250,000. The Republican Legislature has also enacted the franchise tax law, which is now for the first time being put into operation. Its results cannot yet be stated. The taxation of corporations enjoying the use of public property will continue to be as it has been in the past, a policy of the Republicans. These are examples of Republican legislation removing the burden of State expenditure from the real and personal property of the citizen. But their enactment is not the only cause, despite the annually increasing cost of the government, due both to its growing population and to the assumption by the State of the great charge for the care of the indigent and insane, of a low tax rate accomplished by Republican legislation. The year 1893 was the last year when the laws were enforced by Democratic State officers. In that year only $2,357,341 73 was expended by the State, irrespective of the expenditures by localities, for the support of the indigent and insane. Under the new law the appropriations for this purpose for this fiscal year are $8,922,443, all of which is included in the State's expenditures. Notwithstanding the difference in this single item, the tax rate of 1893 was 2.58 mills and the total expenditure was $17,367,335, while the present tax rate is only 1.96 mills and the total expenditure is $22,031,674. The economies of the Republican Legislatures no less than the enactment of new laws and the better enforcement of old ones have brought about this reduced charge for public purposes on the citizen. The proper policy to be pursued with respect to the canals of the State is a subject of grave concern to the people. Thirty years ago, when the capacity of the canals was less than it is to-day, there was moved over them twice as great a tonnage. In proportion as their capacity has increased and as the amount of possible business has grown and developed, their use has decreased. In 1896 the lake receipts of flour amounted to 10,371,653 barrels, but only 17,166 were shipped through the canals; the lake receipts of grain were 215,537,169 bushels, but only 23,296,000 were shipped through the canals; the lumber movement at Tonawanda amounted to 469,177,446 feet, but the canal shipments were only 184,709,746. The freight tonnage in 1898 over the railroads of New-York was 63,781,083 tons, but the canal tonnage was only 5 per cent of the railroad tonnage, although the railroad charge for freight per ton per mile was nearly twice as great as the canal charge. The last Republican Legislature appropriated the sum of $100,000 to be expended in a thorough and scientific investigation of the cause of this decline in canal traffic and of the character and expense of all the numerous projects that have been proposed for the betterment of the canals and to bring about their greater use. It is the policy of the Republican party, if any further expenditure is to be made upon the canals, except for maintenance, to place before the people the assured facts, together with estimates the accuracy of which can be relied upon. It is obvious, however, that the canal problem is not merely one of an improved waterway. Connected therewith there is another—the problem of more modern transportation methods. This feature, together with the question of economic advantage to the State, should be thoroughly examined. Other clauses call attention to legislation in the interest of workingmen, farmers and women, and the purity of elections, opposition to conspiracies between public officials and corporations. The paragraph relating to the water question announces the belief that in the interest of the health and comfort of citizens the people of the municipalities should own and operate their water supplies, and promises that the Republican party will favor legislation to enable every municipality, the just rights of all being conserved, to enter upon and take under the condemnation laws the watersheds necessary to secure for their inhabitants an adequate water supply. Praise is given to the National Guard for its patriotic spirit and military efficiency, the repeal of the Horton law is alluded to, and the platform closes as follows: The Republican party has taken special care of the interests of the unfortunate classes, the idiotic, the insane, the blind. It has established a State Hospital for crippled and deformed children. It has liberally provided for the treatment of indigent consumptives and epileptics. It has appropriated for scientific investigations, looking to the discovery of the sources and of means to prevent the extension of contagious diseases. It has liberally appropriated for the care of orphans, and for the maintenance of industrial schools for the instruction and reformation of juvenile offenders. It has looked carefully to public improvements. It has finished the Capitol. It has protected the Palisades. It has accomplished great improvements at the State Reservation at Niagara. It has greatly extended State ownership of timber lands in the Adirondacks for the protection of the watersheds. Its laws have been effective for the promotion of public order and health, good morals, and wise and economical government of the State and all its communities. Covering the whole period of the seven years of its control of the State government, the Republican party points to a record during which the charge of maladministration cannot be brought successfully against any of its officials. It is a record of progress and good government; of promises kept, not of pledges broken. Relying upon this, it asks the support of all the voters for the candidates nominated by this Convention.

Democratic.

June 5.—While recognizing the fact that as the Nation grows older new issues are born of time and progress, and old issues perish, we insist that the fundamental principles of Democracy, which have been so frequently approved by the voice of the people, must ever remain as the best and only security for the continuance of free government. The preservation of personal rights, equal rights for all and special privileges for none, the recognition of the reserved rights of the States, the confinement of the General Government to the exercise of powers granted by the Constitution strictly construd, freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of conscience, home rule for States and opposition to centralization will ever constitute the true basis of our liberties, and are the essential principles upon which our institutions are founded. It is the especial mission of the Democracy to preserve, cherish and protect these fundamental tenets of our political faith. We hold to the doctrine that public taxation should not be imposed for private purposes, and adhere to the principle of a tariff for revenue only. We are opposed to governmental partnership with protected monopolies, and we demand that import duties, like other taxes, should be impartially laid and so adjusted as to operate equally throughout the country, not discriminating between class or section, and their imposition limited to the necessities of the Government honestly and economically administered. In this connection we assert our opposition to the continuance of war taxes in times of peace. We demand retrenchment and economy in all the departments of the Government, and condemn the extravagance and profligacy which have characterized the present Republican National Administration. We favor both gold and silver as the standard money of the country—the money of the Constitution and of our fathers—each to be maintained at a parity with the other in purchasing and debt paying power, which has been the steadfast policy of the Democratic party since the days of Jefferson, who declared that "the monetary unit must stand on both metals." We pledge our best efforts to continue the work of monetary reform. We are opposed to that foreign policy of the present National Administration, commonly known as "imperialism," which contemplates schemes of conquest and the establishment of colonial governments in accordance with British theories and practices, demands large standing armies for purposes of subjugation, impoverishes the people with vast public expenditures, creates hordes of officials to rule over peoples who should be permitted to rule themselves, disregards the principles of the Declaration of Independence and materially changes the nature of our republican form of government. We earnestly protest against the wrongs, the usurpations and suicidal follies involved in such an un-American policy. There is no place for subject colonies under the American flag. The Constitution does not contemplate the establishment of colonial systems. We demand that our solemn ante-war pledges made by Congress to Cuba and to the world should be speedily fulfilled in good faith, thereby preserving our National integrity and honor. We maintain that the Constitution follows the flag over every integral part of the United States, affording to its inhabitants the protection and benefits of its guarantees of life, liberty, habeas corpus, freedom of speech, freedom of the press, trial by jury and uniform tariff laws. A Republican Congress has no more right to establish or govern a territorial or colonial system outside of the Constitution than it has to create a king. We demand that every part of our possessions shall be governed according to American precedents and American principles. Our plain duty is to abolish all customs tariffs between the United States and Porto Rico, and give her products free access to our markets. We condemn President McKinley and a Republican Congress for a flagrant violation of this plain duty, and for their hypocrisy and inconsistency. We express our unqualified opposition to those immense combinations of capital commonly known as "trusts," which are concentrating and monopolizing industry and business, crushing out independent producers of limited means, destroying competition, restricting opportunities for labor, artificially limiting production, raising prices, and by reason of their alarming multiplication throughout the country, are rapidly creating a condition which is becoming intolerable. These trusts and combinations are the direct outgrowth of the policy of the Republican party, which has created, fostered and protected them. It receives their support and solicits and accepts their prodigal contributions to aid its retention in power, and it is therefore incapacitated and unwilling to abolish and destroy them, or even to properly regulate and restrict them. The Democratic party pledges itself that if intrusted with power in either the State or the Nation it will devote its best energies to the relief of the people from these oppressive monopolies. The chief characteristics of the present Republican National Administration are its weakness and corruption. Its course has been vacillating and contradictory on nearly all public questions. It was forced, against its inclinations, to take a patriotic attitude upon Spanish-Cuban affairs by an overwhelming public sentiment, to which it reluctantly yielded. Having obtained power upon the promise that it intended to legislate for the country instead of party, it immediately proceeded to enact a high protective and partisan tariff law, which protected the rich and oppressed the poor, which strengthened monopolies and injured the interests of labor, which increased the people's burdens instead of relieving them. It has covered up and sanctioned the scandals of its military administration. The disclosures of the corrupt methods of its appointees are breaking out everywhere. It has permitted the Civil Service laws to be used for the accomplishment of partisan ends. Many of its judiciary appointments have been notoriously unfit. It has tolerated an offensive bossism in and around the White House which has virtually dictated the civil appointments in nearly all the States. We declare that administrative reform is necessary in every department of the General Government, which can only be accomplished by a change of measures, of methods and of men. The Monroe Doctrine, as originally declared and as since interpreted by succeeding Democratic Presidents, is a permanent part of the foreign policy of the United States, and must at all times be vigorously maintained. We are opposed to any alliances, express or implied, with any foreign Government, whereby the influence of this country cannot at all times be freely exerted in behalf of the maintenance and extension of republican institutions, and in favor of any brave people struggling to be free from plutocratic or monarchical rule. Recognizing the just claims of deserving Union soldiers and sailors, we favor the enactment of fair and liberal pension laws, and demand their reasonable interpretation and impartial enforcement. We are in favor of an amendment to the Federal Constitution providing for the election of United States Senators by the people of the respective States. The Democracy of New-York favors the nomination of William J. Bryan, of Nebraska, for President of the United States.

September 12.—The Democratic party of the State of New-York, in convention assembled, declares as follows: "We pledge ourselves anew to the principles and policies of Jeffersonian Democracy and indorse the platform adopted by the last Democratic National Convention. We recognize the truth of the declaration of that Convention that the burning issue of imperialism, growing out of the Spanish war, involves the very existence of the Republic and the destruction of our free institutions. We regard it as the paramount issue of the campaign. Upon this issue, therefore, we invite all citizens of our State to promote the election of a Democratic President, however they may differ upon National issues which at this time are inferior in rank. In the presence of this momentous peril to our land and to the cause of Democratic and industrial self-government we are confident that the patriotic citizens of this State, faithful to the principles of the Declaration of Independence, will not permit themselves to be divided upon any difference of belief or judgment as to any other question of governmental policy. The issue now paramount includes the question of the perversion of the power of Government to the exclusive benefit of favored classes, or of the substitution of government by syndicate for government of, by and for the people. And in this connection we wish to impress upon all the following declaration of our last State convention: We are opposed to that foreign policy of the present National Administration commonly known as "imperialism," which contemplates schemes of conquest and the establishment of colonial government in accordance with British theories and practices; demands large standing armies for the purpose of subjugation; impoverishes the people with vast public expenditures; creates hordes of officials to rule over people who should be permitted to rule themselves; disregards the principles of the Declaration of Independence, and materially changes the nature of our republican form of government. We maintain that the Constitution follows the flag over every integral part of the United States, affording to its inhabitants the protection and benefits of its guarantees of life, liberty, habeas corpus, freedom of speech, freedom of the press, trial by jury, and uniform tariff laws. Congress has no more right to establish or govern a territorial or colonial system outside of the Constitution than it has to create a king. We demand that every part of our possessions shall be governed according to American precedents and American principles. We ratify and indorse the nomination for the Presidency of William J. Bryan, a statesman of undoubted patriotism and independence enjoying in a marked degree the confidence of his fellow citizens, an honest, able and fearless champion of popular rights and aspirations, in whose hands the business interests of the country and the industrial elements of our citizenship would find equal and ample protection. The nomination of that sturdy old Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson as Vice-President is hailed by the Democracy as an inspiration. His long record as a Democrat in public service is a guarantee of wise, conservative, wholesome administration. We condemn the corporate combination known as the Ice Trust and denounce all combinations of capital known as trusts as inevitably and intolerably unjust to both producer and consumer. By substituting for the natural laws of commerce the arbitrary dictates of selfish greed prices are reduced to the producer and increased to the consumer to the extreme limit to provide enormous dividends upon fictitious capital values. To accentuate the evil, the policy of trusts, in restricting production, deprives thousands who under legitimate conditions would be profitably employed of all opportunity to earn a livelihood in the calling or occupation to which they have been trained. The direct effect of these immense combinations of capital in control of every industry is to destroy all individual enterprise, and to rob the young men of the country of the free field and fair competition which in Democratic times constituted the great glory of the Nation and permitted the advancement and independence of our youth without any favoritism and without any other requisite aids than merit, honesty and industry. The hope of former days has departed from the young men of the land. The outlook promises only that what they are to-day that they shall remain to the end of their lives. The savings of their laor and frugality during a lifetime promise no relief from present drudgery in even the distant future. Turn where they may to improve their condition, they encounter the crushing rivalry of aggregated millions, and the inequality of the contest for improved conditions for the individual renders the contest hopeless. The day of individual opportunity must be restored, and to achieve this laudable public endeavor the Democratic party is pledged in both State and Nation. We favor economy in public expenditure and a reduction of the volume of appropriations to the needs of efficient government. We repeat our demand for "the abolition of unnecessary offices and tax eating commissions" whereby the expenses of the State have been made to exceed by more than $10,000,000 those of the last Democratic State administration. We earnestly oppose the further increase of State commissions and call attention to the violation of the pledge of the Republican party in 1894 to do away with the commissions then existing. In utter contempt of this promise the number of such commissions has been increased more than threefold, not for the promotion of any public interests, but for the purpose of providing places for political favorites. By this method localities have been deprived of legitimate powers, the exercise of all governmental functions has been centralized at Albany, and the powers of government in this State are now vested largely in commissions and commissioners. We favor the principle of taxing public franchises, and condemn the failure of the Republican administration to enforce in good faith the franchise tax laws already enacted. We pledge the Democratic party to the prompt enactment and honest execution of just and equitable methods of taxing such franchises. We believe in local self-government and in the right of the several municipalities to conduct their purely local concerns without legislative interference, or charter tinkering for partisan purposes. We denounce the action of recent Republican Legislatures in habitually overruling the vetoes by Democratic city authorities of local legislation submitted for their approval, disregarding the merits of such vetoes and the obligation of the Constitution. We favor such reform in legislative methods as will make impossible such forgeries of laws as were perpetrated in the Legislature of 1900, to the great scandal of the people of the State. We favor a reasonable and just excise law under which there shall be restored to the several localities the local supervision of the liquor traffic, now totally destroyed by a system which, under the guise of regulating the traffic, takes away from the people all power of controlling or regulating it in their respective neighborhoods and builds up a political machine to prey upon this traffic for partisan ends. We condemn the canal policy of the Republican party as ruinous to the commerce of the State. The wasteful and fraudulent expenditure of $9,000,000 and the failure to punish those implicated therein is a blot upon the administration of the canals meriting the rebuke of a plundered and betrayed people. We pledge the Democratic party to an economical and honest administration of canal affairs. The complete abandonment of the canal problem by the Republicans is a surrender of the commercial interests of the State to the unrestricted exactions of the railroads. We believe the canals should be maintained, and with economical expenditure improved to the conditions which permit their operation as competitors in freight transportation and as factors in the limiting of freight rates and the prevention of unjust discrimination between shippers." After a clause calling for a strict enforcement of all labor laws, and protesting against the assumption by the Republican leaders that the Republican party is the friend of labor, the platform continues: "We condemn the legislation known as the Ramapo Water bill, passed by a Republican Legislature and approved by a Republican Governor, which granted to this favored corporation such extraordinary power as to place at its mercy many cities and villages which have not yet acquired their own supply of water, or, having acquired it, desire to increase such supply, and we pledge the Democratic party to a correction of the evil, and to the prevention of its repetition by the enactment of such laws as may be necessary. We favor the ownership by the several municipalities of their own water supply and the general principle of municipal ownership of public utilities. We demand the repeal of the unconstitutional and partisan statute imposed upon the city of New-York known as the McCullagh force bill. We favor uniform election laws throughout the State respecting the equal rights and equal citizenship of all the electors of the State. We protest against the invasion of homes of the citizens of the Greater New-York and their subjection to an inquisitorial examination by State spies and deputies, armed with pistols and bludgeons, under the guise of enforcing election laws. As the improvement of the rural highways add to the comfort and welfare of the people and materially aid the producers of the State by affording more easy access to market, increasing the value of farm property, we favor liberal expenditures by the State for the construction and maintenance of such roads. And we favor organized movements having for their object the building and improvement of the highways, roads and bicycle paths. We favor the election of United States Senators by a direct vote of the people. We recognize in the existing process of appointment and removal of the teachers in the public schools of the State a constant menace to the well being and effective service of instructors of our youth and a detriment and obstacle to the progress of their pupils; and we pledge ourselves to the enactment of a tenure of office law that shall correct the present conditions, and we deprecate the tendency manifested by the Republican party of dragging the public school system of the State into politics." Practical Civil Service is demanded, and the platform concludes: "Believing that the success of the Republican party means continuance of the policy of criminal aggression abroad and the complete ascendency of trusts and favored interests at home, the Democrats of New-York State appeal to the patriotism and intelligence of the voting population to support in State and Nation the party whose cardinal principles have ever been equal and exact justice to all, special privileges to none. Peace, commerce and honest friendship with all nations, entangling alliances with none. Home rule. Individual liberty. Common sense Civil Service. Honest pay for honest toil. And the lowest possible taxation consistent with efficient administration. Upon this and the National declaration of party faith we stand, and confidently urge upon the people of this State the claims to their consideration and support of the party which, under the leadership of Thomas Jefferson, made glorious the opening of the century by re-establishing on a firm foundation the principles of republican government."

June 6.—A declaration of principles was adopted which was substantially the same as that of 1896. Special resolutions censure President McKinley for the troubles with the miners in Idaho, as well as "the Free Silver Bryanistic Governor Steunenberg, the Silver Republican State Auditor Sinclair and the Populist Governor Smith of Montana," besides various judges and labor leaders, including Samuel Gompers and Eugene V. Debs.

NORTH CAROLINA.

May 2.—The convention declared vigorous opposition to negro domination, and instructed the delegates to the Philadelphia Convention to vote for McKinley, pledged support to the National Administration, favored expansion, the gold standard and protection.

Republican. (LILY WHITE).

April 12.—The platform favored peaceful commercial expansion, denounced the Republican party's legislation on the currency question, declared against legislation by which the people in territory acquired by the United States are taxed without representation and deprived of the protection afforded by the principle that the Constitution follows the flag, and on tariff and taxes said: "We denounce the tariff legislation of the Republican party which has increased the burdens of taxation upon our consumers and increased the powers of the trusts and monopolies to rob the people. Believing that under our present method of Federal taxation more than three-fourths of our National revenues are paid by people owning less than one-fourth of the property of the country, we protest against such inequality and injustice, and in order to remedy to some extent this great wrong we favor an income tax and favor all constitutional methods to sustain it."

Democratic.

April 18.—The platform reaffirms the plattorm adopted at St. Louis in 1896 and instructs the delegates to the National Convention at Sioux Falls on May 9 to vote for Bryan, condemns the Democratic Legislature of 1899 for: (1) Its expenditures, (2) its legislation, (3) passage of the constitutional amendment, and on the amendment says: "The constitutional question presented by the proposed amendment is one that must be determined by the judgment and conscience of each individual voter. Therefore, we do not make it a party question. We state the evils and dangers and leave the voters of all parties to pass their verdict in the light of these facts. The question is above party and no one should be more active and anxious in our judgment to defeat it than the rank and file of the Democratic party."

NORTH DAKOTA.

May 16.—The Committee on Resolutions indorsed the McKinley Administration, congratulated themselves on the prosperity existing in the State, reaffirmed their belief in sound money, approved the State's representatives, commended the North Dakota volunteers for valiant service in the Philippines, condemned trusts, hoped for the adoption of legislation to restrict them, and favored extension of Oriental markets.

Republican.

September 25.—The convention ratified the National platform, commended the Administration of President McKinley, favored such legislation as will destroy all unlawful combinations of capital formed for the purpose of limiting production or increasing the price of manufactured products, complimented the North Dakota volunteers upon the splendid record in both the Cuban and Philippine wars, congratulated the people of the country upon the enactment into law of the currency bill, which provides the gold standard as the monetary unit of value, and favored the present prohibition law and a faithful enforcement of the same as well as all other laws of the State, especially those in the penal and criminal codes and their strict and impartial enforcement in all parts of the State at all times.

June 6.—The convention adopted the following: Resolved, That we reaffirm our allegiance to the fundamental principles embodied in the Constitution of the United States. That we are opposed to the Republican policy of militarism, colonialism and alliance with any foreign power, opposed to territorial expansion by force of arms, and that we are in favor of trade expansion to the fullest extent. That we are opposed to taxation without representation. That it is our plain duty to abolish all customs duties between ourselves and Porto Rico. That we are opposed to the Republican principle of protection, which makes it possible for combinations to restrict trade and eliminate competition, by fostering trusts and monopolies. We are in favor of the election of United States Senators by popular vote. We are in favor of an economical administration, equitable adjustment of the burden of taxation, and we favor an amendment to the Constitution of the United States conferring upon Congress the power to tax incomes.

Democratic.

July 19.—We, the Democrats of North Dakota, in delegate convention assembled, hereby renew our allegiance to those immortal principles of human rights enumerated by Jefferson, defended by Jackson and in their latest form incorporated in the Democratic platform of 1900. We announce our unqualified approval of every principle embodied in that platform. We send greetings to our ideal leaders, William Jennings Bryan, of Nebraska, and Adlai E. Stevenson, of Illinois, and pledge them and the principles for which they stand the loyal support of North Dakota in the National election. The Republicans have been in control of all branches of our State government for the last six years, and we challenge them to defend themselves against the following charges and specifications: First—You have recklessly and prodigally conducted the business of the State, thereby largely and unnecessarily increasing the State taxes and imposing unnecessary and unjust burdens upon the taxpayers. Second—You have carried upon the pay roll employes and clerks who have drawn salaries without rendering service. Third—You have discriminated in favor of corporations and against the people. Fourth—Your party has been dominated by a machine which has used it for the promotion of individual and selfish interests. Fifth—You have defeated for renomination State officers for the sole reason that they endeavored faithfully to carry out your pledges to the people in relation to corporations. Sixth—Recognizing the truth of the above charges, the delegates who attended your last State convention failed to indorse the present State administration, expressed no regret for its actions in the past, and made no promise for amendment in the future.

OHIO.

Republican.

April 25.—The platform reaffirmed the declarations of the St. Louis platform of 1896, declared the Republican Administration has restored prosperity to the country, and that the United States is outstripping all the nations of the world in foreign trade. The resolutions indorsed the "wise and patriotic administration of President McKinley, whose signal achievements in war and peace, in statesmanship and diplomacy, mark an epoch in the history of the Nation, and whose brilliant success justifies and demands, in the highest interests of the country, the uninterrupted continuance through another term of his great but uncompleted work." It praised the adoption of the gold standard, and regarding insular affairs said: "In the broader field of world duty and influence the Administration has met an unavoidable war for humanity with unequalled vigor and success, has crowned the matchless triumph of our arms on sea and land with the courageous acceptance of its high and solemn obligations, has faithfully studied and sought equally the true honor of the Nation and the greatest good of the peoples who have come under our flag, and has through the wise use of expanded opportunity led our country on pathways of greatness and renown. We reaffirm the principle in which the Republican party had its birth, and on which Abraham Lincoln was elected President, that the representatives of the people have full power over territory belonging to the United States, in harmony with and subject to the fundamental safeguards of our free insitutions for liberty, justice and personal rights. We sustain the President and Congress in exercising this power with due regard for the safety and welfare of the Union and with the most just, generous, humane and fraternal consideration for those over whom the authority of the Nation is extended. We advocate for them free schools, full security for life, liberty and prosperity, the most liberal measures for the development of their agriculture and industry and the largest degree of local self-rule for which they are fitted. We have faith in American patriotism, character and capacity, and we know that American government will extend the inestimable blessings of freedom, law and civilization to the peoples who are brought under our protection." The "wisdom and success with which President McKinley has performed the duty imposed by the Treaty of Paris," and the fortitude and heroism of the soldiers and sailors of the United States through whom it was performed, as well as the provisions of the treaty itself, were heartily approved. It was declared that sovereignty over the new possessions must not be repudiated, and that the "high purpose of its origin must be accomplished in the establishment of peace and order, and the blessings of individual liberty among the peoples of the Philippine Islands." The platform concludes: "The Republican party of Ohio stands committed to legislative and executive opposition to the threatening combinations of capital that seek to restrict competition and stifle independent producers; we invite within our borders the capitalistic investments that are material to the industrial development of the State and the largest employment of labor, but we insist that injurious combinations shall be forbidden, and so-called trusts shall be regulated from time to time and be so restricted as to guarantee immunity from hurtful monopoly and assure fair treatment and protection to all competing industries."

Democratic.

June 13.—We reaffirm our adherence to the Democratic National platform adopted at Chicago in 1896. But new and grave issues have arisen, threatening the safety of free government itself, which should command at this time the most serious attention of all patriotic citizens. We enter our protest against the doctrine that the President or Congress can govern acquired territory outside and independently of the Constitution of the United States as a doctrine utterly subversive of every foundation principle of our Government. The Declaration of Independence, the flag and the Constitution must everywhere stand together as emblems of human liberty and equal rights for all, and where one goes all go. We therefore denounce imperialism under any pretence as necessarily leading to militarism and as wholly foreign to our system of government, and declare that neither Congress nor the President can exercise any power whatever not derived from the Constitution. We therefore denounce the Porto Rican Tariff bill as a palpable violation of the doctrines of the fathers and of the fundamental principles of our Government, which is based upon equal rights to all. Trusts and monopolies, formed for the purpose of arbitrarily controlling production and prices in the interest solely of combined capital, if allowed to go on can result only in industrial serfdom for the mass of the people. We therefore oppose such combinations and demand that not only all existing laws against combinations in restraint of trade be rigidly enforced, but, believing that protective tariffs and railway discriminations have been and still are the chief supporters of monopolies, we favor the removal of all duties from imports monopolized by trusts, and also demand that enactment and enforcement of such legislation as will prevent every species of discrimination, and believe that the courageous and honest application of the Democratic maxim of "equal rights to all and special privileges to none" will be effective to destroy and thereafter prevent any trust or combination of capital that is prejudicial to the general welfare; we demand the repeal of all laws giving special privileges to any person, class, locality or interest. We denounce the currency law, passed by the present Congress, which transfers to the banks the entire control of the paper currency, thus laying the foundation for a money trust which will have power to control the prices of all property and to stimulate or strangle business; on the other hand, by requiring the Government to redeem all forms of currency in gold, it continues and multiplies the evils of the "endless chain" and imposes upon the Government the entire burden of supplying gold for export whenever demanded, and to obtain which it must issue bonds when necessary, thus necessitating not only a perpetual debt, but a perpetually increasing debt. In lieu of a currency of bank promises to pay, to be expanded and contracted as the interest of banks alone may dictate, we demand that the general Government shall not only coin the metals, but shall issue and regulate the volume of paper currency also, in the interest of all the people, and that all currency intended to circulate as money shall be legal tender and be maintained at a parity of value, and be regulated with a view to maintaining stable price levels and safe business conditions. We affirm anew our undiminished faith in the acknowledged leader of our party, William J. Bryan, and demand his nomination at Kansas City for President of the United States, and the delegates elected by this convention are instructed to so cast their votes.

OKLAHOMA.

Republican.

October 5.—The Republican convention vigorously attacked the territorial government provided by President McKinley and refused to indorse the Administration. Special attention was paid to alleged irregularities in the allotment of lands to settlers, and a sweeping reform was called for.

OREGON.

Republican.

April 13.—Loyalty to the gold standard was affirmed, the policy of the Administration, particularly regarding the Philippines, was indorsed, and declarations were made favoring State control of combinations and trusts, retrenchment in public expenditures, a constitutional amendment increasing the number of Supreme Court Judges and the election of United States Senators by direct vote, and submission to the people of a constitutional amendment providing for the initiative and referendum, and opposing any measure looking to the leasing of the public domain for grazing purposes to the detriment of settlers.

Democratic.

April 13.—Sixteen to one, an income tax, direct election of United States Senators, the initiative and referendum, Government ownership of the telegraph, and municipal ownership of municipal franchises were all favored. The general course of the Administration was condemned, sympathy with the Boers was expressed, and militarism, the Dingley tariff, trusts and extravagance in State expenditures were denounced. On government by injunction the platform said: We oppose government by injunction and the blacklist, and favor arbitration as a means of settling disputes between corporations and their employes, and recognizing the fact that a corporation is a creature of law we believe in and favor a reasonable supervision by State inspection of mines, machinery, manufactories and railways, to the end that injury to employes be avoided and life rendered secure; we favor the passage of a reasonable employers' liability act, similar to those enacted in other States.

Populist (MIDDLE OF THE ROAD).

April 12.—The platform demands direct legislation by the initiative and referendum and the imperative mandate, Government ownership of all public utilities as the only means of destroying trusts, that the right to make and issue money is a sovereign power to be maintained by the people, and that all money, whether metallic or paper, should be issued and its volume controlled by the Government, and not by or through banking corporations, and should be a full legal tender for all debts, both public and private.

People's (FUSION).

April 13.—Among other things the platform says: We believe the passage of an employers' liability act, applicable to railroad companies, similar to such acts adopted in other States, by which the doctrine of fellow service and that of an employer being liable to one servant for the negligence of another, should be enacted; and we also believe that where an injury is caused by the negligence of a master, the mere fact that the servant knew of the negligence and continued in the employment should not defeat recovery. We further favor a reasonable supervision and limitation by the State of the operation of railroad trains and of the number of cars which may be hauled in a train, and the limitation of the hours which employes shall work without rest. We further believe that the Legislature should pass laws by which the books of the railroad corporations should be open to inspection by the proper officials of the State, so that a reasonable rate law may be established and reasonable wages secured for employes.

Prohibition.

The two chief planks in the platform were: Resolved, That while there are many other reforms regarding which we hold firm convictions, and upon which we, as a party, could unanimously agree, we believe it to be the part of wisdom to concentrate our efforts upon the one issue which clearly outweighs in importance all other issues combined—the prohibition of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes. Resolved,

That in the accomplishment of this one clearly defined purpose, we invite to party fellowship all those who on this one issue with us agree, in the full belief that the party thus created will be endowed with the requisite wisdom, patriotism, courage and ability to take up and speedily settle all social, financial, economic, industrial and territorial questions that may present themselves.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Republican.

April 5.—The Republicans of Pennsylvania, by their representatives in convention assembled, extend congratulations to their fellow Republicans throughout the Nation on account of the prosperous conditions everywhere existing and the contentment and happiness enjoyed by the American people under the Administration of President McKinley. All these conditions have resulted from four years of Republican rule in our National affairs. We therefore reaffirm the doctrines enunciated in the last Republican National platform, and again congratulate the people upon the faithful fulfilment of all the pledges therein contained. We firmly support and fully indorse President McKinley's Administration, and again record the wish of the Republicans of Pennsylvania that he be renominated to lead our hosts to victory at the November election, and to this end we instruct the delegates this day elected to favor his candidacy in the National Convention. For the National defence, for the reinforcement of the Navy, for the enlargement of our foreign markets, for the employment of American workmen in the mines, forests, farms, mills, factories and shipyards, we demand the immediate enactment of legislation similar to that favorably reported to each branch of Congress, so that American built, American owned and American manned ships may regain the carrying of our foreign commerce. We congratulate the whole country upon the fact that the money question no longer disturbs our business conditions. On account of the wise policy adopted by a Republican President and a Republican Congress, the gold standard is now accepted as the monetary unit of value. This places our business transactions on a stable basis, and will encourage capital to seek investment and labor to find employment. We declare in favor of an amendment to the Federal Constitution which shall provide for election of United States Senators by the people in the same manner as other State officials are elected, and we hereby instruct our delegates-at-large to the Republican National Convention from Pennsylvania to offer and support this resolution in the Convention of 1900. We again record our firm conviction that in the appointment of the Hon. Matthew Stanley Quay as a member of the United States Senate from Pennsylvania Governor Stone was acting within his constitutional authority, and the thanks of the Republicans of Pennsylvania are due to the Hon. John P. Elkin, Attorney-General, for his masterly and logical argument before the Elections Committee of the United States Senate clearly demonstrating the existence of this power in the Chief Executive of the State. We deplore the action of the United States Senate in denying us the right of full representation to which we are entitled under the Federal Constitution. We still contend that the Governor had constitutional authority to make the appointment, and in selecting the Hon. Matthew Stanley Quay he was acting in accordance with the clearly expressed will of a large majority of the Republicans of the State. We express our confidence in Senator Quay's leadership, and we believe in his political and personal integrity. A great wrong has been done him, which the people will right at the proper time, and therefore we urge and insist that the Hon. Matthew S. Quay shall be a candidate for re-election to the United States Senate, in which he has so long served the people with such distinguished ability and fidelity, and to this end we pledge him our hearty and cordial support. The Republican party of Pennsylvania has always stood for an honest ballot and a fair count. In the furtherance of this idea an act was passed in 1891, known as the Baker Ballot law, for the purpose of protecting the citizen in the exercise of the elective franchise. This act was passed by a Republican Legislature at the instance of the Ballot Reform Association and was intended to secure a secret and honest ballot. Further safeguards were thrown around the ballot law by the supplemental act of 1893. In addition, however, to these laws, we favor such legislation as will enable the courts to open the ballot boxes upon the petition of citizens, duly presented, in all cases where complaint is properly made, alleging fraud in the holding of an election or the counting of the vote cast, so that if fraudulent ballots are placed in the boxes, or a false count has been made, it can be exposed by the courts with expedition and all offenders against the purity of the ballot detected and brought to speedy justice. . . . We declare against all unlawful and illegal combinations of capital to the detriment of business and trade and against the best interests of the laboring people. We also favor the enactment of such immigration laws as will protect the American laborer from the unfair competition of the cheap and pauper labor of Europe.

Democratic.

April 4.—The platform declares for a thorough revision of the tariff, and for a tariff for revenue only, urging Democratic members of Congress to secure the passage of a law that will place upon the free list every article of free material or of manufactured product used and manufactured by any trust or combine. It demands the prompt and faithful enforcement of the anti-trust act of 1890, and denounces the creation of corporate trusts and monopolies. It opposes what it calls the imperialism of the Administration and of the Republican party, and favors granting the Philippines home rule at once—the right to govern themselves under the protection of the United States. It demands that independence be granted the people of Cuba and the Army withdrawn. It demands for the people of Porto Rico the right of free trade with the United States. It demands a vigorous American policy in our intercourse with foreign nations. It denounces the use of the Army of the United States, the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus and the declaration of martial law in times of peace in order that labor may be intimidated, as destructive of the citizens' rights. It declares in favor of a few things such as an interoceanic canal controlled by this country; no further surrender of Alaskan territory; fortifications of strategic points on the Pacific; no entangling alliance with England, secret or open; free trade with Porto Rico; no subject people; eternal opposition to trusts; America for Americans; the election of United States Senators by the people, and the prohibition of polygamy. On the money question the party reiterates its faith in the beneficent effects of bimetallism, and urges that its recognition and adoption would tend to steady and make permanent the prosperity of our country, and free it from the power of the money trust to precipitate panics at will and make money dear and everything else cheap. Coming to State questions, the platform declares in favor of a constitutional amendment to permit the Legislature to enact an efficient personal registration law, and in favor of such other legislation as will purify the ballot and help to secure honest elections. It favors State legislation to punish the oppressive and criminal acts of trusts, to restrain discrimination by common carriers, telephone and telegraph companies; to prevent the combination of corporations by purchase of stock to prevent the issue of full paid stock except for cash or property at its actual cost value; to prohibit foreign corporations from doing business in this State except upon an exact equality with those organized under the laws of the State.

RHODE ISLAND.

Republican.

October 11.—The platform adopted by the Convention indorsed and reaffirmed the principles set forth by the platform adopted by the Republican National Convention. It approved the policy and acts of President McKinley during his administration, congratulated the country upon the establishment of the gold standard, and exhorted the voters to keep in mind the fact that the financial question must remain subject to the control of Congress and the Administration. It called upon them to see that there shall be a solid Republican working majority in Congress, and asserted that the sovereignty rightfully acquired over the Philippines must be maintained at whatever cost and trouble. It denounced the Democratic party and its doctrines of free silver and imperialism, its disenfranchisement of negro voters, its howls of trusts and militarism. Specific planks were: The vast improvement in our foreign commerce, as well as in our domestic trade, which has taken place during the last four years, and the great advance made toward a leading position among the nations of the world, must not be jeopardized by a radical change of policy, such as would follow Democratic success. The sovereignty of the United States has been rightfully acquired over the Philippines and must be maintained at whatever cost and trouble, unless we would become the derision of the world and prove ourselves unworthy of our high position among the nations.

Democratic.

September 28.—After indorsing the action of the Kansas City Convention, the platform says: For many preceding Presidential elections economic questions have been chiefly at issue between the parties, but this election deals with principles far more fundamental. The present Administration, controlled by a faction of the Republican party, has thrust new issues upon the country. Entering office when the United States was, and for fifty years had been, at peace with every other nation, it has already involved us in three foreign wars. As a result of this new policy a debt of $200,000,000 has been incurred, war taxes have been levied and appropriations have so increased that the present is to be a billion-and-a-half-dollar Congress. For the first time in the history of the country a tariff has been created between parts of its territory, and hundreds of thousands of people have been annexed without any of the guarantees of liberty and without any promise of future constitutional protection—subjects, not citizens. This new departure of the Administration has already cost us not only millions of money and thousands of lives, but it involves the abandonment of the cherished principles upon which our Government was founded. It violates the doctrines of equal rights, self-government and the golden rule. It substitutes force for justice and says that might makes right. The President, in the face of his solemn promise that in Civil Service reform there should be no step backward, has with one stroke of his pen given over ten thousand employes of the Government as spoils of his party. During his administration more trusts have been formed than throughout the entire previous history of the Republic. Nothing has been done to check their growth, nor can it be expected when they are contributing fabulous sums toward his re-election. We are unalterably opposed to the amendment to be submitted to the people at the November election, and we earnestly request the voters of this State to vote against the same.

Prohibition.

October 1.—The platform charged both the leading parties with insincerity in their opposition to trusts, as they were under the domination of the Whiskey Trust, and called attention to the fact that the Democratic party, while posing as the arch foe of imperialism, has never uttered a whisper against the most imperialistic act of the Republican Administration, viz., the nullification of the act of Congress intended to abolish the army canteen. Other planks were: We especially denounce that policy of President McKinley which permits and encourages the extension of this traffic and the establishment of the American saloon, with all its attendant evils, in our colonial possessions, and we insist by his attitude in regard to the army canteen and his apparent contempt for the vast number of citizens protesting against it, he has outraged and insulted the moral sentiment of this country.

October 15.—Resolutions adopted by the convention point out that only with the public powers in the hands of the working class can the economic organization succeed, and that so long as the capitalist class remains in political power it will continue the series of atrocities of which the bull pen and Cœur d'Alene is a black sample. Democrats and Republicans unite in support of the capitalist class against the rights of labor and present the bayonet as their argument. Three-quarters of the wealth created is extorted from the producers through legal recognition of so-called property rights. Under capitalistic law the working class must consent to be robbed or to be starved. Through political control of the public powers the capitalist class is enabled to maintain its dominance. The votes of the workers alone allow these legalized bandits to remain in control. To secure these votes in the present campaign the usual bogus issues are presented. In consideration of these facts the Socialist Labor party declares every worker who casts his ballot for a Republican or Democratic candidate a scab to the cause of labor.

Socialist Labor.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

October 3.—Nominations made and the platform adopted by the Philadelphia Convention were indorsed and the course of the Administration approved. Other planks were: The Democratic party, after shifting issues from 16 to 1, has now settled upon the bogus issue of "imperialism," and claims that "no people should be governed without their consent," while the people of this and other Southern States have constitutions and laws thrust upon them by a minority which deprives the majority of the right to say under what laws and by whom they shall be governed. We condemn the Democratic party for its illegal and unjust election laws, for its blind partisanship in the selection of commissioners and managers of election and for its boasted policy of disfranchising 100,000 voters of the right of suffrage, and we point out to the world that this is imperialism run mad.

Republican.

May 1.—The convention viewed with alarm the increasing power of the trusts, condemned the financial legislation of the Republican majority in Congress, denounced the imperialistic policy of the Administration, called for the recognition of Porto Rico on the same basis with the other territories, demanded that Cuban pledges be fulfilled, and closed the platform with the following plank relating to the Boers: We express our hearty sympathy with the two South African republics now fighting so valiantly for liberty against the immense armies of Great Britain. Her unrighteous course deserves the condemnation of all lovers of self-government, and we denounce the cowardice of the present Administration for not extending an offer of its good offices to terminate the unholy war of subjugation.

Democratic.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

May 23.—The State convention indorsed the Administration, declared against trusts, favored a constitutional amendment enlarging the powers of Congress to deal with them, indorsed the passage of the free homes bill, and the currency legislation by Congress, and favored expansion.

Republican.

July 12.—The Democratic and Populist conventions agreed upon a fusion State ticket on a platform opposing imperialism, sympathizing with the Boers, indorsing the action of the Kansas City Convention, and declaring against trusts, combines, protection, militarism and expansion.

Fusion.

TENNESSEE.

April 20.—The Brownlow and Evans wings of the party held conventions, each adopting a platform indorsing the Administration of President McKinley, the Evans convention adding a plank condemning the action of the Brownlow convention. The Brownlow delegates were seated at the National Convention.

Republican.

May 11.—The convention adopted a platform declaring against expansion and trusts. Opposition to the gold standard and protection were also vigorously expressed. Resolutions reaffirming the Chicago platform, and instructing delegates to vote for Bryan for President were adopted.

Democratic.

TEXAS.

September 19.—Resolutions eulogistic of the Administration of President McKinley were incorporated in the platform, and Congressman Hawley's course was indorsed. Proposals from the Middle-of-the-Road Populists for fusion were rejected.

Republican.

August 10.—The platform indorsed the action of the Kansas City Convention, favored the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people, favored Government ownership of the Nicaragua Canal, indorsed the actions of Governor Sayers and the State Legislature, called for equalization of taxation, favored a law forbidding any candidate seeking a nomination hiring workers at primaries, and favored liberal appropriations for educational purposes. Other planks were: Recognizing that Texas is the natural gateway for the commerce of the transmississippi States, we commend our Senators and members of Congress for their earnest efforts toward obtaining Federal aid in deepening our harbors and improving our waterways, and we urge them to use all honorable means to further these enterprises. We renew our indorsement of the principles of reform in official fees, but recommend such changes in the present law as will correct any inequalities of compensation for services that experience may demonstrate to be neessary, a reasonable maximum to be fixed where not now provided. We favor the establishment by the State of an industrial school for girls. We demand a law limiting the hours of daily service of laborers, workmen and mechanics employed upon public works or work done for the State of Texas to eight hours a day. We favor a law creating a State Board of Arbitration or Conciliation, vested with power to settle differences between corporations and their employes.

Democratic.

UTAH.

Republican.

May 10.—The platform congratulated the farmer, the miner, the manufacturer, the merchant, the wool grower and, above all, the laborer, who depends upon employment for the means to live. Continuing, the platform says: We intrust the future government of our new possessions to Congress and the President, believing that they may lawfully control and govern them as they deem best, and feeling that they will give to these possessions every measure of local self-government for which they show themselves fitted. We favor gold and silver as the money of the Republic.

Democratic.

September 6.—We, the representatives of the Democratic party of Utah, in convention assembled, reaffirm our faith in the principles of liberty and justice, the Declaration of Independence, and every constitutional safeguard designed to preserve and perpetuate the blessings of free government. We stand for the old Republic, to preserve it in all its integrity. We favor progress and expansion by peaceable methods to people who are fit for association in the sisterhood of the Republic; but we oppose expansion by conquest and the subjugation of peoples unfit for our citizenship. We affirm and approve the Democratic platform adopted in National Convention at Kansas City, and heartily indorse the nominees of that convention for President and Vice-President. We declare anew for the free and unlimited coinage of both silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1 without waiting for the consent of any other nation, believing that the principle of bimetallism is enduring, and that general and permanent prosperity cannot be secured and maintained without its establishment. Trusts, fostered by Republican policies and afforded immunity from prosecution by Republican administration, now control many lines of industry and curtail the people in their rights of liberty and the pursuit of happiness. They constitute an intolerable evil, and the Democratic party is pledged to its eradication. We favor the election of United States Senators by the direct vote of the people. We favor the adoption of the constitutional amendment proposed by the last Democratic Legislature of Utah providing for direct legislation whereby the people may be allowed to vote on the laws that shall govern them. We favor the reclamation of our vast arid region, and to that end will work for State and National legislation to facilitate the storage of water. We denounce the Republican party of the Nation for its subserviency to influences corrupt and antagonistic to the people's rule, and for its commitment of the exalted Presidential office and its occupant into the control of a financial autocrat and personal dictator. We deplore the weakness of those Utah Republicans who fought their party for principle in 1896 and have become its apologists and devotees for the sake of power and pelf in 1900. We denounce the Republican party of the Nation for its betrayal of the spirit of liberty in waging an unnecessary and bloody war against pledged allies in the Philippine Islands, for its attempt to expand this Republic of free and equal States into an empire of satrapies, provinces and subject possessions; for its squander of the lives of Americans in an unholy conflict prosecuted in order that the financial greed of its masters may have new field for exploitation, for its league with the Sultan of Sulu and its pledged recognition of his right of imperial rulership under our flag. We condemn the Republican party of Utah for its support of these iniquities, which it attempts to perpetuate. Other planks were in denunciation of the Porto Rican policy, the trusts, the gold standard, and the surrender of the rights of the people of Utah by the Republican administration of the State.

VERMONT.

Republican.

June 27.—The platform reaffirmed allegiance to Republican principles, ratified the action of the Philadelphia Convention, and continued: We believe the Republican party is the only party in which true political reforms can be inaugurated and carried forward to completion; it is the only party establishing and perfecting by legislation a safe financial system based and grounded upon gold as the standard; the only party which has maintained a tariff giving us a remarkable business prosperity and great commercial expansion; the only party which can successfully appeal for upport to the business interests of our country. This should be a campaign of business conservatism against financial heresies; of present prosperity against certain prospect of adversity in case of a change of policy. While opposing unlawful conspiracies and combinations of capital our party is favorable to the encouragement of commercial enterprise, and is the true friend of labor.

Democratic.

June 14.—The platform declared in favor of an income tax, election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people, immediate construction of the Nicaragua Canal, controlled and protected by this country, and no entangling alliances, either secret or open, with England or any other country. The general policy of the Administration was condemned, and on State affairs the repeal of the prohibition law was demanded. The tax question was treated as follows: We therefore demand a house cleaning in the politics of Vermont and ask its voters to turn over to the Democratic party all branches of its government, to the end that useless commissions and other unnecessary offices may be done away with, economy of expenditure indulged in, laws enacted that will compel individuals and corporations to contribute in taxes according to the benefit and protection they receive, and that an equitable distribution may be made of tax burdens between the rich and the poor.

VIRGINIA.

Republican.

April 10.—The platform indorses the Administration of President McKinley, declares unalterable opposition to fiat money in any form, calls for legislation favoring the extension of the merchant marine, disapproves of the Civil Service law, denounces iniquitous amendments to the election laws and an increase in the number of State officials, and continues: We denounce the trickery and rascality apparent on the face of the act providing for the vote on the question of calling a constitutional convention to change the entire organic law of the State, and we declare our unalterable opposition to a constitutional convention so long as our elections are farces, and republican government a sham and deception, knowing full well if such convention be called under the existing election system that it would be dominated by the intolerant machine which controlled the late Legislature, and that their chief aim in framing a new constitution would be the wholesale disfranchisement of both white and colored voters, and the establishment of an office holding oligarchy, which when once fully intrenched would only be overthrown by revolution. We congratulate the party on the happy adjustment of all internal dissensions, and we express the hope that peace, harmony and good will may henceforth prevail throughout the entire State, and we bereby pledge our best efforts to secure the delivery of the Electoral vote of Virginia to the nominee of the National Republican Convention to be held in Philadelphia on June 19, 1900. We cordially invite all person without regard to past party affiliations who believe in fair dealing, honest elections, good government and sound money to unite with us in a long pull, a strong pull, and a pull all together to promote these objects by voting the Republican ticket in November next.

Democratic.

May 2.—The platform demanded that the Philippine Islands be turned over as soon as practicable to their own inhabitants; that the people of Porto Rico be given a just territorial government before their substance is stolen by carpetbaggers, and that we promptly and honorably make good our solemn declarations concerning Cuba. The policy of the Administration was denounced, trusts were declared to be a serious menace to the public welfare, and indorsement was given to the bill forbidding contractors doing work for the United States Government similar to the work done by the Government in its own shops, requiring laborers on such work to work for a greater number of hours a day than the laborers employed in the Government shops are required to work.

WASHINGTON.

Republican.

August 15.—The platform declares for loyalty to the flag, the gold standard, protection and reciprocity, Government ownership and operation of a Nicaraguan Canal, expansion of trade and commerce, suppression of the Philippine rebellion, and the early construction of a Pacific cable owned and operated by the Government. It opposes relinquishing any portion of the territory of Alaska, and favors the election of United States Senators by popular vote.

Democratic.

May 20.—The delegates chosen by the convention were instructed for Bryan and the platform, after declaring against the policy of the Administration, on both foreign and domestic affairs, and approving the 16 to 1 policy, made a vigorous denunciation of Japanese immigration, and called for its suppression.

WEST VIRGINIA.

Republican.

July 11.—The platform indorsed the action of the Philadelphia Convention, denounced the present State apportionment, and the counting out of Republican officials who were honestly elected, and declared unalterable opposition to the payment of any part of the Virginia debt. Other planks were: We express our confidence in the firm but wisely conservative attitude of the National Administration in its determination to preserve the treaty rights and all other rights of Americans acquired in China under the law of nations. We indorse the firm avowal of the National Government to hold to accountability for loss or damage inflicted upon American citizens the authority in the empire chargeable with the maintenance of law and order and the guardianship of the life, property and rights of Americans. We commend the passage of the eight hour law, and its prompt enforcement by the State administration. We earnestly favor the enactment of all just and proper laws for the benefit and protection of labor.

Democratic.

June 6.—The convention advocated the nomination of W. J. Bryan, denounced imperialism, declared against the policy of the Administration regarding Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines, viewed with alarm the growth of militarism, insisted on the maintenance of the Monroe Doctrine, sympathized with the Boers, condemned the gold standard law. On State matters the Virginia debt was not recognized as a just claim, the administration was declared to be unwarrantably extravagant in increasing offices and places, and to have practically wrecked some of the State institutions to make of them political machines. The platform then continues: The conduct of all departments of the State government, the management of all State institutions, the distribution of offices and the character of those in charge of the campaign equipment, all show that the Republican party of West Virginia is now run on lines of practical, commercial politics without any pretence of considering the interests of the people or observing the common decencies or proprieties of public life.

WISCONSIN.

Republican.

April 25.—We reaffirm the principles popularly approved and indorsed at the last National election, and commended and justified by subsequent events. We hereby express our profound gratification that the present Congress of the United States, conformably to these principles by formal legislative enactment, has established as a permanent standard of value the gold coin of the Nation. We indorse the strong, brilliant and progressive Administration of our President, William McKinley, under which our National domain has been enlarged, new lustre added to our arms and unparalleled increase of wealth and prosperity secured to the country, and we rely upon our party to deal with and solve the problems that have come to us as a result of the Spanish war in a manner that will reflect credit upon the party and redound to the honor and strength of the Nation.

August 8.—The convention indorsed the action of the Philadelphia Convention, demanded that caucuses and conventions for the nomination of candidates for office be abolished by legislative enactment, and that all candidates for State, legislative, Congressional and county offices be nominated at primary election upon the same day by direct vote under the Australian ballot; and on other State topics said: We heartily indorse the action of the last Legislature on the pass question, and demand that the next Legislature take such further action as shall be necessary to submit the constitutional amendment proposed and passed at the last session of the Legislature to a vote of the people for final ratification. We approve the action of the last Legislature in imposing strict regulations upon lobbying at the State Capitol, and demand such further legislation as shall restrict the lobby to legitimate argument before legislative committees. We demand the enactment and enforcement of laws making character and competency requisites for service in our penal and charitable institutions. We believe that the demand for better highways made by the farmers of Wisconsin should be encouraged by the State as favoring an improvement of great practical value for agricultural interests.

Democratic.

August 22.—After approving the action of the Kansas City Convention the platform declares: We denounce the attitude which the McKinley Administration has assumed toward the gigantic aggregations of capital commonly known as trusts. We believe that these are a menace to industrial freedom; that they destroy competition, decrease production, increase prices and have thrown a large army of men out of employment. We believe that the declaration of the Republican party on this question is not sincere, as is evidenced by the fact that during four years of control of the legislative machinery no effective steps have been taken to control, regulate or prevent the organization of trusts, and for the further reason that many of the leaders of the Republican party are themselves promoters and organizers of these destructive combinations. We favor legislation equalizing the tax laws of the State upon the basis of constitutional uniformity, and a revision of the laws relating to transportation rates and license fees of quasi-public corporations. We declare our opposition to the present system of double taxation and demand that taxes be justly and equitably levied upon all property within the State, whether owned by corporations or individuals, without discrimination or favor, excepting such property of religious, fraternal and benevolent associations as is now expressly exempt by law.

Prohibition.

August 23.—The platform declared: We demand the prohibition of the manufacture, sale, exportation, importation and transportation of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes. We declare that no substantial reform can be made by legislative enactment for pure primary and general elections so long as the saloon debauches the citizen and breeds the purchasable voter. We are in favor of equal and just taxation, and as the first step to this end we demand the repeal of the present license laws of this State, which take more than two million dollars from the wives and children of drunkards that should be levied upon the property instead of the poverty of our people. This can only be done by the enactment of a prohibitory law in place of the license system, which is wrong in principle, vicious in theory and a failure in practice.

Social Democratic.

September 2.—Some of the specific demands: 1. The fixing of a normal working day in all industries which are working under the factory system. The working day there shall not exceed eight hours. Also an unbroken rest for at least thirty-six hours for every wage worker every week. 2. Prohibition of the employment of children under sixteen years of age. The employment of women at night in factories and workshops to be also forbidden. 3. School education of all children under sixteen years of age to be compulsory, gratuitous and accessible to all, by public assistance in meals, clothing, etc., whenever necessary. Free maintenance of such pupils, male or female, in higher educational institutions after sixteen years of age as are judged to be fitted for further education. 4. A graduated income and property tax and inheritance tax to meet all public expenses which are to be met by taxation. The corporations to pay their just share accordingly. 5. Universal suffrage without distinction to sex of all adults.

Holding elections on a legal day of rest. 6. The imperative mandate, and proportional representation, the Senate and the veto power of the Governor to be abolished.

WYOMING.

Republican. May 16.—The Administration of President McKinley was indorsed; the principles of the Republican party were reaffirmed, and on State affairs the platform said: We earnestly recommend that Congress make liberal appropriations to establish reservoir systems for the impounding of the snow waters to reclaim the arid lands of the West, which cannot otherwise be reclaimed, and to this end we urge our Congress delegation to use every endeavor possible to secure such appropriations. We invite within our borders the capital and investments that are material to the development of the State and the largest employment of American labor.

Democratic. June 10.—Resolutions were adopted declaring opposition to a large standing army, the course of the Administration in Cuba and Porto Rico, the importation of contract labor, wars of criminal aggression, and the policy of permitting public lands of the State to fall under the control of a few men to the exclusion of the small stock grower.

THE BANKRUPTCY LAW.

The Bankruptcy Law passed by both houses of the LVth Congress and approved July 1, 1898, provides a complete system for the administration of the affairs of bankrupts and the distribution of their property among their creditors, uniform throughout the United States and administered by the United States courts, in place of the different systems formerly in existence in the various States administered by State courts. In bankruptcy proceedings a bankrupt debtor may turn over all his property to the court to be administered for the benefit of his creditors, and then get a complete discharge from his debts. A bankrupt may of his own motion offer to surrender his property to the administration of the United States court and ask for his discharge in voluntary bankruptcy, or creditors may apply to the court to compel a bankrupt to turn over his property to be administered under the act for the benefit of the creditors in voluntary bankruptcy. The bankrupt who has turned over all his property and conformed to the provisions of the act is entitled to a judgment of court discharging him from any future liability to his creditors. Extended powers are given by the law for the taking possession and the administration of the assets, among others, to allow and disallow all claims against bankrupt estates, appoint receivers and take the necessary measures for the preservation and charge of the property of a bankrupt; to arraign, try and punish bankrupts, officers and other persons and the agents, officers, members of the board of directors or trustees or other similar bodies of corporations for violation of the act; to authorize the business of the bankrupt to be conducted for limited periods; to cause the assets to be collected and reduced to money and distributed, and substantially determine all controversies in relation thereto; to enforce obedience to lawful orders by fine or imprisonment, and to extradite bankrupts from one district to another. The proceeding once inaugurated by the filing of a petition by the bankrupt and the adjudication in bankruptcy having been made, the Court proceeds to take charge of the bankrupt's property, and administer the same for the benefit of the creditors, and determine all questions which may arise in regard to the rights of the bankrupt or the creditors, either as against the bankrupt or as between themselves in accordance with the above prescribed powers. A trustee is appointed, either selected by the creditors at a meeting called for that purpose or, in case they fail to select a trustee, one is appointed by the Court. His duty is to collect the property, realize on the same in such manner as may be for the best interests of all concerned, and ultimately distribute the same among the creditors in such proportions as they may be adjudicated to be entitled thereto. As all questions, both of law and fact, in relation to the property or the rights of the various parties must be decided in the bankruptcy proceeding, it is provided that referees be appointed, who are charged with the duty of hearing the allegations and testimony of all parties and deciding all such questions that may arise. Each case, as it comes up, is assigned to some referee, whose duty it is to adjudicate and pass upon all such questions arising therein in the first instance, the right being reserved to any parties to appeal from the decision of the referee to the United States District Court. The duties of the referee are substantially of a judicial character, and he occupies much the position of a judge of primary resort, subject to an appeal to the Court, and is required to take the same oath of office as that prescribed for judges of the United States courts. By Section 38 of the act, the referee is invested with jurisdiction to consider all petitions referred to him by the clerks, make adjudications or dismiss the petition; exercise the powers vested in courts of bankruptcy for the administering of oaths to and the examination of witnesses, and for requiring the production of documents in proceedings before him, except the power of commitment, and, in the absence of the Judge, to exercise all his powers for taking possession and releasing the property of a bankrupt, and to perform such part of the duties of the courts of bankruptcy as they may prescribe by rules and orders, excepting only questions arising on applications of bankrupts for compositions or discharges. All questions in regard to the property or assets or rights of the creditors and persons interested come before the referee for hearing and determination, subject to the right of appeal. After the rights of all parties have been ascertained and determined, and the property has been realized upon, it is distributed among the creditors. Provision is made in the act for allowing bankrupts to compromise or settle with their creditors by a proceeding known as composition proceedings, whereby, if a bankrupt and a majority of his creditors agree upon some basis of settlement, the same, if approved by the Court, shall become binding upon all creditors. The decision of the question as to the approval of compositions and granting discharges to a bankrupt from his debts is specifically reserved by the act to the judges of the United States courts; but the Court, by virtue of its general powers, may refer such matters to the referee to take testimony and report to the Court his opinion thereon. The aim of the act has been to make the expense of the proceedings depend largely upon the amount of the property involved, and the compensation of the referees is fixed substantially at 1 per cent on the amount distributed to the creditors in ordinary cases, where the assets are distributed by the Court, and one-half of 1 per cent in composition cases, and the trustees who have charge of the actual management of the bankrupt's property receive as compensation such commissions on amounts paid out by them as dividends as the Court may allow, not to exceed, however, 3 per cent on the first $5,000, 2 per cent on the second $5,000, and 1 per cent on all sums in excess of $10,000. Detailed provisions are made in the act for giving notice to all creditors and other persons interested in the estate of the pendency of the proceedings, the payment and declaration of dividends and other matters, and providing methods whereby all parties interested may be heard on all subjects arising in the course of the proceedings.

LABOR LAWS OF THE UNITED STATES.

Labor Commissioner.

The United States Statutes at Large provide for a Commissioner of Labor at the seat of Government, who is specially charged to "ascertain at as early a date as possible, and whenever industrial changes shall make it essential, the cost of producing articles at the time dutiable in the United States, in leading countries where such articles are produced, by fully specified units of production and under a classification showing the different elements of cost, or approximate cost, of such articles of production, including the wages paid in such industries per day, week, month, or year, or by the piece; and hours employed per day; and the profits of the manufacturers and producers of such articles; and the comparative cost of living, and the kind of living. . . . what articles are controlled by trusts or other combinations of capital, business operations, or labor, and what effect said trusts or other combinations of capital, business operations, or labor have on production and prices. He shall also establish a system of reports by which, at intervals of not less than two years, he can report the general condition, so far as production is concerned, of the leading industries of the country. The Commissioner of Labor is also specially charged to investigate the causes of, and facts relating to, all controversies and disputes between employers and employes, as they may occur, and which may tend to interfere with the welfare of the people of the different States, and report thereon to Congress. The Commissioner of Labor shall also obtain such information upon various subjects committed to him as he may deem desirable from different foreign nations, and what, if any, convict made goods are imported into this country, and if so from where." (Chap. 389, acts of Congress, 1887–'88.) "The Commissioner of Labor is also authorized to prepare and publish a bulletin containing reports on the condition of labor in this and other countries, condensations of State and foreign labor reports, facts as to conditions of employment, an annual abstract of the main features of the official statistics of the cities of the United States having over thirty (30) thousand population, and such other facts as may be deemed of value to the industrial interests of the country. There shall be printed one edition of not exceeding fifteen thousand copies of each issue of said bulletin for distribution." (Chap. 177, acts of Congress, 1894–'95, as amended.)

Boycotting.

In an article entitled "Employer and Employe Under the Common Law," published in the U. S. Department of Labor Bulletin No. 1, pages 98 and 99, the common law on the subject of boycotting, as laid down by the courts, is stated as follows: "Every one has the right to work or to refuse to work for whom and on what terms he pleases, or to refuse to deal with whom he pleases; and a number of persons, if they have no unlawful object in view, have the right to agree that they will not work for or deal with certain persons, or that they will not work under a fixed price or without certain conditions. The right of employes to refuse to work, either singly or in combination, except upon terms and conditions satisfactory to themselves, is balanced by the right of employers to refuse to engage the services of any one for any reason they deem proper. The master may fix the wages, and other conditions not unlawful, upon which he will employ workmen, and has the right to refuse to employ them upon any other terms. In short, both employers and employes are entitled to exercise the fullest liberty in entering into contracts of service, and neither party can hold the other responsible for refusing to enter into such contracts. It has been held, however, that employers in separate, independent establishments have no right to combine for the purpose of preventing workmen who have incurred the hostility of one of them from securing employment upon any terms and by the method commonly known as blacklisting, debarring such workmen from exercising their vocation, such a combination being regarded as a criminal conspiracy. On the other hand, a combination of employes having for its purpose the accomplishment of an illegal object is unlawful; for instance, a conspiracy to extort money from an employer by inducing his workmen to leave him and deterring others from entering his service is illegal; and an association which undertakes to coerce workmen to become members thereof or to dictate to employers as to the methods or terms upon which their business shall be conducted by means of force, threats or intimidation, interfering with their traffic or lawful employment of other persons is, as to such purposes, an illegal combination. Unlawful interference by employes, or former employes, or persons acting in sympathy with them, with the business of a railroad company in the hands of a receiver renders the persons interfering liable to punishment for contempt of court."

Hours of Labor.

The U. S. Statutes at Large provide that the service and employment of all laborers and mechanics employed by the Government of the United States, by the District of Columbia, or by any contractor or sub-contractor upon any of the public works of the United States, or of the District of Columbia, shall be limited and restricted to eight hours in any one calendar day. Also, that it shall be unlawful for any officer of the United States, or of the District of Columbia, or for any contractor or sub-contractor as above described, to require or permit any such laborer or mechanic to work more than eight hours in any calendar day, except in cases of extraordinary emergency. (Chap. 352, acts of Congress, 1891–'92.) In 1887 Congress provided by act that eight hours should constitute a day's work for letter carriers in cities or postal districts connected therewith, and if any letter carrier should be employed a greater number of hours per day he should be paid extra for the same. (Chap. 308, acts of Congress, 1887–'88.)

Holiday Pay.

All persons of the Government service as per diem employes are allowed the following holidays, for which they shall receive pay the same as on others days: January 1, February 22, May 30 (Memorial Day), July 4, December 25, and such days as the President may appoint as days for National thanksgiving. (Resolution No. 5, acts of Congress, 1884–'85, and Resolution No. 6, acts of Congress, 1886–'87.)

Arbitration of Labor Disputes.

Chapter 370, acts of Congress, 1897–'98, provides that when a controversy arises between a common carrier, engaged in interstate or foreign commerce, and its employes, which interrupts or threatens to interrupt its business, the chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Commissioner of Labor shall, upon the request of either party, communicate with the parties and try by mediation and conciliation to settle the controversy, and if their efforts are unsuccessful they shall then try to bring about an arbitration of said controversy; that if the effort at mediation as above does not succeed the controversy may, by the consent of the parties, be submitted to the arbitration of a board of three persons, one to be named by the employing carrier, one to be named by the employes, and the third to be chosen by the two first named, or, if they cannot agree on any one, then by the chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Commissioner of Labor; that a majority of said arbitrators may make a valid and binding award, which must be found and filed in the clerk's office of the Circuit Court of the United States for the district wherein the controversy arose or the arbitration was entered into, within thirty days from the date of the appointment of the third arbitrator; that the submission of the controversy shall be in writing and signed by boh parties, and must be filed with the award and with a transcript of all the testimony; that these papers so filed in court with the award shall have the force and effect of a bill of exceptions; that the award shall be final and conclusive upon both parties unless set aside by the ccurt for error of law apparent on the record; that the award shall go into practical operation and judgment shall be entered thereon at the expiration of ten days from the filing unless, within said ten days, either party shall file exceptions thereto for matter of law apparent upon the record; that at the expiration of ten days from the judgment of the Circuit Court upon exceptions taken as above, judgment shall be entered in accordance with the decision of the court unless, within said ten days, either party shall appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals; the decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals shall be final; that employes dissatisfied with the award must not quit the employer before the expiration of three months from and after the making of the award without giving thirty days' notice in writing of their intention, and that an employer so dissatisfied must not, on account of said disssatisfaction, dismiss an employe before the expiration of said three months without giving the same notice; that during the pendency of such arbitration it shall not be lawful for the employer party to such arbitration to discharge employes parties thereto, except for inefficiency, violation of law or neglect of duty, nor for the employes to unite in, aid or abet strikes against said employer, and that for a period of three months after an award under such an arbitration it shall not be lawful for an employer to discharge employes, except for the causes aforesaid, without giving thirty days' notice in writing of his intention so to do, nor for any employes, during a like period, to quit the service of the employer without just cause without giving a like notice; that each member of such board of arbitration shall receive a compensation of $10 per day for the time he is actually employed and also his travelling and other necessary expenses.

CIVIL SERVICE LAWS.

The term "Civil Service Act" refers to an act of Congress "to regulate and improve the Civil Service of the United States," approved January 16, 1883, which gave the power to the President to appoint, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, three persons, not more than two of whom shall be adherents of the same party, as a Commission, with authority to prescribe regulations in pursuance of and for the execution of the provisions of the rules and of the Civil Service Act. The terms used in the regulations are: "Classified Service," referring to all that part of the executive Civil Service of the United States included within the provisions of the act; "Grade," referring to a group of employes or positions in the classified service arranged upon a basis of duties performed without regard to salaries received; "Class," referring to a group of employes or positions in any grade arranged upon the basis of salaries received, and "Excepted Position," referring to any position within the provisions of the Civil Service Act, but excepted from the requirement of competitive examination or registration for appointment thereto. The rules promulgated by the President on May 6, 1896, as amended July 27, 1897, and May 29, 1899, show that almost everything in the District of Columbia between the grade of mere laborer or workman and the grade of Presidential appointment is included in the classified service. The following places are brought into the classification outside the District of Columbia: All executive officers and employes who are serving in a clerical capacity, or whose duties are in whole or in part of a clerical nature; or in the capacity of a watchman or messenger, or physician, hospital steward, nurse, or whose duties are of a medical nature; or as draughtsman, civil engineer, steam engineer, electrical engineer, computer or fireman; or in the service of the Supervising Architect's office in the capacity of superintendent of construction or of repair, or foreman; or in the service of the Treasury Department in any capacity. The latter section shows that outside the District of Columbia, as well as within the District, everything in the Treasury Department is classified. Within the classified branches there are a certain number of positions now excepted from the requirements of competitive examination, including deputy collectors of internal revenue, office deputy marshals, pension examining surgeons, private secretaries, certain customs service deputies, certain inspectors in the Interior Department, and other miscellaneous positions to the number of about five thousand. About seven thousand classified positions in the Navy yards are subject to the registration system, and about as many others of similar nature in the War Department are to be so subjected. In branches of the service outside the District of Columbia connected with other departments the classification is somewhat more restricted. No person shall be appointed to or be employed in any position which has been or may hereafter be classified under the Civil Service Act until he shall have passed the examination provided therefor, or unless he is especially exempt from examination by the provisions of the act or the rules made in pursuance thereof. It is provided that examinations shall be held at such places and on such dates as the Commission shall deem most practicable to subserve the convenience of applicants and the needs of the service. It is also provided that persons in the Government service may be appointed as boards of examiners, but the members of such boards are not all to be adherents of one political party when persons of other political parties are available and competent to serve. On July 27, 1897, President McKinley promulgated an amendment to Rule II restricting the power of removal from competitive positions, which, as further amended on May 29, 1899, reads as follows: "No removal shall be made from the competitive classified service except for just cause and for reasons given in writing; and the person sought to be removed shall have notice and be furnished with a copy of such reasons, and be allowed a reasonable time for personally answering the same in writing. Copies of such reasons, notice and answer, and of the order of removal, shall be made a part of the records of the proper department or office; and the reasons for any change of rank or compensation within the competitive classified service shall also be made a part of the records of the proper department or office." Every applicant for examination must be a citizen of the United States, must be of proper age, and must make his application under oath, upon a form prescribed by the Commission, to be accompanied by such certificates as may be required. The age limitations are fixed by the Commission, and vary for different branches of the service. The Commission may, in its discretion, refuse to examine an applicant or to certify an eligible who may be physically disabled to perform the duties required; or who has been guilty of crime or infamous or disgraceful conduct; or who has been dismissed from the service for delinquency or misconduct within one year next preceding the date of his application; or has made a false statement or practised or attempted to practise deception in securing his registration or appointment. Every competitor who attains an average percentage of 70 or more shall be eligible for appointment to the position for which he has been examined. Competitors whose claims to preference under the law have been allowed, and who attain an average of 65 or over, shall be placed, in the order of their average percentages, at the head of the register of eligibles. Persons who served in the military or naval service in the Civil War and were honorably discharged therefrom, and persons who have been separated from positions through no delinquency or misconduct, shall be placed at the head of the register in the order of their fulfilments of requirements. The term of eligibility shall be one year from the date on which the name of the eligible is entered upon the register. When vacancies occur in classified positions the appointing or nominating officer shall request certification to him of the names of eligibles for the position vacant, the certification being of the three names at the head of the register of eligibles, and which names must not have been three times certified to the department or office in which the vacancy exists. Certificates for appointments of persons in or on direct detail from any department or office in Washington, D. C., shall be made so as to maintain as nearly as possible the apportionment of such appointments among the several States and Territories and District of Columbia upon the basis of population, except as to appointments in a few places.

Local Laws.

There are four States having State Civil Service laws. The system in New-York was originally established by Chapter 354 of the Laws of 1883, which was amended from time to time in various important respects until, finally, a new act (Chapter 370 of the Laws of 1899) was passed, codifying and uniting all previous acts and extending very considerably the area of their operation. An act was passed by the Legislature of Massachusetts in 1884. In these two States every city is included within the general system.

ILLINOIS—Act passed in 1895, permitting the several cities to establish the system by popular vote. In pursuance of this act, rules were adopted by large popular majorities in the cities of Chicago and Evanston.

WISCONSIN—There is a similar State act applying to cities of the first class, and in actual operation, therefore, only in the city of Milwaukee. In several other States Civil Service rules are in operation in isolated cities, established commonly by amendments to their charters.

PHILADELPHIA—Examinations are provided by the so-called "Bullitt bill." Persons admitted to competition must, however, be satisfactory to the appointing officer, and the examinations are conducted by boards within the departments, so that in actual operation the system amounts practically to nothing.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., and SEATTLE, WASH., have rules applying to all branches of the city service, recently placed in operation through charter amendments adopted by popular vote. Similar rules are in operation as the result of charter amendments coming from legislative enactment or from charter commissions in Columbus, Ohio, and New-Haven, Conn. A set of rules is also provided for by the charter of Indianapolis, but the system in that city has been temporarily set aside by the arbitrary action of the Mayor in 1896. In Portland, Ore., and Louisville, Ky., there are rules applying to certain departments, but not to all.

NEW-YORK STATE—The original act followed closely the form of the Federal act. It provided for the classification of all State offices and for the various departments of cities of 50,000 and over. The application of the system to cities, however, was permissive merely. In 1884 the latter provision was made mandatory and was amended to include all cities in the State. In 1894 a salutary method of enforcement was provided by an enactment forbidding Controllers or other fiscal officers to pay the salaries of persons appointed in violation of the rules, and making those officers personally responsible for improper disbursements of the sort. In 1897 the act commonly known as the "Black Act" was adopted, dividing the control of examinations between the Civil Service boards and appointing officers; providing that a rating of not more than half the total should be given for "merit" by the regular examiners, and that those passing this test should be given a further rating for "fitness," not exceeding one-half the total, and to be determined by the officers themselves. Finally, on March 31, 1898, an act was passed the effect of which was the repeal of the "Black Act" in all cities and the restoration of the system of 1883-'84. In this act it was also provided that no removal should be made from a position subject to competitive examination except for reasons to be stated in writing, and after an opportunity for explanation had been granted to the person affected. The Legislature of 1899 passed an act, which became a law, with the signature of Governor Roosevelt, on April 19, the effect of which was to repeal the "Black Act" outright and to re-establish completely, both in the State and in the cities, the original plan of 1883, with certain extensions and improvements the necessity of which experience had shown. The general Civil Service statutes of the State were reinforced very materially by an amendment to the State Constitution prepared by the Constitutional Convention of 1894 and adopted by the people. This provision is as follows: "Appointments and promotions in the Civil Service of the State, and of all the civil divisions thereof, including towns and villages, shall be made according to merit and fitness, to be ascertained so far as practicable by examinations which so far as practicable shall be competitive; provided, however, that soldiers and sailors of the late Civil War shall be entitled to preference in appointment and promotion, without regard to their standing on any list from which appointments or promotions shall be made." The courts of the State have construed this provision broadly, and as a part result all non-competitive examinations, except for positions in State hospitals and asylums, have been abolished. The original rules and classification of New-York City were drawn under the permissive act of 1883 and under the supervision of a commission of experts appointed by Mayor Edson in 1884. Rules were adopted in the same manner and at about the same time in Buffalo and Brooklyn. The New-York City Board was replaced in 1889 by Tammany Commissioners. During the five years following the administration of the rules was more or less imperfect. Under Mayor Strong the old Commission was restored, and the membership of the Board increased to five. In 1896, through the action of this Commission, approved by Mayor Strong, the application of the rules was greatly extended, until, excepting heads of departments, not more than sixty positions were omitted from the competitive classification. The system of labor registration was also adopted. There were approximately 24,000 positions in the Civil Service on January 1, 1898, of which 6,000 in the educational department were subject to a separate system. The classifications included 6,000 in the police force, also subject to a separate system, 5,000 in the labor service under the registration system and 7,000 in the general competitive schedules. The competitive schedules embraced positions of every character, both clerical, technical and professional. Examinations were conducted by a board of nine examiners, chosen with especial reference to their expert ability, and the examinations generally were of the most practical character. The rules required that the higher places should be filled by promotion, unless the appointing officer certified to the Civil Service Commission that none in the lower grades were fit for the higher duties to be performed. Through careful work the system had been well developed and placed on a highly satisfactory basis. The Greater New-York charter provided that the rules in operation in New-York, Brooklyn and Long Island City up to January 1, 1898, should be continued in full force until new rules were promulgated. Mayor Van Wyck appointed as Civil Service Commissioners Messrs. Charles H. Knox, William N. Dyckman and Robert E. Deyo (later succeeded by Alexander T. Mason), but the new rules were not promulgated until March 5, on which date they received the approval of the Mayor. These rules covered all employes of the greater city—approximately 41,000—the number in the various classes being in proportion to those given above for New-York alone in 1898. They differed radically from the rules previously in force, chiefly in the fact that they excepted from examination a greatly increased number of positions, and that they removed the labor service from the competitive registration system. A great deal of laxity was permitted in the matter of temporary appointments in the absence of eligible lists; persons dismissed at any time within three years were permitted to be appointed without examination; the scope of selection from the eligible list was materially broadened. The operation of the charter repealed the "Black Act" in New-York City on January 1, three months before the repeal of that act in the other cities of the State, so that none of the new provisions were framed in the lines of that statute. On July 11, 1899, the charter rules were superseded by rules framed in pursuance of the new law of that year, which were put in force by the State Board after the failure of the Mayor to promulgate them. These restored all of the essential features of the genuine merit system omitted from the charter rules, and are expected in future to keep the city service on a fairly competitive basis open to all citizens. Stringent inhibitions upon payment of salaries to persons improperly appointed, reinforcing those previously in force, add to the effectiveness of the system. Since the adoption of the act of 1899 new rules have been framed for Buffalo, Albany and other large cities, which are well calculated to give effect to the existing constitutional and statutory provisions and that will firmly maintain the "merit system" in these other parts of the State, and on June 16, 1900, through the action of the State Board and Governor Roosevelt the offices in five of these were included: New-York, Kings, Queens, Richmond and Erie.

Foreign Rules.

In all of the principal foreign countries an entrance examination, both mental and physical, is required before appointment in the civil service. The tenure of office is, as a rule, permanent, or during good behavior, and after the employe has become incapacitated by reason of age, length of service or physical infirmity, he is retired with a pension, the amount of which varies, in proportion to length of service, from one-sixth to four-fifths of actual salary. In some countries it is optional with the employe to retire after fifteen years of service, while in other countries from thirty to thirty-five years of service are required before retirement. The salaries paid to clerks and other subordinate employes are lower than those paid by the United States Government; but in the principal countries the salaries of higher officials—such as heads of bureaus and chiefs of divisions—are, as a rule, higher than those paid in the United States. The hours of labor vary in the different countries. In the far Northern as well as in the tropical and semi-tropical countries the hours of labor are short; in nearly all of the countries, as well as in the United States, the hours of postal employes are longer than those of other governmental employes. The time allowed for lunch, the amount of annual leave with pay, and the amount of sick leave with pay, vary in the different countries; in some the time for lunch or rest, or amount of annual leave, is fixed according to the grade of the employe, the higher grade of employes being allowed more time than those of inferior rank; many of the countries are more liberal in regard to sick leave than the United States. An unusually large number of holidays is allowed, especially in Oriental countries; these holidays are, as a rule, religious ones—Christmas and New Year's being generally observed in the European countries; in some countries, however, national events are also celebrated. In some countries females are not employed at all, while their employment in other countries is, as a rule, limited to work of teachers, telegraph operators and positions in the postal service. In Morocco salaries are made up from bribes and presents, and employes hold their places so long as they can squeeze enough money out of subordinates to satisfy their superiors.

NATURALIZATION LAWS.

DECLARATION OF INTENTION.—An alien seeking naturalization as a citizen of the United States must declare on oath before a Circuit or District Court of the United States, or a District or Supreme Court of the Territories, or a court of record of any of the States having common law jurisdiction and a seal and a clerk, at least two years before his admission, that it is, bona fide, his intention to become a citizen of the United States, and to renounce forever all allegiance and fidelity to any foreign State or ruler, and particularly to the one of which he may be at the time a citizen or subject.

OATH ON APPLICATION FOR ADMISSION.—At the time of his application for admission he must also declare on oath, before some one of the courts above specified, "that he will support the Constitution of the United States, and that he absolutely and entirely renounces and abjures all allegiance and fidelity to every foreign prince, potentate, State or sovereignty, and particularly, by name, to the prince, potentate, State or sovereignty of which he was before a citizen or subject."

CONDITIONS OF CITIZENSHIP.—It must appear to the satisfaction of the court to which the alien has applied for final admission that he has resided continuously within the United States for at least five years, and in the State or Territory where the court is held at least one year, and that during that time "he has behaved as a man of good moral character, attached to the principles of the Constitution of the United States, and well disposed to the good order and happiness of the same."

TITLES OF NOBILITY.—If the applicant bears any hereditary title or belongs to any order of nobility, he must make an express renunciation at the time of his application.

SOLDIERS.—Any alien, twenty-one years of age, or over, who has served one year, or over, in the Regular or Volunteer Army of the United States and has been honorably discharged, may, upon application, proof of one year's residence, good moral character and honorable discharge, be admitted a citizen of the United States.

SEAMEN.—Seamen who have declared their intention to become citizens, and who, subsequently to such declaration, have served three years on board a merchant vessel of the United States, may be admitted to citizenship.

NAVY OR MARINE CORPS.—Any alien, twenty-one years of age, or over, who has served five years, or over, in the United States Navy or United States Marine Corps and has been honorably discharged, may, upon application, proof of good moral character, five years' service and honorable discharge, be admitted a citizen of the United States.

WIFE.—A wife becomes a citizen by her husband's naturalization, if she might herself be lawfully naturalized.

MINORS.—Any alien under the age of twenty-one, who has resided in the United States three years next preceding his twenty-first birthday, and has continued to reside therein up to the time he makes application to be admitted a citizen, may, after he arrives at the age of twenty-one, and after he has resided five years within the United States, including the three years of his minority, be admitted a citizen; but he must make a declaration on oath and prove to the satisfaction of the court that for the two years next preceding it has been his bona fide intention to become a citizen.

CHILDREN OF NATURALIZED CITIZENS.—The children of persons who have been duly naturalized, being under twenty-one at the time of the naturalization of their parents, shall, if dwelling in the United States, be considered as citizens.

CITIZENS' CHILDREN BORN ABROAD.—The children of persons who now are or have been citizens of the United States are considered as citizens, though they may be born out of the limits and jurisdiction of the United States.

CHINESE.—The Naturalization laws of the United States have never allowed other than "free white persons" and "persons of African nativity or descent" to be naturalized. The naturalization of Chinamen is also expressly prohibited by Section 14, Chapter 126, Laws of 1882.

PROTECTION OF NATURALIZED CITIZENS.—Section 2,000 of the Revised Statutes of the United States expressly declares that "all naturalized citizens of the United States while in foreign countries are entitled to and shall receive from this Government the same protection of person and property which is accorded to native born citizens."

THE RIGHT OF SUFFRAGE.—The right to vote is conferred by the State, naturalization by the United States. In several States aliens who have declared their intentions enjoy the right to vote equally with naturalized or native born citizens. But the Federal Naturalization laws apply to the whole Union alike, and no alien may be naturalized until after five years' residence, except an honorably discharged soldier or a person whose parents have been naturalized while he was under twenty-one years of age, as above recited. Even after five years' residence and due naturalization he is not entitled to vote unless the laws of the State confer the privilege upon him.

PENSION LAWS, ETC.

To obtain a pension the applicant must file a claim with the Commissioner of Pensions, Washington, D. C. In a claim by the soldier he should set forth all his military or naval service, giving dates of enlistment and discharge. He should also set forth the name or nature of all disabilities for which pension is claimed, giving the time when, the place where and the circumstances under which each was contracted. The prime requirement to establish a claim under the act of July 14, 1862, usually termed the general law, is to show that the disability for which pension is claimed had its origin while in the service and line of duty; that it has existed as a disabling cause from date of discharge, and now exists in a degree pensionable under the law. In a claim under the act of June 27, 1890, the essential requirements are: A service of ninety days or more, an honorable discharge therefrom and proof that the disability for which pension is claimed is not due to claimant's own vicious habits, but it need not necessarily be of service origin. In a widow's claim it is necessary to show her legal marriage to the soldier, the date of his death, and, under the general law, that it was due to some cause of service origin. She must also show that she has remained his widow. If there are children of the soldier under sixteen years of age at the date of his death, their names should be given and the date of birth of each clearly shown. If any have died the date should be proved. In a widow's claim under the act of June 27, 1890, the requirement as to service is the same as under an invalid claim, and in addition thereto she must show a legal marriage to the soldier prior to the passage of the act, the fact of soldier's death (but it need not be shown to be due to service), her continued widowhood and that she is without other means of support than her daily labor. The act of May 9, 1900, amending the act of June 27, 1890, gives title to widows who are without means of support other than their daily labor and a net annual income of $250. A minor child's title to pension accrues only on the death or remarriage of the widow, which fact must be shown, in addition to the requirements in widow's claim. A dependent mother must show her relationship to the soldier, his celibacy, that he contributed to her support, that his death was due to some cause of service origin, the date of his death, and, under the general law, that she was dependent upon him at the date of his death. Under the act of June 27, 1890, it is only necessary to show dependence at date of filing claim and since then. A dependent father must show relationship by legal marriage to soldier's mother, the date of soldier's birth and of the mother's death, in addition to the requirements in the mother's claim. Applications rejected by a Board of Pension Surgeons may be reconsidered on the evidence of two physicians that disability exists. Pensions for privates range from $6 to $30 a month in most cases, though $72 a month is granted to those who have lost both feet or both eyes, and $100 a month to those who have lost both hands. The number of pensioners on the rolls in each State and Territory on June 30, 1900, and the total amount paid during the fiscal year ended on that date, was as follows:

The pension agencies are located as follows: Augusta, Me.; Boston, Mass.; Buffalo, N. Y.; Chicago, Ill.; Columbus, Ohio; Concord, N. H.; Des Moines, Iowa; Detroit, Mich.; Indianapolis, Ind.; Knoxville, Tenn.; Louisville, Ky.; Milwaukee, Wis.; New-York, N. Y.; Philadelphia, Penn.; Pittsburg, Penn.; San Francisco, Cal.; Topeka, Kan.; Washington, D. C. There were added to the rolls during the year the names of 40,645 new pensioners, and the number restored to the rolls was 4,699, making a total of new names added to the rolls of 45,344. The number of pensioners dropped from the rolls during the year was 43,334, showing an increase of 2,010 on the rolls as compared with the close of the fiscal year 1899. The total of 993,529 pensioners on the rolls June 30, 1900, were classified as follows:

POSTAL INFORMATION.

CLASSES OF DOMESTIC MAIL MATTER.—Domestic mail is divided into four classes, as follows: First Class—Letters, postal cards and matter wholly or partly in writing, whether sealed or unsealed (except manuscript copy accompanying proof sheets or corrected proof sheets of the same), and all matter sealed or otherwise closed against inspection. Rates of postage—Two cents per ounce or fraction thereof. Postal cards, one cent each. Private mailing cards with written messages, conforming to Government cards in size and quality, and to the regulations prescribed by the Postmaster-General, one cent each. On "drop" letters two cents per ounce or fraction thereof, when mailed at letter-carrier's office, or for delivery by the Rural Free Delivery Service, and one cent per ounce or fraction thereof at other offices. Second Class—Newspapers and publications issued at stated intervals as often as four times a year, bearing a date of issue and numbered consecutively, issued from a known office of publication, and formed of printed paper sheets, without board, cloth, leather or other substantial binding. Such publications must be originated and published for the dissemination of information of a public character, or devoted to literature, the sciences, art, or some special industry. They must have a legitimate list of subscribers, and must not be designed primarily for advertising purposes, or for circulation free, or at nominal rates. Rate of postage—For publishers and news agents, one cent a pound or fraction thereof. For others than publishers and news agents, one cent for each four ounces or fraction thereof. Third Class—Books, periodicals and matter wholly in print (not included in second class), proof sheets, corrected proof sheets and manuscript copy accompanying the same. Rate of postage—One cent for each two ounces or fraction thereof. Seeds, scions, cuttings, roots and plants, and also correspondence of the blind printed in raised characters, and sent unsealed are mailable at third class rates. The insertion of the date, name of the addressee and sender in writing, does not impair the rights of a circular to the third class. Fourth Class—Merchandise—namely, all matter not embraced in the other three classes, and which is not in its form or nature liable to destroy, deface or otherwise damage the contents of the mail bag, or harm the person of any one engaged in the postal service, and not above the weight provided by law. Rate of postage—One cent per ounce or fraction thereof, but on seeds, cuttings, roots, scions and plants, one cent for each two ounces or fraction thereof.

PAYMENT OF POSTAGE.—On first class matter the postage should be fully prepaid, but if two cents in stamps be affixed the matter will be forwarded and remainder due collected of addressee before delivery. Packages of first class matter exceeding four (4) pounds in weight must be fully prepaid; but letters and packages weighing less than four (4) pounds when prepaid one full letter rate, will be dispatched and the deficiency collected of the addressee on delivery. On second class, third class and fourth class matter the postage must be fully prepaid.

LIMIT OF WEIGHT.—A package must not exceed four pounds in weight, unless it be a single book. Second class matter is not subject to the four pound limitation.

REGISTRY SYSTEM.—All mailable matter, including drop letters, may be registered; but not matter addressed to fictitious names, initials or box numbers, or bearing vague and indefinite addresses. The registry fee is eight cents in addition to postage. It must be prepaid by stamps affixed.

MONEY ORDER SYSTEM.—The following are the fees for domestic money orders: For orders not exceeding $2 50, 3c.; exceeding $2 50 and not above $5, 5c.; exceeding $5 and not above $10, 8c.; exceeding $10 and not above $20, 10c.; exceeding $20 and not above $30, 12c.; exceeding $30 and not above $40, 15c.; exceeding $40 and not above $50, 18c.; exceeding $50 and not above $60, 20c.; exceeding $60 and not above $75, 25c.; exceeding $75 and not above $100, 30c. The maximum amount of a single order is $100. International money orders may be issued in most instances up to $100, which is the maximum, and the rate is 10 cents on each $10 or fraction thereof, except that domestic rates are charged for Cuban orders, and that for Mexican orders only one-half of regular international fee is exacted. Postal connections are now in operation for the exchange of money orders between the United States and the following countries: Great Britain, Switzerland, Germany, France, Italy, Canada, Newfoundland, Jamaica, New South Wales, Victoria, New-Zealand, Queensland, Cape Colony, Windward Islands (Barbados, Grenada, St. Vincent and St. Lucia), Leeward Islands (Antigua, St. Christopher-Nevis, Dominica, Montserrat and the Virgin Islands), Belgium, Portugal (including the Azores and Madeira), Tasmania, Sweden, Norway, Japan, Denmark, Netherlands, Bahama Islands, Trinidad and Tobago, Austria, Hungary, British Guiana, Luxembourg, Bermuda, South Australia, Salvador, Chili, Honduras, Egypt, Hong Kong, British Honduras. Cuba, Russia, Mexico and Apia (Samoa).

SPECIAL DELIVERY.—The regulations governing "rapid" or "special delivery" provide that any article of mailable matter bearing a 10-cent special delivery stamp in addition to the lawful postage is entitled to immediate delivery on its arrival at the office of address, between the hours of 7 a. m. and 11 p. m., if the office be of the free delivery class, and between the hours of 7 a. m. and 7 p. m. if the office be other than a free delivery office. To entitle such a letter to immediate delivery the residence or place of business of the addressee must be within the carrier limits of a free delivery office, and within one mile of any other office. Special delivery stamps are not available for the payment of postage, nor can ordinary postage stamps be used to secure immediate delivery of mail matter.

FOREIGN POSTAGE RATES.—The rates of postage to all foreign countries and colonies (except Canada and Mexico) are as follows:

Letters, 15 grams (½ ounce)..... 5 cents.
Postal cards, each..... 2 cents.

Double postal cards, each..... 4 cents.
Newspapers and other printed matter, per 2 ounces..... 1 cent.
Commercial papers:
Packets not in excess of 10 ounces..... 5 cents.
Packets in excess of 10 ounces, for each 2 ounces or fraction thereof..... 1 cent.
Samples of merchandise:
Packets not in excess of 4 ounces..... 2 cents.
Packets in excess of 4 ounces, for each 2 ounces or fraction thereof..... 1 cent.
Registration fee on letters or other articles..... 8 cents.

Ordinary letters for any foreign country (except Canada and Mexico) must be forwarded whether any postage is prepaid on them or not. All other mailable matter must be prepaid, at least partially. Matter mailed in the United States addressed to Canada or Mexico is subject to the same postage rates and conditions as it would be if it were addressed for delivery in the United States. Full prepayment is required upon all registered articles; and postage upon all articles other than letters is required to be prepaid, at least in part. If the postage is not prepaid in full, double the amount of the deficiency will be collected of the addressee when the article is delivered. The rate on "commercial papers" per 2 ounces is the same as for "printed matter," except that the lowest charge on any package, whatever its weight, is five cents. The rate on samples of merchandise per 2 ounces is also the same as for "printed matter," except that the lowest charge on any package, whatever its weight, is two cents.

Articles of every kind and nature which are admitted to the United States domestic mails are admitted to the mails exchanged between the United States and the United States Postal Agency at Shanghai, China; subject, however, to the following rates of postage, which must be prepaid, in all cases, by means of United States postage stamps on all articles, except official correspondence in "penalty" envelopes: First-class matter, 5 cents for each one-half ounce or fraction of one-half ounce. Postal cards, single, 2 cents each; double, 4 cents each. Second and third class matter, and samples of merchandise, not exceeding eight ounces in weight, 1 cent for each two ounces or fraction of two ounces. Fourth-class matter, 1 cent for each ounce or fraction of an ounce. Packages of third and fourth class matter (except single volumes of printed books) must not exceed four pounds in weight. Registration fee, 8 cents; no additional charge for return receipt. Articles other than letters in their usual and ordinary form must not be closed against inspection, but must be so wrapped or inclosed that they may be readily and thoroughly examined by postmasters and customs officers. Articles addressed for delivery at the following places in China, namely: Chefoo (Yentai), Chin Kiang, Chung King, Hankow, Hang Chow, Ichang, Kalping, Kaigan, Kinkiang, Nanking, New-Chwang, Ningpo, Ourga, Peking, Shanghai, Taku, Tientsin, Wenchow, Wuchang, Wuhu and Yentai, are transmissible in the mails made up at San Francisco, Seattle and Tacoma for the United States Postal Agency at Shanghai; but at places other than Shanghai additional charges for postage may be collected of the addressees upon the delivery of the articles.

PARCELS POST.—The first parcels post convention between the United States and any country in Europe was signed between the United States and Germany on August 20, 1899, and went into operation October 1. It was the beginning of a postal service by means of which articles of merchandise may be exchanged by mail between the two countries, provided they are put up in packages which do not exceed eleven pounds in weight. The postage rate for parcels going from the United States to Germany is fixed at 12 cents for each pound or fraction of a pound. The rate in Germany on parcels for the United States is fixed at 2 marks 40 pfennigs a parcel, whatever its weight, but a reduced rate of 1 mark 60 pfennigs may be adopted for a parcel not exceeding in weight one kilogram, equivalent to two pounds three ounces. Provision is made for customs declaration and payment. The United States had parcels post conventions with several countries in Central and South America and the West India Islands, but this was the first convention made with any country in Europe. The law empowers the Postmaster-General to make such conventions by and with the advice and consent of the President.

POSTAGE RATES BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES AND ISLAND POSSESSIONS.—All mail matter sent between the United States to the Island of Guam, the Philippine Archipelago, or Tutuila (including all adjacent islands of the Samoan group which are possessions of the United States), is subject to the United States domestic classification, conditions and rates of postage. Note 1. To insure prompt delivery, mail matter sent to persons in the United States service should include in the address the complete designation of the organization, company or regiment, vessel, or other branch of the service to which the addressee belongs; and the postage thereon should be fully prepaid. Note 2. By act of Congress, the United States postal laws and regulations, and all domestic postal conditions (including payment of postage with United States postage stamps) are in effect to, from and within the Island of Porto Rico. Note 3. By act of Congress, the Hawaiian Islands became a Territory of the United States June 14, 1900; consequently, the United States postal laws and regulations, and all domestic postal conditions (including payment of postage with United States postage stamps) shall, from that date, be in effect to, from and within the Territory of Hawaii. Note 4. In this order the Island of Porto Rico and the Territory of Hawaii are included in the term "United States"; and the Island of Guam, the Philippine Archipelago, and Tutuila are included in the term "Island Possessions" of the United States. Mail matter, except as provided in the next section, sent from the United States, or any of its island possessions, to Cuba; or sent from Cuba to the United States or any of its island possessions is subject to the Postal Union classification, conditions and rates of postage. The United States domestic classification, conditions and rates of postage apply to all mail matter sent by or addressed to persons in the United States service (military, naval or civil) in Cuba; provided: (a), That such mail matter sent by persons in the United States service in Cuba addressed to persons in the United States or any of its island possessions, must be indorsed so as to show the branch of the service to which the sender belongs, as, "Soldier's letter" (or mail), "Sailor's letter" (or mail), etc.; and when sent by a civil employe, "Postal Service letter" (or mail), "Customs Service letter" (or mail), etc. (b), That such mail matter addressed to persons in the United States service in Cuba, when sent by persons in the United States or any of its island possessions must bear, in addition to tbe name of the addressee, the complete designation of the organization, company and regiment, vessel or other branch of the service to which the addressee at tbe place of address, belongs; and the postage thereon should be fully prepaid. Mail matter, whatever its class addressed to persons in the United States service, serving in the United States, or any of its island possessions, or en route to or from the United States, or any of its island possessions, whose change of address is caused by official orders, will be transmitted as rapidly as possible until it reaches the addressee; the actual location of the addressee for the time being is considered as the original destination of the piece of mail matter; such transmission is not considered as "forwarding" in the sense in which that word is used in the Postal Service, and no additional postage is required therefor. Letters sent by soldiers, sailors and marines in the United States service in Cuba, Guam, the Philippine Archipelago or Tutuila, addressed to places in the United States, when indorsed "Soldier's letter," "Sailor's letter" or "Marine's letter," may be dispatched to destination without prepayment of postage, and only the single rate of postage shall be collected on delivery. In pursuance of the President's order of November 4, 1899, unsealed packages and parcels of mailable matter containing only articles designed as gifts or souvenirs, and with no commercial purpose and not for sale, sent by persons in the United States service (military, naval or civil) in Porto Rico, Guam, the Philippine Islands, or Cuba, to members of their families in the United States; and unsealed packages of mailable matter of the same personal character, sent from the United States to officers, soldiers, sailors and others in the public service in said islands, shall be transmitted through the mails and delivered subject only to domestic postal rates and regulations; provided, that no such package shall exceed four pounds in weight, and each shall be indorsed on the outside, in a conspicuous place, with the word "Gift" or "Souvenir," or the equivalent thereof; and that when sent from said islands to the United States each such package shall be so marked as to show the branch of the service to which the sender belongs, and be countersigned by a commissioned officer or a postmaster; and that when sent from the United States to said islands each such package shall show the branch of the service to which the addressee belongs. Postmasters are directed to advise senders of such packages of the provisions of this section, and otherwise see that full instructions are given for its proper execution. United States postage stamps are valid for the payment of postage in the island possessions; and the overprinted postage stamps of the island possessions are accepted in payment of postage wherever United States postage stamps are valid.

PASSPORT REGULATIONS.

The law forbids the granting of a passport to any person who is not a citizen of the United States. A person who has made only the declaration of intention to become a citizen of the United States cannot receive a passport. No one but the Secretary of State may grant and issue passports in the United States. A citizen of the United States desiring to procure a passport while he is temporarily abroad should apply to the diplomatic representative of the United States in the country where he happens to be; or, in the absence of a diplomatic representative, to the Consul-General of the United States; or, in the absence of both, to the Consul of the United States. The necessary statements may be made before the nearest consular officer of the United States. To procure a passport a written application, in the form of an affidavit, must be made, which must be attested by an officer authorized to administer oaths, and if he has an official seat it must be affixed; if he has no seal, his official character must be authenticated by certificate of the proper legal officer. If the applicant signs by mark, two attesting witnesses to his signature are required; he is also required to state his age, the place of his birth, his occupation, place of permanent residence, and that he goes abroad for temporary sojourn and intends to return to the United States to reside and perform the duties of citizenship therein. He must also take the oath of allegiance, and the application must be accompanied by a certificate from at least one credible witness as to the identity of the applicant, and other facts, and also by a description of the person applying. An application containing the information indicated will be sufficient evidence in the case of native citizens. A person born abroad, whose father was a native citizen of the United States, must show, in addition to the above, that his father was born in the United States, resided therein and was a citizen at the time of the applicant's birth. A naturalized citizen is required, in addition to giving information as above, to transmit his certificate of naturalization, or a duly certified copy of the court record thereof, wth his application. It will be returned to him after inspection. He must state in his affidavit when and from what port he emigrated to this country, what ship he sailed in, where he has lived since his arrival in the United States, when and before what court he was naturalized, and that he is the identical person described in the certificate of naturalization. The signature to the application should conform in orthography to the applicant's name as written in his certificate of naturalization. The wife or widow of a naturalized citizen must, in addition to other statements required, transmit for inspection her husband's certificate of naturalization, must state that she is the wife (or widow) of the person described therein and must set forth the facts of his emigration, naturalization and residence, as required in the rule governing the application of a naturalized citizen. The child of a naturalized citizen claiming citizenship through the naturalization of the parent must state that he or she is the son or daughter, as the case may be, of the person described in the certificate of naturalization, which must be submitted for inspection, and must set forth the facts of emigration, naturalization and residence, as required in the rule governing the application of a naturalized citizen. A passport expires two years from the date of its issuance. A new one will be issued upon a new application, and, if the applicant be a naturalized citizen, the old passport will be accepted in lieu of a certificate of naturalization, if the application upon which it was issued is found to contain sufficient information as to the naturalization of the applicant. When the applicant is accompanied by his wife, minor children, or servant, who is an American citizen, it will be sufficient to state the fact, giving the respective ages of the children and the citizenship of the servant, when one passport will suffice for all. For any other person in the party a separate passport will be required. A woman's passport may include her minor children and servant under the above named conditions. Professional titles will not be inserted in passports. By act of Congress approved March 23, 1888, a fee of $1 is required to be collected for every citizen's passport. That amount in currency or postal money order should accompany each application. Orders should be made payable to the disbursing clerk of the Department of State. Drafts or checks will not be accepted. Blank forms of application will be furnished by the Department to persons who desire to apply for passports, upon their stating whether they are native or naturalized citizens or claim through the naturalization of husband or parent. Communications should be addressed to the Department of State, Passport Division, and each communication should give the postoffice address of the person to whom the answer is to be directed. The Secretary of State may refuse to issue a passport to any one who he has reason to believe desires it for an unlawful or improper purpose, or who is unable or unwilling to comply with the rules. Passports are not required in the Argentine Republic, Belgium, Bolivia, Brazil, Chili, China, Colombia, Costa Rica, Denmark and possessions, Great Britain and possessions, Guatemala, Honduras, Italy, Japan, Korea, Liberia, Mexico, Nicaragua, Norway, Paraguay, Peru, Portugal and possessions, Salvador, Samoa, Sweden, Switzerland nor Uruguay. It is recommended, however, that Americans intending to visit the Argentine Republic, Belgium, China, Colombia, Italy, Japan, Korea, Peru, Portugal and Switzerland be provided with passports for convenience to travel without interruption. The laws of the following countries require that every foreigner must be provided with a passport before entering their domains: Austria-Hungary, Dominican Republic, Germany, Greece, Hayti, Netherlands and possessions, Persia, Rumania, Russia, Servia, Transvaal (South Africa Republic), Turkey and possessions and Venezuela. As a general rule it is wise for persons intending traveling abroad, outside of British dominions, where passports are never demanded, to provide themselves with passports before leaving the United States. Last year many Americans visiting France suffered considerable inconvenience because of their failure to secure passports. Persons intending to enter Russian or Turkish territory should have their passports vised (countersigned) by a Russian or Turkish Consular representative in this country before sailing.

PATENT OFFICE STATISTICS.

In 1899 there were received 38,937 applications for patents, 2,400 applications for designs, 106 applications for reissues, 2,059 applications for registration of trademarks, 629 applications for registration of labels, and 143 applications for registration of prints. There were 25,435 patents granted, including designs, 92 patents reissued, 1,649 trademarks registered, and 511 labels and 100 prints. The number of patents that expired was 18,135. The number of allowed applications awaiting the payment of final fees was 8,057. The number that were forfeited for non-payment of the final fees was 3,997. The total expenditures were $1,211,783 73. The receipts over expenditures were $113,673 30. The total balance to the credit of the Patent Office in the Treasury of the United States on January 1, 1900, was $5,086,649 64. In proportion to population more patents were issued to citizens of Connecticut than to those of any other State—one to every 945 inhabitants. Next in order are the following: District of Columbia, one to every 1,151; Massachusetts, one to every 1,262; Rhode Island, one to every 1,270; Oklahoma Territory, one to every 1,344; New-Jersey, one to every 1,455; Montana, one to every 1,474; New-York, one to every 1,579; Colorado, one to every 1,604; California, one to every 1,652. The fewest patents granted in proportion to the number of inhabitants were in the following States: South Carolina, one to every 25,024; North Carolina, one to every 21,012; Alabama, one to every 17,195; Georgia, one to every 14,025, and Mississippi, one to every 13,574. As to foreign patents, 1,072 patents were granted to residents of England; 888 to those of Germany; 371 to those of Canada; France, 292; Austria-Hungary, 100; Scotland, 83; Switzerland, 72; Belgium, 65; Sweden, 45; Victoria, 43; New-Zealand, 41; New South Wales, 32; Ireland, 27; Russia, 25; Italy, 23; Denmark, 20; Mexico, 14; Netherlands, 13; South Australia, 10; South African Republic and Western Australia, 7 each; Norway, 6; Argentina, Queensland and Tasmania, 5 each; India and Jamaica, 4 each; Finland, Japan and Java, 3 each; Guatemala, Peru, Turkey and Uruguay, 2 each, and Algeria, Bermuda, Brazil, Bulgaria, Cape Colony, Chili, China, Danish West Indies, Dutch West Indies, Egypt, Island of Tahiti, Spain, Sumatra, Trinidad and Venezuela, 1 each.

RAINFALL AND TEMPERATURE IN THE UNITED STATES.

WEATHER BUREAU FORECASTS AND STORM WARNINGS.

The Weather Bureau furnishes, when practicable, for the benefit of all interests dependent upon weather conditions, the "Forecasts" which are prepared daily at the Central Office in Washington, D. C., and certain designated stations. These forecasts are telegraphed to stations of the Weather Bureau, railway officials, postmasters, and many others, to be communicated to the public by means of flags or steam whistles. The flags adopted for this purpose are five in number, and of the forms and colors indicated below:

EXPLANATION OF WEATHER FLAGS.

No. 1. White Flag.	No. 2. Blue Flag.	No. 3. White and Blue Flag.	No. 4. Black Triangular Flag.	No. 5. White Flag with bl'k sq. in centre.
Clear or fair weather.	Rain or Snow.	Local Rain or Snow.	Temperature.	Cold Wave.

When No. 4 is placed above No. 1, 2, or 3, it indicates warmer; when below, colder; when not displayed, the temperature is expected to remain about stationary. During the late spring and early fall the cold wave flag is also used to indicate anticipated frosts.

EXPLANATION OF WHISTLE SIGNALS.

A warning blast of from fifteen to twenty seconds duration is sounded to attract attention. After this warning the longer blasts (of from four to six seconds duration) refer to weather, and shorter blasts (of from one to three seconds duration) refer to temperature; those for weather are sounded first.

Blasts.	Indicate.	Blasts.	Indicate.
One long	Fair weather.	One short	Lower temperature.
Two long	Rain or snow.	Two short	Higher temperature.
Three long	Local rain or snow.	Three short	Cold wave.

By repeating each combination a few times, with intervals of ten seconds, liability to error in reading the signals may be avoided. As far as practicable, the forecast messages will be telegraphed at the expense of the Weather Bureau; but if this is impracticable, they will be furnished at the regular commercial rates and sent "collect." In no case will the forecasts be sent to a second address in any place, except at the expense of the applicant. Persons desiring to display the flags or sound the whistle signals for the benefit of the public should communicate with the Weather Bureau officials in charge of the climate and crop service of their respective States, the central stations of which are as follows: Montgomery, Ala.; Phenix, Ariz.; Little Rock, Ark.; San Francisco, Cal.; Denver, Col.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Atlanta, Ga.; Boise, Idaho; Springfield, Ill.; Indianapolis, Ind.; Des Moines, Iowa; Topeka, Kan.; Louisville, Ky.; New-Orleans, La.; Baltimore, Md. (for Delaware and Maryland); Boston, Mass. (for New-England); Lansing, Mich.; Minneapolis, Minn.; Vicksburg, Miss.; Columbia, Mo.; Helena, Mont.; Lincoln, Neb.; Carson City, Nev.; New-Brunswick, N. J.; Santa Fe, N. M.; Ithaca, N. Y.; Raleigh, N. C.; Bismarck, N. D.; Columbus, Ohio; Oklahoma, Okla. (for Oklahoma and Indian Territory); Portland, Ore.; Philadelphia, Penn.; Columbia, S. C.; Huron, S. D.; Nashville, Tenn.; Galveston, Tex.; Salt Lake City, Utah; Richmond, Va.; Seattle, Wash.; Parkersburg, W. Va.; Milwaukee, Wis.; Cheyenne, Wyo. There are also storm and hurricane warnings, the combinations being made with a white triangular flag, a red triangular flag and a square red flag with a black square in the centre. With the square flag below the red triangular flag, it foretells northeast winds; the square flag above the red triangular foretells southeast winds; the square flag below the white triangular, northwest winds; the square flag above the white triangular, southwest winds; two square flags—one above the other—indicate a hurricane.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

Women have equal suffrage with men at elections in Wyoming, Colorado, Utah and Idaho. In Kansas women possess school and municipal suffrage. In some form, mainly as to bonds or school elections, women may vote in the following States and Territories: Arizona, Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Iowa, Kentucky, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Montana, Nebraska, New-Hampshire, New-Jersey, New-York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Dakota, Vermont, Washington and Wisconsin. The Cape Colony, the Russian colonies in Siberia, North Australia, Iceland, Canada and Tasmania have municipal woman suffrage. The Isle of Man, Pitcairn Island, South Australia, West Australia and New-Zealand have full woman suffrage.

Europe.

In England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales women vote for all elective officers except members of Parliament. In France the women teachers vote for women members of all boards of education, and in 1898 women engaged in commerce were given the right to vote for judges of the tribunals of commerce. In Sweden women vote for all elective officers except Representatives, also, indirectly, for members of the House of Lords. In Norway women have school suffrage. In Russia women householders vote for all elective officers and on all local matters; in Finland for all elective officers. Property holding women in Westphalia, Schleswig-Holstein and Brunswick may vote by proxy at local elections, and for members of provincial diets. Women who are landed proprietors may vote in Bohemia by proxy for members of the Imperial Parliament and the local diet. In Saxony women vote on same terms as men; married women by proxy, single women directly. Women have municipal suffrage in Moravia by proxy. In Austria-Hungary they vote by proxy for all elective officers. In Croatia and Dalmatia women vote at local elections in person. In Italy widows with property vote by proxy for members of Parliament. In Prussia women vote by proxy at local elections and for members of provincial diets. In Belgium women taxpayers have municipal suffrage by proxy, and in Luxemburg for members of the Legislature also. In Switzerland women real estate owners have local suffrage in the Canton of Berne. In Rumania women taxpayers have municipal suffrage by proxy.

ANTI-WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

There was no open action against the granting of suffrage to women by the women of the country until the New-York Constitutional Convention was held at the State Capitol in May and June, 1894. The women who favored the granting of the franchise claimed that while only a few women openly espoused the cause, all the other women silently favored it or were indifferent. For this reason they were gaining ground with legislators. In order to contradict the error, and to give to the members of the Constitutional Convention a correct knowledge of the desires of the women of the State, an organization of women opposed to the granting of suffrage to women was founded in Brooklyn, N. Y., with such women as Mrs. Lyman Abbott, Mrs. William Putnam, and others as well known, at its head. This was quickly followed by an organization in Albany, N. Y., headed by Mrs. John V. L. Pruyn, Mrs. W. Winslow Crannell, Mrs. William Bayard Van Rensselaer and about 200 other prominent women. New-York followed with an organization with Mrs. Francis B. Scott as chairman of the Executive Committee. In a few weeks thousands of names of women over twenty-one years old were enrolled in protest to the proposed amendment, Albany sending in over 8,000 names.

After the adjournment of the convention the organizations, with the exception of the one at Albany, disbanded. Later it was believed advisable to reorganize as a State association, with headquarters at New-York. That was done, and auxiliaries were formed in the different judicial districts. This association has kept posted on the workings of the suffragists and has defeated every bill presented by them to the State Legislature. Mrs. Francis B. Scott is still honorary chairman, with an executive committee of one hundred prominent women of New-York, and the chairmen of the auxiliaries.

Massachusetts had, for a score of years prior to 1894, a number of women who worked quietly and anonymously in opposition to the granting of suffrage to the women of that State. When New-York organized openly Massachusetts followed with an organization, which rapidly spread from the confines of Boston and Charleston over the whole State, so that now they have 27 branch associations. New-York has six branches of the central association in three judicial districts. In June, 1896, Mrs. W. Winslow Crannell appeared before the Committee on Resolutions at the Republican National Convention in opposition to the woman suffrage demand for a plank in the National platform. In July Mrs. Crannell made the same opposition at the Democratic National Convention. Later the National organization was established, with Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge, of New-York, and Mrs. Henry M. Whitney, of Boston, as chairmen of the interstate committees.

The following account of the defeats of the suffrage for women in 1900 was prepared by Mrs. George Phillips, of No. 789 Park-ave., New-York, secretary of the New-York State Association Opposed to the Extension of the Suffrage to Women:

NEW-YORK.—January 16 a bill conferring upon women the right to vote in towns and villages upon questions involving taxation was voted down by the Senate. Coming up again in April, it was again voted down.

OHIO—January 27 the resolution introduced giving women the right of suffrage was referred to the Committee of Judiciary without discussion, and there lost sight of.

MASSACHUSETTS—February 1 a hearing was given by the Committee on Election Laws to a petition for Presidential, municipal and taxpaying suffrage for women. February 14 this committee reported 10 to 1 against Presidential and municipal suffrage. February 20, after debate in the House, the vote for taxpaying suffrage stood 40 yeas to 132 nays.

IOWA—March 8 the joint resolution to submit to the people an amendment to the constitution to provide for woman suffrage was lost in the House by a vote of 55 to 43.

OREGON—June 5 a proposed amendment to the constitution for woman suffrage was submitted to the people and defeated, the vote standing 28,402 against, 26,265 for. Oregon cast 82,000 votes, but only 54,667 were cast on the woman suffrage amendment.

AUSTRALIA—October 10 the Legislative Council of Victoria rejected the bill passed by the Legislative Assembly providing for a referendum on the question of the suffrage for women.

CANADA—Parliament voted down a bill conferring the suffrage on women.

Within the last five years four States have been organized to oppose the extension of the suffrage to women, as follows: New-York, March, 1895; Massachusetts, May, 1895; Illinois, May, 1897; Oregon, 1899. In 1900 the women of Victoria, Australia, organized on similar lines and for the same purpose.

THE TRIBUNE FRESH AIR FUND.

Organized in 1877; incorporated in 1888. Its object is to send children of the New-York poor into the country for a summer vacation of two weeks. Hospitable country people receive them, not as boarders, but give them food and lodging and freedom of the country grounds. The fund is dependent upon voluntary contributions. The following table shows the condition of the work from the beginning:

ORGANIZATION OF THE LEADING CHURCHES.

STATISTICS OF RELIGIOUS DENOMINATIONS IN THE UNITED STATES.

The following table of statistics of the churches in the United States, for 1899, was compiled by H. K. Carroll, D. D., who had charge of the census of religious bodies in 1890. The figures are obtained by deducting from the totals for the several denominations the returns for missions, etc., in other countries; and this is done to make the statistics conform to the United States Census of 1890, which is the only complete basis of comparison:

UNIVERSITY EXTENSION.

The American Society for the Extension of University Teaching was founded at Philadelphia in June, 1890, and incorporated in March, 1892. The present officers of the society are: President, Charles A. Brinley; treasurer, Frederick B. Miles; secretary, John Nolen. The office is in Philadelphia. The aim of University Extension is, first, to extend higher education to all classes of people; second, to extend education through the whole of adult life; third, to extend thorough methods of study to subjects of everyday interest. During the year 1899–'00 the society arranged for the delivery of ninety-five courses of lectures at sixty-five centres. The course attendance at lectures was 22,065—the largest in the history of the society. The attendance at classes was 7,981. The number of courses for 1899–'00, arranged by States, showing the extent of the society's work geographically, is as follows: Pennsylvania, 38; New-York, 33; New-Jersey, 20; Maryland, 3; Connecticut, 1. The division by subjects is as follows: History, 32; literature, 29; music and art, 16; ethics and philosophy, 11; economics, political economy and sociology, 6; science, 1. Some notion of the constantly widening use that is being made of the society's lecturers and of the University Extension system can be had from the following list which shows the various auspices under which the courses of last year were delivered: Centres primarily or mainly for teachers, 6; centres under control of women's clubs, 8; People's Institute, New-York City (for workingmen), 9 courses; educational institutions (schools, Brooklyn Institute, etc.), 12 courses; New-York City Board of Education ("Free Lectures to the People"), 17 courses; regular University Extension centres, 43. The society has just completed its tenth year of work. Since its organization there have been delivered under its auspices 954 courses, comprising 5,643 lectures. The average attendance at each lecture has been 193, and the aggregate attendance 1,080,156. The average annual attendance at courses is now over 20,000; about 10 per cent of this number pursue the systematic reading and study recommended by the lecturers. From Philadelphia the movement has extended into many sections of the country, being established mainly, however, in connection with colleges and universities. The most important work, outside of that of the general society in Philadelphia, is carried on under the auspices of the University of Chicago, the Regents of the University of the State of New-York, Rutgers College, New-Brunswick; the University of Wisconsin and in California. The various University Extension societies all publish syllabi in connection with their courses. These contain suggestive outlines of lectures, lists of books and other matter of interest, and are of value for guiding home reading and study. Sample syllabi and circulars descriptive of University Extension can be obtained by addressing John Nolen, secretary, No. 111 South Fifteenth-st., Philadelphia.

THE SETTLERS AND DEFENDERS OF AMERICA.

A new hereditary patriotic order, incorporated in 1899. Corporators: Walter S. Carter, Robert D. Benedict, Ralph E. Prime, William DeH. Washington, William B. Davenport, S. Victor Constant, Robert Endicott, Henry Melville, Edward F. Dwight, P. Tecumseh Sherman, Everett V. Abbot, Rodney S. Dennis and Grenville B. Winthrop. Objects: "To stimulate genealogical, biographical and historical research, to publish patriotic manuscripts and records, to collect Colonial and Revolutionary relics, to preserve traditions, to mark patriotic graves, to locate and protect historic sites, to erect tablets and monuments to aid in founding and erecting libraries, museums and memorial buildings, and in all other fitting ways, through broad fellowship and co-operation, to perpetuate the memory of the settlers and defenders of the Nation and to exemplify and teach in all later generations their spirit of wise patriotism, to the end that we may loyally advance the purpose for which they struggled." To be eligible a person must be eighteen years of age and to have lineally descended (1) from a settler in one of the thirteen original colonies during the first thirty-three years of its settlement, (2) from one who is also lineally descended from an ancestor who, between May 13, 1607, and April 19, 1775, inclusive, rendered civil or military service in the general government of such colony, and (3) who is likewise lineally descended from an ancestor who, between April 19, 1775, and September 13, 1783, inclusive, rendered actual service to the cause of American independence, either as a military or naval officr, soldier, seaman, privateer, militia or minute man, associator, signer of the Declaration of Independence, member of a Continental, Provincial or Colonial Congress, or Colonial or State Legislature, or as a recognized patriot who performed or actually counselled or abetted acts of resistance to the authority of Great Britain; but no claim of eligibility through descent from a settler or from an ancestor who rendered Colonial service to be valid unless the descendants of such ancestor in the line of descent of the applicant were patriots in the War of the Revolution. Women are eligible to admission, and junior chapters of the order are to be established.

SOCIETY OF VETERANS OF INDIAN WARS.

Organized April 23, 1896. Objects: To perpetuate the faithful services, heroism and privations of the officers and soldiers of the Army of the United States, as well as of the auxiliary forces of the several States of the Union, in the campaigns against the Indians on the frontiers, in the interests of civilization and for the settlement and defence of the Territories; also to collect and preserve for publication a record of these services and other historical data relating thereto, as well as to unite in a fraternal bond of union all those who are entitled to membership. There are three classes of members. The first class includes commissioned officers of the Army, on the active or retired list, or those who have become honorably separated from the service, of good moral character and reputation, and who have or may hereafter serve in the Army in an Indian war in a strictly military capacity; also any officer of a State National Guard or Militia meeting the above requirements, and who regularly served under a commission from the Governor of a State or Territory. The second class includes lineal male descendants of members of the first class, or of officers who served subsequent to January, 1784, who would have been thus eligible, but who died without such membership. The third class includes non-commissioned officers and soldiers who have received the medal of honor or certificate of merit from the United States, or who have been proffered or recommended for a commission, or who have been specially mentioned in orders by the War Department or their commanding officer for services in an Indian war. The principal officers are: Commander, Brigadier-General Judson D. Bingham, U. S. A.; vice-commander, Colonel John V. Furey, U. S. A.; recorder and treasurer, Captain Henry Hobart Bellas, U. S. A.; assistant recorder, Lieutenant George R. Burnett, U. S. A.; historian, Brigadier-General Charles King, U. S. V.; council, Brigadier-General Thomas M. Anderson, U. S. A.; Colonel John A. Wilcox, U. S. A.; Major John Brooke, U. S. A.; Captain John M. Walton, U. S. A.; Major Gonzales S. Bingham, U. S. V.

FOUNDERS AND PATRIOTS OF AMERICA.

Organized, New-York City, May 13, 1896.—Objects: To bring together the descendants of the founders of the country and those patriots who fought in the Revolution; to teach reverent regard for their names, their deeds and their heroism; to inculcate patriotism among the members; to discover, collect and preserve records, manuscripts, monuments and history relating to the genealogy and history of the first colonists and their ancestors and descendants, and to commemorate and celebrate events in the history of the Colonies and Republic. Eligibility: Any man above the age of twenty-one years, of good moral character and reputation, a citizen of the United States and who is lineally descended in the male line of either parent from an ancestor who settled in any of the original colonies, from May 13, 1607, to May 13, 1657, and whose intermediate ancestors adhered as patriots to the cause of the Revolutionary War. Officers: Governor-general, William Winton Goodrich, New-York; deputy governor-general, Captain Samuel Emlen Meigs, Pennsylvania; chaplain-general, the Rev. William Reed Eastman, New-York; secretary-general, Theodore Fitch, New-York; treasurer-general, Julius Merrill Foote, New-Jersey; attorney-general, Colonel Henry Woodward Sackett, New-York; registrar-general, Dr. William Anderson Mitchell, New-York; genealogist-general, Colonel Charles Alexander Jewell, Connecticut; historian-general, Professor James W. Moore, Pennsylvania.

UNITED DAUGHTERS OF THE CONFEDERACY.

An incorporated auxiliary society composed of near relatives and lineal descendants of Confederate soldiers. The work is educational, memorial, social, literary and benevolent. The certificate of membership is affixed with the great seal of the Confederate States and the colors red, white, red. The badge or pin is the first flag of the Confederacy in a laurel wreath. The National convention is held on the second Wednesday in November. Officers: President, Mrs. Edwin G. Weed, Jacksonville, Fla.; first vice-president, Mrs. W. W. Read, New-York City; second vice-president, Mrs. S. T. McCullough, Staunton, Va.; recording secretary, Mrs. John P. Hickman, Nashville, Tenn.; corresponding secretary, Miss Mary F. Meares, Wilmington, N. C.; treasurer, Mrs. J. Jefferson Thomas, Atlanta, Ga.

GENERAL SOCIETY OF THE WAR OF 1812.

The General Society of the War of 1812 was organized September 14, 1814. It is composed of State Societies, the members of each of which are borne upon the membership roll of the General Society. Any male person above the age of twenty-one years who participated in or who is a lineal descendant of one who served during the War of 1812, in the Army, Navy, Revenue-Marine or Privateer Service of the United States, and who is of good moral character and reputation, may become a member. The officers are: President general, John Cadwaladar, of Philadelphia, Penn.; secretary general, Captain Henry H. Bellas, U. S. A., No. 421 South Forty-fourth-st., Philadelphia, Penn.; treasurer general, Charles Williams, Philadelphia, Penn.; register general, Albert K. Hadel, M. D., Baltimore, Md.

MAYFLOWER DESCENDANTS.

Organized New-York, December 22, 1894, by lineal descendants of the Mayflower Pilgrims "to preserve their memory, their records, their history and all facts relating to them, their ancestors and their posterity." Every lineal descendant over eighteen years of age, male or female, of any passenger of the voyage of the Mayflower which terminated at Plymouth, Massachusetts, December, 1620, including all signers of "The Compact," are eligible to membership. Initiation fee, $10; annual dues, $5. The annual meeting is held November 21, the anniversary of the signing of "The Compact." Societies are organized in New-York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Ohio, Illinois, New-Jersey and the District of Columbia with a membership of 2,500. The officers of the New-York society are: Governor, John Taylor Terry; deputy-governor, William Winton Goodrich; elder, the Rev. Dr. Brady Electus Backus; secretary, Jeremiah Richards, No. 83 to 87 Grand-st.; treasurer, William Lanman Bull; historian, Richard Henry Greene. The State societies have formed a National organization, of which Henry E. Howland is governor and Richard Henry Greene secretary-general.

AMERICAN FLAG HOUSE AND BETSY ROSS MEMORIAL ASSOCIATION.

Organized 1898. Headquarters, No. 239 Arch-st., Philadelphia, Penn. Officers—Edward Brooks, president; Adam H. Fetterholf, vice-president; John Quincy Adams, secretary; George C. Batcheller, treasurer. The objects of the association are to purchase and preserve the historic building in which the first flag of the United States was made by Betsy Ross, and subsequently adopted by Congress June 14, 1777, and to erect a National memorial in honor of the maker.

AMERICAN FLAG ASSOCIATION.

The American Flag Association was organized February 17, 1898, its motto being "One Flag, One Country, God Over All." Its object is to secure National and State legislation for the protection of the flag from degrading and desecrating uses, and to secure a general celebration of June 14 as "Flag Day" because on that day in 1777 Congress enacted "That the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation." The officers of the association are: President, Colonel Ralph E. Prime, Yonkers, N. Y.; secretaries, General Thomas Wilson, U. S. A., and Edward H. Hall, New-York City, N. Y.; treasurer, Major J. Langdon Ward, New-York City.

SIGMA PHI.—Organized 1825, but announcement of founding not made until March 4, 1827, at Union College. Chapters, 8; membership, 1,526. Secretary, M. Shaler Allen, No. 203 Montague-st., Brooklyn.

ZETA PSI.—Founded 1846, at New-York University. Active chapters, 21; membership, 4,200.

PEABODY EDUCATION FUND.

The Peabody Education Fund was founded in 1867 by Mr. Peabody for the cause of education in the Southern and Southwestern States. The fund first amounted to $3,000,000, but as $900,000 of this amount was invested in Florida and Mississippi bonds, afterward repudiated, the fund was reduced to $2,100,000. Officers: Chairman, William M. Evarts, New-York City, N. Y.; vice-chairman, Chief Justice Melville W. Fuller; second vice-chairman, Bishop Henry B. Whipple; secretary, Samuel A. Green, Boston, Mass.; general agent, Dr. J. L. M. Curry, Washington, D. C. Executive Committee—Chief Justice Fuller, William A. Courtenay, Dr. Daniel C. Gilman, Charles E. Fenner and James D. Porter.

GREAT DISASTERS OF THE YEAR.

THE STORM AT GALVESTON.

A terrible storm which devastated Galveston, Texas, causing the loss of from 5,000 to 7,000 lives and destroying property valued at upward of $25,000,000, swept over that city September 8. It began at 2 o'clock in the morning and raged for more than twenty-four hours. The records in the Galveston Weather Bureau showed that the wind had attained a velocity of eighty-four miles an hour when the measuring instrument was blown away. Before 2 o'clock in the morning of Saturday, September 8, a great storm was raging in the Gulf, and the tide was very high. The wind at first came from the north and was in direct opposition to the wind from the Gulf. The rain fell in torrents. On the beach side of the city the waters of the Gulf rose, and on the bay side the waters of the bay were piled up by the north wind. Then the waters of the bay and Gulf met, and by dark the city was submerged and the residents were like rats in a trap. The lighting plant of the city was quickly destroyed and all night the city was in darkness. For twenty-four hours the wind and the waters continued rising. At one time in the highest part of the city the water was from four to five feet deep and in many streets it was ten feet deep. At daylight on September 10 the strects were free of water. When those who had escaped left their places of refuge they saw on every hand bodies of men, women and children who had been either drowned in the flood or killed by falling buildings. Whole sections of the city were in ruins, and along the waterfront small tugs and sailboats were found jammed partly into buildings where they had been landed by incoming waves and left by receding waters. Rescue and relief work was begun promptly all over the country, and as soon as possible the work of clearing the city began. Thousands of bodies were taken out into the deep water of the Gulf and sunk, and many more were burned in huge fires built of the wreckage, these measures being necessary to avoid a pestilence.

HOBOKEN'S GREAT FIRE.

Between 200 and 300 people lost their lives in a fire which destroyed the pier system of the North German Lloyd steamship line, at Hoboken, N. J., Saturday, June 30, 1900. The fire wrecked three of the large ships of the company, and was the most destructive blaze that ever visited the piers and shipping of the port of New-York. An estimate placed the loss of life at nearly 300, and the damage to property at about $10,000,000, but the company's estimate of the loss of life and the value of the property wiped out was considerably less. Four of the North German Lloyd liners were moored at the piers, and they all caught fire quickly. They were the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, the largest and the finest of the fleet, which was towed out of danger and was uninjured; the Saale, the Bremen and the Main. There were also several heavily loaded barges and lighters moored to the piers, and on some of them men perished. When the flames were discovered on one of the piers there were on the Kaiser Wilhelm about 400 men, on the Bremen 200 men, on the Main 300, on the Saale 300 and from 500 to 600 men at work on the piers. The fire started in some cotton on one of the four large piers at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. In a few minutes the pier on which the fire broke out was enveloped in flames, and in six minutes the whole pier system was burning. The flames spread so quickly that many men on the piers and on the vessels, lighters and barges were hemmed in by fire before they realized that their lives were in danger. From the Bremen seventeen men were rescued from a coal bunker after being penned in it for some hours, and sixteen men who took refuge in the bunkers of the Main lived through the fire that destroyed the ship and were rescued. The Main was burned at her pier and most of her crew perished in the flames. The Bremen was towed across the river by tugs, and the Saale was towed to the flats off Communipaw. Many charges of heartlessness and cruelty were made against tugboat captains, who were said to have refused to save lives in the hope of gaining salvage from the steamship company. An investigation was made, but there were no arrests in consequence of the charges.

THE INDIAN FAMINE.

The famine in India in 1900 was caused by a failure of the monsoon in the summer of 1899. In years when the monsoon does not blow little or no rain falls throughout the greater part of India. The absence of the monsoon in 1899 caused an almost complete failure of the crops in British and native territory in India, inhabited by about ninety-five million persons. Relief work was begun in some districts as early as the beginning of December, 1899. The Government began making investigations in October, but did not actually proclaim the famine until January, 1900. The Government relief works were opened early in the year. These works consisted chiefly of the construction of large reservoirs, dams and canals for the storage of water for use in case of famines in the future. Employment was given the starving natives on these works, each able bodied person receiving two cents a day. As the year advanced and the famine became acute the number of persons employed on the relief works increased steadily, until at one time, just before the rains began in the summer, more than six million persons were employed. The Indian Government made strenuous efforts to relieve the distress of the people, but in spite of everything that could be done more than five hundred thousand persons perished of starvation and thirst. It is estimated that 95 per cent of the actual number of cattle in the affected districts died of lack of food and water. Charitable committees were formed in all countries where the English language is spoken, and funds to the amount of more than $5,000,000 were raised and sent out to be distributed by missionaries and committees of civilians. Up to November 1 the Government had spent about $27,000,000 in relief work. At that time about two million persons were employed on Government works.

THE TARRANT EXPLOSION.

An explosion of chemicals in the wholesale drug house of Tarrant & Co., at Warren and Greenwich sts., New-York City, on Monday, October 29, caused the loss of four lives, more or less seriously injured a number of people, never accurately known, but estimated at from 60 to 100, and caused a property loss of more than $1,000,000. A number of buildings in Warren, Greenwich, Washington and Murray sts. were damaged by the explosion or destroyed by the fire which followed it, and the west, or downtown station of the elevated railroad at Warren and Greenwich sts., was wrecked and thrown to the street. The cause of the disaster was never made entirely clear, but it was charged that the firm had a large amount of chemicals stored in the building which, while not explosive in themselves, were made so by a small fire which it was asserted preceded the explosion.

EARTHQUAKES IN VENEZUELA.

Caracas, the capital of Venezuela, was visited by several earthquakes in the course of 1900. The most severe occurred at 4:46 a. m., October 29. Fifteen persons were killed and many others injured. Great damage was done to buildings, including the Pantheon and the churches. The United States Legation was badly damaged, but all the occupants escaped unhurt. President Castro, who leaped from a balcony on the second floor of the Government House, had one of his legs broken. William Henry Doveton Haggard, the British Minister, a brother of Rider Haggard, the novelist, had a miraculous escape, the second floor of the British Legation having fallen upon him and buried him in the wreckage. The effects of the earthquake were widespread, the disturbances being felt as far as the regions of the Andes. In July there was a series of seismic disturbances, which did considerable damage to property. There were seven terrific shocks in quick succession, and the residents of the city were terror stricken. President Castro and his family slept for several nights under tents in the Plaza Bolivar, and all the theatres and churches were kept closed for a week.

The most appalling earthquake in the history of Venezuela was in 1812, when nearly every building was shaken from its foundations and 20,000 people were buried in the ruins.

LOSS OF THE YOSEMITE.

The United States auxiliary cruiser Yosemite was wrecked on a reef sixty miles from the Island of Guam on November 15, 1900, and five of her crew were drowned. The collier Justin rescued the remainder. There went down with her $681,000, Mexican. She was commanded by Lieutenant Bierer, and was used as a station ship, being at the disposal of the Governor of Guam. She was anchored off Guam when the typhoon of November 15, which devastated the island, struck her. Her two anchors dragged a mile across the harbor. At 11 a. m. she struck a reef and stove in forward. She drifted for an hour, and at noon struck the rocks near Somaye, carrying away her rudder and damaging her propeller. A launch had been sent in search of shelter, but it capsized, and the five men in it were drowned. The Yosemite was blown seaward and was kept afloat until the afternoon. The collier Justin attempted to tow her, but the cables parted, and soon after the officers and crew were transferred to the Justin the Yosemite sank.

DESTRUCTION OF THE THEATRE FRANCAIS.

The Théâtre Français, one of the most famous playbouses in Paris, was destroyed by fire on the morning of March 8, 1900. It contained no audience at the time, but several actors, who had just finished a rehearsal, had narrow escapes, and one of them, Mlle. Henriot, perished. Priceless art treasures which adorned the playhouse in large number were utterly destroyed.

The Théâtre Français was opened in 1789 under the name of the Variétés Amusants. As the House of Molière, the bome of the Comédie Française, founded by the great dramatist himself, and a treasure nouse of art, it was famous the world over. Among its actors had been Molière, Adrienne Lecouvreur, Talma, Mlle. Mars. Rachel, Frederick Lemaitre, M. Got, Coquelin, M. Mounet-Sully, Mlle. Reichemberg, Sarah Bernhardt and the greater part of the prominent French actors who have lived since it was founded. The building was owned by the Government, which gave the use of it rent free to the company, and also gave a subsidy of about $50,000 a year. The dressing rooms were luxurious, and many of them were adorned with valuable works of art. It had a large gallery of pictures and statues of actors and dramatic writers, a special gallery of busts of notable persons connected with the drama, a library of great value and the archives of the Comédie Française, containing manuscripts of priceless value. The fire was caused by an old fashioned hot air furnace, and the building was enveloped in flames in an instant. Attempts to save paintings and statues were successful in some instances, but most failed. Mlle. Dudley was carried from ber dressing room attired in the costume of Roxane in the drama of "Bajazet." Albert Lambert saved Mlle. Delavair. Mlle. Henriot was suffocated while dressing for her part in the drama, and her charred body was found later. Sylvain, the veteran actor, and Delaunay saved several persons.

PROGRESS IN SCIENCE.

Aerial Navigation.

In aeronautic science the chief event of the last year was the test made by Count Von Zeppelin, at Friedrichshafen, on the Würtemberg side of Lake Constance, of an immense airship. The gas holder was 400 feet long and 37 in diameter, and it was pointed at both ends. From this were suspended two small boats for passengers. Two gasolene engines, of 15 horsepower each, drove the propellers with which the craft was driven. Ascents were made early in July and late in October. It was demonstrated that the ship would maintain her equilibrium in comparatively calm weather, could be steered readily, and could make a speed of eight or ten miles an hour. The colossal size of the airship and the patronage lent by the King of Würtemberg to the affair rendered the event important, but the record for speed made by Krebs and Renard in 1885, fourteen miles an hour, was not beaten.

Races between balloons were held in Europe for the first time in October, under the auspices of a French club devoted to such sport. Fourteen races were started in one day, and there were twenty-seven participants. The long distance race carried three or four competitors into Germany and Poland. This contest was won by the Comte de Castillon, accompanied by M. Mallet. They covered 830 miles before landing. M. Balsan, with M. Godard, came next, and the Comte de la Vaulx was third.

Solar Eclipse.

The greatest astronomical event of the year was the total eclipse of the sun, on May 28. This was visible along a narrow path extending from Northern Mexico through the Gulf and South Atlantic States across the ocean into Spain and Northern Africa. The form of the corona observed conformed closely to the type peculiar to the minimum stage of the sunspot period. Endeavors to locate the characteristic green line of the corona in the spectrum were unsuccessful. What is known as the "Flash Spectrum" was not seen so distinctly as during the eclipse of 1898, in India. An attempt was made by the Americans, Professors Langley and Hale, to measure the heat radiation from the corona, but while their delicate apparatus showed some influence from that source, it was impossible to put the result in figures.

The tiny asteroid, Eros, which was discovered in 1898, and travels in an orbit that brings it nearer to the earth at times than any other celestial body except the moon, came into opposition on October 31, and was eagerly followed by observers and photographers for months afterward. The closest approach to the earth was expected in February, 1901. From the observations made during this period the astronomers hope to calculate the distance of the sun from the earth more accurately than ever before.

A marked advance was effected in astronomical photography by G. W. Ritchey, at the Yerkes Observatory, who placed a transparent yellow screen at the eye end of a telescope and thus made it possible to get sharp pictures with an instrument intended for visual work only.

Mosquitoes and Malaria.

The theory that the germs of malarial fevers are communicated to human subjects by the bite of a mosquito received substantial confirmation from several sources. But the most significant evidence was that of two English physicians, Drs. Sambon and Low, who went to the Roman Campagna, famous for its malaria in summer, erected a hut, shielded themselves at night by mosquito netting at the windows, but in the daytime went about freely. They breathed air from freshly turned earth and drank what was believed to be contaminated water. At the end of five months they had not suffered an attack of fever. But a mosquito which had first sucked blood from a malaria patient was afterward made to bite a lad in London, who had been carefully kept from all malarial influences, and the boy came down with fever in a few days.

Investigations conducted by United States Army surgeons in Cuba lead to the suspicion that yellow fever is communicated by mosquito bites, too. A search for the bacillus, which Sanarelli regarded the cause of yellow fever, failed to show it in the blood of a large number of patients or in corpses.

At an international medical congress in Paris a favorable report was made on the Crotte system of treating tuberculosis. This consists of an application of some germicide, like iodine or formaldehyde, to the surface of the body, and trying to drive it inward by electricity. This operation is known as cataphoresis. Tests made early in 1900 with the Crotte system, at St. Luke's Hospital, New-York City, gave such unsatisfactory results that in this country the plan is not regarded with confidence.

Applications of Electricity.

By Marconi's system of wireless telegraphy messages were sent for the British army in South Africa for distances of sixty miles, and for the navy fully eighty. The inventor is satisfied that he can easily cover a hundred miles or more now, and hopes to develop this feature still further. He has made two marked improvements within the last year. The vertical wire which was formerly attached to both sending and receiving instruments has been dispensed with, and a compact device that can be accommodated indoors in small space is substituted therefor. Receivers at the same station can now be so regulated that each will take messages only from a certain sender and thus avoid confusion.

The longest underground electric road in the world, the Central London, was opened in the British capital in July. Shortly afterward a similar road was put in operation in Paris. Before the close of the year the first electric trial train was run over the Second-ave. elevated road in New-York City. Electricity has been used on such lines in Brookiyn and Chicago for several years. The greatest novelty in electric traction is the trial of alternating current motors on several European roads. A line in Northern Italy, 65 miles long, is now being equipped to run with such apparatus.

A new transatlantic cable, connecting the United States with Germany, was put into operation in September.

At the Blue Hill Observatory, near Boston, a new record in kite flying was made on July 19, when six kites, tandem, were sent up, and the highest reached an elevation of 15,900 feet, or about three miles.

Liquid air was applied to automobile traction for the first time.

The submarine torpedo boat Holland, of the American Navy, was tried during the naval manœuvres off Newport in September, and gave satisfactory results. The French submarine boat, the Gustave Zede, was similarly tested in the presence of President Louhet in October, and showed that she could launch a torpedo successfully while running. The Russian navy received an important accession in the Variag, built at the yards of the Cramps in Philadelphia. On her trial trip she averaged 23.7 knots for seven hours, and made a single mile at the rate of 24.6 knots. She is the fastest war cruiser in any navy and beats even the crack steamships of the merchant marine.

This speed has been greatly exceeded, however, by the new British torpedo boat destroyer, Viper, which in July made six runs of a mile each, averaging 36.58 knots, and a single mile at the rate of 37.1 knots. This is the best record made by any steam craft in the world, and is partly due to the Parsons steam turbine, with which she is equipped.

A notable feature of the policy of the United States War Department in 1900 was a decision to abandon the disappearing gun carriage for coast defences as unsatisfactory. This is regarded as a victory for General Miles.

The Russian Government has officially adopted the metric system of weights and measures.

An expedition to the Arctic regions, led by the Duke of the Abruzzi, a cousin of the present King of Italy, approached more closely to the North Pole than man ever went before. His ship wintered at Taplitz Bay, in Franz Polar Research.

Josef Land, in about latitude 82. During a sledging trip the Duke so badly froze his fingers that two were amputated, and the ship's doctor advised him not to accompany any of the other excursions. But the navigator of the Stella Polare, Captain Cagni, and three companions started from the ship in April and pushed northward with dogs and sledges. On April 25 they reached a point on the ice which they estimated at 86.33 north latitude. This was nineteen minutes further north than Nansen went after leaving the Fram, almost exactly four years before. Captain Cagni returned to the ship on June 23. The ship was liberated from the ice so as to start homeward on August 15. She reached Hammerfest on September 5.

Peary, not having realized his ambition of attaining the Pole, did not return from the vicinity of Greenland, but is wintering at Fort Conger in Grant Land, west of Greenland, with the purpose of making a push early in the summer. Sverdrup, who followed him up with Nansen's old ship the Fram, is wintering in Jones Sound, south of Ellesmere Land. The party led by Dr. Robert Stein, which landed near Cape Sabine in August, 1899, for the purpose of exploring Ellesmere Land, passed the winter of 1899–1900 safely, and carried on their work with fair success. Two of the three members came down to Cape York, Greenland, late in the summer, and there one of them, Dr. Kann, took passage for Scotland on a whaler bound for Dundee. Dr. Stein waited at Cape York several months, preparing to renew his explorations.

The Antarctic expedition provided for by the wealthy Englishman, Sir George Newnes, and commanded by Captain Borchgrevinck, spent most of 1899 near Cape Adair, Victoria Land, and left early in 1900. Their ship, the Southern Cross, reached a port in New-Zealand in April, and subsequently came back to England. Captain Borchgrevinck thinks that he located the south magnetic pole more exactly than did Ross. Two other expeditions will start for the Antarctic, one under English auspices and the other under German leadership, in 1901. These will co-operate with each other, and are to be so admirably equipped that great expectations are entertained by scientific men regarding them.

A party led by Evelyn B. Baldwin, an American, and provided for by William Zeigler, will start from this country this summer to seek the North Pole.

Paleontologists were delighted in 1899 when the fossil remains of five horses of a prehistoric race were discovered in the Staked Plains of Texas by a party sent out by the American Museum of Natural History in this city. All of the specimens were small. This year a skeleton of a full grown horse was found in the same spot. These are the only representatives of the species ever discovered. They are much larger than the primitive horses found by Marsh years ago, and experts think that they show the final development of the native American horse. This animal was about as big as a zebra, but had a head as large as that of a heavy draft horse. Zoologists are satisfied that it could not have been the ancestor of the modern horse, which was probably derived from Asiatic stock.

Dr. Ernst Haeckel, a German zoologist, who has given much study to the origin of man, went to Java to hunt for more fossil remains of the "missing link" between man and his ancestors.

The bubonic plague appeared at several points in Australia and New-Zealand during the summer, at San Francisco in May and June, and in Glasgow in August. In both of the latter places it was promptly suppressed.

EXPOSITIONS.

THE PARIS EXPOSITION.

The Paris Exposition of 1900 was inaugurated and opened to the public at 3 p. m. Saturday, April 14, by President Loubet, who on Monday, November 5, with imposing ceremony, officially closed it. As was the case with the exposition of 1889, visitors were permitted to enter the Exposition of 1900 for a fortnight after the official closing. The Paris Exposition of 1900 covered a much larger area and contained exhibits far greater in number, variety and value than any exhibition previously held in that city. The site occupied comprised the Champ de Mars, the Esplanade des Invalides, the Trocadero Gardens, a part of the Champs Elysées, the quays on both sides of the Seine, between the Alexander III Bridge and the Iéna Bridge, and the park at Vincennes. The local superficial area was as follows: Champ de Mars, 124 acres; Esplanade des Invalides, 30 acres; Trocadéro Gardens, 40 acres; Champs Elysées, 37 acres; quays on left bank of Seine, 23 acres; quays on right bank of Seine, 23 acres; park at Vincennes, 272 acres; total, 549 acres. The superficial area occupied by buildings and covered in was 4,865,328 square feet, distributed as follows: French sections, 2,691,000 square feet; foreign sections, 1,829,880 square feet; park at Vincennes, 344,448 square feet; total, 4,865,328 square feet. The space assigned to the United States sections was 338,087 square feet. The strip of land on each side of the Seine devoted to the Exposition extends for a distance of 1¾ miles. About one hundred French and seventy-five foreign pavilions and detached buildings were erected in the grounds, without counting the thirty-six official pavilions of nations participating in the Exposition; these official or national pavilions were situated in a double row along the Quai d'Orsay. Forty foreign countries were represented at the Exposition. The number of countries invited by the French Government to take part in the Exposition was fifty-six. Of these fifty accepted, but ten of them subsequently withdrew. The forty countries which participated in the Exposition, and each of which had a distinct and separate representation at it, were as follows: The United States of America, Great Britain and the British Colonies, Germany, Austria, Hungary, Bosnia-Herzegovina, Italy, Russia, Spain, Belgium, Holland, Denmark, Greece, Norway, Sweden, Portugal, Turkey, Morocco, Servia, Rumania, Switzerland, Bulgaria, Egypt, the South African Republic, China, Japan, Corea, the Orange Free State, Persia, Peru, Mexico, Nicaragua, Siam, Salvador, Liberia, Luxemburg, Monaco, the Republic of San Marino, the Republic of Andorra and Ecuador. The method of classification was to show together on the same site all products of a similar nature, no matter what country, district or region the products came from. This principle was adhered to, so far as practicable, and the classification comprised eighteen groups, subdivided into 121 classes. In addition to showing in eighteen groups in the French buildings, the United States, British, German, Austrian, Hungarian, Italian, Russian and Belgian exhibitors erected separate buildings in various parts of the grounds for the exclusive exhibition of their wares. Another characteristic of the Exposition was the attempt to represent on one site, so far as possible, the raw material, processes of manufacture and finished products of an industry, thereby showing machinery in conjunction with the manufactured article so as to illustrate the method of manufacture. The attempt proved successful. Machines were shown in operation all over the Exposition, those employed in certain manufactures being exhibited together with the raw and finished material in the groups to which they belong. The central generating station was on the main floor of the building devoted to electricity and developed 40,000 horsepower; several of the dynamos had a capacity of over 2,500 horsepower each. The two main arteries of transportation were supplied by an electric railroad and a moving sidewalk, each having a length of 2 miles 200 yards, encircling the quadrangle lying between the chief centres of interest, the Esplanade des Invalides and the Champ de Mars. The number of exhibitors at the Paris Exposition of 1900 was 75,531, and 42,790 awards were distributed. The total number of United States exhibitors was 6,916, of whom 2,204 received awards, comprising 215 grand prizes, 547 gold medals, 593 silver medals, 501 bronze medals and 348 honorable mentions.

The official budget of the Exposition exceeded $25,000,000, of which $13,000,000 was accounted for by the issue of 65,000,000 Exposition tickets of 1 franc denomination, $4,000,000 by State subvention, and $4,000,000 by the subvention of the city of Paris. As the "bons" or shares were only paid back by entrance tickets or lottery prizes, the State and the city of Paris were the proprietors, each one-half, of the undertaking and dividends. Owing to the unprepared condition of the Exposition when it opened there was a great falling off during April, May, June and July in the anticipated attendance. The result was that the price of the 1 franc entrance tickets soon fell to 35 centimes or 7 cents, and they were even quoted in July as low as 20 centimes or 4 cents apiece. In order to counteract this the authorities required from each visitor two tickets between the hours of 8 and 10 a. m., and also between 6 p. m. and the hour of closing. On Fridays and on certain days of exceptional interest, such as the flower fete, four tickets were required at the gates for each entrance. During the months of April, May, June and July the daily average paying entrances were only 165,000. This daily average was more than doubled, however, in August, September and October. On Sunday, September 9, 600,528 persons passed the gates, and of these 539,857 were paying entrances. The number of tickets given in, however, fell short of that on the flower fete of Thursday, September 6, when four tickets were required for each admittance, and on that day the total number of tickets taken was 926,600. The cost of construction of the principal foreign national pavilions at the Paris Exposition of 1900 was as follows:

United States National pavilion	$120,000	Royal Belgian pavilion	$90,000
Royal British pavilion	100,000	Royal Norwegian pavilion	40,000
Imperial Russian pavilion	95,000	Royal Swedish pavilion	40,000
Imperial Austrian pavilion	100,000	Imperial Japanese pavilion	46,000
Royal Hungarian pavilion	100,000	Royal Italian pavilion	110,000
Royal Dutch pavilion	81,000	Royal Spanish pavilion	99,000

A prominent feature of the Exposition was the international congresses, of which there were 135 altogether, and in over a hundred of these congresses there were representatives from the United States. The work of demolishing the Exposition began in November. The constructions which permanently remain—the Alexander III Bridge, the broad Avenue Nicolas II, with the Grand Palais on its western side and the Petit Palais on its eastern side, and which opens a superb vista from the Champs Elysées to the Palace of the Invalides—transform and beautify Paris more than any municipal improvement since the renovation of the city by Baron Haussmann during the reign of Napoleon III.

It is to the Paris Exposition that the Paris Metropolitan Electric Railway owes its existence. The length of the line from the Porte de Vincennes to the Porte Maillot is about 6¼ miles, and the branch lines Arc de Triomphe to the Porte Dauphine, somewhat over a mile, and one mile from the Arc de Triomphe to the Trocadéro—in all about 8½ miles, all of which is now open to traffic. Other trunk and branch lines are under construction, but will not be completed until 1902. The total amount of the appropriations made by the United States Congress for the participation of the United States in the Paris Exposition of 1900 was $1,369,500. Three of the States of the Union, California, New-York and Massachusetts, also appropriated sums for participation in the Exposition. California appropriated $130,000; New-York $60,000, with the understanding that of this sum $10,000 should be given to the Lafayette Monument Fund, and an additional $10,000 be placed at the disposal of Director Howard J. Rogers, Director of Education and Social Economy, to insure a creditable representation of the educational interests of New-York State. The New-York Commissioners expended the remaining $40,000 for exhibits of fruit, dairy products, transportation and the maintenance of the New-York State Headquarters and Bureau of Information in the U. S. National Pavilion. The State of Massachusetts appropriated $60,000.

The officials of the Paris Exposition of 1900 were: General Commissioner, M. Alfred Picard; Chief Director of the Working Department, M. Delaunay-Belleville; Assistant General Director of the Working Department, M. Stephen Derville; Director of the Agricultural Department, M. J. Bouvard; Financial Director, M. Grison; General Secretary, M. Henri Chardon.

The following officers and staff representing the United States were appointed by President McKinley under act of Congress: Commissioner General, Ferdinand W. Peck; Assistant Commissioner General, Benjamin D. Woodward; Secretary and Disbursing Agent, Fred. Brackett.

The following Commissioners were appointed by President McKinley under act of Congress: Bertha Honore Palmer, Illinois; James Allison, Kansas; Brutus J. Clay, Kentucky; Charles A. Collier, Georgia; Michael H. De Young, California; William L. Elkins, Pennsylvania; Ogden H. Fethers, Wisconsin; Peter Jansen, Nebraska; Calvin Manning, Iowa; Franklin Murphy, New-Jersey; Henry A. Parr, Maryland; Henry M. Putney, New-Hampshire; Alvin H. Sanders, Illinois; Louis Stern, New-York; William G. Thompson, Michigan; William M. Thornton, Virginia; Arthur E. Valois, New-York; Thomas F. Walsh, Colorado; Mrs. Daniel Manning, New-York.

The following staff was appointed by the Commissioner General:

Exhibit Departments—Director-in-Chief of Exhibit Departments and Director of Mining and Metallurgy, Frederick J. V. Skiff; Director of Liberal Arts and Chemical Industries, Alexander S. Capehart; Director of Machinery and Electricity, Francis E. Drake; Director of Agriculture, Charles Richards Dodge; Director of Civil Engineering and Transportation, and Army and Navy, Willard A. Smith; Director of Exploitation (Acting Director of Textiles), John H. McGibbons; Director of Education and Social Economy, Howard J. Rogers; Director of Fine Arts, John B. Cauldwell; Director of Varied Industries, M. H. Hulbert; Director of Forestry and Fisheries, Tarleton H. Bean; Director of Athletics, A. G. Spalding; Editor and Statistician, Dr. Selim H. Peabody; Assistant Director of Mining and Metallurgy, Dr. William S. Ward; Assistant Director of Liberal Arts and Chemical Industries, Charles H. Simms; Assistant Director of Machinery and Electricity, James S. Anthony; Assistant Director of Civil Engineering and Transportation, Lieutenant-Commander A. C. Baker, U. S. N.; Assistant Director of Agriculture, James L. Farmer; Assistant Director of Fine Arts, Henry B. Snell; Assistant Director of Varied Industries, W. E. Crist; Assistant Director of Athletics, B. Spalding de Garmendia; in charge of Naval exhibit, Department of Transportation, Lieutenant H. C. Poundstone, U. S. N.; in charge of Pollok Life Saving Prize, Department of Transportation, Lieutenant W. S. Sims, U. S. N.; Special Agent, Negro Exhibit, Department of Education and Social Economy, Thomas J. Calloway; Assistant Director of Education and Social Economy, R. L. Dougherty; Director, Department of Jury Organization, James H. Gore.

Business Department—Director of Affairs, Paul Blackmar; Assistant Director of Affairs, William E. Cash; Librarian, James M. Allen; Director of Customs, L. M. Howland; Delegate, Paris Office, Casper S. Crowninshield; Custodian of Exhibits, Frank T. Gilbert.

Building Department—American Architect, Charles A. Coolidge; French Architect, Georges Morin-Goustiaux; Chief of Decoration, Exhibit Departments, John Getz; Superintendent, Mural Decorations, Frank Millet; Military Attachés, Majors J. B. Kerr and H. O. S. Heistand; Press Representative, A. H. Mattox.

Lafayette Memorial Commission—Secretary, Robert J. Thompson.

Special Cuban Commission—Commissioner, Gonzalo de Quesada; Secretary, Ricardo Diaz Albertini.

Special Hawaiian Commission—First Commissioner, W. G. Irwin; Second Commissioner, Alfred Houle; Secretary, Major G. C. Potter.

Special Commission for Porto Rico—Commissioner, José T. Silva.

Advisory Council (resident in Paris)—M. P. Peixotto, chairman; Georges Nagelmackers, G. Dambmann.

The New-York State Commission to the Exposition was composed as follows: Norton P. Otis, Yonkers, President; Lamotte M. Blakely, Lyons, Vice-President; Ludwig Nissen, Brooklyn, Treasurer; Thomas R. Proctor, Utica; Edward G. Wyckoff, Ithaca; Emil Twyeffort, New-York City; Albert E. Bonesteel, Troy; Henry A. Phillips, Lowville; Urban Weldon, Cohoes; George E. Spring, Franklinville; Horace C. Brewster, Rochester; William L. Marcy, Buffalo; Dr. Clarkson C. Scuyler, Plattsburg; Mrs. Mary Harrison McKee, Saratoga; Mrs. George W. Metcalfe, Owego; Mrs. Clarence Burns, New-York City; secretary appointed by Commission, Colonel William M. Griffiths.

The California State Commission to the Exposition was composed as follows: Major Benjamin C. Truman, E. W. Runyon and W. F. Foote.

The Massachusetts State Commission to the Exposition was composed as follows: George L. Meyer, Charles Francis Adams, President of Massachusetts Board of Trade; Charles S. Hamlin, Miss Agnes Irwin, Miss Frances M. Lincoln, Charles L. Lovering, William B. Rice and William Whiting.

PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.

To be held on the Niagara Frontier—the city of Buffalo, N. Y.—during the six months beginning May 1, 1901, for the purpose of illustrating the progress and development of the Western Hemisphere during the nineteenth century, by a display of the arts, industries, manufactures and the products of the soil, the mine and sea, etc. The total cost of the Exposition, exclusive of the exhibits, is estimated at $10,000,000, of which nearly one-third—$3,000,000, or more than the whole cost of some pretentious expositions—will be expended upon the midway. A beautiful landscape of nearly a mile square will be occupied by this wonderful enterprise, on the site of what is now Delaware Park. For the carrying on of this undertaking there is available $6,000,000, in addition to which the United States Government has appropriated $500,000 for a suitable building and exhibits from Porto Rico, Cuba, Hawaii and the Philippines, while the State of New-York has also contributed $300,000 for a like purpose. The latter, like the $350,000 Albright Art Gallery, to be also constructed of marble, will remain permanent structures and gifts to the city. Canada and all but two of the countries of South America will be represented by buildings and exhibits, and a number of the States will also erect individual buildings for their own representation. The word "Pan," as a prefix to American, means "All"—that is to say, the Exposition is for all the Americas, exhibits from European countries not being accepted. The Exposition will have thirty-three acres of courts, and the twenty or more structures which are to shelter the exhibits will surround these courts. Every building is richly adorned with plastic ornamentation and tinted in accordance with a magnificent color scheme under the direction of Charles Y. Turner. Electrically, the Exposition is expected to outshine all former ones. Owing to the nearness of Niagara Falls the Pan-American Exposition has at hand a large volume of energy which will be employed to whatever extent may be necessary. The exhibits are divided into about twenty classes and embrace every line of human activity. The chief officers of the Exposition are John G. Milburn, president; Edwin Fleming, secretary; George L. Williams, treasurer; William I. Buchanan, director-general; Newcomb Carlton, director of works; John B. Weber, commissioner-general; George Bleisteln, chairman of publicity; Mark Bennitt, superintendent press department; Edward E. Pidgeon, New-York representative; Karl Bitter, director of sculpture; Frederick W. Taylor, director of concessions.

SOUTH CAROLINA INTERSTATE AND WEST INDIAN EXPOSITION.

The South Carolina Interstate and West Indian Exposition Company has been chartered by the laws of South Carolina for the purpose of holding an exposition in the city of Charleston, S. C. The exposition will open December 1, 1901, and close June 1, 1902. Its purpose is to bring together on Southern soil representative exhibits of the industries and resources of the States of the American Union, with especial regard to the commercial and industrial possibilities of the Southern States. As the name of the exposition company indicates, particular attention will be given to an exhibit of the industries and resources of Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines. The exposition company has been organized with a capital stock of $250,000. The enterprise has been approved by the General Assembly of South Carolina, by the municipal bodies of all the towns and cities in the State and by the trade and business organizations. A bill has been introduced in the United States Congress appropriating $250,000 for the purpose of erecting a Government building and making an exhibit under the direction of Government officers at the exposition. Assurances have been received from many of the foreign countries with which the United States has diplomatic and commercial relations of their wish and disposition to be represented in the exposition. The architect of the exposition is Bradford L. Gilbert, of New-York City, who has completed his preliminary studies and will begin the actual work of construction about the middle of January next. He is under bond to have all the buildings ready for the installation of exhibits by the middle of September, 1901. The principal officers of the exposition company are Captain F. W. Wagener, of Charleston, president; William H. Welch, vice-president; S. H. Wilson, treasurer; John F. Ficken, general counsel, and John H. Averill, director-general.

LOUISIANA PURCHASE CENTENNIAL.

In 1903 there will be held in St. Louis, Mo., a world's fair to commemorate the acquisition of the vast domain purchased by President Jefferson from Napoleon of France, extending from the Gulf of Mexico on the south to the Canadian borders on the north, and from the Mississippi River on the east to the Rocky Mountains and the Rio Grande on the west. In the spring of 1900 Congress passed a bill appropriating $5,000,000 in aid of the enterprise, contingent upon the city of St. Louis expending $10,000,000 for the same purpose; this appropriation to be in the nature of a loan, to be repaid to the Government from the moneys earned by the Exposition. At the November election a charter amendment was adopted authorizing the city of St. Louis to issue $5,000,000 bonds for the world's fair and citizens subscribed a second $5,000,000, thus making available for the purpose a total of $15,000,000, including the $5,000,000 conditionally voted by Congress. In addition to the above, a constitutional amendment was adopted in November authorizing the Legislature to devote $1,000,000 for the purpose of making a complete exhibit of the State's products. The idea of holding a world's fair to commemorate the Louisiana purchase originated some ten years ago in the fertile brain of Charles M. Harvey, an editorial writer on "The St. Louis Globe-Democrat." The suggestion was taken up by business men and a conference of the executive officers of the various States and Territories carved out of this vast domain held in St. Louis, at which conference an association was formed, with D. R. Francis, former Governor of Missouri and Secretary of the Interior in the latter part of Mr. Cleveland's second administration, as president, to carry the project to a successful conclusion. As the result of their labors the celebration of the centennial of the Louisiana purchase will be held in St. Louis beginning in the spring of 1903 and continuing for six months or more. Steps will at once be taken to incorporate the association, now that the charter amendments have been adopted and the financial difficulties overcome.

A PAN-AMERICAN CONFERENCE.

In his annual message to Congress in 1899 President McKinley suggested that it seemed expedient that the various American republics constituting the International Union should be invited to hold a conference to continue the work begun at the gathering held in Washington in 1889–'90. He suggested that it should be in the capital of one of the countries that had not already enjoyed the honor. The Mexican Government took up the suggestion, and it has officially invited the countries comprising the union to met in the City of Mexico, beginning October 22, 1901. A tentative programme for the guidance of the second International Congress has been arranged. Arbitration was only touched upon by the last conference, but in the coming one it will be considered at length. It is proposed to establish a permanent tribunal, known as the International Court of Claims, for the settlement upon uniform principles of all claims arising between American republics. Measures for the protection of industries, agriculture and commerce, for the development of means of communication between countries composing the union and consular, port and customs regulations will also be discussed. It is planned, too, to reorganize the Bureau of American Republics, which has done much to stimulate trade on this continent and to cultivate a friendly feeling among its nations.

OHIO CENTENNIAL AND NORTHWEST TERRITORY EXPOSITION.

The "Ohio Centennial and Northwest Territory Exposition," which had been planned to be held in Toledo, Ohio, in 1901, was abandoned by reason of the fact that the Legislature of Ohio at its last session prior to October 1, 1900, failed to make an appropriation to carry out the project on the part of the State.

RECIPROCITY AND OTHER TREATIES.

With Portugal.

On June 13 the President issued a proclamation of a reciprocal commercial agreement entered into by the King of Portugal and the United States, in accordance with the provisions of Section 3 of the Tariff act of July 24, 1897. Under this agreement reduced rates of duty upon articles produced in Portugal or the Azores and Madeira Islands imported into the United States are established as follows: Argols or crude tartar, or wine lees, 5 per cent ad valorem. Still wines in casks, 35 cents a gallon; in bottles, a case of one dozen bottles, containing each not more than one quart and more than one pint, or twenty-four bottles containing more than one pint, $1 25 a case; and any excess beyond these quantities found in such bottles shall be subject to a duty of 4 cents a pint or fractional part thereof, but no separate or additional duty shall be assessed upon the bottles. Upon sparkling wines, in bottles containing not more than one pint, $6 a dozen; containing not more than one pint each and more than one-half pint each or less, $1 50 a dozen; in bottles or other vessels containing more than one quart each, in addition to $6 a dozen bottles, on the quantities in excess of one quart, at the rate of $1 90 a gallon. Upon brandies or other spirits manufactured or distilled from grain or other materials, whether the product of Portugal or of the Portuguese possessions, $1 75 a proof gallon. Upon paintings in oil or water colors, pastel, pen and ink drawings and statuary, 15 per cent ad valorem. In consideration of these concessions upon the following articles, being the products of the soil or industry of the United States, imported into the kingdom of Portugal and the Azores and Madeira Islands, the rates of duty shall be as low as those accorded to any other country (Spain and Brazil excepted from this provision), viz.: Tariff No. 325, flour of cereals, except wheat. Tariff No. 326, maize in the grain. Tariff No. 237, wheat in the grain. Tariff No. 354, lard and grease. Tariff Nos. 97, 98 and 99, mineral oils and their products, not elsewhere specified in the tariff. Tariff No. 373, reaping, mowing and threshing machines, machines for compressing hay and straw, steam ploughs, and separate parts of these machines and ploughshares. Tariff No. 386, instruments, implements, tools for the arts, manufactures, agriculture and gardening, and upon the following articles shall not exceed the rates hereinafter stated, viz.: Upon the foregoing machines and articles described in No. 373, 5 reis a kilogram. Upon the instruments, implements and tools described above in No. 386, for use in agriculture and gardening, 60 reis a kilogram. Upon lighter mineral oils for illuminating purposes (density of 0.780 up to 0.820, point of ignition of 0.437 degrees to 49 degrees), 46 reis a litre. Upon medium mineral oils (density above 0.820 and up to 0.860, point of ignition from 50 degrees up to 150 degrees), 52 reis a kilogram. Upon tar and mineral pitch, 10 reis a ton. Under the terms of this agreement, the King of Portugal reserves the right, after three months' prior notice, to arrest the operation of this agreement in case the United States shall impose a duty on crude cork or coffee being the product of Portugal or of the Portuguese possessions, or shall give less favorable treatment to the following articles being the product of Portugal or Portuguese possessions than that accorded to the like articles being the product of any other country not under the control of the United States, namely: Argols, crude tartar or wine lees, coffee, cacao, wines, brandies, cork, raw or manufactured, sardines and anchovies preserved, and fruits not preserved, but in respect to fruits the United States reserves the right to make special arrangements applicable to any of the West India islands. This agreement is to go into effect today and is to continue in force for the term of five years, and if not then denounced by either party it shall continue in force until one year from the time when one of the parties to the agreement shall have informed the other of its intention to arrest the operation thereof.

With Italy.

On July 19 the following proclamation by the President on the new reciprocity arrangement with Italy was made public: It is agreed on the part of the United States, pursuant to and in accordance with the provisions of the third section of the tariff act of the United States approved July 24, 1897, and in consideration of the concessions hereinafter made on the part of Italy in favor of the products and manufactures of the United States, that the existing duties imposed upon the following articles, being the product of the soil or industry of Italy imported into the United States, shall be suspended during the continuance in force of this agreement, and in place thereof the duties to be assessed and collected thereon shall be as follows, namely: On argols, or crude tartar, or wine lees, crude, 5 per centum ad valorem. On brandies, or other spirits manufactured or distilled from grain or other materials, $1 75 per proof gallon. On still wines and vermouth, in casks, 35 cents per gallon; in bottles or jugs, per case of one dozen bottles or jugs containing each not more than one quart and more than one pint, or twenty-four bottles or jugs containing each not more than one pint, $1 25 per case, and any excess beyond these quantities found in such bottles or jugs shall be subject to a duty of 4 cents per pint or fractional part thereof, but no separate or additional duty shall be assessed upon the bottles or jugs. On paintings in oil or water colors, pastels, pen and ink drawings and statuary, 15 per centum ad valorem. It is reciprocally agreed on the part of Italy, in consideration of the provisions of the foregoing article, that so long as this convention shall remain in force the duties to be assessed and collected on the following described merchandise, being the product of the soil or industry of the United States imported into Italy, shall not exceed the rates hereinafter specified, namely:

	Lire per quintal.
Upon cottonseed oil	21 50
Upon fish, pickled or in oil, excluding the tunny, preserved in boxes or barrels, sardines and anchovies	15 00
Upon other fish, preserved	25 00
Upon agricultural machinery	0 00
Upon detached parts of agricultural machinery:
(1) Of cast iron	10 00
(2) Of other iron or steel	11 00
Upon scientific instruments:
(a) Of copper, bronze, brass or steel:
(1) With spy glasses or microscopes, or graduated scales or circles, spy glasses for use on land, monocles, binocles, lenses, detached and mounted	30 00
(2) Not provided with any optical instrument, nor with graduated scales or circles	30 00
(b) Of all kinds, in the construction of which iron is evidently predominant	30 00
Upon dynamo electrical machines:
(1) The weight of which exceeds 1,000 kilograms	16 00
(2) Weighing 1,000 kilograms or less	25 00
Upon detached parts of dynamo electrical machines	25 00
Upon sewing machines:
(1) With stands	25 00
(2) Without stands	30 00
Upon varnishes, not containing spirits nor mineral oils	20 00

The following articles shall be admitted free of duty: Turpentine oil. Natural fertilizers of all kinds. Skins, crude, fresh or dried, not suitable for fur, and fur skins.

With Germany.

On August 4 the following commercial agreement with Germany was made public in the United States and Germany: First—In conformity with the authority conferred on the President in Section 3 of the Customs Act of the United States approved July 24, 1897, it is agreed on the part of the United States that the following products of the soil and industry of Germany imported into the United States shall, from and after the date when this agreement shall be put in force, be subject to the reduced tariff rates provided by said Section 3, as follows: Upon argols, or crude tartar, or wine lees, crude, 5 per centum ad valorem. Upon brandies, or other spirits manufactured or distilled from grain or other materials, $1 75 per proof gallon. Upon still wines and vermouth, in casks, 35 cents per gallon; in bottles or jugs, per case of one dozen bottles or jugs containing each not more than one quart and more than one pint, or twenty-four bottles or jugs containing each not more than one pint, $1 25 per case, and any excess beyond these quantities found in such bottles or jugs shall be subject to a duty of 4 cents per pint or fractional part thereof, but no separate or additional duty shall be assessed upon the bottles or jugs. Upon paintings in oil or water colors, pastels, pen and ink drawings, and statuary, 15 per centum ad valorem. Second—Reciprocally, the Imperial German Government guarantees to the products of the United States on their entry into Germany the tariff rates which have been conceded by the commercial treaties concluded during the years 1891-'94 between Germany on the one part and Belgium, Italy, Austria-Hungary, Rumania, Russia, Switzerland and Servia on the other part. Moreover, the Imperial German Government will, as soon as this agreement shall be put in force, annul the regulations providing that the dried or evaporated fruits imported from the United States into Germany be inspected on account of the San José scale. These fruits shall during the continuance in force of this agreement be admitted into Germany without other charges than the payment of the customs duties to which they may now or in future be subject by law. Third—From and after the date of the President's proclamation which shall give effect to this agreement the same shall be in force and shall continue in full force until three months from the date when either party shall notify the other of its intention to terminate the same. Done in duplicate in English and German texts at Washington this tenth day of July, one thousand nine hundred.

The agreement appears to be the result of sharp diplomatic manœuvring covering a period of several years on the meaning of the "favored nation" clause. Germany formerly had only one tariff schedule for all nations, but in the years preceding 1892 seven reciprocity treaties were made—with Austria-Hungary, Russia, Italy, Belgium, Rumania and other countries. These gave a preferential tariff to the countries mentioned in return for concessions allowed to Germany. Germany made no reciprocity treaty with the United States, but under the "most favored nation" clause of the general treaty between this country and Germany it was held that the United States was entitled to the same preferential tariff rates allowed by Germany to Russia, Italy and the other countries named. When, therefore, the United States gave reciprocity reductions to France the German authorities asked for similar reductions under the "favored nation" clause, and as evidence of the justice of their request they pointed to the fact that the United States was getting preferential duties from Germany through the operations of this clause. Moreover, it is probable that if the United States had not given to Germany the same reductions that were allowed to France the German preferential tariff—including the United States—with Russia, Italy, Austria, etc., would have been withdrawn. It was therefore settled that the German preferential rates would be confirmed to the United States, and that the United States would give Germany the same tariff reductions already given to France, Italy and Portugal.

The German tariff covers several hundred items, and on a considerable percentage of these the preferential rate is much lower than the regular rate. On wheat the regular rate is 5 marks to the 100 kilograms, and the preferential rate is 3.50 marks on 100 kilograms. On corn the regular rate is 2 marks; preferential rate, 1.60 marks. On meat, ham, bacon, etc., the regular rate is 20 marks; preferential rate, 15 marks.

With Great Britain.

On August 6 the details of a treaty with Great Britain were made public. The principal clauses provide that: Where, on the death of any person holding real property (or property not personal) within the territories of one of the contracting parties, such real property would, by the laws of the land, pass to a citizen or subject of the other, were he not disqualified by the laws of the country where such real property is situated, such citizen or subject shall be allowed a term of three years in which to sell the same, this term to be reasonably prolonged if circumstances render it necessary, and to withdraw the proceeds thereof, without restraint or interference, and exempt from any succesor, probate or administrative duties or charges other than those which may be imposed in like cases upon the citizens or subjects of the country from which such proceeds may be drawn. The citizens or subjects of each of the contracting parties shall have full power to dispose of their personal property within the territories of the other, by testament, donation, or otherwise; and their heirs, being citizens or subjects of the other contracting party, may take possession thereof and dispose of the same at their pleasure, paying such duties only as the citizens or subjects of the country where the property lies shall be liable to pay in like cases. In all that concerns the right of disposing of every kind of property, real or personal, citizens or subjects of each of the high contracting parties shall in the dominions of the other enjoy the rights which are or may be accorded to the citizens or subjects of the most favored nation.

With Argentine.

On June 5 the details of an extradition treaty with the Argentine Republic were made public, the terms of which were in general similar to those of extradition treaties with other countries.

With Chili.

On March 12 was proclaimed a convention between the United States and Chili, the provisions of which revive the convention of August 7, 1892, to adjust amicably the claims of citizens of either country agreeing to the convention against the other.

With Mexico.

On May 7 the President proclaimed a convention with Mexico extending for a period of one year from December 24, 1899, the provisions of the convention of March 1, 1889, to facilitate the execution of the treaty of November 12, 1884, and to avoid difficulties arising from changes in the beds of the Bravo Del Norte and Colorado rivers.

With Spain.

On April 28 the President proclaimed a protocol of agreement extending, as to the Philippine Islands, for six months from April 11, 1900, the period fixed in Article IX of the treaty of peace between the United States and Spain, signed at Paris December 10, 1898, during which Spanish subjects, natives of the peninsula, may declare their intention to retain their Spanish nationality.

Other Treaties.

Other reciprocity treaties were pending, but not proclaimed. There was also a parcels post convention with Nicaragua, concluded March 27, 1900, in the regular form, its provisions being identical with those in force with other countries.

TREATY OF PEACE WITH SPAIN.

The first movement toward a cessation of the war between the United States and Spain, which began on April 21, 1898, was a proposition on behalf of Spain, submitted by M. Cambon, the French Ambassador at Washington, on July 26. On July 30 a counter proposition was submitted, and on August 9 the Spanish reply was received by the President. On August 12 a protocol was signed by William R. Day, Secretary of State, and Jules Cambon, representing Spain, which was signed by the Queen Regent of Spain on September 11. In accordance with the terms of the protocol President McKinley appointed to negotiate a Treaty of Peace a commission composed of William R. Day, of Ohio, chairman; Cushman K. Davis, of Minnesota; William P. Frye, of Maine; Whitelaw Reid, of New-York, and Edward D. White, of Louisiana. Mr. White, a Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, declined to serve, and the President appointed George Gray, of Delaware, in his place. The members of the Spanish Commission, as announced on September 18, were Don Eugenio Montero Rios, President of the Senate; Don Buenaventura Abarzuza, Don Jose de Garnica y Diaz, Don Wenceslao Ramirez de Villa Urrutia and Don Rafael Cerero y Saenz. These commissioners met at Paris, holding their first joint convention on October 1. Argument over the various clauses in the treaty of peace continued until November 21, when the American Commissioners presented a final proposition, which was practically an ultimatum. After a brief hesitation the Spanish Commissioners yielded, and on December 10 the Treaty of Peace was signed. The American Commissioners soon returned to the United States, and on December 24 placed the treaty in the hands of the President, who transmitted it to the Senate for ratification. That body received it on January 4, 1899, after the holiday recess, but did not ratify it until February 6. It was signed by the President on February 10, and by the Queen Regent on March 17. The exchange of ratifications was effected at the White House in Washington on April 11, 1899, M. Cambon, the French Ambassador, acting on behalf of Spain. The President's announcement was made public the same day. The payment of $20,000,000 to the Spanish Government, provided for in the Treaty of Peace, was made on May 1, 1899, the first anniversary of the battle of Manila Bay.

THE NICARAGUA CANAL.

The extension of the jurisdiction of the United States in the West Indies and in the Pacific Ocean in the last two years, with greatly increased political responsibilities and enormous commercial development, having brought the necessity of a ship canal across the American isthmus more forcibly than ever before the United States and the repeated failures of private corporations with concessions to accomplish anything substantial in the line of opening such a waterway, it has practically become the fixed determination of this Government to build a canal as a National work. This being prohibited under the terms of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, it became essential to abrogate that convention, as a preliminary to actual construction, and on February 5, 1900, Secretary Hay, by the President's direction, negotiated the following agreement with Lord Pauncefote: The United States of America and Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, Empress of India, being desirous to facilitate the construction of a ship canal to connect the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, and to that end remove any objection which may arise out of the convention of April 19, 1850, commonly called the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, to the construction of such canal under the auspices of the Government of the United States, without impairing the "general principle" of neutralization established in Article VIII of that convention, have for that purpose appointed as their plenipotentiaries: The President of the United States, John Hay, Secretary of State of the United States, and Her Majesty the Queen of Great Britain and Ireland, Empress of India, the Right Hon. Lord Pauncefote, G. C. B., G. C. M. G., Her Majesty's Ambassador Extradordinary and Plenipotentiary to the United States; who, having communicated to each other their full powers, which were found to be in due and proper form, have agreed upon the following articles:

"Article I. It is agreed that the canal may be constructed under the auspices of the Government of the United States, either directly at its own cost, or by gift or loan of money to individuals or corporations, or through subscription to or purchase of stock or shares; and that, subject to the provisions of the present convention, the said Government shall have and enjoy all the rights incident to such construction, as well as of the exclusive right of providing for the regulation and management of the canal.

"Article II. The high contracting parties desiring to preserve and maintain the 'general principle' of neutralization established in Article VIII of the Clayton-Bulwer convention adopt, as the basis of such neutralization, the following rules, substantially as embodied in the convention between Great Britain and certain other Powers, signed at Constantinople October 29, 1888, for the free navigation of the Suez Canal; that is to say: 1. The canal shall be free and open, in time of war as in time of peace, to vessels of commerce and of war, of all nations, on terms of entire equality, so that there shall be no discrimination against any nation or its citizens or subjects in respect of the conditions or charges of traffic or otherwise. 2. The canal shall never be blockaded, nor shall any right of war be exercised nor any act of hostility be committed within it. 3. Vessels of war of a belligerent shall not revictual nor take any stores in the canal except so far as may be strictly necessary, and the transit of such vessels through the canal shall be effected with the least possible delay, in accordance with the regulations in force, and with only such intermission as may result from the necessities of the service. Prizes shall be in all respects subject to the same rules as vessels of war of the belligerents. 4. No belligerent shall embark or disembark troops, munitions of war, nor warlike materials in the canal, except in case of accidental hindrance of the transit, and in such case the transit shall be resumed with all possible dispatch. 5. The provisions of this article will apply to waters adjacent to the canal, within three marine miles of either end. Vessels of war of a belligerent shall not remain in such waters longer than twenty-four hours at any one time except in case of distress, and in such case shall depart as soon as possible, but a vessel of war of one belligerent shall not depart within twenty-four hours from the departure of a vessel of war of the other belligerent. 6. The plant, establishments, buildings and all works necessary to the construction, maintenance and operation of the canal shall be deemed to be part thereof, for the purposes of this convention, and in time of war, as in time of peace, shall enjoy complete immunity from attack or injury by belligerents and from acts calculated to impair their usefulness as part of the canal. 7. No fortifications shall be erected commanding the canal or the waters adjacent. The United States, however, shall be at liberty to maintain such military police along the canal as may be necessary to protect it against lawlessness and disorder.

"Article III. The high contracting parties will, immediately upon the exchange of the ratifications of this convention, bring it to the notice of the other Powers and invite them to adhere to it.

"Article IV. The present convention shall be ratified by the President of the United States, by and with the consent of the Senate thereof, and by Her Britannic Majesty; and the ratifications shall be exchanged at Washington or at London within six months from the date hereof, or earlier if possible."

The President submitted this treaty on the day of its conclusion to the Senate for approval, and on March 9 it was favorably reported from the Committee on Foreign Relations with the following amendment inserted at the end of Section 5 of Article II: "It is agreed, however, that none of the immediately foregoing conditions and stipulations in Sections 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 of this act shall apply to measures which the United States may find it necessary to take for securing by its own forces the defence of the United States and the maintenance of public order."

Reviewing the entire history of negotiation and legislation on the subject of an interoceanic canal, the following propositions are stated as beyond controversy: "1. The Clayton-Bulwer treaty was adopted in the application of the Monroe Doctrine to Central America, and in order to remove an imminent peril to the interests of the United States. 2. That treaty was extant and operative on February 5, 1900, when the Hay-Pauncefote treaty was signed, and up to that moment the Government of the United States was solemnly bound not to own or control a waterway between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. 3. The policy of neutralization of such a waterway, by whomsoever constructed, has been from the beginning the policy of the United States. 4. In continuance of this policy the Hay-Pauncefote treaty absolves the United States from its obligations not to construct, own or control such an interoceanic waterway, and obtains for it the free consent of Great Britain to such construction and control, while Great Britain remains bound to observe all the provisions of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty and renounces her right to construct and control such a waterway. 5. The treaty relations of the Republic of Nicaragua with other Powers limit her rights of concessions in such a manner that the Hay-Pauncefote treaty secures all the rights and privileges to the United States which the Republic of Nicaragua is legally able to grant, until these treaty relations are terminated."

Secretary Hay, for the Government of the United States, and Señor Corea, the Nicaraguan Minister, for his own Government, on December 1, 1900, signed a treaty by which Nicaragua cedes to the United States the necessary rights and privileges within her bestowal for the construction of the Nicaragua Canal.

An understanding has also been reached with the Republic of Colombia covering the same rights and privileges for the Panama route as are conveyed by Nicaragua and Costa Rica in the case of the Nicaragua route.

Within the last two years all concessions for an interoceanic canal by the Lake Nicaragua route have lapsed by limitation, and the republics of Costa Rica and Nicaragua are now free to grant a concession to the United States Government without limitations.

The report of the Isthmian Canal Commission, submitted by the President to Congress December 4, 1900, gave as the unanimous conclusion of that body that "the most practicable and feasible route for an isthmian canal, under the control, management and ownership of the United States, is that known as the Nicaragua route." The Commission estimated the cost of that route at $200,540,000, this amount being based on the following figures:

Eastern division (from Greytown to Boca San Carlos dam)	$82,662,000
Middle division (from Boca San Carlos dam to Las Lajas)	25,425,000
Western division (from Las Lajas to Brito)	51,680,000
Ninety-eight miles of railroad	7,350,000
Total	$167,117,000
Engineering, police, sanitation and general contingencies	33,423,000
Aggregate	$200,540,000

This estimate is for a canal suitable for navigation by the largest ships in existence. It provides for a double system of locks, so that navigation can be maintained if one system be closed for repairs or renewals. If a single lockage system is provided the cost will be reduced $19,678,000. Narrowing the bottom one-third will permit a further reduction of $16,949,000. That would bring the estimated cost down to $163,913,000.

Concerning the Panama route, the Commission said its natural attraction lies in the combination of a very narrow isthmus with a low summit. The width of the isthmus is less than thirty-five miles, while the summit is barely 300 feet above mean tide. The Commission gives the following estimated cost of completing the Panama route:

Colon entrance and harbor	$7,334,673
Harbor to Bohio locks, including levee	10,718,288
Bohio locks, including excavation	10,982,345
Lake Bohio	2,786,449
Obispo gates	295,436
Culebra section	44,378,335
Pedro Miguel locks, including excavation and dam	8,496,326
Pedro Miguel level	1,169,611
Miraflores locks, including excavation and spillway	5,720,363
Pacific level	12,366,914
Bohio dam	8,500,000
Gigante Spillway	1,124,524
Channel between the marshes	1,448.076
Chagres diversion	1,929,976
Gatuncillo diversion	100,000
Panama railroad diversion	1,267,500
Total	$118,618,816
Engineering, police, sanitation and general contingencies	23,723,763
Aggregate	$142,342,579

This estimate is capable of reduction to $115,941,215 if single locks and a narrow bottom are adopted. An alternative estimate is submitted, based on having the Alhajuela dam built to impound the waters of the upper Chagres. That estimate is $156,378,258. The value of the French work done was estimated at $33,934,463.

KENTUCKY'S POLITICAL TROUBLES.

The Goebel law, under the title of "An Act to Further Regulate Elections," was offered in the Kentucky Senate by Senator William Goebel February 1, 1898. It was referred to the Committee on Judiciary, of which Mr. Goebel was chairman, and was adopted by a vote of 20 to 15, three Democrats and two Populists voting against it. The House passed it by a vote of 57 to 42 on March 10. It was vetoed by Governor Bradley, but passed both houses over the veto on March 11, immediately becoming a law.

Mr. Goebel was nominated for Governor by the Democratic State Convention held in Louisville beginning June 21, 1899, over ex-Attorney-General Parker Watkins Hardin and ex-Representative William J. Stone. Mr. Goebel was behind both in instructed votes, but by combining with Stone he controlled the convention, and after six days of bitter fighting received the nomination. Mr. Goebel justified his law as a necessary party measure. In the campaign which followed he was defeated by the Republican nominee, William Sylvester Taylor, who received a plurality of 2,383 votes. This was certified to by Chairman Pryor and W. T. Ellis, the majority of the State Board of Election Commissioners chosen under the law, they taking the ground that they could only count the votes as returned by the county boards. C. B. Poyntz, the other member, held that the board had judicial powers to review the returns, but was overruled. The vote each candidate received was: Taylor, 193,714 votes; Goebel, 191,333; John Young Brown, Independent Democrat, 12,140. Immediately after issuing the certificates of election Judge Pryor and Mr. Ellis resigned, and the remaining member, Mr. Poyntz, appointed John A. Fulton and Morton K. Youts to be their successors. Governor Bradley claimed the right of appointment, but the courts sustained Mr. Poyntz's appointees as specified in the Goebel law.

Mr. Taylor was inaugurated December 12 and on December 14 Senator Goebel announced that he and the candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, John Crepps Wickliffe Beckham, would contest the election before the Legislature, this body being the tribunal assigned for such contests by the constitution. The minor Democratic candidates filed their contests before the State Board of Election Commission, which, under the law, became a contest board. The Legislature selected by lot the committees to hear the contests before them. Of the eleven members of the Goebel-Taylor committee ten were Democrats and one Republican. Of the Beckham-Marshall committee nine were Democrats and two Republicans. Republicans made charges of fraud in connection with the selection of these committees. The contest was hurried through by the Democrats, a rule being adopted making the Speaker of the House chairman of the joint session and giving to the session the right to call up the report of the contest committee at any time. This was the notorious rule No. 11, and was bitterly opposed by the Republicans, as was also another rule making the Speaker of the House chairman of the joint session instead of the Lieutenant-Governor. The trial of the contestants began January 15. Excitement was increased on January 25 by the appearance of 1,000 armed mountaineers in Frankfort, who held a meeting at noon and adopted resolutions appealing to the Legislature for justice to the Republican candidates. These mountaineers were brought to Frankfort through the agency of Secretary of State Caleb Powers and his predecessor, ex-Secretary Finley. Some were disorderly and were arrested. Most of them left for home that evening. The Legislature had unseated several Republican members of the House and Senate, strengthening the Democratic majority.

The Assassination of Goebel.

Goebel was shot in front of the State House on the morning of January 30. Several shots were fired, but no one could tell from what direction. Goebel's wounds proved fatal, though not till after he had been declared Governor. Governor Taylor, who had several companies of militia in readiness, ordered them out under command of Adjutant-General Collier, surrounding the Executive building and State House. He also ordered troops from Louisville, Lexington and other places.

The contest committees decided to finish the contests at once, and, being refused admission to the State House by the soldiers, adjourned to the City Hall. The Republican counsel refused to appear, and the committees, with the exception of the three Republican members, reported that Senator Goebel and Mr. Beckham had received the highest number of legal votes. An attempt was made to hold a joint session of the Legislature that night, but this failed. That night Governor Taylor issued a proclamation adjourning the Legislature for one week, to reassemble at London on February 6. The Democratic majority ignored this proclamation, and, claiming that they had held a joint session on the evening of January 31, proclaimed Goebel and Beckham elected. A proclamation from Governor Goebel was immediately issued. Later another legislative joint session was held and the formality of declaring the Democratic contestants elected was again gone through.

Senator Goebel died on the evening of February 3 at 6:40 o'clock, and Mr. Beckham was sworn in as Governor. On February 10 Governor Taylor issued a proclamation reconvening the Legislature in Frankfort February 12. A truce was arranged and two petitions were filed by the Republicans in the Federal court at Cincinnati directed at the State Election Board. These were subsequently dismissed for want of jurisdiction. An appeal was taken to the Federal Supreme Court and again dismissed for the same reason. Governor Taylor then filed suit in the Jefferson Circuit Court for an injunction to restrain Beckham and Adjutant-General Castleman from exercising the duties of Governor and Adjutant-General respectively. This suit was followed by a counter suit by Governor Beckham at Georgetown. Finally an agreed suit was made up and heard by Judge Emmett Field of the Common Pleas Division of the Louisville Circuit Court. Judge Field on March 10 decided that the action of the Legislature was not subject to review by the courts. The Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court subsequently rendered similar decisions through Justice Brewer, and Justice Brown of the Supreme Court vigorously dissented. The Supreme Court's decision was announced May 21, 1900. Sessions of the Legislature had been resumed, but were productive of nothing, and the Legislature adjourned sine die at the end of the session. The Democratic members reaffirmed the action of the joint session, declaring Senator Goebel the Governor. Attempts were made to repeal the Goebel law, and Senator-elect Blackburn expressed himself as in favor of its repeal, saying it had cost the party 20,000 votes. A bill was passed appointing a commission for the purpose of apprehending and bringing to justice the assassin or assassins of Senator Goebel and appropriating $100,000 for that purpose. On February 26 the State Election Board returned a decision unseating the minor Republican officials. Upon the announcement the Republicans gave up the offices and the Democrats took possession.

Powers, Howard and Youtsey Convicted.

On March 9 last Thomas B. Cromwell, a newspaper correspondent of Lexington, swore out warrants against Secretary of State Caleb Powers, his brother John Lay Powers, ex-Secretary of State Charles F. Finley, Policeman John Davis, of the Frankfort Capital Square, and W. H. Culton, a clerk in the Auditor's office. The warrants charged these men with being accessories to the murder of Senator Goebel. Davis and Powers were arrested at Lexington while endeavoring to escape with a squad of soldiers. They had pardons from Governor Taylor, but no attention was paid to them and they were brought to jail in Louisville. Powers had his examining trial before Judge Moore at Frankfort, beginning March 23. He was held to answer before the Grand Jury at Frankfort. Subsequently indictments were returned against the following persons charged with the wilful murder of Governor Goebel: Henry E. Youtsey, Holland Whittaker, Berry Howard, James Howard and "Tallow Dick" Combs, a mulatto barber. The following were indicted as accessories before the fact: Charles Finley, Caleb Powers, John L. Powers and F. Wharton Golden. Indictments charging complicity as conspirators were returned against Governor W. S. Taylor, John Davis and Green Golden. Caleb Powers was tried at Georgetown in August, convicted August 18, and sentenced to life imprisonment; James Howard was tried in Frankfort, and on September 26 was found guilty of firing the fatal shot and sentenced to be hanged, and Henry E. Youtsey was found guilty of being an accessory and given a life sentence on October 20. The other cases have not yet been tried. Appeals have been taken in all the cases.

The Goebel Law Amended.

At the June convention of the Democratic party at Lexington it was decided that the Goebel law should be repealed and a non-partisan measure substituted. In accordance with this Governor Beckham called an extra session of the Legislature, convening August 28, for the purpose of considering the election law. Some amendments were made to the old law, to take immediate effect, and a new law, House bill No. 18, was adopted by both houses on October 20 and signed by Governor Beckham October 26. The important changes from the old law are that of the three State Election Commissioners one is to be taken from each of the dominant parties upon the recommendation of the State Central Committee and the Clerk of the Court of Appeals, an elective officer, is to act as umpire. The Commissioners are to be appointed by the Governor. They are to appoint the county boards, one from each party, with the Sheriff as umpire. All the boards are to have only ministerial powers, and the law gives the right of appeal in all cases of contests to the courts except in the case of Governor and Lieutenant-Governor, which must be tried by the Legislature, as the constitution prescribes. The Goebel law made the boards supreme, there being no right of appeal to the courts, and the members of the State Board were elected by the Legislature and were all of one party. The new law also provides for an equitable division of election officers.

NORTH CAROLINA "RED SHIRT" TROUBLES.

On July 31 Congressman J. D. Bellamy, of North Carolina, made a violent verbal attack on Senator Marion Butler, the leader of the Populist campaign, advising that he be expelled from the State. The "Red Shirts," through terrorist measures, controlled the campaign in the State, issuing orders about negroes registering and attending political meetings, and commanding them to stay away from the polls on Election Day. Republicans and Populists were attacked and assaulted, and it was openly boasted that the presence of the "Red Shirts" prevented at least twenty-five thousand negroes from registering. The "Red Shirt" tactics were successful, a heavy Democratic majority being polled on August 2, the day of the State election, for the State ticket and the constitutional amendment which practically disfranchises the negroes. Several riots occurred on election day and a number of Republicans and Populists were shot and wounded or otherwise injured. The great effort made by Senators Pritchard and Butler to stampede the illiterate white from the Democrats because of the proposed constitutional amendment failed utterly, the prejudice of this class against the negro being too strong to be overcome. Among the measures to shut out Republican votes adopted by the Democrats at places where they were in a majority were demands that the polls be closed while Populists and Republicans were in line, challenging voters, and placing ballots in wrong boxes and refusing to count them.

RAILROAD TRAINS' SPEED.

BALTIMORE AND OHIO.—The fastest speed by a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad train was made on November 28, 1897, from Annapolis Junction to Alexandria Junction, a distance of 15.1 miles in 11 minutes, an average of 82.20 miles an hour. The next fastest run was one of 42.2 miles by the "Hobart special" on March 2, 1897, when she ran from Mount Royal to Washington at an average of 66.6 miles per hour. The same train ran from Philadelphia to Mount Royal, a distance of 94.5 miles, in 1 hour 39 minutes, an average of 59.06 miles per hour. The fastest time made on the Hobart trip was between Muirkirk and Beltsville, Md., a distance of 2.2 miles, which was run in one minute. In 1900 the 40 miles between Baltimore and Washington were covered on three occasions in 38, 37.3 and 40 minutes respectively, giving averages of 63.12, 64.34 and 63 miles an hour, the last figures including two minutes for stops. The fastest run was made on May 22.

CANADIAN PACIFIC.—One of the fast long distance runs was that made by a train carrying the Chinese and Japanese mails, which left Vancouver on August 29, 1891, and reached Brockville, Ontario (where mails were transferred to the New-York Central Railroad for carriage to New-York), a distance of 2,802 miles, in 76 hours and 55 minutes, including all stops. This is an average of 36.43 miles an hour, not deducting the time lost at stations. The Canadian Pacific runs two trains every week day each way between Montreal and Ottawa, a distance of 112 miles, in 2 hours and 20 minutes, including stops.

CHICAGO, BURLINGTON AND QUINCY.—The "world's record" long distance run is claimed to have been made by this road on February 15, 1897, in the run from Chicago to Denver (1,025 miles), covered in 17 hours and 27 minutes, an average speed of 58.74 miles an hour. Other fast runs on this road have been as follows: April 5, 1899, Bristol to Meriden, 32½ miles, 26 minutes, an average of 75 miles an hour; June 28, 1899, Mendota to Riverside, 72 miles, 62 minutes, 69.67 miles an hour; April 14, 1899, Burlington to Clyde, 197.3 miles, 183 minutes, 64.69 miles an hour; June 28, 1899, Mendota to Chicago, 83 miles, 80 minutes, 62.33 miles an hour; April 29, 1900, Mendota to Clyde, 74.3 miles, 62½ minutes, 71.33 miles an hour; same day, Mendota to Chicago, 82.8 miles, 73 minutes, 68.05 miles an hour.

CHICAGO AND NORTHWESTERN.—The transcontinental trip of the special train for the Jarrett & Palmer theatrical company, in June, 1876, was remarkable at the time of its occurrence. The train left Chicago at 10:45 p. m. June 1, and made the 491 miles to the transfer, near Council Bluffs, in a little less than 12 hours, an average of 40.9 miles an hour. On April 22, 1891, a special passenger train, carrying Jay Gould and a party, made the trip from Council Bluffs to Chicago in 9 hours actual running time, an average of 53.92 miles an hour. On September 16, 1898, a special train of one baggage car, two business cars and a sleeper, with General Superintendent Sanborn and a party, made the run from Chicago to Council Bluffs in 8 hours and 25 minutes actual running time, making an average speed of 58.1 miles an hour.

DELAWARE, LACKAWANNA AND WESTERN.—The Tribune's special newspaper train, consisting of three baggage cars and a locomotive, made a run from New-York to Buffalo on September 17, 1899, beating all records to that date between the two points. The distance of 410 miles was covered in the actual running time of 7 hours and 23 minutes, a speed of 55.55 miles an hour. On some of the level stretches west of Binghamton the train made a speed of over 80 miles an hour.

FREMONT, ELKHORN AND MISSOURI VALLEY.—Having no through connections, there is not the occasion for making speed that there is on some lines. On October 12, 1897, without making any preparations for a fast run, a train, with the road officials on board, made the distance (445 miles) from Omaha to Chadron, Neb., in a little less than ten hours.

LEHIGH VALLEY.—The "Black Diamond Express" of the Lehigh Valley Railroad has made several very fast runs. On March 25, 1897, it ran from Three Bridges to Bound Brook, 16 miles, in 11 minutes, or an average of 87.29 miles an hour. The schedule of this train from New-York to Buffalo (including ferry and thirteen stops) is 9 hours and 55 minutes, a distance of 447.53 miles, an average speed of 46⅛ miles an hour. On October 8, 1898, the train made the run from Buffalo to Rochester Junction, 69 miles, in 67 minutes, and the first 105 miles in 102 minutes, including a five-minute stop at Rochester Junction. The run to Ithaca, 148 miles, was made in 2 hours and 46 minutes, including one stop of five minutes and another of seven minutes. On June 24, 1899, train No. 9, with six cars, made the distance from Sayre to Buffalo in 170 minutes actual running time, an average of 60.21 miles an hour. On November 3, 1899, the same train ran 43.9 miles in 33 minutes, a speed of 80 miles an hour, and on July 21, 1900, established a record between Alpine and Kendaia, 34 miles, of 23 minutes, being at the rate of 89 miles an hour.

NEW-YORK CENTRAL AND HUDSON RIVER.—It is believed that the fastest mile ever made by a locomotive was made by Engine No. 999 of the New-York Central and Hudson River Railroad, in the early part of May, 1893, on its regular run, hauling the "Empire State Express." The train having been delayed east of Rochester, in making up time it ran for some distance on the tracks between Batavia and Buffalo at the rate of a mile in 32 seconds, equal to a speed of 112½ miles an hour. The Empire State Express has a remarkable record as a long distance train. It is in service every day, except Sundays, between New-York and Buffalo, and makes the distance of 440 miles in 495 minutes, including four stops and twenty-eight slowdowns, an average speed of 53.33 miles an hour. The fastest run on the New-York Central was made with an experimental train on September 11, 1895, making the run from New-York to Buffalo (436½ miles) in 407⅞ minutes, with a train 337 feet long and weighing 565,000 pounds, being 40,000 pounds heavier than the Empire State Express. The train was about twice as long and twice as heavy as the English racing trains.

The average speed for the entire distance, including twenty-eight slowdowns, but excluding two stops of two minutes each for change of engines, was 64.26 miles an hour. Had this speed been continued west of Buffalo the train would have reached Chicago in 15¼ hours from New-York. As it was, the private car of the directors was attached to the eastbound Empire State Express at Buffalo and returned to New-York in 9 hours and 9 minutes. The round trip was made, in time equal to a straight run from New-York to Chicago, in 17 hours, one-half of it being made on a regular train. A special train was run between Albany and Syracuse on September 25, 1895, the run of 148 miles being made in 120 minutes, an average speed of 68.3 miles an hour.

PENNSYLVANIA.—The trains between Philadelphia and New-York, exclusive of the thirteen minutes required for transfer and ferriage from Jersey City, average the run of 89.4 miles in 107 minutes, with two stops. Between Camden and Atlantic City, a distance of 58.3 miles, there is a train in regular service making the run in 54 minutes and two in 55 minutes, and also one between Atlantic City and Camden in 53 minutes, and one in 58 minutes. The regular schedule time of the Atlantic City Flyer in 1900 was 61.6 miles an hour from Camden to Winslow Junction, and 78.6 miles an hour from the latter point to Absecon. The "Business Man's Express," leaving Philadelphia at 7:33 in the morning, is scheduled at 49.66 miles an hour, while its mate, the 4 p. m. from New-York, annihilates time at the rate of 50.13 miles an hour. All things considered, these two trains are claimed to be the fastest regular trains in the country, and on sections of the road, notably between New-Brunswick and Trenton, their scheduled speed is considerably over a mile a minute. Taking thirty-five express trains running between New-York, Philadelphia and Washington, the lowest rate of speed an hour is 41 miles and a fraction, while all of the others range from 44 to 55 miles.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC.—The banner run between San Francisco and Sacramento was made on June 21, 1894, the record being 1 hour and 35 minutes, allowing ten minutes for the ferry. A remarkable run was made between Bakersfield and San Francisco on December 2, 1889, the locomotive being one designed by Master Mechanic Stevens and built in the company's shops at Sacramento. The actual running time for the 220 miles was 222 minutes. On July 15, 1897, a special train, with Mr. George Crocker and party, made the run from Ogden to Oakland Pier, a distance of 828 miles, in 20 hours and 21 minutes, making a speed of 40.5 miles an hour. To the casual reader this speed does not appear to be very fast time, but when the mountainous and rugged country over which the train passes and the heavy grades it is required to climb are taken into consideration it may be concluded that it compares favorably with phenomenal runs made by other lines.

GAME LAWS.

The game laws of the different States are varied and complicated, inasmuch as there are numerous county laws and laws for resident and non-resident hunters. The violation of law based on the killing of game may be grouped under three heads; (1) manner of capture; (2) time of capture, and (3) object of capture. Under the first head may be included prohibitions against pursuing deer with hounds, netting quail, killing birds before sunrise or after sunset, killing wild fowl with swivel guns or pursuing them with steam or naphtha launches, and similar regulations which are common and similar in their restrictions in all States.

In addition to the brief summary of the game laws herewith given, no game can be shot on Sundays, even in the open season, in New-York, New-Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Maine, Massachusetts, Alabama, Delaware, the District of Columbia, Indian Territory, North Carolina, and in Allegany County, Md. Mondays also constitute a close season for ducks in Ohio; Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays for rail, reedbirds and redwinged blackbirds in the District of Columbia, and for wild fowl in Carteret County, N. C., and Wednesdays and Saturdays for wild fowl in Currituck County, N. C., and in Anne Arundel, Cecil, Dorchester and Harford counties, Md.

Doves are protected in a number of States, and birds other than game practically throughout the United States, at all seasons. Meadow lark, robins and orioles come under the latter head in some States, notably New-Jersey.

Non-residents are not permitted to hunt in Missouri, and they are required to take out licenses in Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Illinois, Iowa, Maryland (except in a few counties), Michigan, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Carolina, South Dakota, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Wyoming, and some counties in Tennessee. Licenses vary from $2 to $40, the usual rates being $10 or $25.

Twenty-eight States prohibit trade in certain game. Killing for sale is prohibited in Alabama, Indiana, Iowa, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Wyoming, and in some counties of Maryland. In Kansas, Colorado, Idaho and Montana the sale of all game protected by the State law is prohibited. In Arizona, big game and wild turkeys; in New-Mexico, all game killed in the State, and in Washington, all big game and all upland game. Hides of deer and other big game cannot lawfully be sold in Arizona, California, Florida, Idaho, New-Mexico, Oregon, Texas, Washington or Wyoming. State laws of Illinois, Pennsylvania and New-Mexico prohibit sale of certain game killed within the State at all times, but the sale of the same kind of game imported from other States is permitted at certain seasons.

Section 3 of the Federal law known as the Lacy act, passed by Congress May 25, 1900, reads: "That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to deliver to any common carrier, or for any common carrier to transport from one State or Territory to another State or Territory, or from the District of Columbia or Alaska, to any State or Territory, or from any State or Territory to the District of Columbia or Alaska, any foreign animals or birds, the importation of which is prohibited, or the dead bodies or parts thereof of any wild animals or birds, where such animals or birds have been killed in violation of the laws of the State, Territory or district in which same were killed. Provided, that nothing herein shall prevent the transportation of any dead birds or animals killed during the season when the same may be lawfully captured, and the export of which is not prohibited by law in the State, Territory or district in which the same are killed." In few words the Lacy act may be said to uphold the game laws of all States, Territories or districts of the United States.

The prohibition against export in some States includes animals and birds intended for propagation. As an example, the law of Montana declares that any person who shall wilfully catch, trap or otherwise restrain for the purpose of sale or domestication, or any other purpose, any buffalo, elk, moose or mountain sheep shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Delaware, North Carolina and Tennessee prohibit the export of quail, dead or alive, out of the State. A few States authorize their Boards of Game Commissioners or Wardens to issue permits for the shipment of a limited number of game birds and animals intended for breeding purposes.

INTERNATIONAL MATCHES.

The Davis International Challenge Cup was first offered for competition in 1900 by Dwight F. Davis, of Harvard, and St. Louis, Mo., and it was officially recognized by the United States National Lawn Tennis Association and the English Lawn Tennis Association as representing the international championship of the world. An English challenge was issued for its possession, and a team of three British players was sent to America to meet a similar team of Americans. These international matches took place at Longwood, Mass., August 8, 9 and 10, resulting as follows:

Singles—M. D. Whitman (America), beat A. W. Gore (Great Britain), 6—1, 6—3, 6—2; D. F. Davis (America), beat E. D. Black (Great Britain), 4—6, 6—2, 6—4, 6—4; D. F. Davis vs. A. W. Gore (Great Britain), 9—7, 9—9 (unfinished). The Whitman-Black game was not played on account of the rain that interrupted the Davis-Gore match. The Americans had already won the cup, and the last two matches were unnecessary.

Doubles—D. F. Davis and Holcombe Ward (America), beat E. D. Black and H. R. Barrett (Great Britain), 6—4, 6—4, 6—4.

Result—America won by 3 matches to 0 and 10 sets to 1.

Two of the three English players, Gore and Black, remained in America long enough to play in the American championship tournament at Newport, R. I., beginning August 14. Black beat Sumner Hardy, California, in the first round at Newport (score, 6—2, 3—6, 6—3, 3—6, 6—2), and C. R. Budlong, Providence, R. I. (score, 8—6, 2—6, 6—4, 9—11, 6—2), in the second. He was then beaten by his English clubmate, Gore (score, 6—0, 7—5, 6—0. Gore beat Henry Clews, jr., New-York, in the first round (score, 6—0, 6—0, 6—0), Holcombe Ward, Harvard (score, 6—1, 2—6, 3—6, 7—5, 6—3), in the second, next Black (as above), and was then beaten by G. L. Wrenn, jr., Boston (score, 9—7, 1—6, 0—6, 6—2, 6—2), in the semi-final round.

GOLF.

Amateur championship—Garden City, L. I. As in previous years, medal and match play were combined; that is, the qualifying round was at 36 hole medal play, and the best thirty-two players became eligible for the succeeding rounds at 36 hole match play. The tournament began on July 2 and continued through July 7. In the qualifying round Walter J. Travis made the best score, 168. The final round was between Walter J. Travis, Garden City, and Findlay S. Douglas, Fairfield County Golf Club. Travis won by 2 up, and will hold the championship title and cup until the summer of 1901.

National open championship—Chicago Golf Club, Wheaton, Ill., October 4 and 5; 72 holes, medal play, 36 holes each day. The presence of Harry Vardon, ex-champion of England, and J. H. Taylor, champion of England, did much to add interest to the play. On the first day Vardon led, with a total of 157. Taylor was second, with 158, and David Bell, Midlothian, third, at 161. Championship was won by Vardon, with a total of 313.

Women's national championship—Shinnecock Hills Golf Club, Southampton, L. I., August 29 to September 1. The qualifying round was at 18 holes, medal play, and each successive round at 18 holes, match play. For the fifth successive year Miss Beatrix Hoyt, Shinnecock Hills Golf Club, made the best score in the qualifying round, 94. Championship won by Miss Frances Griscom, Merion Cricket Club, Philadelphia.

Women's Metropolitan (New-York) District championship—Morris County Golf Club, Morristown, N. J., June 11 to 15, inclusive. Qualifying round at 18 holes, medal play, in which the best sixteen became eligible for the subsequent rounds at match play, also at 18 holes. In the opening round the best score was made by Miss Maude K. Wetmore, Morris County Golf Club, who did 102. Final round between Miss Genevieve Hecker and Miss Ruth Underhill. Miss Hecker won by 9 up and 7 to play, and will hold the championship title until the spring of 1901.

Metropolitan (New-York) District championship—Nassau Country Club, Glen Cove, L. I., May 24 to 26, inclusive. The tournament began with a qualifying round at 36 holes, medal play, in which fifty-five players took part. The first thirty-two qualified, the best score being made by Findlay S. Douglas, Fairfield County Golf Club, who did 162. Travis won, with 3 up and 2 to play.

Intercollegiate team match tournament—Laurence Harbor Country Club, Morton, N. J., May 12. Yale, Princeton and Columbia entered teams of four men each. Yale won, with a total score of 754; Princeton, second, 763, and Columbia, last, with 820.

New-York Stock Exchange Handicap—Knollwood Country Club, at Elmsford, N. Y., June 16. There were forty-four competitors. Benson B. Sloan made the best handicap score, 94—20—74. Alfred L. Norris made the best gross score, 79.

VARDON'S CHIEF MATCHES AND RECORDS.

Harry Vardon, the then holder of the open golf championship of Great Britain, made his first public appearance in this country February 12, 1900, at the Laurence Harbor Country Club, of Morton, N. J. He played a thirty-six hole match, eighteen against the best ball of Mortimer M. Singer and John M. Ward and eighteen against M. M. Singer and H. C. Villepigue. Vardon won, 12 up, making a new thirty-six hole record of 172.

Vardon vs. "Willie" Smith, American open champion, St. Augustine, Fla., February 17—Vardon won in a thirty-six hole match by 2 up and 1 to play. Medal scores: Vardon, 153; Smith, 156.

Vardon vs. Bernard Nicholls, professional of the Philadelphia Country Club, Ormond, Fla., February 20—Nicholls won in a thirty-six hole match by 5 up and 4 to play. Medal scores: Nicholls, 114; Vardon, 114.

MOTOR VEHICLE RECORDS.

Four automobile track race meets of moment were run in this country in 1900 —Newport, R. I., Sept. 6; Chicago, Sept. 18–22; Guttenburg, N. J., Sept. 18, and Trenton, N. J., Sept. 22. At these meets American automobile, motor tricycle and motor quadricycle track records were established. The accompanying compilation was made from the racing reports of these meets. In some of the reports intermediate times were not given, so that the records quoted are based entirely on figures given out by the timers. These are complete for Trenton and Guttenburg, but incomplete for Chicago. Few, if any, of the figures, however, would require change.

The one great road race of 1900 was that of the Automobile Club of America for 50 miles, from Springfield to Babylon to Springfield, Long Island, April 14, 1900. Official times were taken at Babylon, thus establishing twenty-five mile records.

YACHT RACING.

No America's Cup contests in 1900. Four new one design 70-footers held the largest share of the public interest, in which the 70-foot schooners came next, the Amorita finishing seven times first out of seven starts, though disqualified once. The Hester, the Isolde and the Astrild were newly imported English cutters, and sailed in the 60-foot cutter class. In the 51-foot class the new Altair, the Shark, the Hussar II and the Sistae met the former victor, the Syce, which, however, took seven firsts out of seventeen starts. In the 43s the Myra took twelve firsts out of thirteen starts. The 21-foot raceabouts, the Scamp, the Raider, the Snapper, the Colleen and the Sis, beat last year's victors, and many other classes produced new racers. August Belmont's 70, the Mineola, won in the annual regatta of the New-York Yacht Club, June 14; elapsed times, the Mineola, 6:21:09; the Rainbow, 6:22:22. In a match race with the Vigilant at Larchmont, June 16, the Mineola won. New-York Y. C. races for Glen Cove cups—Tuesday, June 19, elapsed times, the Mineola, 4:33:00; the Rainbow, 4:44:42. Seawanhaka three day series—Thursday, June 21, elapsed times, the Mineola, 3:10:14; the Virginia (W. K. Vanderbilt, jr.), 3:12:33; the Rainbow (Cornelius Vanderbilt), 3:17:02. June 22, the Mineola, 2:49:39; the Virginia, 2:52:47; the Rainbow, 2:54:12. June 23, the Mineola, 4:06:33; the Virginia, 4:27:28. Larchmont, July 4, corrected times, the Mineola, 5:15:20; the Astrild, 6:05:14. New-York Y. C. two day Newport racing, July 13; elapsed times, the Yankee, 4:38:49; the Virginia, 4:41:17; the Mineola, 4:47:19; the Rainbow, 4:52:17. July 14, the Yankee, 4:40:58; the Virginia, 4:44:48; the Rainbow, 4:47:35; the Mineola, 4:47:40. New-York Y. C. cruise races—August 6, Glen Cove to Huntington, 21 miles; elapsed times, the Rainbow, 3:29:08; the Mineola, 3:32:57; the Yankee, 3:55:15. August 7, Huntington to New-Haven; order of finish, the Mineola, the Rainbow, the Yankee. August 8, New-Haven to New-London—The Virginia, 6:02:40; the Mineola, 6:28:21; the Rainbow, 6:33:18; the Yankee, 7:49:25. August 9, New-London to Newport—Finish times, the Rainbow, 5:26:12; the Mineola, 6:15:52; the Yankee, 7:46:39; the Virginia, 7:51:17. August 10—Newport to Cottage City—The Mineola beat the Rainbow six seconds, the leader, the Virginia, being disqualified. August 11, Cottage City to Newport—The Mineola won three cups, the H. F. Lippitt, the Edward M. Brown and the Club cups; elapsed times, 37 miles to windward, the Mineola, 4:42:01; the Yankee, 4:47:02; the Virginia, 4:50:56; the Rainbow, 4:53:29. August 13, Astor cups, off Newport, 38 miles, fresh; $1,000 cup for schooners—Corrected times, the Corona, 5:02:29; the Quissetta, 5:13:43. Cutter $500 cup; corrected times, the Mineola, 4:50:52; the Rainbow, 4:51:37; the Yankee, 4:52:40; the Virginia, 4:56:29. The Newport Association $1,000 cup was awarded after the series racing to the Yankee, after protests of both leaders. Commodore Postley's $500 cup, Larchmont, September 8—Elapsed times, the Yankee, 4:37:57; the Mineola, 4:45:50; the Rainbow, 4:49:18. Sir Thomas Lipton's $1,000 cup, September 13, off Sandy Hook, 30 miles—Elapsed times, the Rainbow, 5:26:13; the Mineola, 5:29:35; the Virginia, 5:31:03; the Yankee, 5:31:14. Atlantic Yacht Club Cup, September 15—Elapsed times, the Rainbow, 2:55:09; the Mineola, 2:56:00. Seawanhaka Cup, September 21—The Rainbow, 3.51:52; the Mineola, 3:57:13. Cornelius Vanderbilt then refused all prizes won by the Rainbow, owing to mistake as to racing rule. The Rainbow disqualified as to all her victories.

THE BRITISH ELECTIONS.

The British Parliament was dissolved September 25, 1900, and writs were issued for the election of a new House of Commons during the following thirty days. The Ministerial majority, which had been 152 in the election of 1895, had fallen to 130 when Parliament was dissolved. At the close of the elections in October the Ministerial majority was 132—a net gain of a single seat counting as two in a division. The following is a comparative exhibit, the member for Stockton, who had changed sides during the session of the last Parliament, being accounted a Unionist and the seat as a Liberal gain:

PARLIAMENT, SEPTEMBER 25.

GOVERNMENT.		OPPOSITION.
Conservatives	330	Liberals	188
Liberal Unionists	70	Nationalists	82

PARLIAMENT, NOVEMBER 1.

Conservatives	333	Liberals	186
Liberal Unionists	69	Nationalists	82
Total	402	Total	268
Government majority	134

The Government gained 38 seats and the Opposition 36 seats. The Government lost four seats in Wales and one in England, but gained seven seats in Scotland. The Nationalists held their ground, losing two seats and winning two. The Liberals won six seats in the English counties, but lost five in London and the boroughs, and with a gain of four in Wales and a loss of seven in Scotland were two behind their former voting strength. The following is a comparative exhibit of the strength of parties in the old and new Parliaments:

The Nationalists had one English seat and eighty-one Irish seats in the last Parliament, and the figures are the same for the new Parliament. The Liberals had one seat in Ireland in the last Parliament and they have retained it.

The Government appealed to the country at the close of the campaign in South Africa, taking advantage of the patriotic feeling excited by the war. The elections were based on a registry two years old, with a maximum of about 6,600,000 enrolled names. Considerably more than one-third of the electorate did not vote. Of the 670 members, 244, representing a registry of 2,368,475, were returned unopposed. Of these 163 were Government candidates, 59 were Nationalists and 22 were Liberals. The vote cast in the contested boroughs and districts is shown below:

ELECTION 1890.

	Votes received.	Members returned.		Votes received.	Members returned.
Conservatives	1,460,236	197	Liberals	1,634,946	165
Liberal Unionists	293,569	41	Nationalists	97,424	23
Total Government	1,753,805	238	Total all parties	3,486,175	426

The highest majorities in the Queen's Parliaments have been the Liberal majority of 128 in 1868, the Liberal majority of 186 in 1880, the Conservative majority of 123 in 1886, and the majorities of 152 and 134 which Lord Salisbury has commanded in 1895 and 1900. The following is an analysis of the professions and occupations of the new Parliament:

The oldest member of Parliament is eighty-two and the youngest twenty-three. The number of military men of all services is 135.

THE CANADIAN ELECTIONS.

The general elections constituting the House of Commons of the IXth Parliament of the Dominion of Canada were held on November 7. The House is made up of 213 members. Of these, three were elected by acclamation on nomination day, a week before the general polling. A fourth got his seat between nomination day and election day through the retirement of his opponent. Of the 209 remaining seats 204 were contested on the day of the general elections, leaving five seats to be filled on later dates in the year. The complete returns are as follows:

Provinces.	Members Elected.
	Ministerial.	Opposition.	Indepe'dent.	Total.
Nova Scotia	15	5	—	20
New-Brunswick	9	5	—	14
Prince Edward Island	3	2	—	5

Manitoba	2	3	2	7
Northwest Territories	2	—	2	4
British Columbia	3	2	1	6
Totals	124	79	10	213

Thus the Liberal Government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier returns to power with a majority somewhat diminished. In the last Parliament it had a solid column of 130 behind it. Its great gains in Quebec did not quite make up for its heavy losses elsewhere, chiefly in Ontario. On the other hand, the front ranks of the Conservative Opposition suffered severely in the elections, the following being defeated at the polls: Sir Charles Tupper, Hon. George E. Foster, Hon. W. H. Montague, Sir Adolphe Caron, Hon. Hugh J. Macdonald (son of the late Sir John)—all of whom were members of the Government that was defeated in the elections of 1896.

AUSTRALIAN FEDERATION.

The Australian Commonwealth bill was the handiwork of the ablest men in the colonies and was perfected in detail after many conferences. The question of federation was first proposed in 1852, and a Federal Council was formed in 1886, but as it was purely a deliberative body, without authority to legislate, it failed to satisfy the requirements of colonial unity. In 1890 there was a conference of representatives of the seven colonies of Australasia, and in the following year a convention adopted a draft bill for submission to the various parliaments of the group. In 1895 a conference of the Premiers of five Australian colonies proposed a second convention of representatives elected by popular vote and empowered to frame a Commonwealth act. The constitution which was drawn up by this convention was submitted to a popular referendum and amended in several details. After another series of conferences it was resubmitted to the people of the colonies and approved by substantial majorities in Victoria, New South Wales, Queensland, South Australia and Tasmania. Western Australia suspended judgment, but subsequently joined the confederation. New-Zealand is not included in the scheme of federation. The Commonwealth bill, while following the general lines of the British North American act, was essentially an Australian constitution, adapted to the characteristic conditions and progressive tendencies of the colonies. It was submitted to the British Parliament for the sanction of the home government, and delegates were sent to England in 1900 to urge its adoption. A controversy arose over the limitations imposed upon the right of appeal to the Privy Council. There were conferences with the delegates and with the Australian Premiers, and the Commonwealth act was finally approved by the British Parliament with a few changes of phrasing. These alterations have not affected the principle that the constitution will be interpreted by Australian judges and that the jurisdiction of the Privy Council will be restricted to imperial interests. The Commonwealth act establishes a Federal Parliament, government and judicature, but reserves for each colony the privileges of home rule. The Governors of the federated colonies will be appointed by the Crown. Lord Hopetoun has been commissioned as the first Governor-General, and the new constitution will go into operation in 1901, when the Duke and Duchess of York will visit Australia.

ASSASSINATION OF KING HUMBERT.

King Humbert of Italy was shot through the heart at Monza, Italy, on the evening of July 29, and died in a few minutes. He had been attending a distribution of prizes at a gymnastic competition and had just entered his carriage with his aid to return to his summer palace when he was struck by three revolver shots, fired in rapid succession, one of which pierced his heart. The assassin was immediately arrested and was with difficulty saved from the fury of the people. He said his name was Gaetano Bresci, and that he belonged in Prato, Tuscany. Investigations by the police led to the belief that the crime was the work of Anarchists, and a number of men suspected of complicity in the murder were arrested. Bresci, when transferred from the local police station to the jail, maintained an air of the utmost cynicism. In the course of his examination he declared himself to be a revolutionary Anarchist, and said he was ready to resume operations if he were released.

The assassination caused great excitement among Anarchists in this country, especially in Paterson, N. J., where Bresci had worked. His home was in West Hoboken, N. J., and there his wife, who is a skilled factory hand, lived with their little daughter when Bresci sailed for Europe, ostensibly to perfect himself as a designer by study in Paris. She said she did not know that her husband was an Anarchist. King Humbert was succeeded by his son, Victor Emmanuel, who assumed the title of Victor Emmanuel III, the troops taking the oath of allegiance on July 31, and the Ministers on August 2.

The body of King Humbert was placed in the Pantheon, at Rome, Thursday, August 9. An enormous crowd filled the streets through which the procession passed, and several panics occurred, in one of which twenty persons received slight wounds and thirty others were bruised. Italian societies in various parts of the United States held funeral services in honor of the dead King, and in some places bands of Anarchists expressed joy over the crime. Bresci's trial resulted in a sentence of life imprisonment, a number of years being in solitary confinement.

Emperor William II of Germany was attacked while driving on November 16, 1900, by a woman who threw an ax at the carriage. No one was injured.

Three attempts were made to kill Queen Victoria and two to kill the Prince of Wales, but in no instance was any one injured.

THE COLOMBIAN REVOLUTION.

State affairs in Colombia at the beginning of the century were as seriously mixed as they were at the end of 1899. The Liberals started a revolution October 18, 1899, and the fighting is still going on. There were a number of important battles, and the losses all told up to date aggregate 30,000 killed and wounded. On the Isthmus of Panama, where some of the most desperate fighting ensued, the rebels were compelled to surrender July 26. Dr. Mendoza, representing the Liberals, and Dr. Alban, the Government, arranged at a conference for a cessation of hostilities, the Liberals being pledged to surrender their arms, and being guaranteed their freedom from prosecution and the retention of all political rights. Fully 600 lives were sacrificed in the fighting that took place before the surrender and the streets of Panama were strewn with dead.

Many non-combatants were killed. In addition to the Liberal revolution another crisis in Colombian affairs occurred July 31, when Vice-President Marroquin seized the reins of government and placed President Sanclemente and General Palacio, Secretary of State, in prison in Villeta, a small Andean village forty miles from Bogota. On September 15 the Marroquin government was recognized by all the foreign governments. The uprising in the republic so depleted the national treasury that the most rigid economy became necessary. One of the first efforts to reduce the Government's expenses was made in July, when President Sanclemente issued a decree abolishing all the legations abroad, except those at Paris and Quito, Ecuador. The decree went into effect August 15.

SANTO DOMINGO.

After the assassination of President Ulysses Heureaux of the Republic of Santo Domingo, July 26, 1899, a provisional government was organized with General Horatio Vasquez at its head, and an election was ordered to fill the unexpired term and to choose a chief magistrate for the full term of four years ensuing. Juan Isador Jimenez, who was chosen for both terms, without opposition, in March, began his term of four years and was inaugurated with much ceremony. Marked reforms followed his accession. Political executions without trial were abolished; liberty of speech was granted; American gold was adopted as the basis of the currency; the silver and copper coin of the republic was made receivable at a ratio of five for one American gold, and the paper money, four millions of which was in existence at no circulating value, was purchased at auction at the rate of $10,000 gold per month, no bid to exceed 20 cents on the dollar. A new contract was entered into with the San Domingo Improvement Company of New-York, an American corporation holding the foreign bonds and collecting the revenues under a previous contract. By this agreement 54 per cent of the revenues go to the government for its budget and the remainder for three years is to be applied to the cancellation of all interior and floating debt, the company agreeing to take interest bearing coupons in lieu of interest for three years, the debt, between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000, to be determined by agreement or arbitration within a prescribed time, which has not yet elapsed. This contract was considered quite a victory for the President in view of a strong repudiation party. Two revolutions have marked the year, but they have been insignificant and bloodless. The leaders were quickly arrested and punished. The disturbances would hardly deserve mention but for the fact that they disclose political methods in the republic. During the year President Jimenez made a seven weeks' tour of the republic, visiting every city and town, and received a great ovation.

THE DELAGOA BAY AWARD.

The award of the Swiss arbitral tribunal in the matter of the claim of the Delagoa Bay Railway Company was announced at Berne March 29, 1900. On March 10 it was known that judgment had been propounded, but the indemnity to be paid by Portugal was not announced until nineteen days later. The following is the text of the decision:

First—The Portuguese Government, as the defending party, is condemned to pay to the Government of the United States and to Great Britain, the claimants, altogether, in addition to the £28,000 paid on account in 1890, the sum of 15,314,000 francs in legal Swiss money, with simple interest on this sum at the rate of 5 per cent per annum, from June 25, 1889, up to the date of payment of said sum.

Second—This sum, after deducting what is necessary to defray the cost of arbitration falling on the claimants and in addition to the balance of £28,000 paid on account in 1890, shall be employed in the payment of bondholders and other creditors, if there is need, of the Delagoa Bay Railway Company, according to their standing. The claimants will draw up a scale of distribution for this purpose. The Portuguese Government will have to pay into the hands of the Government of the United States the sum which, according to said scale, shall accrue to McMurdo, represented by said Government in her quality of bondholding creditor of the first and second degree. It will pay the surplus to the Government of Great Britain for the benefit of all others having rights.

Third—The delay of six months fixed by the last line of Clause IV, of the Arbitration Compromise, shall run from this day forth.

Fourth—The costs of the arbitration, according to a scale to be drawn up in accordance with Clause V. of the Arbitration Compromise, will be borne in equal parts by the three parties to the suit, that is to say, a third part by each of them.

Fifth—The conclusions of the parties in so far as they differ from the above award are set aside.

Sixth—An authentic copy of the present award will be delivered through the intermediary of the Swiss Federal Council to each of the three parties to the case.

The award was paid November 21, 1900. The Americans received their share through the Seligmans. The small amount awarded was surprising to those familiar with the case. The amount claimed by the widow of Colonel McMurdo, the American claimant, alone, was £760,000, with interest from the date of the seizure of the road. The amount of the British claim was about £1,000,000.

The claim had its origin in the following state of facts: In 1883 Edward McMurdo, a citizen of the United States, obtained from the Portuguese Government an exclusive concession to construct and operate for a term of ninety-nine years a railway from Lourenço Marques to the frontier between the territory of Portugal and the Transvaal. The line to be followed by the road and its extent were defined by plans approved by the Government. McMurdo proceedd to form a company to construct the railway. The company was organized in Portugal, and was called the Lourenço Marques and Transvaal Railway Company. This company, however, being unable, notwithstanding several extensions of time, to procure funds with which to construct the railway, Colonel McMurdo sought to obtain the necessary capital in London. His efforts resulted in the formation of the Delagoa Bay and East Africa Railway Company and the securing of the funds required for the completion of the undertaking. The construction of the road proceeded in accordance with the plans which had been approved by the Portuguese Government in 1884. In July, 1887, the Government informed the company that it required the extension of the railway to a point some nine kilometres beyond the limit fixed in the original and approved plans. The company protested, and an extension of time for an examination of the subject was granted until January, 1888. In the mean time the railway was completed in accordance with the original plans and accepted by the Government, with a reservation of the question of the extension of the line. In October, 1888, the Portuguese Government issued a decree fixing the terminal point of the railroad eight kilometres beyond the terminus set in the original plans, and fixing a period of eight months for the completion of the extension. The company protested against this decree on the ground that it was physically impossible to complete the extension within the time prescribed.

When the period fixed for the completion of the extension drew near the United States Government, having been informed of the intention of the Portuguese Government to seize the road, sent a cable dispatch to its diplomatic representative at Lisbon, on June 19, 1889, directing him to state to the Portuguese Government that it was earnestly hoped no decisive action would be taken until this Government had investigated the case and stated its objection. This was communicated to the Portuguese Government on the 19th. On the 22d the Portuguese Minister of Foreign Affairs replied, expressing regret that the decree of seizure must be carried into effect. On June 24 the Portuguese Government annulled the concession and seized the road and its appurtenances. Secretary Blaine instructed the United States Minister at Lisbon to enter a formal protest against the seizure, reserving all rights which Colonel McMurdo's heirs (Colonel McMurdo having died in London) or other American citizens might have in the concession. In November, 1889, Mrs. McMurdo having, through her counsel, Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll, made a formal claim against the Portuguese Government, Secretary Blaine transmitted the same to Lisbon, with instructions to the American Minister that this Government was forced to the conclusion that the violent seizure of the railway was an act of confiscation which rendered it the duty of the United States to ask that compensation should be made to the American citizens interested. The Portuguese Government finally agreed to submit the claim to arbitration, and a protocol was accordingly signed by the representatives of the three Governments at Berne, Switzerland, on June 13, 1891. The arbitrators were Joseph Blaesi, Vice-President of the Swiss Federal Court at Lausanne; Andres Heussler, professor of law in the University of Basle, and Charles Soloan, president of the Council of State of the Canton of Vaud. The arbitration had been pending for nearly nine years, and had attracted widespread attention. Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll represented the American claimant up to the date of his death. He was succeeded by John Trehane, an English lawyer, who has represented the British shareholders before the tribunal at Berne.

THE COLOMBIAN-COSTA RICAN BOUNDARY DISPUTE SETTLED.

On September 16 Señor Calvo, the Minister of Costa Rica at Washington, received a cable dispatch from the Costa Rican Minister to France conveying the information that President Loubet, the arbitrator appointed to decide the boundary question between Costa Rica and Colombia, had made his award, fixing the limit in the Atlantic side at Mona Point (or Point Carreta), and in the Pacific side at Punta Burica. In this long pending question the Republic of Colombia claimed that the limit should be fixed at Cape Gracias á Dios, in the Atlantic, including the whole of Costa Rica and Nicaragua Atlantic coast, and that the limit on the Pacific side should be placed at Boruca River, to the northwest of Golfo Dulce, thus pretending a right to half the territory of Costa Rica and about two-thirds of that of Nicaragua. Costa Rica claimed the old limits between Central America and Colombia, placed at the island Escudo de Veragua, in the Atlantic, and the River Chiriquí Viejo (at the base of Punta Burica, to the southeast), in the Pacific. The award fixes the boundary line on the Pacific side at Punta Burica, as claimed by Costa Rica, and on the Atlantic dispels forever the claims of Colombia to any part of the territory of Nicaragua or of that of Costa Rica beyond Mona Point.

THE GUIANA BOUNDARY DISPUTE.

The award of the Swiss Government in the matter of the Guiana boundary dispute between France and Brazil was made December 2, 1900. It is decreed that the boundaries are to be the Oyapok River from its mouth to its source, and the watershed line in the Tumuc-Humac Mountains from the source of the Oyapok to the Dutch frontier. France had claimed the Araguary River as a parallel line to the Amazon and the left bank of the Rio Banco. The award allots to Brazil 147,000 square miles of the contested territory, and about 3,000 square miles on the north side of the Tumuc-Humac range to the French. The southern boundary of French Guiana has been in dispute for three centuries. Three years ago it was decided to submit the dispute to the Swiss Government for arbitration. The territory so long claimed by France originally comprised about 260,000 square kilometres, consisting of the district bounded on the south by the Amazon, on the west by the River Banco and on the east by the Atlantic Ocean. This claim was, however, reduced to about 90,000 square kilometres. Negotiations between France and Brazil for the settlement of the question began in earnest in 1713, but though various treaties were drawn up the legislative bodies of one or the other of the respective countries could not be induced to ratify them.

THE PHILIPPINE REBELLION RECORD.

The annual record of events in the Philippines closed about December 1, 1899. The increase of the American forces from 26,820 men, in August, 1899, to 71,538 men of all arms, on October 1, 1900, with a maximum of about 55,000 effectives in the late fall and winter of 1899-1900, fostered public hope that the Filipino rebellion would be subdued by spring at furthest, a hope which has not been fulfilled. It has ceased to be a war of battles, and on the part of the enemy has become a mere system of bushwhacking, treacherous murder and ruthless pillaging. Aguinaldo's government has no abiding place; the insurgent chief, if alive, is in constant motion for self-protection, or in careful hiding. Bloody defeats early convinced insurgent leaders of the futility of further resistance in the field, and about November 11, 1899, in a conference at Bayambang Aguinaldo and his subordinates formally agreed to scatter and maintain guerilla operations. There has since been no noteworthy departure from that method of warfare. But it is now clear that his numerous defeats, heavy losses and the full comprehension of the immense power employed against him have discouraged the enemy, destroyed Aguinaldo's military prestige and greatly weakened his moral hold upon the islanders. For some time there has been a rapidly growing peace party among the revolutionists themselves. The American military policy has been mild and humane, in strong contrast with the Spanish administration, which was proscriptive and cruel. The military reports show that there are two kinds of people in the Philippines—the peaceful, industrious citizens of the towns and country, the vast majority; and the terrorists, or so-called revolutionists, by far the fewer, yet the dominant race. When protected from these the former return to their homes and daily avocations with alacrity and are friendly to American supremacy.

Absolute proof has been obtained from Aguinaldo's captured papers that the war was deliberately begun by the Filipinos while treacherously pretending loyalty and friendship to the Americans. This is important, because it has been denied both in the United States and Europe, and the responsibility for the outbreak charged upon the Americans.

Military Operations in Detail.

Although Aguinaldo escaped from the military cordon which surrounded him in Central Luzon in the last days of November, 1899, the operations of Generals Lawton, MacArthur, Young and Wheaton secured the entire railway from Manila northward to the coast of Dagupan, about 122 miles. The small rebel force which retained cohesion retreated to the west or the railway into the mountain fastnesses of Zambales, where they had previously provided storehouses and arsenals. Some of the commands broke up into small guerilla bands and began plundering. Many deserted to their homes, presenting themselves to the Americans as friends. Thus Aguinaldo's army of the north was dissolved, losing all its artillery, ammunition and supplies. In Southern Luzon there was still a formidable force of insurgents, threatening points in the immediate vicinity of Manila. General Otis was now urged by his subordinates to declare all insurgents out of the pale of the laws of war, and to summarily execute all guerillas captured with arms in their hands. As he had no positive evidence that Aguinaldo had formally decreed guerilla warfare, and as yet only a small area of the islands was reduced to actual possession, the commanding general declined to go to this hazardous extreme.

As late as February many Filipino leaders in remote quarters were still unaware that the rebel capital at Tarlac had been captured and Aguinaldo was a fugitive. General Lawton ordered Captain Batchelor, with a battalion of the 24th Infantry, to march against Bayonbong, the recently designated insurgent capital. The town was occupied without resistance, and some American and Spanish prisoners released. Without orders, from Bayonbong Batchelor then made a remarkable and successful campaign right through the interior to the north end of the island, fighting and routing a small force at Naguilan and receiving submission everywhere. A naval expedition was sent to Aparri to succor Batchelor in case of need. The entire northern province of Cagayan, on December 12, was surrendered to Captain McCalla, its commander, by the rebel General Tirona, with all his artillery and small arms. On the 21st Colonel Charles C. Hood, 16th United States Infantry, was appointed Military Governor of the northeastern provinces of Luzon, viz., Cagayan, Isabela and Nueva Vizcaya, with headquarters at Aparri. Affairs in this quarter progressed favorably until about March 1, when the Tagalos, previously surrendered by General Tirona, again commenced guerilla operations, joined by scattering bands of marauders from Western and Central Luzon. Our troops were easily successful everywhere, but met with numerous losses. Early in March Colonel Hood was reinforced with two battalions of the 44th Infantry, and soon reduced his department to measurable order. On the west coast General S. M. B. Young had hotly pursued the various bands of the enemy in every direction, capturing many important personages, considerable property, and releasing American and Spanish prisoners. On December 22 he was formally appointed to the independent command of a district composed of the northern provinces west of Colonel Hood's district, to wit, Abra, Bontoc, Benguet, Lepanto, Ilocos (North and South) and Union, with headquarters at Vigan. Aguinaldo retired to the northeastward into the province of Bontoc, while his troops fled into the mountains to the eastward of Vigan. In his hasty movements many of his prisoners escaped to the American lines. On January 17 a house to house search in Quiangan, where Aguinaldo was reported to be hidden, failed to reveal his presence. Operations were energetically pushed, but owing to Young's small force and the great extent of territory to be covered, it was impossible to prevent Tagalo depredations or wholly quell their guerilla bands. Many small affairs occurred, and the rebels were easily overcome in open fight and driven off, only to repeat their forays and murders elsewhere. These skirmishes were mainly along or near the western coast, and the American losses were in the aggregate quite severe. The rebels in this district were under direction of a rebel chief named Tinio, who was severely defeated by Major Steever at Mount Binmaya, on January 14, with a loss of twenty-eight killed. On January 20 General Young asked for reinforcements, and increased efforts of the enemy compelled a gradual increase of General Young's force by fifteen companies and 250 friendly native scouts. Upon the withdrawal of General Lawton from Tayug to take charge of pressing operations toward the south all portions of Luzon north of Caloocan and south of the districts of General Young and Colonel Hood came under the supervision of General MacArthur, whose subordinate, General F. D. Grant, marched through the Bataan province, and with Navy assistance secured possession of Olongapo and Subig, on Subig Bay, and large captures of insurgent military stores were made by General Bell in Northern Zambales, the remnants of the dispersed insurgent army being driven back into the mountains. During December and January MacArthur's reorganized forces were actively engaged in running down guerilla bands in his department and giving protection to peaceful towns from the raids of robbing ladrones, who preyed upon the wealthier class.

Death of General Lawton.

The character of the service performed by the American troops in central and northern Luzon from the time Aguinaldo's northern army was dispersed, in November, until the present time is fully indicated in the foregoing narrative of the operations succeeding that event. General Otis thus reports: "They (our troops) were widely scattered in detachment, company and battalion organizations, guarding centres of population and points deemed important for strategic purposes and concentration. This kind of duty continued, gradually proving more successful, as it was prosecuted with vigor, discouraged the insurgent leaders in their attempts to effect guerilla combinations and demoralized their adherents." About December 3 General Lawton, at Tayug, was relieved by General Wheaton and ordered to turn southward, concentrate at San Isidro, and from thence clean out some three thousand well armed and active insurgents under General Pilar, located around San Miguel and in the Maraquina Valley. Simultaneously troops were to move from Baliuag, while Major Carson was to intercept any portion of the enemy who endeavored to escape by the Angat and Norzagaray roads. The movements were well timed and energetically executed. On December 11 General Lawton entered San Miguel, General Pilar hastily retiring without resistance. In these operations Colonel Hayes captured the famous rebel stronghold Biac-na-bato on the 12th. It had been successfully held January 8, 1897, by sixteen rebels against nine hundred Spaniards. After this part of the work was done on December 16 Lawton returned to Manila for a new start. While these operations were on foot final preparations were made to crush the rebels in Southern Luzon, where, probably following Aguinaldo's instructions, they had displayed unusual activity as a diversion in aid of their hard pressed chief at the north. Then followed to the east of Manila, in the province of Morong, and to the south, in the provinces of Cavité and Batangas, almost precisely the same character of operations heretofore described in the northern districts. The Americans could easily go anywhere, killing, capturing and dispersing the guerillas that infested the country, with but small loss to themselves. But suppressed in one locality the enemy appeared in another, and not unseldom again at the same old points. Nevertheless their operations were marked everywhere by a gradually lessening spirit. General Lawton was the leading figure in the movement to push back the enemy threatening Manila from Morong. On December 18, for this purpose, he led an expedition up the Maraquina River. While directing the crossing of the river opposite San Mateo, on the 19th, Lawton was shot by a sharpshooter concealed on the eastern bank, and instantly killed. It was the greatest disaster of the war, and created universal sorrow throughout the United States, where the General had become a hero to the people of all classes. General Otis thus officially noticed his death: "The loss of General Lawton was keenly felt and deplored by the whole corps, and also by a large class of Filipino citizens, whose respect and admiration he had won by his kind treatment, soldierly bearing and continued military successes. As a leader of men and a master in handling them under trying conditions he had few equals. Whatever the emergency he was always found competent to cope with and overcome it." General Lawton's body was returned to the United States and buried in the National Cemetery, at Arlington, with military honors. Popular subscriptions were solicited, and a fund of $100,000 was quickly raised and presented to his widow.

Operations by General Schwan.

Continuing the operations begun by Lawton, Colonel Lockett attacked the insurgents at and about Montalban on December 27-29, driving them back into the mountains, with the loss of eighty killed. Others were captured, also some munitions. The passes were garrisoned, and affairs quieted down up the Maraquina. Brigadier-General Bates was appointed major-general on January 2 to succeed Lawton, and with Generals Schwan and Wheaton as subordinates was ordered to clear the rebels out of the provinces to the south and east of Manila. General Schwan's column successively overran Eastern Cavité, the whole of Batangas and all that was necessary of Laguna and Western Tabayas to bring the rebels under subjection. Lieutenant-General Trias commanded all the rebel forces in Southern Luzon. Some thirty-three combats took place, none of which, however, arrived at the dignity of a battle. American success was almost unvarying, and the losses of the insurgents heavy. Finally vanquished on all hands, small bands of the insurgents sought safety in the jungles or mountains, but the great mass either disbanded and returned to their homes or fled to the Camarines. Strategic points and the principal towns were garrisoned, and quiet comparatively restored to all the region around Lakes Laguna and Taal before February 8. General Schwan, by his energy, courage and brilliant tactics, had in a single month marched six hundred miles, and defeated, scattered and demoralized all organized forces of the enemy in four large provinces, with an aggregate American loss of less than fifty men killed and wounded.

This region soon began to resume trade with Manila, which, through Laguna Lake, soon exceeded all previous records. Steps were taken to establish local civil government, the church services were resumed and schools reopened. The terrorized people rapidly returned to their homes, once assured that the Americans, whom the crafty Tagalos had educated them to believe would kill or enslave all natives, had no desire to oppress or punish them. The situation of affairs then in these four provinces, as well as that in all Luzon, and the situation as it practically appears to-day from the official reports, are well told in General Schwan's report from Santa Cruz, February 8, 1900. In part he said: "From personal observation and the investigation of other officers I have reached the conclusion that with constant vigilance and proper measures on our part the insurgents in the provinces of Laguna and Tabayas will be incapable of doing any serious mischief. Their attempts on all but individuals, mere squads or inadequately escorted trains, are feeble to a degree, and are evidently induced by a spirit of bravado rather than any hope of success. They are split up into small fragments, who emerge from their mountain retreats mainly for the purposes of rapine and murder."

While General Schwan was thus operating General Wheaton in a similar manner overran the western part of Cavité and Batangas. His work was as thorough as Schwan's, although on a far more limited scale, and was done by the end of January. Schwan returned to Manila on February 9, and Wheaton was then assigned to the command of the four pacificated provinces of Cavité, Batangas, Laguna and Tabayas. Throughout the islands in December there were seventy-five fights, in which nineteen Americans were killed and ninety-one wounded. In January there were 114 combats, thirty men killed and seventy-five wounded.

General Otis, in generalizing upon the American losses, says: "Our losses were partly due to the rashness of our men in absenting themselves without permission and visiting among the natives, notwithstanding repeated cautionary orders, or the failure of small escorting parties to take proper precautionary measures in passing through defiles or over roads lined with thick brush, which furnished concealment for natives seeking booty. Throughout Luzon nearly all our soldiers who fell into the hands of the enemy were captured while illegally absent from their commands or while they were remiss in the performance of their duties." The total number of Americans captured and missing or unaccounted for up to May 5, 1900, did not exceed 150 men, the majority of whom had been recaptured or released. During the operations of the year not less than 1,500 Spanish prisoners were recaptured from the rebels.

Operations in the South.

On January 18 Brigadier-General W. A. Kobbé, with the 43d and 47th Infantry, and Battery G, 3d Artillery, convoyed by the gunboats Helena and Nasbville, sailed on transports for extreme southeastern Luzon. On January 20 he entered Sorsogon Bay, garrisoning Sorsogon, and subsequently took possession of Bulan and Donsal, which were also garrisoned. Passing San Bernardino Straits, he captured Albay and Legaspi, at the latter point having a severe fight. Thence he crossed over to Virac, on the island of Catanduanes, which was garrisoned. Vast quantities of hemp in bales were found in all these ports. Afterward Kobbé captured the cities of Calbayog and Catbalogan, on the island of Samar, and passing through the dangerous strait of San Juanico to the south, on February 1, after a sharp fight, captured the town of Tacloban, on the northeast coast of Leyte. Here he found 100,000 bales of hemp in sight. Kobbé's successes were important. Although he did not have troops enough to completely cover necessary strategic points, which permitted the Tagalos to continue their isolated outrages upon the inhabitants who acquiesced in the American occupation the situation in these southern islands, as in all parts of Luzon, soon began to improve with a marked disposition on the part of the masses to resume their peaceful pursuits.

On February 15 Major-General Bates, with the 40th and 45th Infantry, Captain Koehler's battery and a detachment of cavalry, sailed from Manila for the Camarines provinces, southeast Luzon, mainly occupied by rebels driven eastward by Schwan and westward by Kobbé. Passing San Bernardino Straits, he entered San Miguel Bay, and landed at the mouth of Bicol River, receiving valuable assistance from the Navy. Colonel Godwin defeated the enemy at Libmanan, killing sixty-four and wounding many. General Bates's persistent activity was rewarded by the dispersion of all hostile organizations, the capture of their artillery and rifles, much ammunition, the release of Spanish prisoners, the return of the inhabitants to the towns, and the restoration of trade relations with Manila. The Chinese General, Paua, insurgent, was sent to Manila, charged with murdering Spanish prisoners. Brigadier-General James M. Bell was the active commander under Bates.

On March 20 General Bates was ordered to take possession of Northern Mindanao and establish military stations on its coasts, and thence to Zamboanga, headquarters of the military district of Mindanao and the Jolo Archipelago, taking with him the 40th Infantry. Brigadier-General Bell was assigned to the command in southeastern Luzon, including the provinces of the two Camarines, Albay and Sorsogon, Luzon, the island of Catanduanes and adjacent small islands, and his command increased to 2,600 men. Thereupon General Bates, with a considerable force, occupied Surigao, northeastern Mindanao, General Garcia voluntarily surrendering the district and all the ordnance in his possession. At Cagayan resistance was offered, but with the Navy's effective assistance the enemy was easily driven off. Afterward Bates occupied the coast towns of Iligan, Misamis and Dapitan, in all of which the inhabitants gladly welcomed the Americans. A strong garrison was established at Iligan, and lesser ones at the other points. The entire northern and southern coasts of Mindanao and the islands of the Jolo Archipelago, extending southwest, were thus occupied without firing a gun. General Bates received the surrender of ninety-seven pieces of old artillery and 241 rifles.

Between Luzon and Mindanao lie the Visayas Islands—Panay, Negros, Cebu, etc. They are designated the Military District of the Visayas, commanded by Brigadier-General Robert P. Hughes, with headquarters at Iloilo, Panay. August 31, 1899, the towns of Iloilo and Cebu City, with contiguous mountain country and the important positions in Negros Island, composed all the territory in possession of our troops. They were garrisoned by the 18th and a battalion of the 19th Infantry, and Battery G, 6th Artillery. During the fall and winter of 1899–1900, with further reinforcements, General Hughes fully pacified Panay Island, after many severe engagements, capturing all the rebel artillery and much of their munitions and small arms. The Tagalos attempted to revolutionize Negros Island, but were speedily reduced. On Cebu Island Colonel Snyder's operations had resulted in complete success by the middle of January. The rebels were everywhere routed, and all their strongholds easily secured. It was found that the leaders against our occupation in the Visayas were Tagalos from Luzon Island. In the middle of February 167 Tagalos surrendered at Capiz with their rifles, and were sent home to Taal, on Luzon. By the middle of March the progress made in Panay, Negros and Cebu enabled General Hughes to look after the lesser islands, the inhabitants of which generally received our soldiers cheerfully, having been greatly terrorized by the insurgents from the greater isles. To reduce the ignorant mountaineers to submission, or entirely check their forays upon the coast towns and peaceable inhabitants, is reported by General Hughes to be a labor of time, but it is a result which will be achieved. In the three principal islands over fifty military stations are maintained, and the majority of the inhabitants are comparatively secure. In February throughout the Philippines 114 fights occurred, 30 Americans were killed and 70 wounded. In March there were 103 different fights, with 19 killed and 63 wounded.

Funston in Central Luzon.

The foregoing is a rapid summary of the salient events of the grand strategy which followed the assembling in the Philippine Islands in the fall of 1899 of an overpowering military force. Doubless mistakes were made, but the final result, as we see, was the practical defeat and subjugation of the insurgent Tagalos in all quarters by the early spring of 1900, although small bands of guerillas still continued a predatory warfare in remote districts. American prestige had been raised far above the previous Spanish rule. Subsequent operations extended the American occupation into more remote sections, further fortifying American power. A last rallying place for the disaffected, still unoccupied, was the large mountainous region in Central Luzon to the east of the railway, at some point in which Aguinaldo was supposed to have his headquarters. General MacArthur's troops occupied eighty-one stations. With headquarters at Bautista, he energetically pushed the guerillas of Central Luzon in a series of operations like those already described. General Funston crossed the mountains and occupied Baler, on the east coast, in the last days of February. Almost daily skirmishes took place. Many prisoners were taken, filling the Manila prisons. A few Americans were killed and a good many wounded, but the enemy suffered far greater loss. General Wheaton's command the while occupied thirty-three stations in Southern Luzon, with headquarters at Calamba, on Lake Laguna. Here Schwan's invasion had left a far more pacific feeling than prevailed in the north. Wheaton's troops had fewer fights with marauders, but were very active. Many prominent insurrectionists were captured or voluntarily surrendered themselves. In Northern Luzon General Young's forces were kept busy by the active insurgents, and a severe fight took place at Batac April 16, where 333 of the enemy were reported killed. In the southern islands the insurgents were even more active. On Panay and Mindanao they made several attacks in force. The only serious American reverse occurred at Catubig, Samar, on April 15. The garrison of 31 men was attacked by 600 islanders, with a cannon and 200 rifles, and driven out, losing 18 killed and 5 wounded. The rebels lost 200 killed, so reported.

Altogether in April there were 120 skirmishes, great and small, with 38 Americans killed and 68 wounded. From January 1 to April 1 General Otis reported rebel loss: Killed, 1,426; captured, mostly wounded, 1,453. Captures of arms, munitions and stores in April largely exceeded any previous record, chiefly effected through information furnished by the natives themselves. General Funston captured official Filipino State papers, disclosing conspiracies and threatened treachery in Manila, to culminate in an outbreak. On April 7 the Military Division of the Philippines was created, which General Otis divided into four departments, each subdivided into districts. Generals MacArthur, Bates, Hughes and Kobbé were assigned, respectively, to command the new departments of Northern Luzon, Southern Luzon, the Visayas, and Mindanao and Jolo. An expedition of General Bates occupied the islands of Maranduque and Masbate without opposition, important as sources of cattle supply. Paterno, president of Aguinaldo's Cabinet, was captured April 25 near Trinidad, Northern Luzon.

General Otis Relieved.

On May 5 General Otis, at his own request, was relieved and Major-General Arthur MacArthur assigned as Military Commander and Governor-General of the Philippines. The departing General was greatly praised in the War Department order relieving him. He arrived at San Francisco May 30 on the transport Meade. On May 6 General Young reported that Aguinaldo had unquestionably joined Tinlo, the northern insurgent chief. General Garcia, the highest Filipino officer next to Aguinaldo, was captured near San Isidro, and some valuable papers were secured. On May 12 Señor Buencamino, a prominent Filipino reconciled to the American regime, previously released by General Otis, issued to the insurgent chiefs an equitable plan of peace on the basis of American supremacy. It apparently received no attention from the rebels. In May the work of laying a system of telegraphic cables among the southern islands, connecting with Manila, was inaugurated.

The fighting in Luzon was not so continuous in May as previously. On the 19th Major March, pursuing what was supposed to be Aguinaldo's party, shot an officer thought to be Aguinaldo himself at Sagot, North Luzon. The wounded Filipino was carried away, but his horse and saddlebags, with papers, were secured, the latter belonging to Aguinaldo undoubtedly. There were several considerable fights on Samar, Panay, Leyte and Mindanao, where the insurgents presented a strong front. American losses comparatively slight. There were 108 fights in May; American loss, 28 killed and 66 wounded. General MacArthur reported the Filipino losses from the beginning of the war to May 31: Killed, 10,780; wounded, 2,104; captured and surrendered, 10,425; number of prisoners on hand, about 2,000.

In the first week in June Major Johnson occupied the island of Tablas. No opposition. War Department reported the total expenditures for transportation of troops, animals, supplies and munitions to and from the Philippines since May 1, 1898, to be $15,637,096 45. June 9 General Pilar, an active insurgent leader, was captured. Two days later two other important insurgent generals were captured and brought in. On the 15th General Macabulos, with 8 officers and 124 rebels, surrendered to Colonel Liscum at Tarlac, Luzon. General Aquina also surrendered June 29. June 18 the 9th Infantry was ordered to China to aid in suppression of the Boxers, and sailed on the 27th. The 6th Cavalry and other troops were ordered from the United States to the Orient. June 21 General MacArthur, in the name of the President, proclaimed a general amnesty to insurgents in arms who shall yield in ninety days, take the oath and acknowledge the sovereignty of the United States. On the same day 200 Filipinos met in Manila to formulate terms of peace to their countrymen. Paterno presided. Buencamino, Generals Garcia, Pilar, Macabulos and other prominent revolutionists were present. The plan submitted included amnesty, return of confiscated property, employment of Filipino leaders in navy and militia when established, succor of needy Filipinos, guarantees of personal liberty, establishment of civil government and expulsion of the friars. General MacArthur subsequently accepted the terms with modifications, but the bushwhacking did not cease. The cruiser Brooklyn, with 300 marines from Cavité, sailed for China June 27. Nine conspicuous insurgent leaders, including Pilar, Garcia and Alvarez, took the oath of allegiance and were discharged. The most serious engagement in June was that near Cagayan, Mindanao, on the 14th, where Captain Miller's detachment of 100 men, 40th Infantry, was defeated and driven back with a loss of 9 men killed and 10 wounded, including Miller and Lieutenant Elliott wounded. There were 131 skirmishes in June, with an American loss of 24 killed and 56 wounded. Total losses from July 1, 1899, to June 30, 1900, official, were as follows: Killed and died of wounds, 357; died of disease, by suicide, murder, drowning, etc., 1,085; total in twelve months, 1,442. General MacArthur was pressed for re-enforcements from all quarters in June.

Expenses of the War.

Insurgent General Ricarti, with valuable papers, was captured July 1. Lieutenant-Colonel Wilder organized at Caloocan a mounted corps of 120 loyal Filipinos. Paterno issued a seditious document concerning proposed peace, calculated to deceive Filipinos and cause trouble, and was sent back to prison. On the 15th General MacArthur shipped the 14th United States Infantry and Reilly's Battery to China. Control of Basilon Island was turned over to naval authorities, and troops withdrawn to other stations. General Young installed municipal government at Vigan, Northern Luzon, July 25. Neither peace movements nor amnesty proclamation stopped new insurgent operations. In July the American losses in Panay were greater than in any month since January. In Leyte there was a good deal of fighting, but, on the whole, less in Luzon. American aggregate losses in July about 357 killed and 40 wounded. On August 12 Colonel Grassa came in at Tayug, Luzon, and surrendered 182 officers and men, with arms. General MacArthur reported his sick list about middle of August at 5,129 men. Last of August General Hughes reported an outbreak in Bohol Island, and defeat of rebels at Carmen, with loss of 120. Conditions generally, however, improved everywhere in August. The people in North Luzon became unusually quiet and engaged in planting, but in the central and southern provinces there were still daily collisions, with moderate casualties. The most serious check the Americans received was on August 1, between San Miguel and San Isidro, Luzon, where Lieutenant Alstaetter was attacked and 1 man killed, 5 wounded and 9 captured. No official report of aggregate losses in August obtainable. Estimated, 38 killed and 64 wounded. Twenty ships of war of various classes reported in Philippine waters in September by naval authorities. September 19 Quartermaster's Department completed arrangements to bring home for burial soldiers and sailors who have died in our island possessions. Semi-officially announced by the War Department that the return of the Philippine volunteers would be begun about middle of November. Steps were taken by General MacArthur for the establishment of a leper colony on some available island. Military affairs were comparatively quiet until about the 10th, when Captain Shields and 51 men, returning overland from Terrijos to Santa Cruz, Maranduque, were all captured, less 4 killed. Five were wounded. They were rescued a month later by General Hare's forces.

The insurgents suddenly became more aggressive near Manila and Central Luzon. On September 16 a heavy fight took place near Sinaloan, Lake Laguna, between detachments of 130 men under Captain D. D. Mitchell, 15th Infantry, and the insurgent General Cailles, with 800 rebels. Americans attacked, and were repulsed with loss of 24 men killed, including Captain Mitchell and Lieutenant George A. Cooper, and 20 wounded, including Captain John E. Moran. The rebel loss was reported at only 10 killed and 20 wounded, including a general.

In Northern Luzon General Young had numerous small affairs, and called emphatically for reinforcements. There were many raids in other sections. The hostile demonstrations were most marked along the railway and around Lake Laguna. American losses in September were heavy, not less than 175 killed and wounded. Buencamino informed by Aguinaldo that he declined peace proposals. Amnesty date expired September 21. Insurgent activity supposed to be directed by Aguinaldo for effect upon American election. On Leyte Island General Mojica's insurgents were dispersed by Major Allen. October 6, General Hare, with a strong force, ordered to Maranduque to stamp out rebellion, which he speedily accomplished. General Young, in North Luzon, was strongly reinforced early in October to meet renewed efforts of insurgent renegade priest, Aglipay, and Generals Tinio and Villanueva. It is confessed that the Filipinos are becoming more skilful as soldiers, imitating American methods. Mabina, founder of the Filipino government, captured in December last, was liberated in October without taking any oath. October 26 General MacArthur issued a stringent health order, enjoining cleanliness, boiling of water before use, etc. Secretary Long appointed a board, with Admiral Remey at its head, to locate a naval coaling station. Many trials of Filipinos by military commissions for such crimes as murder, robbery, rape, etc., have taken place, and a score sentenced to death. Only two were executed. October 12 a fight occurred in North Panay, in which 20 Tagalos from Luzon were killed and 40 wounded. Two Americans wounded. October 24, Lieutenant George L. Febiger with 40 men attacked the bushwhackers near Narvican, Northwest Luzon. After a desperate fight with over 1,000 insurgents under Villanueva, a subordinate of Tinio, the Americans were forced back to Narvican. Lieutenant Febiger and four men were killed, eight wounded and four missing. Rebel loss 150. In a fight near Looc, October 27, two Americans were killed and three wounded, including Captain Beigler. Enemy's loss 75.

Heavy Fighting in the Fall.

General Hall with 800 men marched into the Province of Infanta, Southern Luzon, after General Cailles, who defeated Mitchell in September, but failed to find him. Hall garrisoned the town of Binangonan, and visited the island of Polillo, off the coast. Small bands of ladrones were busy in many of the southern islands throughout October, but nothing important occurred in Mindanao, Negros, Panay or other islands.

November mail advices brought news of the fight at Bugazon, Panay, October 30, in which Lieutenant Koontz, Sergeant Kitchen and Corporal Burns, 44th Infantry, were killed, the attacking rebels losing 100 killed, 21 wounded and 50 prisoners. The rebel activity during the fall resulted in the capture of no American post. Near Dagupan, the first week in November, the rebels made an attack, killing two and wounding three Americans. November 4 Señor Buencamino, representing the ex-insurgents in Manila, requested Judge Taft to forward to Washington a signed expression of their loyalty. There was considerable excitement over the approaching election in the United States, and some betting on the result. November 4, Private James Thompson wrote home that a young Filipino who occupied a bed next to his own in a Manila hospital told him confidentially that Aguinaldo had been shot dead by Major March's party, as reported, but that for political reasons his death was being concealed. November 7 it was announced from Washington that diplomatic steps were being taken to suppress the insurgent junta at Hong Kong. Complaint will be made to the British Government of its secret operations. The result of the Presidential election in the United States was quietly received. and made no noticeable change in the Filipino situation. In the first ten days of the month several unimportant skirmishes took place throughout the islands, with the loss of 6 Americans killed and 17 wounded. November 15, it was announced that the press censorship had again been removed, but cable companies were to furnish General MacArthur with a copy of all press dispatches. The insurgents became again very active in the middle of November, followed by numerous fights, especially throughout Luzon. Our forces undertook active aggressive movements against the rebels on Samar, the whole of which island was in their possession, except two or three coast towns. Its coast was to be patrolled by a gunboat. General Hare commanded the expedition. The 14th Infantry returned from China the second week in November. General Wheaton sent reinforcements to General Young in Northwestern Luzon, where Tinio was again becoming restless and aggressive. General MacArthur and Admiral Remey visited Subig Bay, where it is proposed to establish a station to be held by a strong force of marines. November 20 General Macabulos, the former Filipino general, with 100 picked natives, was prepared to go in pursuit of Aguinaldo, supposed to be located in Northern Luzon. The renegade native priest, Aglipay, manifests a disposition to lay down his arms. The American troops are supplied with Australian frozen fresh beef and mutton. November 27 Colonel Allen reported that the islands are covered at every important point with a thorough system of cable telegraphic communication. Manila is now in close telegraphic touch with all quarters. General MacArthur's official report was filed in the Adjutant-General's office during the month, and a summary published. Nothing different from the foregoing running narrative of events was disclosed in the report. The fighting was less severe during November, and American losses were comparatively light.

In March President McKinley appointed a second Commission to the Philippines, composed of William H. Taft, of Ohio; Professor Dean C. Worcester, of Michigan; Luke P. Wright, of Tennessee; Henry C. Ide, of Vermont, and Professor Bernard Moses, of California. Judge Taft was designated as president of this Board. They received their official instructions April 7. They were first to familiarize themselves with conditions in the islands, and then proceed to establish civil government in its various fundamental forms as rapidly as possible throughout the loyal sections permanently held by our troops. September 1 was fixed as the date of transfer of all power of a legislative nature from the Military Governor to this Commission. This power was designated to be establishing rules and regulations for the raising of revenue by taxes, customs, duties and imposts; the expenditure of public funds; the establishment of an educational system and of an adequate civil service; the organization of an efficient judicial system; the creation of municipal and departmental governments, and all minor branches of civilian government, and the appointment of all officials for such governmental machinery. The military forces were to be subject to the call of the civil authorities for the maintenance of law and order. All the substantial rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness enjoyed by citizens of the United States are to be guaranteed to the Filipinos. In dealing with uncivilized tribes on the island, the American policy observed toward the North American Indians is to be adopted.

The Commission held a conference with the President March 31, and sailed from San Francisco on the transport Hancock on April 18, arriving at Manila June 3. It was cordially welcomed by General MacArthur, Rear-Admiral Remey, the Filipino Supreme Court and many unofficial people of consequence.

In April General Otis issued an order permitting civil municipal government and giving loyal Filipinos the right of suffrage therein under certain restrictions. The President, on April 13, reported to Congress that the cost of the first Philippine Commission was $117,185. About April 15 the Philippine Jesuits issued a pamphlet combating American religious liberalism. Its authenticity, however, was subsequently disputed. The Filipinos bitterly oppose the Jesuits and friars. In Manila in April 119 Chinamen and 66 Filipinos died of bubonic plague. A proclamation, issued May 4, purporting to be signed by Aguinaldo, warned the Filipinos against the Taft Commission as lacking adequate authority, not having been authorized by Congress. Postal receipts in the Philippines for the nine months ended March 1 announced May 4. Thirteen postoffices outside of Manila received $18,652, and expended $15,659. Manila receipts, $56,514; expenditures, $12,513. June 8, General MacArthur was ordered to appoint a board to revise the tariff schedule, with instructions to report to the Philippine Commission.

Municipal Government Inaugurated.

Early in June General Otis's plan of municipal government was being inaugurated in various towns of Luzon. June 13 the Postmaster-General issued an order amending a previous regulation regarding postal rates. It ruled that the Philippine Archipelago comes under the head of "island possessions of the United States." June 17 it was announced that the Commission had established offices in the same building with General MacArthur. Preparatory to the enactment of laws, subjects of study were divided among the members as follows: Judge Taft, crown lands, land titles, the Church and civil service. Commissioner Wright, internal improvements, constabulary and commerce. Commissioner Worcester, corporation franchises and criminal code. Commissioner Ide, banking and currency, and the organization of civil courts. Commissioner Moses, revenues, taxation and schools. August 21 the Commission made an official report, in which it was stated that hostility to Americans was gradually lessening. Nearly all the prominent officials and generals had surrendered or been captured except Aguinaldo; the hostile element in Luzon was really small, and only influential through coercion and violence; there was very little trouble in the Visayan islands, and civil government was eagerly awaited. It was stated that hostilities were now maintained with greatest difficulty by guerilla chiefs for effect upon the forthcoming American election. If the election confirmed the present policy the war will be over in sixty days. The agricultural and commercial conditions of the islands are rapidly improving, and fine outlook for the future presented. This report was signed by all the Commissioners.

On September 1 the Commission assumed authority in the islands. On the 20th it promulgated an "act for the establishment and maintenance of an efficient and honest civil service in the Philippine Islands," which pleased the Filipinos, but was not so satisfactory to the military. One of the Commission's first legislative acts was to appropriate $1,000,000 gold for public highways and bridges. General MacArthur was retained by the Commission as its chief executive. Several bureaus were provided for. October 6 the War Department announced that the revenues of the islands for the first seven months of 1900 were $4,782,080. A revised tariff schedule has been forwarded to the War Department for approval. Various legislative measures have been enacted by the Philippine Commission, all eminently judicious and calculated to imbue the Filipinos with confidence and make for peace.

In a private letter to the States, Judge Taft speaks in the highest terms of the capacity of the Philippines for purposes of commerce and enterprise. He states that the ship tonnage into Manila, exclusive of Government transports, is already double that in the palmiest days under the Spanish control. The American Bible Society has established an agency in Manila, and is busily engaged in distributing the Scriptures in native dialect. Special Agent J. W. Erwin, of the Postoffice Department, reports that the postal service in the Philippines is in a most satisfactory condition financially. November 27 the Commission passed a bill requiring banks to accept deposits whether in Mexican or local currency, and to honor checks in the currency in which the deposits were made. Under a proposed new law the liquor license for saloons in Manila will be $360 gold. November 28 the Commission mailed to Secretary Root its formal report of the first three months' of its operations. Director-General of Posts Vaille, who organized the Philippine postal system, has been relieved at his own request and sailed for home December 1.

THE BOXER UPRISING IN CHINA.

The Boxer movement first gave rise to alarm in October, 1899, when the powerful secret society of that name, organized some time earlier with the avowed patriotic object of driving all foreigners out of the country, began public recruiting and openly drilling armed men in all the cities of Northern China.

Development of the Crisis.

Within a few months its membership reached several millions, and there was inaugurated a reign of terror for the foreign missionaries and native Christians, hundreds of the latter being put to death with torture. The Imperial Government at Peking paid little attention to the representations of the diplomatic corps on the subject and the Chinese troops appeared unwilling to check the rapidly increasing outrages. On March 9, 1900, Minister Conger telegraphed to the State Department:

"Missionary troubles still spreading. The situation very critical. The Ministers of England, France, Germany, Italy and the United States to-day sent to the Foreign Office an identical note demanding the publication of a strong Imperial decree without delay. If Chinese Government absolutely refuse, and the situation does not materially improve, I advise that a naval demonstration by war vessels of each government should be made in North Chinese waters. My colleagues have telegraphed their governments similarly."

On May 30, with the reluctant consent of the authorities, an international guard was sent to Peking from the fleet at Taku, consisting of 63 Americans, 75 British, 42 Italians, 75 French, 50 Germans, 30 Austrians, 75 Russians and 26 Japanese. The Boxers, infuriated by this movement, immediately began concentrating in great numbers near Peking and Tien-Tsin and along the railway line.

On June 6 the railway line was cut by Boxer bands, and all communication between Peking and the coast closed. The admirals promptly began landing men to reopen the line and to reinforce the legation guards, and on June 12, with the permission of the Viceroy of Tien-Tsin, an international force of Military Operations.

1,078 men, under Vice-Admiral Seymour, of the British navy, and including 100 Americans under Captain McCalla, started from Tien-Tsin for Peking. This force fought its way to a point about 12 miles from Peking, when, on June 16, it found further advance impossible and turned back. At this time the rioters had begun an attack on the foreign settlement at Tien-Tsin with artillery, and difficulties arising in the prompt dispatch of reinforcements to that point, the admirals demanded the surrender of the Taku forts, whose forces, there were good reasons to believe, were encouraging the Boxers. On June 17 the foreign vessels began firing on the forts at 1:45 a. m., and they were taken by the united forces at 8 a. m. In this action Admiral Kempff took no part until he learned that the Monocacy had been struck, when he "immediately ordered concerted action with the foreign nations." The relief forces thereupon pressed past Tien-Tsin, avoiding the walled city, and on June 26 rescued Admiral Seymour's column, which had retreated to a few miles above Tien-Tsin, where it was intrenched and making a desperate resistance against the assaults of an overwhelming horde of Chinese. Every effort of the combined forces was now concentrated upon the preservation of the foreign settlement of Tien-Tsin, adjoining the Chinese provincial capital of that name, the movement upon Peking being abandoned until foreign troops could be assembled in great numbers. At the same time most of the naval vessels in the East were hurried to Taku to land their men. Among the earliest to arrive was the flagship Brooklyn, with Rear-Admiral Remey, who relieved Rear-Admiral Kempff. The battleship Oregon when entering the Gulf of Pe-Chi-Li, June 28, struck a pinnacle rock near Chefoo and came near being lost. She was floated at the end of three weeks, and through the courtesy of the Japanese Government was temporarily repaired at the Kure dockyard.

On June 27 the 9th U. S. Infantry started from Manila, and landing at Taku July 8 proceeded to join 16,000 foreign troops a Tien-Tsin, who were opposed by a Chinese force exceeding 50,000. On July 13 Tien-Tsin was assaulted, and the following morning the Chinese were driven out. The total foreign casualties in this engagement were nearly 1,000 killed and wounded, including 23 Americans killed and 99 wounded, among the killed being Colonel Emerson H. Liscum.

General Adna R. Chaffee, who had been ordered to command the American forces in China, left San Francisco July 3, with eight troops of the 6th Cavalry, arriving at Taku July 28, where he was joined by Reilly's Battery of the 5th Artillery and two battalions of the 14th Infantry from Manila. With this force he immediately proceeded to Tien-Tsin, when with Reilly's Battery and the 9th and 14th Regiments he promptly moved with the allied army to the relief of Peking, assisting in the capture of Pei-Tsang, August 5 (no American casualties); Yang-Tsun, August 6 (American loss, 7 killed, 63 wounded), and Ho-Si-Wu, August 9 (no casualties).

Early in the morning of August 14 the Americans, Russians and Japanese began an assault on the east wall of Peking. The American flag was the first raised on top of the wall, the Russians being the first to enter the Tartar City. The British, attacking at the south, found little resistance, and profiting by the concentration of the Chinese against the Japanese and Americans, were the first troops to reach the legations, the Americans arriving two hours later, at 5 o'clock in the evening, after losing 6 killed, including Captain Reilly, and 30 wounded. The German Emperor, August 10, appointed Field Marshal Count von Waldersee to command the forces in China, his high rank entitling him to command the allies in all concerted operations. All the Powers approved this appointment. Up to August 18 the total number of foreign troops reported landed at Taku was 33,343, of which 14,602 were from Japan, 7,020 Russia, 4,412 Great Britain, 3,339 United States, 2,300 France, 1,329 Germany, 290 Italy and 60 Austria. The American force consisted of 68 officers, 2,060 enlisted men of the Regular Army, and 49 officers, 1,162 enlisted men of the Marine Corps.

On August 28 the allies formally paraded through the palaces of the Forbidden City, and on the same day orders were issued in Washington diverting all United States troops on the sea destined for China to Manila, supplemented a month later by directions to General Chaffee to retain as a legation guard four troops of cavalry, one light battery of artillery and one regiment of infantry, and to send the remainder of the force to Manila. In compliance with these orders the marines left Peking October 3, followed several days later by the 14th Infantry, and by November 1 all American troops except the legation guard had been withdrawn from China.

Count von Waldersee assumed command of the allies September 30, and October 12 a large force started for Pao-Ting-Fu, which was occupied October 17 without opposition. The object of this expedition was to chastise those responsible for the murder of missionaries, and on October 26, by sentence of court-martial, Ting-Yung, acting Viceroy of Chi-Li, and several generals and other officials were shot.

The seat of Imperial Government was established October 12 at Si-Ngan-Fu.

The Siege.

The legations were put under a virtual state of blockade on June 13, when the local authorities ceased any show of preserving order in the city. On that day the Chancellor of the Japanese Legation was murdered by the mob, and five days later, the legations having been given 24 hours to leave the capital, Baron von Ketteler, the German Minister, was assassinated by armed Chinese officials, while on his way to the Foreign Office to insist upon Imperial protection. On June 20 the bombardment of the legations by Chinese troops began and lasted until July 16, artillery and rifle fire being incessant during that period. The temporary cessation on that day was due to the arrival in Peking of the noted cipher message from Secretary Hay, which was delivered to Minister Conger under a flag of truce. Desultory firing was resumed several days later, after the legations had been revictualled by Imperial command, but no serious attempt was made to carry the foreign positions.

Diplomatic Negotiation.

The earliest notable utterance designed to harmonize the Powers in their efforts to rescue their citizens and subjects in China and to avoid the dangers arising from declarations of war leading to the partition of the Empire came from the United States in the following circular cabled to the American diplomatic representatives at the principal courts of Europe and in Japan:

"Department of State, Washington, July 3, 1900.

"In this critical posture of affairs in China, it is deemed appropriate to define the attitude of the United States as far as present circumstances permit this to be done. We adhere to the policy initiated by us in 1857 of peace with the Chinese nation, of furtherance of lawful commerce and of protection of lives and property of our citizens by all means guaranteed under extra-territorial treaty rights and by the law of nations. If wrong be done to our citizens we propose to hold the responsible authors to the uttermost accountability.

"We regard the situation at Peking as one of virtual anarchy, whereby power and responsibility are practically devolved upon the local provincial authorities. So long as they are not in overt collusion with rebellion and use their power to protect foreign life and property we regard them as representing the Chinese people, with whom we seek to remain in peace and friendship. The purpose of the President is, as it has been heretofore, to act concurrently with the other Powers, first, in opening up communication with Peking, and rescuing the American officials, missionaries and other Americans who are in danger; second, in affording all possible protection everywhere in China to American life and property; third, in guarding and protecting all legitimate American interests, and fourth, in aiding to prevent a spread of the disorders to the other provinces of the Empire and a recurrence of such disasters.

"It is, of course, too early to forecast the means of attaining this last result, but the policy of the Government of the United States is to seek a solution which may bring about permanent safety and peace to China, preserve Chinese territorial and administrative entity, protect all rights guaranteed to friendly Powers by treaty and international law, and safeguard for the world the principle of equal and impartial trade with all parts of the Chinese Empire.

"You will communicate the purport of this instruction to the Minister for Foreign Affairs. HAY."

In this declaration of purpose and policy all the nations promptly expressed their concurrence, with more or less formality but with substantial definition. Its effect in China, through its energetic use by Minister Wu Ting Fang, was pronounced in securing the allegiance of all the southern Viceroys and in causing the Emperor, on July 19, to address an appeal to President McKinley for his mediation. In his reply, July 23, the President indicated his willingness to act after the Emperor had given public assurance of the safety of the Ministers, put them in free communication with their governments, removed all danger to their lives and liberty and caused the Imperial authorities to co-operate with the relief expedition.

In the mean time Minister Wu had presented to the State Department, on July 11, an Imperial decree dated June 29, denying the Government's responsibility for the state of affairs prevailing in China and laying all blame for the siege of the legations upon the seizure of the Taku forts. This led to one of the most remarkable episodes of the crisis—the Hay–Conger cipher dispatches, which, though incredulously received in Europe at the time, were regarded later as having been instrumental in saving the legations by causing the truce that permitted their revictualling and by hastening the departure of the relief column from Tien–Tsin.

It occurred to Secretary Hay when Minister Wu presented the decree, if such a document could be transmitted from Peking to Washington, that by reversing its route a message might be sent to Minister Conger which would settle beyond doubt the condition of affairs in the Chinese capital, the prevailing belief throughout the world at that time being that the Ministers and all with them had been already massacred. A dispatch was prepared in the State Department cipher making the single request, "Send tidings by bearer," and handed to Minister Wu, who remained ignorant of its meaning. Nine days later the Minister delivered to Secretary Hay a similar cipher dispatch signed "Conger," which when translated read:

First News from the Besieged.

"In British Legation under continued shot and shell from Chinese troops. Quick relief only can prevent general massacre."

The effect of this message was almost magical. The English memorial services at St. Paul's, London, were postponed, the allies at Tien–Tsin, who had decided to wait a month for reinforcements before advancing, were ordered to start, whatever the risks, within a week, and more vigorous diplomatic representations from Washington to the Chinese were echoed by the other Powers. Earl Li Hung Chang, who had been ordered by the Emperor from Canton to Tien–Tsin and appointed plenipotentiary to deal with the Powers, under this pressure suggested that the Ministers might be delivered at Tien–Tsin under safe escort if the allies would not advance to Peking, but this was met on July 30 by the following declaration from the United States:

"The Government will not enter into any arrangement regarding disposition or treatment of legations without first having free communication with Minister Conger. Responsibility for their protection rests upon Chinese Government. Power to deliver at Tien–Tsin presupposes power to protect and to open communication. This is insisted on."

In reply to Earl Li's next inquiry the following day, whether "if free communication were established it could be arranged that the Powers should not advance pending negotiations," Secretary Hay replied:

"I do not think it expedient to submit the proposition of Earl Li to the other Powers. Free communication with our representatives in Peking is demanded as a matter of absolute right, and not as a favor. Since the Chinese Government admits that it possesses the power to give communication, it puts itself in an unfriendly attitude by denying it. No negotiations seem advisable until the Chinese Government shall have put the diplomatic representatives of the Powers in full and free communication with their respective governments and removed all danger to their lives and liberty. We would urge Earl Li earnestly to advise the Imperial authorities of China to place themselves in friendly communication and co–operation with the relief expedition. They are assuming heavy responsibility in acting otherwise."

Secretary Hay at the same time urged Minister Wu to get another message from Minister Conger, resulting in the following cipher dispatch, dated August 7:

"Still besieged. Situation more precarious. Chinese Government insisting upon our leaving Peking, which would be certain death. Rifle firing upon us daily by Imperial troops. Have abundant courage, but little ammunition or provisions. Two progressive Yamen Ministers beheaded. All connected with Legation of the United States well at the present moment."

Minister Wu also presented an edict of August 2, allowing free communication in plain language and ordering the Ministers escorted to Tien–Tsin. Three days later a supplemental edict was issued permitting cipher messages, and with this Minister Wu delivered on August 8 a cipher from Minister Conger reciting among other things that the Tsung–li–Yamen declared that the Powers had repeatedly urged the delivery of the Ministers at Tien–Tsin and protesting against the plan as utterly infeasible. This led to the following dispatch to the Chinese Government from the State Department:

"We are availing ourselves of the opportunity offered us by the Imperial edict of the 5th of August allowing to the foreign ministers free communication with their respective governments in cipher, and have sent a communication to Minister Conger, to which we await an answer.

"We are already advised by him, in a brief dispatch, received August 7, that Imperial troops are firing daily upon the Ministers in Peking. We demand the immediate cessation of hostile attacks by Imperial troops upon the legations, and urge the exercise of every power and energy of the Imperial Government for the protection of the legations and all foreigners therein.

"We are also advised by the same dispatch from Minister Conger that, in his opinion, for the Foreign Ministers to leave Peking as proposed in the edict of August 2 would be certain death. In view of the fact that the Imperial troops are now firing upon the legations, and in view of the doubt expressed by the Imperial Government in its edict of August 2 as to its power to restore order and secure absolute safety in Peking, it is evident that this apprehension is well founded, for if your Government cannot protect our Minister in Peking it will presumptively be unable to protect him upon a journey from Peking to the coast.

"We therefore urge upon the Imperial Government that it shall adopt the course suggested in the third clause of the letter of the President to His Majesty the Emperor of China, of July 23, 1900, and enter into communication with the relief expedition so that co–operation may be secured between them for the liberation of the legations, the protection of foreigners and the restoration of order. Such action on the part of the Imperial Government would be a satisfactory demonstration of its friendliness and desire to attain these ends."

Li Hung Chang, August 20, asked the United States and the Powers that as Peking had been captured and the legations were safe, hostilities should cease and that envoys be appointed for negotiations for permanent peace, supplementing this request the following day with another for the prompt withdrawal of troops from the capital. In reply the United States expressed its anxiety to appoint a representative to join with representatives of similarly interested Powers to attain the ends declared in the circular of July 3, as soon as the responsible Government of China afforded security in Peking and throughout China.

Li Hung Chang Asks for Peace.

The State Department, August 29, communicated to the Powers the following memorandum delivered the preceding day to the Russian Chargé at Washington:

"The Government of the United States received with much satisfaction the reiterated statement that Russia has no designs of territorial acquisition in China, and that, equally with the other Powers now operating in China, Russia has sought the safety of her legation in Peking and to help the Chinese Government to repress the existing troubles. The same purposes have moved and will continue to control the Government of the United States, and the frank declarations of Russia in this regard are in accord with those made to the United States by the other Powers. All the Powers, therefore, having disclaimed any purpose to acquire any part of China, and now that adherence thereto has been renewed since relief has reached Peking, it ought not to be difficult by concurrent action through negotiations to reach an amicable settlement with China, by which the treaty rights of all the Powers will be secured for the future, the open door assured, the interests and property of foreign citizens conserved, and full reparation made for wrongs and injuries suffered by them.

"So far as we are advised, the greater part of China is at peace and earnestly desires to protect the life and property of all foreigners, and in several of the provinces active and successful efforts to suppress the Boxers have been taken by the Viceroys, to whom we have extended encouragement through our consuls and naval officers. This present good relation should be promoted for the peace of China. While we agree that the immediate object for which the military forces of the Powers have been co-operating, viz, the relief of the Ministers at Peking, has been accomplished, there still remain the other purposes which all the Powers have in common, which are referred to in the communication of the Russian Chargé, and which were specifically enumerated in our note to the Powers of July 3.

"These are: To afford all possible protection everywhere in China to foreign life and property; to guard and protect all legitimate foreign interests; to aid in preventing the spread of the disorders to other provinces of the Empire and a recurrence of such disorders, and to seek a solution which may bring about permanent safety and peace to China, preserve Chinese territorial and administrative entity, protect all rights guaranteed by treaty and international law to friendly Powers, and safeguard for the world the principle of equal and impartial trade with all parts of the Chinese Empire.

"In our opinion these purposes could best be attained by the joint occupation of Peking under a definite understanding between the Powers until the Chinese Government shall have been re-established and shall be in a position to enter into new treaties with adequate provisions for reparation and guarantees of future protection. With the establishment and recognition of such authority the United States would wish to withdraw its military forces from Peking and remit to the processes of peaceful negotiation our just demands.

"We consider, however, that a continued occupation of Peking would be ineffective to produce the desired result, unless all the Powers unite therein with entire harmony of purpose. Any Power which determines to withdraw its troops from Peking will necessarily proceed thereafter to protect its interests in China by its own method, and we think that this would make a general withdrawal expedient. As to the time and manner of withdrawal, we think that, in view of the imperfect knowledge of the military situation resulting from the interruptions of telegraphic communication, the several military commanders at Peking should be instructed to confer and agree together upon the withdrawal as a concerted movement as they agreed upon the advance.

"The result of these considerations is that, unless there is such a general expression by the Powers in favor of continued occupation as to modify the views expressed by the Government of Russia and lead to a general agreement for continued occupation, we shall give instructions to the commander of the American forces in China to withdraw our troops from Peking after due conference with the other commanders as to the time and manner of withdrawal.

"The Government of the United States is much gratified by the assurance given by Russia that the occupation of New-Chwang is for military purposes incidental to the military steps for the security of the Russian border provinces menaced by the Chinese, and that as soon as order shall be re-established Russia will retire her troops from those places if the action of the other Powers be not an obstacle thereto. No obstacle in this regard can arise through any action of the United States, whose policy is fixed and has been repeatedly proclaimed. ALVEY A. ADEE, Acting Secretary."

Prince Ching and Li Hung Chang having announced their appointment as plenipotentiaries, the United States, September 21, accepted them as the immediate representatives of the Chinese Emperor for preliminary negotiations looking to the resumption of Imperial authority at Peking and toward the negotiation of a complete settlement, and on the same day, in reply to a proposal from Germany, made the following declaration:

Negotiations for a Settlement.

"The Government of the United States has from the outset proclaimed its purpose to hold to the uttermost accountability the responsible authors of any wrongs done in China to citizens of the United States and their interests, as was stated in the Government's circular communication to the Powers of July 3 last. These wrongs have been committed not alone in Peking, but in many parts of the Empire, and their punishment is believed to be an essential element of any effective settlement which shall prevent a recurrence of such outrages and bring about permanent safety and peace in China.

"It is thought, however, that no punitive measures can be so effective by way of reparation for wrongs suffered and as deterrent examples for the future as the degradation and punishment of the responsible authors by the supreme Imperial authority itself, and it seems only just to China that she should be afforded in the first instance an opportunity to do this and thus rehabilitate herself before the world.

"Believing thus, and without abating in anywise its deliberate purpose to exact the fullest accountability from the responsible authors of the wrongs we have suffered in China, the Government of the United States is not disposed, as a preliminary condition to entering into diplomatic negotiations with the Chinese Government, to join in a demand that said Government surrender to the Powers such persons as, according to the determination of the Powers themselves, may be held to be the first and real perpetrators of those wrongs.

"On the other hand, this Government is disposed to hold that the punishment of the high responsible authors of these wrongs, not only in Peking, but throughout China, is essentially a condition to be embraced and provided for in the negotiations for a final settlement. It is the purpose of this Government, at the earliest practicable moment, to name its plenipotentiaries for negotiating a settlement with China, and in the mean time to authorize its Minister in Peking to enter forthwith into conference with the duly authorized representatives of the Chinese Government, with a view of bringing about a preliminary agreement whereby the full exercise of the Imperial power for the preservation of order and the protection of foreign life and property throughout China, pending final negotiations with the Powers, shall be assured."

An Imperial edict dated September 25, deprived Princes Chwang, Yih, Tsai Lien and Tsai Ying of all rank and offices, Prince Tuan of office and pay and turned him over to the Imperial Clan Court to decide upon a severe penalty, and ordered that Kang Yi, Assistant Grand Secretary, and Chao Shu Chiao, president of the Board of Punishments, be handed over to the Board of Censors, all on account of responsibility for the attacks on foreigners.

The Emperor, October 14, thanked President McKinley for taking the initiative in using his good offices between China and the Powers. Great Britain and Germany on October 16 made the following agreement at London:

"Her Britannic Majesty's Government and the Imperial German Government, being desirous to maintain their interests in China and their rights under existing treaties, have agreed to observe the following principles in regard to their mutual policy in China:

"I. It is a matter of joint and permanent international interest that the ports on the rivers and littoral of China should remain free and open to trade and to every other legitimate form of economic activity for the nationals of all countries without distinction, and the two governments agree on their part to uphold the same for all Chinese territory so far as they can exercise influence.

"2. Her Britannic Majesty's Government and the Imperial German Government will not on their part make use of the present complication to obtain for themselves any territorial advantages in Chinese dominions and will direct their policy toward maintaining undiminished the territorial conditions of the Chinese Empire.

"3. In case of another Power making use of the complications in China in order to obtain under any form whatever such territorial advantages, the two contracting parties reserve to themselves to come to a preliminary understanding as to the eventual steps to be taken for the protection of their own interests in China.

"4. The two governments will communicate this agreement to the other Powers interested, and especially to Austro-Hungary, France, Italy, Japan, Russia and the United States of America, and will invite them to accept the principles recorded in the agreement."

The Peace Commission first met in Peking October 20, when the Chinese plenipotentiaries proposed an indemnity of $230,000,000, to be paid in 60 instalments, all customs and similar taxes in the mean time being placed under foreign control.

After a whole month spent in daily conferences, the Ministers of the Powers at Peking agreed, subject to the approval of their governments, upon a joint preliminary demand on China which, in general terms, embraced the following items: China shall inflict the death penalty on eleven guilty high officials and princes where the outrages occurred. The Taku forts and other forts on the coast of Chi-Li shall be razed, and the importation of arms and war material prohibited. Permanent legation guards shall be maintained, and also guards of communication between Peking and the sea. Imperial proclamations shall be posted for two years throughout the Empire suppressing Boxers. The Tsung-Li-Yamen as at present constituted shall be abolished, and its functions vested in a foreign minister, and rational intercourse shall be permitted with the Emperor as in civilized countries. Provincial examinations shall be suspended for five years, and in future all officials who have not made due effort to prevent outrages on foreigners within their jurisdiction shall be immediately removed from office and punished. The indemnity shall include compensation for the Chinese who suffered through being employed by foreigners. China shall erect a monument to Baron von Ketteler at the site of the murder and shall send an Imperial prince to Germany to convey an apology.

THE SOUTH AFRICAN WAR.

The war in South Africa followed protracted controversies and negotiations between the Transvaal Government and the British Colonial Office. On the Dutch side it has been claimed that the Transvaal was not coveted by the English until the gold deposits of the Rand were discovered; that the Jameson raid was a warning that the territories of the South African Republic would be seized forcibly; that the negotiations with the Colonial Office disclosed a menace of intervention in violation of the Convention of 1884, and that President Krüger's ultimatum was not delivered until the British reserves had been called out and the Dutch republics compelled to take up arms in defence of their liberties and independence. On the English side it has been asserted that the Boers were dealt with justly and magnanimously at the close of their first war of independence; that the Jameson raid was condemned by the British Government, and that the military leaders of the movement were tried, convicted and punished with imprisonment; that the object of the negotiations was to secure in the Transvaal the same equality of political rights which the English and the Dutch enjoyed in Cape Colony and Natal; that there was an armed conspiracy against British interests in South Africa, and that President Krüger's ultimatum rendered a battle for empire inevitable. The equities of these claims are not easily balanced, but the chief cause of the war may be stated without prejudice as an irreconcilable feud between two white races in a country containing the richest gold fields in the world.

The Orange Free State had no grievances of its own, but was drawn into the war by sympathy with the South African Republic, which considered its independence involved in the questions of franchise and suzerainty raised by the British Government in the protracted negotiations. The two republics began to mobilize their forces after British reinforcements had been ordered to Natal and the Colonial Office had warned President Krüger (September 12, 1899) of the danger of further delay in dealing with the franchise. The British reserves were called out (October 7) and two days later the Transvaal Government presented an ultimatum requiring within forty-eight hours the withdrawal of British troops from the frontiers and the return of all reinforcements ordered to South Africa since June. On October 12 the Boer troops crossed the Natal frontier, and in the west, by the derailment of an armored train at Kraai Pan, isolated Mafeking, while further south Kimberley was invested. The Boers struck the first blows, but in doing so scattered their forces instead of concentrating them against Ladysmith and overrunning Natal before British reinforcements could arrive. Kimberley, where Colonel Kekewich with 4,200 regulars and irregulars was in command, was under siege from the middle of October; Mafeking, where Colonel Baden-Powell had organized a force of 1,000 volunteers, was closely invested on October 17; Griqualand West and Southern Bechuanaland were invaded, and on November 1 the Orange River was crossed and Aliwal North, Stormberg, Colesberg and other towns in Cape Colony were occupied. This diversion of forces impaired the advantage of superiority of military resources and deprived the Boers of the opportunity of delivering a deadly blow in Natal.

Strength of the Boer Forces.

The Boer forces had been estimated in advance by the Intelligence Department of the British War Office at 54,000 men, and these figures were subsequently raised to 64,000 by 5,000 recruits from Cape Colony and 5,000 foreigners and mercenaries. These estimates were exaggerated without doubt. There were 16,000 prisoners at the close of the war and not more than 7,000 in service for guerilla operations. Probably the Boer forces never exceeded 36,000 at the strongest, and many experts have placed the figures as low as 25,000. It was a mounted army of trained riflemen, expert in taking cover, exceptionally mobile, unencumbered with baggage and well armed and provided with effective artillery. The details of military armament are uncertain, but the Boers certainly had as many as 100 guns of all classes, including a few fortress guns sufficiently mobile to be carried about by the commandoes among the mountains. The discipline of this army was indifferent from lack of cohesion, but the fighting unit was a good shot, with all the craft of a hunter. For defensive purposes the world has perhaps never seen anything better than the Boer commandoes, and they had the advantage of interior lines of communication, perfect knowledge of the country and a neutral base of supplies at Delagoa Bay. They were weakest in attack, and their victories could not be pressed home because their operations were not directed by a single mind, but by military councils.

At the outbreak of the war the British had about 19,000 troops, including the irregulars at Mafeking and Kimberley, and about 54 serviceable guns. While the situation had been saved by the arrival of 9,000 troops from India and England early in October, there was an interval of six weeks before the army corps mobilized in the United Kingdom could be available for active operations. The garrisons of Kimberley and Mafeking were left dependent upon their own resources, and there were only a few thin battalions to guard railway junctions so important as De Aar and Naauwpoort. In Northern Natal there was a British force of 12,000 men, afterward increased to 15,000, but instead of being massed at Ladysmith and Colenso it was divided between Ladysmith and Glencoe from political considerations. The defensive arrangements on the British side could hardly have been worse. Not even Ladysmith was naturally defensible, for the town lay in a bowl among hills and was surrounded by mountains, and while there were large depots of miscellaneous military supplies, there were no guns of position, and both food and ammunition were inadequate for a long siege. The British commander, Sir George White, had arrived only five days before the outbreak of war. There had been no systematic preparations for the defence of the British possessions, since the Government in London had not expected war and had been taken by surprise.

The opening operations in Natal were well planned on the Boer side, but not skilfully executed. Three columns under Joubert, Viljoen and Meyer made a concerted advance upon Glencoe for the purpose of isolating and crushing the detached brigade under General Symons, but the movements were not accurately timed and the Biggarsberg passes were not seized. General Meyer's force occupied Talana Hill and bombarded the British camp. General Symons carried the hill by assault (October 20), falling mortally wounded, but his cavalry following retreating Boers encountered a reserved force and was roughly handled. On the same day General French attacked and routed a Boer force near Elandslaagte, between Ladysmith and Glencoe. These two British victories did not repair original error of the separation of the two armies, and General Yule was compelled to conduct a perilous retreat from Glencoe, abandoning his wounded men. This retreat was covered by another action at Rietfontein, which was brought on by Sir George White. When the junction of the two British forces was effected after these three victories, with casualty lists exceeding 900, Ladysmith was exposed to an enveloping movement by a superior force. Sir George White planned a counter stroke (October 30) by sending a column of 1,200 men to seize Nicholson's Nek on the extreme left while he attacked the Boer centre. This battle ended disastrously, the fighting in the centre being indecisive, while the column at Nicholson's Nek was surrounded and compelled to surrender. The only compensating advantage was that time was gained for allowing a naval brigade with five guns of long range to reinforce the garrison before the investment of Ladysmith was completed (November 2).

General Buller's Plan of Campaign.

Sir Redvers Buller, who assumed command of the British forces in South Africa only a few days before Ladysmith was cut off from Lower Natal, had expected to mass an army corps of three divisions for a direct march through the Free State to Pretoria. With Ladysmith beleaguered and inadequately supplied with ammunition, and with only two battalions available for the defence of Lower Natal, he did not venture to carry out this plan of campaign. The first battalions of reinforcements were dispatched to Natal, where they began to disembark on November 12. An armored train was derailed near Chieveley and a British detachment captured by the Boers, and the invasion of Lower Natal, tardily begun, was pressed with vigor from Colenso as far south as Nottingham Road. General Hildyard attacked this raiding force (November 23), which finally retired to Colenso. Two of the three divisions of reinforcements were diverted to Natal, and General Buller himself took command of the bulk of his army. The third division, under Lord Methuen, was sent north from De Aar for the relief of Kimberley, which was besieged by the Boers under General Cronje. General French with a small cavalry force was stationed at Naauwpoort to operate against Colesberg, and General Gatacre with a feeble body of infantry was placed on guard against a superior Boer force at Stormberg. The troops mobilized in England at the outbreak of the war did not exceed 50,000 men, with 114 guns, and the strength of the mounted force was 3,800. It was utterly inadequate, as the sequel proved. The British army, including colonial contingents and Natal and Cape Colony volunteers, exceeded 250,000 men before the close of operations.

General Buller could not have set the army corps in motion from the Orange River to Bloemfontein without abandoning Ladysmith to its fate and exposing Lower Natal to invasion. He could not have massed the army corps in Natal without disheartening the garrisons of Mafeking and Kimberley and instigating a general rebellion in the Dutch districts of Cape Colony. He adopted a compromise course and brought on the most serious reverses which England had known since Yorktown. General Gatacre planned a night attack upon Stormberg, but his feeble force was caught in an ambuscade by the Boers (December 10) and narrowly escaped annihilation, 632 men being taken prisoners. Lord Methuen, advancing (November 21) to the relief of Kimberley with 7,500 infantry and 500 mounted men, delivered frontal attacks upon an inferior force, strongly entrenched at Belmont and Enslin, and fought a fierce engagement at Modder River (November 28) with a Boer force of 7,000 burghers, compelling it to retreat after nightfall when General Pole-Carew with a few battalions had turned the position. The British casualties were over 800 in these battles, and a halt was required until the strength of the column could be raised to 13,000 men. On December 11 a frontal attack was made at daybreak upon the centre of the Boer position at Magersfontein and the Highland Brigade was repulsed, General Wauchope being killed, and the British army retired to Modder River after losing 970 men in killed, wounded and prisoners. In Natal an even greater disaster was in reserve. General Buller delivered a frontal attack upon the Boer position at Colenso, and returned to camp after losing ten guns and putting 1,125 men out of action. Colonel Long was responsible for the loss of the guns, but the battle was badly planned, not more than one-half of the force being engaged and no attempt having been made to clear the south bank of the river before forcing its passage. The Boer losses in all these battles were trivial.

Lord Roberts Placed in Command.

The army corps had been divided and three sections of it defeated. General French alone had been conspicuously successful in handling his troops, and even in front of Colenso there had been a reverse, for the Suffolk regiment failed in a night attack, with a stampede after heavy losses. Mafeking and Kimberley were making a most gallant defence and General White had ordered two successful sorties from Ladysmith; but the relief of the three beleaguered post garrisons was apparently remote. The main British columns had been held up and the campaign completely blocked by Boer farmers unskilled in strategy and the science of war. It was a crisis in the fortunes of the British Empire, but it was met with courage and determination by the Salisbury Government. Lord Roberts was ordered to South Africa as commander-in-chief, with Lord Kitchener at his right hand; the Sixth, Seventh and Eighth divisions were mobilized; battalions of militia were sent out with a picked body of volunteers and yeomanry; the artillery service was strengthened and a large mounted force recruited, and every offer of assistance from the Colonies, especially Canada, Australia and New-Zealand, was accepted. Before the close of the war Canada had provided 4,000 and Australia 8,000 troops, and Natal and Cape Colony over 20,000 volunteers.

Before the campaign could be reorganized a second attempt was made for the relief of Ladysmith. General Buller ordered the Fifth Division, under General Warren, into Natal, and made preparations for a turning movement on the Upper Tugela River. Before the column was in motion the Boers delivered a desperate assault upon Ladysmith (January 6), but were repulsed after capturing three times the British rifle pits. General White's losses in this battle were 500, and the victory was won by soldiers on short rations and enfeebled by disease. General Buller's army crossed the Tugela (January 16 and 17) and after a futile attempt to turn the Boer position made a deliberate frontal attack upon it by slow approaches. The crest of Spion Kop was captured by a storming party (January 23), but the Boers under General Louis Botha attacked the position with great determination. After nightfall Colonel Thorneycroft ordered a retreat, although his command had been reinforced to 5,050, and General Buller's army retired across the Tugela after 1,733 men had been put out of action. The British defeat at Spion Kop was due to defective signalling and to misunderstandings and jealousies of the generals, and Lord Roberts, after censuring Colonel Thorneycroft and General Buller, transferred General Warren to a command in Cape Colony.

The hopes of the British Empire now centred upon Lord Roberts. He had arrived at Cape Town on January 10 and had not interfered with General Buller's operations on the Tugela, but had busied himself in encouraging volunteering in Cape Colony and in making radical changes in the transport service and in preparing for his own plan of campaign. He adroitly created the impression that a direct advance would be made from the Orange River upon Bloemfontein after General Gatacre had captured Stormberg and General French had occupied Colesberg. General French's army was reinforced, and in consequence of his brilliant manœuvres around Colesberg the Boers diverted several commandoes from Magersfontein to the Orange River. In order to conceal his real purposes Lord Roberts also directed General Buller to make a third demonstration for the relief of Ladysmith. This was hardly more than a feint. General Coke conducting a reconnoissance against the eastern spurs of Spion Kop and General Lyttelton crossing the Tugela and attacking Vaal Krantz. The army retired to camp (February 8) with 370 casualties, after preventing a movement of the Boer forces eastward to Lord Roberts's real theatre of operations, which was Modder River, where Lord Methuen's army had remained idle since Magersfontein. Even there a false impression had been produced by an apparently aimless advance of the Highland Brigade to Koodoosberg (February 5).

A Series of British Victories.

Lord Roberts arrived at Modder River (February 9) after having secretly withdrawn General French with a large cavalry force from Colesberg, and having massed the Sixth and Seventh divisions for a wide turning movement for encircling General Cronje's army at Magersfontein and relieving Kimberley. The advance began February 11, Lord Roberts having an army of 35,000 men with 150 guns, about 7,000 troops being mounted. There was a skirmish at the Riet River and another at Jacobsdal; the two divisions wheeled around Magersfontein as a pivot, and General French's cavalry rode into Kimberley, where the garrison had been reduced to great straits from lack of food. A portion of the Boer force retreated northward and the remainder, under General Cronje, evacuated Magersfontein and marched rapidly along the Modder River eastward, with Lord Kitchener and the Sixth Division in hot pursuit. Undeterred by the loss of an immense convoy which was captured at the Riet, Lord Roberts dispatched General French's cavalry and three infantry divisions to Koodoosrand and enveloped General Cronje's force, which was entrenched at the bottom of the river. The first attempt to carry the position (February 18), for which Lord Kitchener was responsible, failed, the British casualties being very heavy. The Boer camp was gradually approached and steadily bombarded; General De Wet and General Botha were beaten back when they attempted to relieve General Cronje; and after the Canadian infantry had gallantly pushed forward their trenches the entire force of 4,100 burghers, with six guns, was compelled to surrender on the anniversary of Majuba (February 27). The British casualties during the fortnight were 1,534.

Ladysmith Relieved.

The relief of Ladysmith occurred almost simultaneously with Lord Roberts's victories. General Buller began by clearing the south bank opposite Colenso, capturing in turn Cingolo, Monte Cristo and Hlangwane, and finally crossing the Tugela (February 21). Fighting continued for several days on the slopes of Grobler's Kloof and south of Pieters, and when frontal attacks had failed there was a turning movement eastward, the river being twice crossed and the Boer positions were carried. Ladysmith, in terrible extremity, was relieved after a siege of 118 days, when the garrison had lost 247 men in battle and 600 from disease and 636 men had been wounded. General Buller's casualties in the final movement were 1,895. The Boers retired with their guns to the Biggarsberg, and active operations in Upper Natal were suspended until May. Meanwhile, Lord Roberts, hampered by loss of horses and failure of transport, was moving steadily from Paardeberg to Bloemfontein. He defeated the Boers at Poplar Grove (March 7) and again at Driefontein (March 10), but owing to his cavalry being largely unhorsed was unable to cut off their retreat. Bloemfontein was entered (March 13) after a most exhausting series of marches, and communications were gradually opened with the Orange River. General Clements, exposed to a superior force after the withdrawal of General French's cavalry, had been compelled to retire to Rensberg (February 12) and subsequently to Arundel, the Wiltshire regiment meeting with serious losses; but Lord Roberts's victories enabled him to advance to Colesberg and finally to cross the Orange River (March 15). General Gatacre, after occupying Stormberg (March 6), crossed the Orange River at Bethulie (March 15), and General Brabant completed the deliverance of the Dutch section of Cape Colony from invasion by driving the Boers out of Dordracht and advancing to Aliwal North. The southern section of the Orange Free State was penetrated by British columns in various directions and the railway was strongly guarded as the new line of supplies; but a large Boer force was enabled to retreat along the border of Basutoland. A long halt followed the occupation of Bloemfontein. It was necessary to reclothe the soldiers, to rehorse the cavalry, to accumulate supplies and to reorganize the army. The Boers, encouraged by this delay, regained their spirits, and under the direction of General Botha, who had assumed supreme command after the death of General Joubert, delivered a series of harassing counter strokes by attacking detached British columns which were marching through the country and collecting arms. The first British mishap was the ambuscade of four officers of the Guards, who were either killed or wounded. This was followed by an action at Karree, followed by a Boer retreat. Colonel Broadwood with a mounted column was attacked by a superior Boer force, and in retreating from Thaba N'chu his batteries and convoy were surprised at Sanna's Post (March 31) and seven guns and 425 men captured. The waterworks of Bloemfontein were taken and held by the Boers, and an outbreak of enteric fever in the British camp cost as many as 2 000 lives. Another British column was surrounded at Reddersburg and over 400 prisoners were taken, after an ineffectual attempt on the part of General Gatacre to rescue them—a failure which involved his return to England. The Boers also invested Wepener, where Colonel Dalgetty with a Colonial garrison was intrenched. In West Griqualand a Dutch rebellion had broken out and several columns had been sent to Prieska to suppress it. Lord Methuen had succeeded in surrounding a small raiding force near Boshof and in killing a French officer, Colonel Villebois-Mareuil.

The Advance Upon Pretoria.

Late in April Lord Roberts, with eight infantry divisions, two mounted divisions, 5,000 yeomanry and 15,000 militia, nearly 100,000 men in the aggregate, was ready to resume operations. He began by a concerted movement for the envelopment of the Boer forces, but only succeeded in clearing the eastern flank and in relieving Wepener. The Boers retreated from Dewetsdorp to Thaba N'chu, and General Olivier retired northward from Wepener. Leaving the Sixth Division at Bloemfontein and General Rundle with two divisions to guard the flank, Lord Roberts headed the direct advance upon Pretoria on May 3. As soon as he started the relief of Mafeking was undertaken—a measure which was impracticable so long as the Boers were not fully occupied elsewhere. Colonel Mahon with 1,200 mounted men left Barkly West on May 4, while General Hunter with the Tenth Division forced the passage of the Vaal at Windsorton and helped to conceal the march of the flying column. After a skirmish with the Boers at Kraai Pan (May 13) Colonel Mahon joined forces with Colonel Plumer, who had been repeatedly thwarted in attempts to raise the siege of Mafeking. The combined columns, strengthened by a portion of General Carrington's force from Rhodesia, defeated the Boers and entered Mafeking (May 17), where Colonel Baden-Powell had ended a most brilliant seven months' defence by repulsing a desperate sortie and capturing a considerable number of the assailants. Lord Roberts's advance was rapidly conducted with two columns under Generals Pole-Carew and Hamilton, moving northward on parallel lines, and General French with the cavalry turning one position after another. Brandfort and Winburg were entered during the first week in May; the Vet and the Zand rivers were crossed after sharp skirmishing; Kroonstad was occupied (May 12), and the annexation of the Orange River Colony was proclaimed. After a short halt the Rhenoster was crossed and finally the passage of the Vaal River was made without a battle. In the Transvaal there was desultory skirmishing, but Johannesburg was occupied (May 31) with slight resistance. There was an engagement with the Boer rear guard at Six Mile Spruit and Pretoria was entered (June 5), after President Krüger had abandoned his capital and General Botha had retreated with his guns. The release of a large body of British prisoners was at once effected. Meanwhile the Boers in the Free State had delivered, under General De Wet's leadership, several brilliant counter strokes. Attacked by General Rundle near Senekal (May 28) they had brought about a drawn battle and had captured 460 yeomanry at Lindley. Suddenly swooping down upon the railway at Roodeval, they took 700 prisoners (June 6) and broke the line of communications with Pretoria. On June 14 there was a similar raid.

General Buller, after a long halt near Ladysmith, turned the Boer positions in the Biggarsberg and occupied Dundee (May 15) and subsequently Newcastle without arduous fighting and with only one untoward incident—the capture of a squadron of mounted infantry in ambush near Vryheld. After attempting to turn Laing's Nek through Utrecht he ordered an advance through Botha's Pass and compelled the abandonment of the tunnel (June 11), completing the expulsion of the Boers from Natal. General Hunter's division, which had marched from the west to Johannesburg, occupied Heidelburg, and on June 23 General Buller's army, after advancing to Standerton, got into touch with Lord Roberts's forces and opened a second line of communication with Pretoria. While columns were sent across the western district of the Transvaal under General Baden-Powell, Lord Methuen and other commanders, the next serious undertaking was the pacification of the northeastern corner of the Orange River Colony. General Hunter conducted these operations with the ald of Generals Clements, Macdonald and Rundle. The Boer position south of Bethlehem was attacked (July 21), Fouriesburg occupied and General Prinsloo's army finally surrounded and compelled to surrender (July 31), with 4,000 prisoners of war. General Ollvier with a small force escaped, but was subsequently captured in a skirmish, and General De Wet, with 2,000 men, had broken through the cordon closely pursued by Britisb cavalry. Repulsed near Lindley, he captured a supply train and broke communications with Pretoria near Honing Spruit, and after halting at Vredevort eluded an enveloping movement planned by Lord Kitchener and retired into the Western Transvaal, only to reappear subsequently with a small force south of the Vaal. Lord Roberts after defeating General Botha east of Pretoria in a two days' battle (June 11-12) was forced to halt until General Hunter's work in the Bethlehem district was completed, and when he finally began the eastern march toward Komatipoort he was held back by raiding operations in the Western Transvaal and the investment of various isolated British garrisons. He occupied Middelburg after a single serious engagement, and Belfast on August 24. General Buller co-operating with him by advancing northward through Ermelo. The British prisoners at Waterval were released; Lydenburg was occupied by General Buller after sharp skirmishing in the mountain passes; Barberton was entered by General French, and the Guards finally reached the Portuguese frontier at Komatipoort. The Boers destroyed many of their guns and their army became utterly demoralized. Many laid down their arms in Portuguese territory, and the army which had successfully held Magersfontein, Colenso and Spion Kop ceased to exist as an organized fighting force.

President Krüger had taken refuge at Delagoa Bay after the annexation of the Transvaal had been proclaimed, and finally sailed for Europe in a Dutch man of war. General Botha resigned command and only guerilla warfare remained, small bands of irreconcilable Boers continuing to wreck trains and to swoop down upon unprotected posts throughout the Dutch territories. Months of arduous police work will be required before South Africa can be pacified, and the presence of a large British garrison will be indispensable. The two Boer colonies have been devastated from end to end and the immense droves of horses and cattle which once constituted their agricultural wealth have disappeared. There are no accurate statistics of the Boer losses in battle and from disease, but the population has been decimated, impoverished and rendered desperate. The death list on the British side from all causes approximates 10,000, and the number of wounded exceeds 15,000. The money cost of the war cannot be less than $500,000,000. Two colonies have been gained in which processes of reconstruction will be retarded by race feuds and resentment. British prestige has not been increased by a campaign which involves the necessity for a complete and radical reform and reorganization of the military service. The only adequate compensation for the conflict has been the strengthening of the bonds between England and her loyal colonies, with a tremendous impulse imparted to the cause of Imperial Federation.

The Transvaal Annexed.

On October 20 President Krüger sailed from Lourenço Marques for Europe on the Dutch cruiser Gelderland. Owing to his ill health the cruiser was obliged to slacken speed, but on November 7 arrived at Ras Jibutil, on the Abyssinian coast, reaching Suez on November 15, and sailing the next day. The cruiser arrived at Marseilles on November 21, too late for President Krüger to land, and on November 22 he was formally welcomed with a great outburst of popular sympathy. The streets were crowded and the city gave itself up to a holiday. Police precautions had been taken to prevent demonstrations of a nature offensive to England, and there were no marked cases of disorder. His trip from Marseilles to Paris was more like that of a conquering hero than a refugee official, demonstrations similar to that at Marseilles taking place at Tarascon, Avignon, Lyons, Dijon and other places. His arrival at Paris was the occasion for an outbreak of pro-Boer enthusiasm, but the net result of his trip in aid to the Boer cause was nothing. After leaving Paris he started for Berlin, but at Cologne he was met by an envoy of the Emperor, who informed him that the Kaiser was unwilling to receive him.

Krüger's Visit to France.

Lord Roberts cabled from Johannesburg, November 28, that General De Wet had captured the Dewetsdorp garrison, of two guns of the 68th Field Artillery, with detachments of the Gloucestershire regiment, the Highland light infantry and Irish Rifles, 400 in all. The British losses were 15 men killed and 42 wounded.

A plot to assassinate Lord Roberts was revealed in November. The conspirators laid a mine which was designed to be blown up while Lord Roberts was in St. Mary's Church at Johannesburg, during the morning service of November 18. The plot was discovered November 16, and five Italians, four Greeks and a Frenchman were placed under arrest.

On December 1 Lord Kitchener was promoted to supreme command in South Africa and Lord Roberts started for England. Warm receptions were given him on the way, especially when the cruiser Canada, on which he sailed, arrived at Port Elizabeth, Cape Colony. It was reported on December 7 that the Boer General De Wet was hard pressed at Aliwal North, General Knox dogging his steps. On tbe same date the authorities at Johannesburg, in pursuance of the reconcentrado policy, prepared accommodations on the racecourse for tbousands of people from the farms in the vicinity of the Rand.

Lord Kitchener Promoted.

CUBA.

Since the accomplishment of the sole purpose of the war with Spain—the liberation of the people of Cuba from intolerable oppression, and the removal from the immediate vicinity of United States territory of a continual source of disturbance—the promise of the Government at Washington to establish a free and independent republic on the island has been consistently and energetically pursued as expeditiously as the circumstances would warrant, culminating in the constitutional convention which met in Havana on November 5. General Leonard Wood succeeded General John R. Brooke as Governor-General on December 20, 1899. From that date there has been a steady diminution of the American garrisons and a rapid substitution of civil for military rule, notably marked by the general elections of June 15 and September 15, the former for municipal officers throughout the island and the latter for delegates to the constitutional convention called to assemble on November 5. Both elections were conducted without American officials, either military or civil, being at a single polling place, and without any interference whatever on the part of the United States authorities. There was not a single disturbance at either election. On January 12 General Wood issued an order to define the relations between the military and civil jurisdiction, in which the military, which had been practically supreme until that time, were forbidden to interfere in the conduct of civil affairs except in matters of sanitation. A summary of the progress made during the year is given by General Wood in the following brief abstract of his annual report: "The United States troops have not been used during the present year for the maintenance of order. The police work outside the principal municipalities is done by the rural guard, numbering about 1,200 men. These men and their officers are all Cubans. Over 3,000 public schools have been established, 3,600 teachers are employed in them, and 200,000 children are in the schools. The largest number of pupils under the Spanish rule was between 26,000 and 30,000. The salaries paid the teachers exceed any paid in the United States in corresponding grades with the exception of three of our largest cities. The trip of the 1,300 Cuban teachers to the United States in August was most beneficial and will, if possible, be repeated next year. All of the larger cities have undergone extensive street improvements, in fact the change in that particular since the American occupation has been most remarkable. Travellers can go from one end of Cuba to the other without being solicited by beggars, and hunger is absolutely a thing of the past. A thoroughly efficient mail service has been provided and is being conducted with efficiency and economy. Public works, involving millions of dollars, have been taken up and completed. Between 600 and 700 miles of first class roads have been built and many hundreds of miles have been put in repair and made passable. A complete overland telegraph system has been put in operation through all the provinces. The financial condition of the country is excellent. The government is entirely self-supporting, and the treasury has an unincumbered balance of $1,500,000. Municipalities are gradually assuming their financial obligations and responsibilities, and relieving the State of the care and expense for police, sanitation, etc., which will result in more money being available for public works of general utility. This year the sugar crop will be between 550,000 and 600,000 tons, and if the present prices continue the money obtained by the planters will equal the amount they received for their year of greatest production—1,000,000 tons. The value of this year's crop of sugar and the coming tobacco crop will be, conservatively, $100,000,000. In January and February all the prisons were overhauled and repaired and their sanitary conditions vastly improved. Hundreds of prisoners detained for long periods awaiting trial have been released after being held as long as they would have been imprisoned if found guilty of the charges for which they were arrested. Justice has been stimulated by every means. Judges who have been found derelict have been summarily dismissed, and every effort is being made to impress upon the community at large that individual rights and individual liberty are the foundations of every good and stable government. Correctional courts have been established in the larger cities where the trial is oral and summary, as in our police courts. When, in the opinion of the judge, the offence warrants a sentence greater than $10 or ten days, or both, a jury of five is regularly impanelled. These courts are limited to the imposition of sentences of six months' imprisonment or $180 fine, or both. Their success has been phenomenal, and while opposed at first, every town is now anxious to have one, and orders have been already issued establishing thirty more. The writ of habeas corpus will take effect on December 1, this year." Early in April last frauds were discovered in the postal administration. On May 16 E. P. Thompson, postmaster at Havana, confessed that he had taken $435 from the money order funds on September 16, 1899, and had covered up the defalcation from month to month, until United States postal inspectors discovered the discrepancy on April 17. Thompson made restitution of the amount, but with W. H. Reeves, deputy auditor for the island, he was imprisoned May 16. On the same day Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General Bristow started from Washington to investigate the frauds. He reported on July 25 that the total embezzlement was at least $131,713 89, and would not exceed $150,000. He found that Estes G. Rathbone, Director-General of Posts, had been guilty of official malfeasance, and on July 28 that officer was dismissed from the service, arrested in Havana for misappropriation of funds amounting to $4,000 and held in $25,000 bail. On May 6 Charles F. W. Neely, chief financial agent of the insular mail service, was arrested in Rochester, N. Y., charged with embezzlement of more than $30,000, and held for extradition. On August 13, when Judge Lacombe, in

New-York, was about to sign the papers returning Neely to Havana, he was stopped by an order remanding the accused to the custody of the United States marshal pending an appeal to the United States Supreme Court. Señor Salvador Cisneros y Betancourt, formerly President of the Cuban Revolutionary Republic, presented a memorial to President McKinley in Washington, on August 20, favoring the immediate independence of Cuba by the withdrawal of American forces. The population of Cuba, according to the census of October 16, 1899, was 1,572,797, against 1,631,687 under the Spanish census of 1887. The density was 35.7 inhabitants to the square mile, or about the same as that of Iowa. The urban population, including cities down to 1,000 inhabitants, constitutes 47.1 per cent of the total. The population of the city of Havana is 235,981; of Santiago, 43,039; of Matanzas, 36,374, and of Cienfuegos, 30,038. Cuba has 57,613 more males than females. The native whites number 910,299; colored, 520,300; mixed, 270,805; foreign whites, 142,198, and Chinese, 14,857. Of the 1,215,810 persons over ten years of age, 688,555 could neither read nor write. The white Cuban citizens numbered 184,471, of whom 51 per cent could not read or write, and the colored citizens numbered 106,214, of whom 74 per cent could not read.

PORTO RICO.

The military administration of Porto Rico ceased on May 1, 1900, when Charles H. Allen, of Massachusetts, was installed as Governor of the island and the civil government was instituted in conformity with the act of Congress approved April 12, 1900. The change was effected without the slightest friction, so thoroughly had the new order of affairs been anticipated by General George W. Davis, the commanding general and military executive. The departments, bureaus and other branches of the new system, both insular and municipal, had been gradually formed; the courts of the island were all in the discharge of their functions; educational funds were being applied to the instruction, according to modern American methods, of more than 30,000 children; the taxation laws had been so changed that very heavy burdens had been removed from the poor; the public highways were in fine condition and were being rapidly extended, and, through the judicious distribution of food and clothing, most of the suffering following the devastating hurricane of August, 1899, had been relieved. In office in every municipality were officers chosen by the electors, life and property were everywhere secure without the protection of troops, and there was a balance of $300,000 in the insular treasury. This had been accomplished, notwithstanding losses incurred by the inhabitants from disturbances of trade relations, from unsettled currency conditions and from the almost overwhelming disaster of the hurricane which destroyed seven-tenths of the maturing crops. Since May 1, 1900, commerce with the United States increased more than 50 per cent over that of the same period of the preceding year, and the exports of the island were more than three times as great as in the corresponding months of 1896 under Spanish rule. The population of Porto Rico under the census of October 16, 1899, was 953,243, the excess of females over males being 8,721. The density is 264 persons to the square mile, about the same as that of Massachusetts, and more than seven times that of Cuba. Divided by races, there are 589,426 whites, 59,390 negroes, 304,352 persons of mixed blood, and 75 Chinese. Of the total inhabitants, 98.5 per cent are native born. Nearly 100,000 citizens registered in October to vote at the November elections for the legislative assembly. The Porto Rican budget for the fiscal year 1900-'01, issued by the Executive Council July 3, estimates the receipts at $2,014,608, and the expenditures at $1,984,645. Since the American occupation, two years ago, there has been no invasion of the island by contagious or infectious diseases. The experiment of native soldiers has been a very marked success. One battalion is mounted upon native horses. The regiment is declared to compare favorably with American regulars as respects health, sobriety and availability for duty.

TERRITORIAL GROWTH OF THE UNITED STATES.

The original territory of the United States comprised 827,844 square miles; transferred from Great Britain by Treaty of Paris, September 3, 1783. The present total area of the United States (main body) is 3,090,777 square miles; total area of outlying territory, 747,733 square miles; aggregate, 3,838,510 square miles.

LOUISIANA TERRITORY (1,171,931 square miles).—Purchased from France, by treaty, April 30, 1803, for $15,000,000.

FLORIDA PROVINCES (59,268 square miles).—Purchased from Spain, by treaty, February 22, 1819, for $5,000,000.

OREGON (291,000 square miles).—By discovery, 1792; exploration, 1805-'06; settlement, 1811; and treaties with France (1803), Spain (1819), Russia (1825) and England (1846).

TEXAS ANNEXATION (376,133 square miles).—By convention with Texas Republic, March 2, 1845, and payment of $10,000,000.

MEXICAN CESSION (first, 545,783 square miles).—By conquest and purchase from Mexico for $15,000,000, Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, February 2, 1848. Second cession (45,535 square miles).—Purchased from Mexico for $10,000, by Gadsden Treaty, December 30, 1853.

ALASKA (577,390 square miles).—Purchased from Russia, March 30, 1867, for $7,200,000.

HAWAII (6,567 square miles).—Annexed by joint resolution of Congress, July 6, 1898.

SPANISH CESSIONS.—Porto Rico, 3,531 square miles; Philippines, 114,361 square miles; Guam, 100 square miles. By Treaty of Paris, December 10, 1898, and payment to Spain of $20,000,000 for the Philippines.

[1]By "spot" value is meant value at the point of production. [2]Long tons are tons of 2,240 avoirdupois pounds; short tons are tons of 2,000 avoirdupois pounds. [3]Iron ore 1892: 16,296,666 long tons; value at mines: $33,204,896. 1893: 11,587,629 long tons; value at mines: $19,265,973. 1894: 11,879,679 long tons; value at mines: $13,577,325. 1895: 15,957,614 long tons; value at mines: $18,219,684. 1896: 16,005,449 long tons; value at mines: $22,788,069. 1897: 17,518,046 long tons; value at mines: $18,953,221. 1898: 19,433,716 long tons; value at mines: $22,060,887. 1899: 24,683,173 long tons; value at mines: $34,999,077. [4]Figures of production furnished by the Bureau of the Mint, Treasury Department; coining value, $1.2929 per troy ounce; commercial value 1895, $36,445,000; 1896, $39,655,000; 1897, $32,316,000; 1898, $32,118,420; 1899, $32,858,700. [5]Figures of production furnished by the Bureau of the Mint, Treasury Department; coining value, $20.6718 per troy ounce. [6]Including copper made from imported pyrites. [7]The product from domestic ores only. [8]Of 76½ avoirdupois pounds net. [9]Includes antimony smelted from imported ores, in 1899, 83 per cent. [10]Including nickel in copper-nickel alloy, and in exported ore and matte. [11]Including brown coal and lignite, and anthracite mined elsewhere than in Pennsylvania. [12]Of 42 gallons. [13]Of 300 pounds for natural cement, and 400 pounds for artificial Portland. [14]Not including limestone for iron flux, or grindstones. [15]Of 280 pounds net. The reduced price in 1893 is due to omitting cost of packages. [16]Including metallic paints, ochre, umber, venetian red, sienna, ground soapstone, ground slate, and mineral black. [17]Including building sand, glass sand, iron ore used as flux in lead smelting, tin ore, nitrate of soda, carbonate of soda, sulphate of soda, and alum clays used by paper manufacturers. *Crystalline, pounds. †Amorphous, tons. ‡Sheet, pounds. Scrap, tons.

VARIOUS MONEYS OF CIRCULATION.

There are ten different kinds of money in circulation in the United States, namely: Gold coins, standard silver dollars, subsidiary silver, gold certificates, silver certificates, Treasury notes issued under the act of July 14, 1890; United States notes (also called greenbacks and legal tenders), National bank notes, and nickel and bronze coins. These forms of money are all available as circulation. Gold coin is legal tender at its nominal or face value for all debts, public and private, when not below the standard weight and limit of tolerance prescribed by law; and when below such standard of tolerance it is legal tender in proportion to its weight. Standard silver dollars are legal tender at their nominal or face value in payment of all debts, public and private, without regard to the amount, except where otherwise expressly stipulated in the contract. Subsidiary silver is legal tender for amounts not exceeding $10 in any one payment. Treasury notes of the act of July 14, 1890, are legal tender for all debts, public and private, except where otherwise expressly stipulated in the contract. United States notes are legal tender for all debts, public and private, except duties on imports and interest on the public debt. Gold certificates, silver certificates and National bank notes are not legal tender, but both classes of certificates are receivable for all public dues, while National bank notes are receivable for all public dues except duties on imports, and may be paid out by the Government for all salaries and other debts and demands owing by the United States to individuals, corporations and associations within the United States, except interest on the public debt, and in redemption of the National currency. All National banks are required by law to receive the notes of other National banks at par. The minor coins of nickel and copper are legal tender to the extent of 25 cents. The coinage of legal tender gold was authorized by the first coinage act, passed by Congress April 2, 1792. The gold unit of value is the dollar, which contains 25.8 grains of standard gold 900 fine. The amount of fine gold in the dollar is 23.22 grains, and the remainder of the weight is an alloy of copper. The total colnage of gold by the mints of the United States from 1792 to June 30, 1897, was $1,886,338.958, of which it is estimated that $671,676,250 is still in existence as coin in the United States, while the remainder has been exported or consumed in the arts. The silver unit is the dollar, which contains 412½ grains of standard silver 900 fine. The amount of fine silver in the dollar is 371¼ grains, and there are 41¼ grains of copper alloy. The standard silver dollar was first authorized by the act of April 2, 1792. The coinage of the standard silver dollar was discontinued by the act of February 12, 1873, and it was restored by the act of February 28, 1878. The total amount coined from 1792 to 1873 was $8,031,238, and the amount coined from 1878 to June 30, 1897, was $451,993,742. The coinage ratio between gold and silver under the act of 1792 was 15 to 1, but by the act of 1837 it was changed to 15.988 to 1 (commonly called 16 to 1).

COMPARISON OF PRICES.

The following are percentages of all quotations in each class to those of distant dates. They were collected through the agency of "Dun's Review." Hides, leather and boots and shoes compare with January 1, 1888, iron and products with January 1, 1887, and the textiles with January 1, 1860. The average is taken of ten grades of hides, ten of leather, twelve of boots and shoes, three of pig iron, eight products of iron, one hundred quotations of wool, ten of woollen goods, spot middling uplands of cotton, and ten grades of cotton goods:

Of course, it is not possible to make any allowance for the great improvements in the various manufactured articles, owing to better methods, but aside from this consideration, the first striking feature of the table is the enormous reduction in cost to the consumer of the finished product in every case, apparently regardless of the fluctuation in raw material. It will be noticed that even when hides were over 50 per cent higher than they were twelve years ago, the advance in leather was slight, and boots and shoes were about 4 per cent cheaper. Similarly in cotton goods, the highest average price during the last year was only about two-thirds the price in 1860, although the raw material on one or two occasions reached the exact price of forty years ago, but they did not fall on the dates used in the table, which are only taken for points of widest change in the aggregate. Prices of iron and steel were slightly above the range in 1887 for a short time when the raw material reached 11.5 per cent higher. The drop during the last year was sharp, but the average is still well above the figures of 1898. Variations were less extensive in woollens, quotations keeping well below the prices in 1860, and the great gain in appearance and wearing quality of the goods is well known, although designations remain unchanged.

INTERNATIONAL TRIBUNAL OF EGYPT.

In 1876, as the result of negotiations between the Ottoman and Egyptian governments and the various Christian Powers having representatives at Cairo, certain courts were created in Egypt for the trial of mixed civil causes arising between persons of different foreign nationalities, and suits of foreigners against natives, the Egyptian Government and members of the Khedival family. These mixed tribunals, in civil matters within their exclusive jurisdiction, superseded the consular courts. A mixed tribunal consists of five judges, three of whom are foreigners and two natives. The foreign judges are appointed by the Khedive on the recommendation of the great Powers, each of which is represented by from one to three judges. There are several tribunals of original jurisdiction (first instance) and a court of appeals at Alexandria. The United States is represented in these courts by the following judges:

Court of Appeals at Alexandria—Anthony M. Keilly, Virginia (app'd 1894).

Court of First Instance at Cairo—Geo. S. Batcheller, N. Y. (app'd 1897).

Court of First Instance at Mansourah—Somerville P. Tuck, New-York (appointed 1894).

UNITED STATES MILITARY ACADEMY.

The United States Military Academy at West Point was founded in 1802. Each Congress District and Territory—also the District of Columbia—is entitled to have one cadet at the academy, the cadet to be named by the Representative in Congress, and the person appointed must be an actual resident of the district or Territory from which the appointment is made. There are also 120 appointments at large at the disposition of the President. The number of students is thus limited to 481. Appointments are usually required to be made one year in advance of date of admission, and may he made either after competitive examination or given direct, at the option of the Representative. The Representative, should he desire, may nominate a legally qualified alternate, who will be examined with the regular nominee, and admitted in the event of his success and the latter's failure to pass the prescribed preliminary examinations. Appointees to the Military Academy must he between seventeen and twenty-two years of age at date of admission, at least five feet three inches in height, free from any infectious or moral disorder, and, generally, from any deformity, disease or infirmity; must he well versed in reading, in writing, including orthography, in arithmetic, and have a knowledge of the elements of English grammar, of descriptive geography (particularly of the United States), and of the history of the United States. The course of instruction, which is quite thorough, requires four years, and is largely mathematical and professional. The principal subjects taught are mathematics, French, drawing, tactics of all arms of the service, natural and experimental philosophy, chemistry, mineralogy, geology and electricity, history, international, constitutional and military law, Spanish, and civil and military engineering and science of war. Academic duties commence Septemher 1 and continue until June 1. Examinations are held in each January and June, and cadets found proficient in studies and correct in conduct are given the particular standing in their class to which their merits entitle them, while those cadets deficient in either conduct or studies are discharged. From ahout the middle of June to the end of August cadets live in camp, engaged only in military duties and receiving practical military instruction. Cadets are allowed hut one leave of ahsence during the four years' course, and, as a rule, it is granted at the expiration of the first two years. The pay of a cadet is $540 a year, and with proper economy is sufficient for his support. The number of students at the Academy last year was 429. Upon graduating cadets are commissioned as second lieutenants in the United States Army. The whole numher of graduates from 1802 to 1900 has heen 3,993.

MANNER OF APPLICATION.—Applications can be made at any time, hy letter, to the Secretary of War, to have the applicant's name registered for suhmission to the proper Representative when a vacancy occurs. The application must exhibit the full name, date of hirth and permanent abode of applicant, with the numher of the Congress district in which his residence is situated. Immediately after his admission, and before receiving his warrant of appointment, the cadet must sign the following engagement for service, in the presence of the Superintendent or some officer deputed by him: I, ——— ———, of the State (or Territory) of ———, aged —— years ——— months, do herehy engage (with the consent of my parent or guardian) that, from the date of my admission as a cadet of the United States Military Academy, I will serve in the Army of the United States for eight years, unless sooner discharged hy competent authority. In the presence ——, —— ———. The candidate must then take the following oath or affirmation: I, ——— ———, do solemnly swear that I will support the Constitution of the United States, and bear true allegiance to the National Government; that I will maintain and defend the sovereignty of the United States paramount to any and all allegiance, sovereignty or fealty I may owe to any State or country whatsoever, and that I will at all times obey the legal orders of my superior officers, and the rules and articles governing the armies of the United States.

†The maximum pay of a Colonel is, by law, $4,500 per annum.

‡The maximum pay of a Lieutenant Colonel is, by law, $4,000 per annum.

NOTES.—Under Sec. 1,261, Revised Statutes, an Aide-de-Camp to a Major-General is allowed $200 a year in addition to the pay of his rank, not to be included in computing the service increase; an Aide-de-Camp to a Brigadier-General, $150 a year, and an Acting Commissary of Subsistence $100 a year. Assistant Surgeons are entitled to pay of Captain after five years' service, service to be reckoned from date of acceptance of appointment or commission.

Retired officers receive 75 per cent of pay (salary and increase) of their rank. Retired officers detailed for duty at colleges under the act of November 3, 1893, are entitled to the full pay of officers of corresponding rank. Those detailed under other laws are not entitled to anything beyond their retired pay.

Mileage, from and after July 1, 1898, is allowed to officers travelling on duty under orders at the rate of seven cents per mile, by the shortest usually travelled routes. Commutation of quarters is paid at the rate of $12 per month per room.

The monthly pay of enlisted men in the Army is as follows: Artillery, infantry and cavalry—Privates, $13; corporals, $15; sergeants, $18; first sergeants, $25. Engineers and ordnance—Corporals, $20; sergeants, $34. The pay increases $1 per month each year during the term of the first five years' enlistment. For the second term of enlistment the pay is $2 per month above that of the last year of the first enlistment. The pay of others on the first year of enlistment is: Ordnance sergeant, commissary sergeant and post quartermaster sergeant, $34; hospital steward, $45; acting hospital steward, $25; senior veterinary surgeon, $100; junior veterinary surgeon, $75. There is, in addition, a clothing allowance. Twenty per cent increase on pay proper of all enlisted men is allowed in time of war. Enlisted men when retired are entitled to 75 per cent of the pay which they receive in active service.

NAVY PAY TABLE.

Section 13 of the Navy Personnel bill, which became a law on March 3, 1899, provided that "after June 30, 1899, commissioned officers of the line of the Navy and of the Medical and Pay Corps shall receive the same pay and allowances, except forage, as are or may be provided by or in pursuance of law for officers of corresponding rank in the Army: Provided, that such officers when on shore duty shall receive the allowances, but 15 per centum less pay than when on sea duty; but this provision shall not apply to warrant officers commissioned under Section 12 of this act. Provided further, that when naval officers are detailed for shore duty beyond seas they shall receive the same pay and allowances as are or may be provided by or in pursuance of law for officers of the Army detailed for duty in similar places." The pay of officers of the Army of and below the rank of colonel is increased 10 per cent for each five years of service in the grade, until the increase amounts to 40 per cent of the original pay, when no further increase may be made. The pay of a retired officer is 75 per cent of the highest pay of his grade on the active list.

The relative rank between officers of the Navy (whether on the active or retired list) and officers of the Army is as follows: Admiral with general, rear-admiral with major-general, captain with colonel, commander with lieutenant-colonel, lieutenant-commander with major, lieutenant with captain, lieutenant of junior grade with first lieutenant, ensign with second lieutenant. The following is the pay table:

U. S. NAVAL ACADEMY.

STUDENTS AND COURSE.—The students of the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., are styled Naval Cadets. One cadet is allowed for each member or delegate of the House of Representatives, one for the District of Columbia, and ten at large. No more than ten appointed at large are allowed in the Academy at any one time. The course of study is six years, four years at the Academy and two at sea, at the end of which time the cadet returns to the Academy for final graduation. The district then becomes vacant on completion of the cadet's four years' course at the Naval Academy.

NOMINATIONS.—The Secretary of the Navy, as soon after March 5 in each year as possible, notifies in writing each member or delegate of the House of Representatives of any vacancy in his district. The nomination of a candidate to fill the vacancy is made on the recommendation of the member or delegate, if such recommendation is made by July 1 of that year; but if it is not made by that time, the Secretary of the Navy shall fill the vacancy by appointment of an actual resident of the district in which the vacancy exists, who shall have been for at least two years immediately preceding the date of his appointment an actual and bona fide resident of the district in which the vacancy exists and of the legal qualification under the law as now provided. The candidate allowed for the District of Columbia and all the candidates appointed at large are selected by the President. Candidates allowed for Congressional districts, for Territories and for the District of Columbia must be actual residents of the districts or Territories from which they are nominated. And all candidates must, at the time of their examination for admission, be between the ages of fifteen and twenty, physically sound, well formed and of robust constitution.

*Officers of the Pay and Medical Corps receive the same pay as other officers with whom they rank.

ENTRANCE EXAMINATION.—Candidates nominated in time to enable them to reach the Academy by May 15 receive permission to present themselves on that date to the Superintendent for examination for admission. Those not nominated in time to present themselves at the May examination are examined on the 1st of September following. When either of the above dates falls on Sunday, the candidates present themselves on the Monday following. Candidates are required to enter the Academy immediately after passing the prescribed examinations. No leave of absence is granted to cadets of the fourth class.

GRADUATE APPOINTMENTS.—Appointments to fill all vacancies that may occur during a year in the lower grades of the line of the Navy and of the Marine Corps are made from the Naval Cadets, graduates of the year, at the conclusion of their six years' course, in the order of merit as determined by the Academic Board. At least fifteen appointments from such graduates will be made each year. To surplus graduates who do not receive such appointments will be given a certificate of graduation, an honorable discharge and one year's sea pay, as provided for Naval Cadets.

[3]This item includes all deaths resulting from quarrels, riots and the like, which are not definitely reported as murder; from being shot for insubordination or by provost guards or sentinels in attempting to escape or pass the lines; from exhaustion or exposure; killed while depredating upon the property of citizens, and all other causes not mentioned in the foregoing table.

Desertions (estimated by War Department), 117,247. No trustworthy deductions with regard to the nativity of soldiers in service during the Civil War can be made from any existing statistics.

The following, giving the number of enlistments in the Army, Navy and Marine Corps in the war of 1861–'65, is taken from the latest revised reports of the Government; many of the men who served in the war enlisted two or more times and are counted that number of times in the table:

On September 20, 1895, an Executive order was issued incorporating in the Federal Civil Service the Consular Service to the extent embraced in this paragraph: "It is hereby ordered that any vacancy in a consulate or commercial agency now or hereafter existing, the salary of which is not more than $2,500 nor less than $1,000, or the compensation of which, if derived from official fees exclusive of notarial and other unofficial receipts, does not exceed $2,500 nor fall below $1,000, shall be filled (first) by a transfer or promotion from some other position under the Department of State of a character tending to qualify the incumbent for the position to be filled; or (second) by appointment of a person not under the Department of State, but having previously served thereunder to its satisfaction in a capacity tending to qualify him for the position to be filled; or (third) by the appointment of a person who, having furnished the customary evidence of character, responsibility and capacity, and being thereupon selected by the President for examination, is found upon such examination to be qualified for the position."

[1]Also diplomatic agent. [2]Authorized to transact business. †Also Secretary of Legation. ‡Minister Resident. ††Also C. G. at Apia, Samoa. "C. G.," Consul-General. "C.," Consul. "V. C.," Vice-Consul. "C. A.," Consular Agent. The aggregate of official fees, when not exceeding $2,500, is retained by officers who are not allowed a fixed salary by law; any surplus over $2,500 is turned into the Treasury. Consuls who receive a fixed salary retain notarial fees only, and are accountable to the Government for all official fees received by them. Clerk hire, except when especially authorized by law, is not chargeable to the Government.

UNITED STATES SENATORS.

On April 24, 1900, the Senate refused by a vote of 33 to 32 to accept as valid the recess appointment credentials offered by M. S. Quay, of Pennsylvania. The Pennsylvania Legislature at its regular session of the winter before had failed to elect a United States Senator to fill the vacancy caused by the expiration of Mr. Quay's term on March 3, 1899. The Legislature remained in deadlock from January 17 to April 19, 1899. On April 21, the day after its adjournment, Governor Stone appointed Mr. Quay to serve until the next regular meeting of the Legislature in January, 1901, ignoring that clause in the State constitution which directs the Governor to call the Legislature together in special session whenever a vacancy occurs in the State's representation in the upper branch of Congress. The Governor's right to appoint under Clause 2, Section 3, Article 1, of the Federal Constitution was debated at great length in the Senate, and the vote, though influenced to a marked extent by extraneous considerations, confirmed the view of recess appointments previously taken by the Senate in the settlement of the Mantle and Corbett cases. As a result of Mr. Quay's defeat no recess appointment certificates were issued by the Governors of Delaware and Utah, where vacancies, similarly occasioned, existed.

ALABAMA.—On November 15 the Democratic members of the two branches of the Alabama Legislature unanimously renominated John T. Morgan to succeed himself as United States Senator. The ten opposition members in the Legislature also in caucus indorsed Mr. Morgan's candidacy. On November 27 he was elected by a unanimous vote in each House for the six year term, beginning March 4, 1901.

CALIFORNIA.—The Legislature having failed at the regular session of 1899 to elect a United States Senator for the full term beginning March 3, 1899, a special session was called in February by Governor Gage. Eighty-five of the 88 Republicans in the two houses signed a call for a party caucus, and 52 were present at its first session on February 2. Thomas R. Bard received 50 votes for Senator, and U. S. Grant 2 votes. On February 7 the two houses balloted separately, with this result: Senate—Bard (Rep.), 26; Phelan (Dem.), 10; not voting, 3. Assembly—Bard, 59; Phelan, 20; White (Dem.), 1. At the meeting of the joint Assembly February 8 Bard was declared elected.

GEORGIA.—On November 6 Augustus O. Bacon was elected by a unanimous vote in both branches of the Georgia Legislature to succeed himself as United States Senator for the six year term, beginning March 4, 1901.

IOWA.—John H. Gear was nominated by acclamation by the Republican members of the Legislature to succeed himself in the United States Senate for the full term beginning March 4, 1901. His chief competitor in the fight for the Senatorship, A. B. Cummins, withdrew in the Republican caucus before the balloting. On January 16 the two branches of the Legislature voted seperately, with this result: Senate—Gear, 35; F. E. White (Dem.), 15. House of Representatives—Gear, 78; White, 18; 3 Republicans and 1 Democrat absent. At the meeting of the joint Assembly January 17 Gear was declared elected. Mr. Gear died on July 14. On August 22 Governor Shaw appointed Jonathan P. Dolliver Senator to serve out the unexpired portion of Mr. Gear's first term, which ends March 3, 1901. The Iowa Legislature will not meet again in regular session until January, 1902.

KENTUCKY.—On January 9, 1900, Joseph Clay Stiles Blackburn (Dem.) was elected a United States Senator for the six year term beginning March 4, 1901. The vote in the two branches of the Legislature was as follows: Senate—Blackburn, 22; William O. Bradley (Rep.), 12. House of Representatives—Blackburn, 57; Bradley, 42. At the meeting of the joint Assembly January 10 Blackburn was declared elected.

LOUISIANA.—The Legislature of Louisiana elected two United States Senators on May 22 by a unanimous vote in each branch. Murphy J. Foster (Dem.) was chosen to succeed Donelson Caffery (Sound Money Dem.) for the full term beginning March 4, 1901, and Samuel Douglas McEnery (Dem.) was chosen to succeed himself for the full term beginning March 4, 1903. Each Senator-elect received 38 votes in the Senate and 110 in the House of Representatives.

MISSISSIPPI.—Two United States Senators were elected by the Legislature at a joint session of the two houses on January 16. To fill out the term of James Z. George, ending March 3, 1901, Will Van Amberg Sullivan (Dem.), who had been serving under a recess appointment from the Governor, was chosen unanimously. For the six year term ending March 3, 1907, A. J. McLaurin (Dem.) was unanimously elected. In the Democratic caucus McLaurin had won a victory unopposed, the supporters of "Private" John Allen deciding to make no contest and absenting themselves from the gathering. For the short term Mr. Sullivan received 88 votes in caucus, against 72 for Robert Lowry.

MONTANA.—On April 10 the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections decided by a unanimous vote that the election of W. A. Clark, of Montana, for the six year term beginning March 4, 1899, had been vitiated by excessive and extraordinary expenditures of money on Mr. Clark's part, and that his title was null and void. A report embodying these conclusions was presented to the Senate, but on May 15, before it had been acted upon, Mr. Clark resigned his seat, announcing that fact in a farewell speech from the floor of the Senate. The same day word came from Montana that in the absence from the State of Governor Robert E. Smith, the Lieutenant-Governor, A. E. Sprigg, had signed a recess certificate appointing Mr. Clark to fill the vacancy caused by his own resignation. On Governor Smith's return to the State he sent a protest to Washington declaring Mr. Clark's title illegal, and a few days later he issued a recess certificate appointing Martin Maginnis Mr. Clark's successor. Both sets of credentials were presented in the Senate and referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections, where they remained unacted on till the close of the session.

RHODE ISLAND.—On June 12 George Peabody Wetmore (Rep.), who had been renominated without opposition in the Republican caucus, was elected United States Senator to succeed himself for the full term beginning March 4, 1901. The vote in the two branches of the Legislature was as follows: Senate—Wetmore, 33; Samuel R. Honey (Dem.), 1. House of Representatives—Wetmore, 55; Honey, 9.

UTAH.—On September 19, in the absence from the State of Governor Wells, the President of the State Senate, Aquila Nebeker, acting as Governor, signed credentials appointing O. W. Powers (Dem.) a United States Senator to fill the vacancy caused by the expiration of Frank G. Cannon's term on March 3, 1899. Mr. Powers subsequently announced, however, that in view of the Senate's refusal to seat M. S. Quay, of Pennsylvania, on similar credentials, he would not present his certificate at Washington.

VERMONT.—William P. Dillingham (Rep.) was elected a United States Senator on October 18, 1900, to fill out the unexpired term of Justin S. Morrill, which began on March 4, 1897, and will end on March 3, 1903. Three ballots were taken, the first in the two branches separately and two in joint assembly. On the first ballot the result in the Senate was Dillingham (Rep.), 18; W. W. Grout (Rep.), 8; C. A. Prouty (Rep.), 3; Jonathan Ross (Rep.), 1. In the House the vote was: Dillingham, 88; Grout, 77; Seneca Hazleton (Dem.), 49; Prouty, 14; Ross, 14. On the first ballot in joint assembly Dillingham received 109 votes, Grout 82, Hazleton 48, Prouty 20, Ross 13. On the final ballot Dillingham got most of the votes hitherto cast for Hazleton and Prouty, his total rising to 162; Grout had 96, Hazleton 6, Ross 5 and Prouty 1.

NEW-YORK BY COUNTIES.

Differences between totals in these tables and those of other tables are due to the fact that the county returns were from County Clerks' and other reports, which were afterward changed by the State Canvassing Board.

GOVERNORS OF NEW-YORK STATE.

The table below gives the names and politics and the terms which the Governors of New-York State have served since the first election. Those marked with an asterisk served three year terms and the others served two year terms. On February 13, 1787, an act was passed for regulating elections, which provided that the Governor and the Lieutenant-Governor should enter on the duties of their respective offices on July 1 succeeding their election. The Constitution of 1821 provided that the terms should begin on January 1 succeeding the election. Those with "D. R." following the name were elected as Democratic Republicans, the leaders of that party being of the Thomas Jefferson class of politics, and from which the Democratic party claims direct descent. The present Republican party at its beginning enrolled most of the old Whigs.

[1]Of the thirteen original States. [2]Reports of 1900. [3]Purchased from Russia. *Balance in treasury.

Note.—If the forty-five States be arranged according to the mode of admission, excepting the thirteen original States, they would be grouped thus: Four were formed from other States—Vermont from New-York, Maine from Massachusetts, Kentucky and West Virginia from Virginia. One (California) had no previous territorial government. One (Texas) was annexed; and the remaining twenty-six had been organized as Territories prior to their admission as States.

POPULATION OF CITIES HAVING 25,000 INHABITANTS OR MORE IN 1900.

The following statistics, prepared under the direction of William C. Hunt, chief statistician for population of the Census Bureau, gives the population of the 159 cities having 25,000 inhabitants or more in 1900, according to the official count of the returns of the Twelfth Census, taken as of June 1, 1900. The 159 cities combined have a population in 1900 of 19,694,625, as compared with a population for the same cities of 14,855,489 in 1890, and of 9,933,927 in 1880. The absolute increase in the population of these cities from 1890 to 1900 was 4,839,136, or 82,426 less than the absolute increase from 1880 to 1890, when it was 4,921,562. The percentage of increase in population of the 159 cities from 1890 to 1900 was 32.5, as against 49.5 from 1880 to 1890. In 1880 there were but twenty cities which contained more than 100,000 inhabitants, but in 1890 this number had increased to twenty-eight, and in 1900 to thirty-eight. In 1900 there are seventy-eight cities of 50,000 inhabitants or more as compared with fifty-eight in 1890 and thirty-five in 1880. The combined population in 1900 of the nineteen cities of the first class is 11,795,809, as against a population in 1890 of 8,879,105, representing an increase during the ten years of 2,916,704, or 32.8 per cent. The same cities showed an increase from 1880 to 1890 of 2,567,452, or 40.6 per cent. The nineteen cities of the first class comprise New-York, which, with more than 3,000,000 inhabitants, properly stands by itself; two cities, Chicago and Philadelphia, each of which has a population in excess of 1,000,000; three cities, St. Louis, Boston and Baltimore, which have a population of 500,000 each; five cities, Cleveland, Buffalo, San Francisco, Cincinnati and Pittsburg, which have a population of between 300,000 and 400,000 each; and eight cities, New-Orleans, Detroit, Milwaukee, Washington, Newark, Jersey City, Louisville and Minneapolis, which have a population of between 200,000 and 300,000 each. The nineteen cities of the second class have a combined population in 1900 of 2,412,538, and show an increase of 33.3 per cent from 1890 to 1900, as against an increase of 79.2 per cent from 1880 to 1890. The forty cities of the third class have a combined population in 1900 of 2,709,338, as against a population in 1890 of 2,067,169, which is equivalent to an increase during the decade of 31 per cent, as compared with an increase of 51 per cent during the preceding ten years. The eighty-one cities of the fourth class have a combined population in 1900 of 2,776,940, having gained since 1890 676,381 in number, or 32.2 per cent, as against an increase of 68.7 per cent from 1880 to 1890.

THE AMERICAN FLAG OR NATIONAL ENSIGN.

The official National ensign contains 45 stars in a blue field, arranged in 6 rows—the 1st, 3d and 5th rows having 8 stars each, and the others having 7 stars each. The garrison flag of the Army is made of bunting, 36 feet fly and 20 feet hoist; thirteen stripes, and in the upper quarter, next the staff, is the field or "union" of stars, equal to the number of States, on blue field, over one-third length of the flag, extending to the lower edge of the fourth red stripe from the top. The storm flag is 20 feet by 10 feet, and the recruiting flag 9 feet 9 inches by 4 feet 4 inches. The "American Jack" is the "union" of the flag, its name orlginating witb the "union" of the English flag at the blending of St. Andrew's Saltier with St. George's Cross. The "narrow pennant" or "wbip" has the union composed of thirteen white stars in horizontal line on a blue field, one-fourth tbe length of the pennant, the remaining three-fourths of a red and a white stripe, each of the same breadth at any part of the taper, with the red uppermost. The Revenue Marine Service flag, created by Act of Congress, March 2, 1799, was originally prescribed to "consist of sixteen perpendicular stripes, alternate red and white, the union of the ensign bearing the arms of the United States in dark blue on a white field." The sixteen stripes represented the number of States which had been admitted to the Union at that time, and no change has been made since. Prior to 1871 it bore an eagle in the union of the pennant, which was then substituted by thirteen blue stars in a white field, but the eagle and stars are still retained in the flag. June 14, the anniversary of the adoption of the "Stars and Stripes," is celebrated as Flag Day in many of tbe States, especially by the children of the public schools.

THE ECUMENICAL CONFERENCE.

An Ecumenical Conference for the discussion of missions and missionary wark was held in New-York City, beginning on Saturday, April 21, and closing on May 1. The total number of organizations represented was 108, divided as follows:

United States and Canada	61	Australia	1
Great Britain and Ireland	32	Jamaica, W. I.	1
Germany	4	New-Zealand	1
Norway	2	Finland	1
Sweden	2	Switzerland	1
Holland	2

Benjamin Harrison, former President of the United States, was honorary president of the conference, which was composed of about 2,000 delegates. Every subject pertaining to the welfare and spread of foreign missionary work was considered, the two leading questions decided being the need for the extension of schools, and the importance of medical knowledge among missionaries. One of the most significant lessons taught by the conference was the amity existing among all Protestant churches in mission work, and the great religious problems were discussed without a note of discord.

VACUUM OILS

Are known and used in every corner of the globe where machinery runs. They are the standards of value throughout the whole world. They lubricate most on every kind of machinery; not the same oil for all machines, but the right oil for each class. Vacuum Oils are made to fit every condition. That is why they are used wherever machinery is in operation. Admiral Dewey's fleet used them at the battle of Manila. The best users everywhere will have no others when they know their value.

Vacuum Oils are made at Rochester and Olean, N. Y., and distributed throughout the world from local branches. Abroad they are distributed from one hundred and forty-one foreign warehouses, and at home they are sold in every city. The reason Vacuum Oils are everywhere used is—they lubricate most. They reduce friction to the limit and save power. They are always uniform and can always be depended upon. They do their work better than all others, and cheaper, too, when the work done is figured. Other oils may sell for less by the gallon, but Vacuum oils cost the least by the day or month.

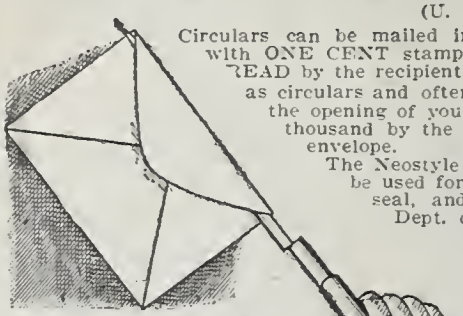
NEOSTYLE SEALED-YET-OPEN ENVELOPES.

(U. S. patent, 532,206.)



This is the way the "Neostyle" envelope is opened.

Circulars can be mailed in these envelopes apparently SEALED with ONE CENT stamp. Such circulars will be OPENED and READ by the recipient; ordinary open envelopes are recognized as circulars and often thrown away unread. You will insure the opening of your circulars and also save $10.00 on each thousand by the use of the "Neostyle Sealed-Yet-Open" envelope.

The Neostyle Envelope is the only envelope which can be used for third class matter without breaking the seal, and which has the sanction of the P. O. Dept. of the U. S.

CAUTION!!!

The trade and consumers are cautioned against selling or using any "Sealed-Yet-Open" envelopes infringing the "Neostyle patent." An injunction with costs and damages has already been granted by the U. S. Court against one manufacturer, and several other infringement suits are pending, and all infringers will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

AMERICA'S NEW ISLANDS AND HOW WE CAME TO GET THEM.

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE has printed in magazine form, 113 pages, with maps and portraits, a valuable document entitled "Our New Possessions," which contains information of great popular importance, obtained from authoritative sources, concerning the history, trade, resources, soil, products and general commercial and political value of the rich and widely distributed empire which has lately been added to American domain. The work covers the Philippines, Porto Rico, Hawaii, Guam Island and Wake Island, all now American soil; and, in addition, Cuba, many of whose leading inhabitants favor annexation to the United States. Maps are given of each one of the new possessions and of trade routes in the Pacific Ocean. The text of the Treaty of Peace, and an account of the negotiations by which it was effected, are printed in the work; and, supplementing this, a number of explanatory speeches on the Treaty by Senators Davis, Frye and Gray, Whitelaw Reid, St. Clair McKelway and Dr. R. S. MacArthur. Short biographies of the Peace Commissioners, with their portraits, complete the work.

A DIGNIFIED AND SUPERB NEWSPAPER.

Growing Public Need of Reliable Daily Journals.

AN ACTIVE MAN cannot in these days keep in touch with war news, popular movements, legislation, market prices, business opportunities, and other matters which interest him most, unless he is visited by the newspaper upon which he depends once a day. This was especially noticeable during the war with Spain, when the departure of so many thousands of young men from farm, shop and store to serve under the flag, created a special demand at home for the detailed news and foreign correspondence, which could be afforded only by a metropolitan newspaper and could be obtained with sufficient frequency and freshness to satisfy an eager public only in the daily edition of those journals. Events at home and elsewhere, notably in the Philippines and South Africa, and in finance, industry and trade, contribute to maintain and even intensify popular interest in the news and increase the demand for sound daily newspapers.

Above all, every man who has anything at stake in the world demands accurate, trustworthy and competent news reports and editorial discussion in his daily paper.

In the metropolitan press, no newspaper surpasses The New-York Tribune in variety, accuracy and completeness. The Tribune's special cables on the war in South Africa are declared by various contemporaries to be the best printed in New-York or in the country. There is a page for Women in every issue. The market and financial reports are standard and authoritative. Young men will be especially interested in The Tribune's magnificent page of sports; and every one in the reviews of new books, plays, operas and pictures.

The Illustrated Supplement of 20 pages, every Sunday, is a handsome and entertaining production. No 10-cent monthly magazine has a greater variety of contents or a greater number of beautiful pictures.

It is scarcely necessary to say that The Tribune is intensely and loyally Republican on all public questions, but it never distorts the news for party purposes, and will never screen misconduct in public affairs because discovered among party friends.

DAILY AND SUNDAY TRIBUNE, $10 a year; $5 for 6 months; $2.50 for 3 months; $1 a month.

DAILY, WITHOUT SUNDAY TRIBUNE, $8 a year; $4 for 6 months; $2 for 3 months; 90 cents a month.

SUNDAY TRIBUNE, separately, $2 a year.

TRI-WEEKLY TRIBUNE, $1.50 a year.

WEEKLY TRIBUNE, $1 a year.

Careless Use of Impure Soap is Dangerous.

It jeopardizes health and invites disease.

THE SKIN is a wonderfully delicate and complicated structure. Deleterious substances will disturb and obstruct the harmonious workings of its healthful elements, and disease will readily find its way into the system. Regard for health and wellbeing, therefore, protection from insidious entrance of maladies, or even personal cleanliness, demands the daily use of an entirely pure soap.

Glenn's Sulphur Soap

meets all the requirements, and experience has long borne testimony to its efficacy and value in local diseases of the skin, scalds, burns, bruises, cuts, gout, rheumatism, itch, dandruff, diseases of the scalp and baldness. It is also a valuable disinfectant.

For sale by druggists generally, or will be mailed on receipt of 30 cts., by The CHARLES N. CRITTENTON Co., 115 Fulton Street, New York City.

NEW YORK LIFE

John A. McCall, - - President.

346 and 348 Broadway, New York City.

FIVE POINTS.

1 The NEW YORK LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY is a Purely Mutual Company in which Policy-holders alone receive the Profits, and that has, in fifty-five years, paid over Fifty-seven Millions of Dollars in Dividends of Profits to Policy-holders, and has accumulated, for future Dividends as they become due, over Forty-one Millions more. New members are received as partners on terms of equality with old members.

2 The NEW YORK LIFE had on January 1, 1900, over 1,061 millions of Paid-for Business in Force, and was in the Number of its Policy-holders and in the Amount of Protection Furnished, the Largest Life Insurance Company in the World.

3 The NEW YORK LIFE'S Investment Accumulation Policy is Automatically Non-forfeitable from Date of Issue. Most life policies are non-forfeitable only after two or three years' premiums have been paid, and many are never automatically so; if you do not ask for paid-up insurance under such policies you may lose it.

4 The NEW YORK LIFE'S Investment Accumulation Policy is Incontestable from Date of Issue. Most life policies are Incontestable only after one, two or three years—some never. If you pay for insurance you want it absolute without any "string to it." The Best is None too Good for Your Family.

5 Under its By-Laws and its agreements with foreign Governments, the NEW YORK LIFE limits its expenses to the amount specifically provided in its premiums for this purpose, and agrees not to invest in, nor lend money on, the security of stocks of private corporations, unimproved or non-productive property, farms, hotels, theatres, churches, breweries, factories, mines, or industrial enterprises. This action places its investments and its expenses of management upon a Basis More Conservative than that of any other American Life Insurance Company.

Reliable Persons

are invited to examine and acquaint themselves with the details of what is conceded to be the best of all investments. More than four hundred thousand people have already done so and the result is the establishment of a permanent fund for their benefit exceeding $300,000,000, and this is a balance remaining after payments to them or their estates of more than $525,000,000 within the past fifty-seven years.

A full description of the latest plan offering great advantages will be forwarded to you free on application.

It will certainly interest you. It may prove of great benefit to you. No other method offers the same security combined with the same opportunities.
